LEWIS REJECTS COAL TRUCE

REFUSES PLEA OF OPERATORS TO END STRIKES

Denies Blame for Shutdowns

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—John L. Lewis turned down a request of bituminous coal operators today to end the soft coal strikes, but the government did not press the issue.

The operators made their plea at a conference with Labor Secretary Schwellenbach, who told reporters he did not himself ask the United Mine Workers' president to end the strike.

About 159,000 are idle in 623 mines in a controversy which sprang up over recognition of Lewis' supervisory union.

The solid fuels administration estimated that 749,000 tons of coal were being lost daily, more than one-third the normal output.

Schwellenbach indicated that he was withholding his own plea to end the strikes until next week in case the conferences which he called with the operators and miners fail to produce a solution

Schwellenbach added, however, that "we are going to have a serious coal shortage very shortly."

Conference to Continue

Lewis disclaimed responsibility for the stoppages, saying they were begun by the local unions of his united Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employes in a battle for recognition by the operators.

The producers insisted that Lewis had inspired the strikes and could end them.

The conference will continue Monday.

After today's sessions, Schwellenbach said "It was a good first day but I don't know that I could report progress." He said he was unable to see that either side had changed its position.

The operators have been insisting that the miners return to work before they will discuss the merits of the foremen dispute. The national labor relations board is speeding a decision in the first case involving the Lewis' supervisory union at the Jones and Laughlin Steel company mines.

Reluctant to Seize Them

The labor secretary said he told both sides that it was necessary that the strike end because of the threat to coal supplies.

Asserting that he had been reluctant to recommend seizure of the strike bound oil facilities this week when his conciliation efforts to end a strike of CIO oil workers failed, Schwellenbach said he would be "just as reluctant" to seize the coal mines.

Schwellenbach disclosed he means to make a test case within the next week of some requests for a wage increase which would involve increasing prices. A case will be started thru the war labor board and sent to the office of economic stabilization for a decision.

Neither Lewis nor the soft coal operators would give an inch in their talks with Schwellenbach.

The operators insisted they would remain "adamant" against permitting their supervisory employes to become members of Lewis' United Mine Workers. Lewis was just as firm in his position that the opera-

Truman Flies 800 Miles to Attend a Fair

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Caruthersville, Mo., Oct. 6—President Truman flew 800 miles to this small town in the heart of the Missouri cotton country tonight to attend a county fair that he associates with his early political successes.

The President's special plane, "The Sacred Cow," landed at the Blytheville, Ark., army base 30 miles from here, at 7:01 p. m. Chicago time after a four hour flight from Washington where the plane took off in a rain and with visibility near zero. Flying at 8,000 feet, the plane stayed above the clouds and the flight was so smooth that Mr. Truman slept for an hour, Secretary Charles G. Ross reported.

Despite domestic and international problems, the President refused to pass up his customary visit to the fair, which he has attended annually for the last 12 years. Mr. Truman made one of his first political speeches at the fair years ago, and he is a little superstitious in political matters.

Crowds Line Route

The President motored here from Blytheville. He was greeted in the towns along the way by crowds that had been waiting since 3 p. m. His flight westward had been delayed for hours by bad weather.

He slept in the small Majestic hotel tonight in one of the few rooms boasting a private bath. Tomorrow morning he will attend services in the local Baptist church and in the afternoon will speak at the fair grounds. Fifty thousand persons are expected to flock in from the states of Missouri, Arkansas, and Tennessee to hear the man whom every one in this area addresses as "Harry."

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri greeted the President at the airport. Mr. Truman was accompanied by Sen. Briggs [D., Mo.], reconversion director John W. Snyder, and several members of the White House secretariat. He stopped for a few moments in Blytheville at the home of J. A. Leach, a distant relative of Snyder.

Plays Minuet

The President, who plays the piano, acquiesced to a request for Paderewski's Minuet at a turkey supper served by the ladies of the Eastwood Methodist church in the Majestic hotel.

"When Joe Stalin heard me play this," he told his audience, "he signed the protocol at Potsdam."

The President opened a five day traveling schedule by serving as best man this morning at the wedding in Berryville, Va., of former Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri to Violet Heming, the British actress.

Mr. Truman will visit six states in the next five days—Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Missouri.

UNRRA WASTE, CHAOS BARED BY EMPLOYES

Yanks, Disgusted, Resign Jobs

530 Millions Relief

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration announced today shipments of relief supplies to liberated lands have reached 2,079,000 tons, worth $530,000,000. About half the tonnage has been food.

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 6—Many members of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration are quitting in disgust and returning to the United States. In London and continental Europe they say they have found confusion, incompetency, inefficiency, and evidence of racketeering. Money spent on UNRRA, most of it American, they declare, is being wasted.

In line with UNRRA members' own findings, it was learned today that duty free whisky and gin purchased with UNRRA funds had been sold to high ranking UNRRA officials after the close of the third session of the relief organization's council in London last August.

Lehmans Were Hosts

Reliable informants said the tax exempt liquor had been left over from a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman in London's swank Savoy hotel. Lehman is director general of UNRRA. The party, for representatives of 44 nations, cost $1,600. It was paid for from funds appropriated for Europe's destitute.

A post-party memorandum advised key officials of the London UNRRA office, which includes personnel of many nationalities, that 100 bottles of whisky and gin were available at $1.40 each for whisky and $1.15 for gin.

In a survey of conditions within UNRRA in the last few days, Tribune correspondents interviewed 10 UNRRA members, some of whom already have handed in their resignations. Several came unsolicited to THE TRIBUNE's London office to volunteer information regarding what one called "the incredible mess being made of UNRRA."

The statement volunteered by a responsible Chicago business man who had spent two months with the UNRRA in London, France, Germany, and Austria was typical and comprehensive. He had been sent from Washington to London last July with a large group of UNRRA members.

Wait Six Weeks

"Our first impression of the UNRRA office in London was slightly chaotic," he said. For example:

"At no time was anything constructive told us regarding our work in the field.

"An American group of eight girls, supposed to be sent to Yugoslavia, found that the London travel section had issued orders for Germany. This group had been flown from Washington at a cost of $700 each because their services were urgently needed. They sat for six weeks in London doing nothing. Their experience was no exception."

"We were the first large group of Americans to arrive at the Granville center," he continued. "During August I was a member of the center's staff and had access to all UNRRA personnel data. I found that UNRRA personnel funneled to Europe thru Granville was made up of:

"French, 1,600 persons or 35 per cent; British, 850 or 19 per cent; Belgians, 875 or 19 per cent; Americans, only 475 persons or 11 per cent, and all others, 700 or 16 per cent. Yet the United States foots 75 per cent of the bill for UNRRA.

"From an administrative standpoint, UNRRA is predominantly a British and French show being run with American money."

Race for Jobs

"From talking with Americans over here, as well as Englishmen, French, and Belgians, I learned:

"Recruiting of UNRRA personnel in London, Paris, and Brussels was

Rule by State Perils Liberty, Kennedy Says

Garden City, N. Y., Oct. 6 [Special]—Predicting that government will play an ever increasing role in the life of every American, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, today warned that the youth of the nation must be prepared to prevent the complete dominance of the state and to preserve the dignity of the individual.

In an address before 500 Scout commissioners attending the annual conference of the Greater New York councils, Boy Scouts of America, Kennedy said it was of paramount importance that "those entrusted with the training of our youth see to it that youth is intelligently prepared" to deal with the growing influence of the federal government.

Must Preserve Freedom

"How he is prepared will have a great deal to do with determining the so-called American way of life in the future," he said. "If the dignity of the individual and the freedom of man is to be preserved, if the state is to be administered for the benefit of the individual, that American way of life will be preserved.

"If the state is to dominate the individual, thinking for him, sustaining him in slavish dependence, dictating his religious views, his political views, and even his culture and environment as the nazi, Italian, and Russian totalitarian states have done, reducing men to mere ciphers and substituting disciplined loyalties for individual dignity, then the winning of the second World war will have proved a hollow victory."

Raps "Santa Claus" Rule

The duty of the Scout commissioners, he said, was to impress on their charges the loss of independence attached to the "Santa Claus" type of government.

"Have no fear of offending an ally of your country," he said. "It seems to me that our European allies who have been so generously benefited by material assistance should be interested in keeping this nation strong and the welfare of its people secure."

FARMERS OF POLAND TOLD NATION WILL TAKE OVER OUTPUT

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 6 (AP)—Poland's giant government sponsored economic monopoly "Spolem" told the nation's millions of peasant farmers today that it intends to take over their entire production for distribution thru coöperatives.

A booklet, published simultaneously in Warsaw and Lodz under the direction of Stanislaw Szwalbe, vice chairman of the National Council of the Homeland, said that Spolem, the economic union of coöperatives of the republic of Poland, planned to control the output of individual peasant farms 100 per cent.

Spolem includes several thousand coöperatives and was organized at the Unification Congress of Economic Groups at Lublin last November.

AUSTRIAN OIL FIELDS SEIZED BY RED ARMY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 6—The Red Army has taken forcible possession of the important Austrian oil fields at Zistersdorf, it was learned today. The action was taken after the Austrian government, acting on advice of the United States and Britain, refused a soviet proposal that Russia be given half the shares in an Austro-Russian company to exploit the property—one of Austria's chief material assets.

Two days ago a Russian officer appeared at Zistersdorf and told the Austrian management to pack up and go home, and announced that the Red army would run the oil fields in the future.

As oil from the field represented the chief hope of keeping Viennese from freezing this winter, and American as well as British and Dutch capital had been invested in its exploitation, the United States, it is believed, will add another protest to its original objection to the unilateral action which Russia had proposed.

BREAKS BACK LIFTING CAR TO SAVE NEIGHBOR

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 6 (AP)—A 140 point former seabee broke his back today to save the life of a neighbor here when he lifted an automobile off the man's chest.

The former seabee, Russell Nylander, 42, lifted the rear of a coupe, which had slipped off a jack and fallen on the chest and face of Edward Watland, 65. This enabled Watland, who was being slowly crushed, to struggle out from under the machine.

Nylander dropped the car, and had taken only a few steps when he collapsed. At a hospital, an examination disclosed he had suffered a fractured spine.

Poland Still at War, Reds Warn Yanks

POZNAN, Poland, Oct. 3 [Delayed]—(AP)—A plane load of Americans who flew here Sept. 19 to decorate the grave of an unidentified United States flyer were told "a state of war" still existed in this soviet occupied area.

"Theoretically, you should be interned for landing at our airport in violation of the rules of war," Col. I. S. Szmigel, Red army commandant, told Col. Walter Pashley upon his arrival. Pashley, United States military attache in Warsaw, had flown here after receipt of a telegram inviting him to participate in the decorating ceremony.

"I don't think he's going to do that," Pashley said to his interpreter, Lt. Col. Edward York of San Antonio, Tex. "Ask him what war? The war is over."

Guarded by Reds

"There's a state of war here," the Red army commander replied.

"Tell him we don't go for that stuff," Pashley instructed York. "We are perfectly within our rights landing at the western airport outside Poznan since that is the only one showing up on the map."

"We are allies," Szmigel then said, "but we want to know what you are doing here and we shall give you protection."

Next day Vice Gov. George Grosicki of Poland, his wife, and Walter Wusza, economic advisor to the Polish government, arrived and said it was all a regrettable error.

Then, in autos furnished by Grosicki, the Americans, traveling over shell-torn roads, arrived at a little cemetery near Swiebodzim, formerly part of Brandenburg province of Germany. There the population was singing dirges in tribute to an unidentified United States flyer who drowned after his Flying Fortress exploded over a lake.

Pashley, a native of Scranton, Pa., read a tribute at a monument the Poles had erected from fragments of the flyer's plane propeller. Then he placed a wreath on the grave.

When it came time to take off again the soviet commander forbade departure for Warsaw without 24 hours advance notice.

"We don't go for that stuff," Pashley and York replied, and took off anyway.

NEW JAPANESE PREMIER OUSTS THOUGHT POLICE

U. S. BANS JAPS' SHINTOISM AS STATE RELIGION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The United States has decided to abolish shintoism as a state religion in Japan, it was disclosed tonight.

This measure, one of the most drastic yet determined upon in remaking Japan into a peaceful nation, will not affect shintoism "in so far as it is a religion of individual Japanese," the announcement said.

The cult, however, is to lose its government support, its special taxes, and its place in the schools of Japan.

Considered Potent Factor

The policy was announced by John Carter Vincent, chief of far eastern affairs at the state department, who said all those special privileges which shintoism had as a state religion are "to be done away with." The state religion has been regarded as one of the powerful controls which Japan's militarist leaders exercised over their people.

Vincent was one of three policy forming officials who appeared on a state department broadcast tonight. Others were Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring, war department civil affairs director, and Capt. R. L. Dennison, navy department member on the government's policy making committee for Japan.

Among them the three made one of the most comprehensive reports on Japanese occupation policy and problems which has come from the government since President Truman made public his basic instructions to Gen. MacArthur.

Occupation to Continue

Here are the high spots developed by each of the three:

BY VINCENT: There is "no strained relationship" between Gen. MacArthur as allied commander in Japan, and the state department. MacArthur has welcomed civilian advisers, and more are to be sent to him.

Occupation of Japan will continue until the country is demobilized and demilitarized, and "well along the path of liberal reform."

The plan for formation of a far eastern commission, announced by Secretary Byrnes in London, actually was proposed to the other countries by the United States immediately after Japan surrendered.

The Japanese can keep the institution of the emperor if they want it, but it "will have to be radically modified."

BY DENNISON: The navy "will have to exercise potential control" over Japan long after withdrawal of American troops. This indicated that the chief reliance of the United States will be on blockade controls for keeping Japan weak.

May Require Control

BY HILLDRING: Disarmament of the Japanese in their four home islands is "virtually complete," but troops outside the home islands are not disarmed. The return of American troops to the United States from the Pacific has the "highest priority," outranking return of Japanese soldiers to Japan.

The great industrial combines which ruled Japan economically and helped prepare it for war "must be broken up." Hilldring said some industrialists may be tried as war criminals.

The Japanese may be easier to retrain for democracy than the Nazis. The latter had been "trained so well" in their propaganda ideas, while the Japanese have "one basic idea—obedience."

Shidehara Carries Out Orders of MacArthur

TOKYO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Baron Kijuro Shidehara, 73-year-old foe of Japan's imperialism, became premier of a new government today and forthwith disbanded the dread secret police.

Baron Shidehara

Given a free hand by Emperor Hirohito and the approval of Gen. MacArthur, the former ambassador to the United States dug into his task with a vigor that belied his years.

Domei agency said his first act was to reappoint as foreign minister Shigeru Yoshida, a like-minded man whose criticism of the war against the United States once landed him in jail.

His second act, said the newspaper Asahi, was to appoint veteran parliamentarian Yadanji Nakajima to the post of home minister, under whose authority the "thought police" ran their reign of terror.

25 Civil Prisoners Freed

It was the failure to obey promptly MacArthur's order to dismiss home minister Iwao Yamazaki, who sought to save the secret police, that helped bring down Premier Higashi-Kuni's post-surrender government.

Domei announced that the home ministry, besides suspending the secret police, freed 25 political prisoners, including 16 communists. It likewise dissolved the special higher police censor department which pried into the lives of dissenters.

Under MacArthur's orders, prefectural police chiefs and others connected with the secret police plan of gestapo-like "thought control" over Japan will be removed.

Domei took advantage of MacArthur's freedom of speech decree to attack the secret police, asserting its "bloody trail of ruthless activities kept the Japanese people in utter dread of the name itself for many years."

Seeks U. S. Friendship

Shidehara's emergence from the obscurity into which the militarists thrust him coincided with a revolutionary proposal by the finance ministry to permit the Japanese people to buy into vast state holdings as a means of redeeming the enormous war debts.

Shidehara's appointment as premier came as a surprise, for those close to the throne were saying the job would go to the baron's old friend, Yoshida. Yoshida had pressed Shidehara to accept, and while the old liberal tried to beg off, he finally agreed.

At his first press conference, Shidehara told American newspaper men that his aim is to meet the food and clothing crisis and name a liberal, progressive government that could woo back the friendship of the United States.

"There are many liberals in Japan," he said, "and it is to them that I am looking in making appointments."

"Told to Do My Best"

Of his interview with Emperor Hirohito Shidehara said:

"He merely told me to do my best to form a new cabinet. The interview was brief. I assured him I would do my best."

Asked if his government was a stop-gap — one that could be discarded for a stronger one in the approaching critical months of winter—Shidehara replied he hoped it would "continue as long as it has the confidence of the people."

He was ambassador to the United States in 1919 and to Britain in 1922. He is a polished diplomat fully conversant with allied psychology.

American and Japanese sources said the new premier was expected to call on Gen. MacArthur at the first "suitable opportunity," but probably not until after cabinet appointments are completed.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger returned from northern Japan, where rice riots have been reported, and said that the Japanese people there, at first hostile, now welcomed the American troops.

The head of the 8th army of occupation said the people were making plans for entertaining the troops in the hard winter ahead and that a nonfraternization order would be lifted in a day or two.

LEWIS REJECTS PLEA TO END COAL STRIKES

tors must sit down and discuss the problem.

STEEL OUTPUT CUT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP) — Spreading coal strikes that made more than 159,000 men idle and closed 623 mines in six states began to cut into steel production today as the CIO-United Steelworkers union announced initial negotiations on demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

The union said it would meet here Wednesday with five subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation, to begin the wage parley.

REFINERIES REOPEN

Austin, Tex., Oct. 6 (AP)—Reopening of the strike bound oil refineries under navy control began slowly today with some members of the CIO Oil Workers' International union displaying a reluctance to heed the back to work order of O. A. Knight, international president.

At Port Arthur, hardest hit of the refining centers in the major producing state of Texas, employes of three of the seven closed plants were taking secret ballots on the question of going back to their jobs.

Strikers were still out and picketing refineries in southern California, 24 hours after the navy seized the plants under a Presidential order. Workers at Union Oil company's oleum refinery in the San Francisco bay area, which was taken over by the navy yesterday, were making plans to return to work.

Several Texas refineries prepared to resume operations, and operators predicted curtailed operations would be under way by Monday.

RETURN HERE TONIGHT

Six thousand oil industry strikers in East Chicago, Hammond, and Lockport will return to work at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow after being out for nearly three weeks.

The return was voted unanimously by 3,000 members of local 210, Oil Workers' International union [CIO], in Oil Workers hall, Hammond, yesterday. Local 513, Whiting, and local 222, Lockport, concurred in the decision.

The return is subject to navy department approval. Navy representatives who will direct the Chicago area plants were reported flying here from Washington, D. C.

The strike tied up Sinclair, Socony-Vacuum, Cities Service, Shell, Texaco, Presto-Lite, and Carbon and Carbide plants which process oil products.

Calls on King

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP) — Edward Windsor paid a surprise visit late today to Buckingham palace, where he was reported to have conferred for approximately an hour with his brother, King George VI., in the king's private study.

Windsor, who flew to London yesterday from Paris, spent last night and tonight at Marlborough house, the home of his mother, Dowager Queen Mary.

He visited Windsor castle for the first time since his abdication broadcast, which originated there in December, 1936. The British Press association said that Windsor would remain in England for about a week.

DEATHS NO BAR IN PEARL HARBOR QUIZ: BROWNELL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, said today the death of some "high officials" does not constitute "a statute of limitations to avoid the fixing of responsibility" for Pearl Harbor.

"Many other persons are dead also," Brownell wrote in an editorial in "The Republican News," national committee publication, "including the approximately 3,000 who died at Pearl Harbor because some one had blundered, and the many other thousands who died during the ensuing years because the Pearl Harbor disaster lengthened the war in the Pacific.

"No matter how high the trail of bungling or incompetency may lead into the ranks of officialdom, past or present, the nation is entitled to know the whole truth."

PICKETS RETURN TO FILM STUDIO AFTER CLASHES

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—Peaceful picketing, under protection of a court injunction, was resumed today at Warner Brothers motion picture studio after clashes yesterday between strikers and police officers in which 25 or more men and women were injured.

Some 400 or 500 pickets ranged eight abreast in front of the main gates of the film plant. Warners said production was at a standstill.

Warners obtained a temporary restraining order forbidding illegal acts in connection with picketing of the studio. After nine strike leaders were arrested yesterday on rioting charges and released on bond, the strikers obtained a preliminary court order restraining Warners from interference "with peaceful picketing." The strike, directed against principal film studios and involving 3,000 to 7,000 persons, started March 12 in a jurisdictional dispute between the Conference of Studio Unions and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, also an AFL affiliate, over jurisdiction of 77 studio set designers.

JAPANESE CODE BROKEN TWICE, ASSERTS SABATH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—United States intelligence officers were credited by Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] today with breaking the Japanese code twice during the war.

Sabath told reporters the code was broken first prior to the battle of Midway and that later a newly established code was solved. Breaking of the code in the first instance contributed to the smashing American victory at Midway, he said.

Sabath declined to say where he had obtained his information, or to make public further details.

VANDALS SMASH MACHINERY IN EVANSTON PLANT

In the second outbreak of violence in the printing industry within eight hours, vandals early yesterday forced their way into the Shoreline Press, 1817 Benson av., Evanston, and smashed several pieces of equipment.

In the earlier outbreak, three employes of Lloyd Hollister, Inc., publishing company, of 1232 Central av., Wilmette, were assaulted by three men in front of the North Shore hotel, Davis st. and Chicago av., Evanston, as they returned in a cab from the plant Friday night.

The men beaten are Dwight B. Gaines, 40, who lives at the hotel; Harry Nims, 42, of 162 E. Ontario st., and Brian Davis, 23, of 1201 Cleveland st., Evanston.

Joseph Cooksey, owner of the Shoreline Press, told police his plant had been doing some work for the Hollister company. Entry was made, he said, by smashing a rear window, sometime after 3 a. m. when the night shift departed.

Special Strike Meeting

More than 8,000 employes of the General Motors' Electro-Motive diesel division plant, strike bound since Sept. 28, will attend a special meeting at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium at 3 p. m. today with a view to terminating the strike which has been declared unauthorized by international heads of the United Auto Workers' union [CIO].

Members of the executive board of local 719, who called the meeting, said a report of negotiations with management will be made. Attending the meeting will be Joseph Mattson, regional director, and a representative of the General Motors department of the union from Detroit.

Harlich Plant Picketed

Twenty men and women yesterday picketed the Harlich Manufacturing company, 1417 Jackson blvd., where 450 out of 650 employes walked off their jobs Friday.

The strikers, who are members of the Bindery Help and Specialty Workers' union, local 182 [AFL], charged that only certain employes had received wage increases from the company, following a recent war labor board order granting general raises.

2 Tavern Owners Seized in Slot Machine Raids

Two tavern owners were arrested yesterday by county highway police on charges of possessing gambling devices. Two slot machines were seized in each raid. Those arrested were Joe Martin, at 12825 Western av., Blue Island, and Stanley Novak, at 15647 Halsted st., Phoenix. The raiders were Lt. John Burns and Sgt. Mike Branski. Bond in each case was set at $100 for hearings before Police Magistrate William Kane in Homewood Tuesday.

PLANE MAKERS LIFT CURTAIN ON FLYING FUTURE

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—Airplane makers lifted part of the lid off the future of flying today when they displayed one plane almost as big as a submarine and others that, with the aid of jet propulsion, could get into the air in seven seconds.

The display was staged for a group of newsmen who have traveled across the continent in a survey of reconversion problems.

One of the new products was a giant plane known as the XC-99, which was shown publicly at Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation for the first time today. Powered by six 5,000 horsepower motors, it will carry 204 passengers at a cruising speed of 320 miles an hour.

Newspaper men also were given a demonstration of jet propulsion as used by the navy on a patrol bomber. Four jets helped two regular motors. A spokesman for the Aerojet Engineering corporation, a subsidiary of General Tire and Rubber, said that it could cut the take off time of commercial aircraft by 35 per cent.

95 PLAN STRIKE ON JOLIET BUS LINES TONIGHT

Joliet bus drivers and mechanics will go on strike tonight for higher pay for 40 hours' work than they now receive for 48 hours, Frank Lawrence, president of their union, local 228 of the Motor Coach Employes [AFL], said yesterday.

The 95 men are employed by the Joliet City Lines, a branch of the National City Lines, Inc., and their buses carry 13,500 passengers a day in Joliet, Lockport, and Rockdale, Will county. Lawrence said the stirke was voted at a meeting that began at midnight Friday and will be started after the last scheduled runs are completed tonight.

Drivers are demanding $50 for a 40 hour week, instead of $42.24 for 48 hours, and the mechanics want $55.20 for 40 hours instead of $45.60 for 48 hours. Lawrence said the union's demands on the company were sent to the war labor board in July and brought no answer.

"To have called a Scherzo, a Polonaise"

"TWO weeks ago we made our debut under this new nickname and, as we entered, slipped (quite unwittingly) on the truth!

One of our customers had asked us to tell her what piece of music it was that Chopin played in the darkened drawing room, in the film, "A Song to Remember." . . . Months had gone by since we had seen the picture so we asked this one and that one—everyone but Hollywood! . . . and the concensus was "the Polonaise."

Next day—and the next—and even the next, the Encyclopedia Musicana's incoming mail poured across the desk in a deluge. And it all had one point in common—Chopin had played his Scherzo in B-Flat Minor at that particular place in the film—and not the Polonaise. . . . BATTLE SCARRED AIR CORPS YANKS BASK IN LUXURY

Wives Are Welcomed at Miami Hospitals

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 6—Hundreds of midwestern GI's are among the almost 3,000 battle casualties being "rehabilitated," millionaire style, in this swank, tropical playground of the south.

Patients at the army air forces regional and convalescent hospitals in Coral Gables and Miami Beach, these men have come straight from European battlefronts and prisoner of war camps. Most of them were flown here by the air transport command in C-54 Douglas Skymasters fitted out as litter carriers.

Now quartered in eight of this area's most luxurious hotels, in rooms that suckers and show-offs once paid $90 a day for, the war wounded and sick and finding the road to recovery not at all hard to take. The three swimming pools of the famous old Biltmore hotel, once reserved for the rich, are now filled with convalescing GI's exercising paralyzed limbs and aching stumps.

Take Over Cabanas

Those glorified bath houses, known on the beach as "sun-kissed cabanas," which rented from $35 to $50 a day in "the season," are now strewn with pulleys and weights, volley balls and all kinds of physical reconditioning equipment as well as crutches and wheelchairs.

Deep-sea fishing, which costs civilians at least $35 a day, is free to wounded vets six days a week. All fishing tackle, transportation to and lunches on fishing boats are free.

So are golf, tennis, badminton, beach volleyball, moonlight cruises in Biscayne bay, and other activities which in normal times merely add to the expensiveness of this millionaire's vacation playground.

In spite of greedy cab drivers and restaurant owners [who obviously still resent the substitution of the army for their former millionaire trade], the patients admit this is the best deal they've had since they went in the army.

"Imagine This," He Says

"Imagine being plopped down in the middle of this," said Staff Sgt. Albert J. Molik of Cicero, Ill., as he sat up in bed and blinked wide-eyed at the prospect of going deep-sea fishing. Molik was a gunner on a Flying Fortress, with the 8th air force, and spent nine months in a German prison camp.

"If this is rehabilitation, bring on more of the same," said a cast covered boy as a GI orchestra serenaded him and his wardmate.

"This isn't the army, it's paradise," said Pvt. Charles Pinkas, another Cicero boy and also a liberated prisoner.

Perhaps the most unique feature of the air corps rehabilitation program is that patients' wives are encouraged not only to come here to live but to attend reconditioning activities along with their convalescing husbands.

Always Visiting Time

In most hospitals visiting hours are 2 to 4 and 6 to 8. Here they are all day long.

Small, individual beach front apartments have been taken over by the army for patient wife activities. In these, hospitalized airmen and their wives [many are newlyweds] study music appreciation together, take classes in painting, sculpturing, leathercraft, plastics, weaving, home planning.

In one, Tech. Sgt. Leroy Goswick of Youngwood, Pa., was helping his bride, Janie, paste an ornamental shell design on a plastic cigaret box they had made together.

Tech. Sgt. Harold D. Fulwiler of Kingsport, Tenn., and his bride, Thelma, were making a photo album together. Both Fulwiler and Goswick were liberated prisoners.

Fashions Baby Boots

Staff Sgt. Claire Swanstrom of Ada, Minn., a veteran of 31 months overseas and a "combat fatigue" patient, watched shyly as his wife, Claryce, cut out a pair of baby boots from the sheepskin used in flyers' jackets.

Claryce wore a nylon blouse she had made in the hospital's fashion class for wives. Bolts of nylon that were meant for parachutes and never used are provided for the wives, along with sewing machines and instructors, and an art teacher to help them hand paint tropical designs on the blouses.

One of the most popular pastimes of the air corps wives is weaving handbags from pandanus leaves.

Meals Free or Cheap

Wives also take courses in fashion designing, grooming, make-up and coiffeur from New York and Hollywood experts in these fields who are now in the army.

"This is the best thing that's happened to us," said Sgt. and Mrs. Swanstrom. The sergeant was a lumberman in Minnesota.

"The air corps even made my hotel reservations," added Mrs. Swanstrom. "Only $1.35 a day."

She has breakfast free in the Ernie Pyle club, and for 35 cents a meal she is permitted [as are all patients' wives] to go to chow with her husband in the hospital mess hall. Mess halls also provide free orange juice, milk, cookies, and hamburgers 16 hours a day. An all-GI orchestra headed by Sgt. Sande Williams of New York, and including two Chicagoans, Corp. Cedric Spring and Pvt. 1st Class Fred Davis, provides music for chow time, tea time, patient dances, and for bed patients in their wards—every day.

Babies Go to Classes

Many babies go to "classes" with their youthful parents; others stay in the hospital nursery and are cared for by hostess-counsellors. The entire eighth floor of the Biltmore hospital is given over for use as a maternity ward.

The patient-wife program of rehabilitation was originally set up by Gen. Hap Arnold's wife, and the Miami center is headed by Mrs. E. M. Levine, chief of the hostess-counsellors.

Maj. John D. Brett, M. C., chief of the rehabilitation and convalescent service, explained the air corps policy of encouraging wives to be with their war-wounded husbands by stating simply:

"We find the men get better a lot faster when their wives are with them."

Other patients from the Chicago area include Corp. Lynn M. Olsen, 5624 S. Hoyne av.; Pvt. 1st Class Jack Mikolczak, 13825 Greenbay rd.; Pvt. Walter Labak, 3017 W. 21st pl.; Pvt. 1st Class David E. Taylor, 5653 Kenmore av.; Tech. 5th Grade Robert K. Nielsen, 1524 Pulaski rd.; Staff Sgt. Walter J. Belch, 3554 W. Belden av.; Sgt. Carl W. Lindblad, 6654 N. Talman av.; Tech. Sgt. Leonard Olvey, Anderson, Ind.; Pvt. George Yaros, Gary, Ind.; Pvt. 1st Class James Applegate, Moline, Ill.; Pvt. Joseph Nimee, Spring Valley, Ill.; Staff Sgt. Walter R. Nimitz Gets Philippine Award

Discounts A-Bomb

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The atomic bomb will not mean the end of the navy "in your lifetime and mine," Adm. Nimitz said today.

The bomb, the chief of the Pacific fleet told a news conference is just "another weapon which must be brought close enough to the scene of action to be used. I see no way to get them there except by ships until we can project them from this cotinent to another."

He said the United States should retain seized bases in the Pacific. He said he also opposed combining the war and navy into one department.

The admiral later was presented the Philippine commonwealth's medal for valor by President Osmena in recognition of Nimitz's "distinguished leadership and courage during the war of liberation."

Gen MacArthur is the only other American in Philippine history to get the decoration.

IKE'S PROGRESS IN OCCUPIED REICH AMAZES M'CLOY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 6 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy said today he was amazed at the progress made in carrying out interim directives of the American government by Gen. Eisenhower's command in occupied Germany.

"It is a tremendous job and substantial success has been achieved," said McCloy, who has just finished a tour of the European war theater and is leaving tomorrow bound for Japan.

He said the situation in Bavaria which led to the transfer of Gen. Patton was only an isolated incident in the entire general denazification program. He asserted that from what he saw in the press he did not think the American people were receiving a picture of the tremendous work being done in Germany.

McCloy said Eisenhower was responsible for seeing that policies of the combined chiefs of staff were carried out, whether in Germany or Austria. Eisenhower's position regarding Austria has not been made clear before and some confusion existed even in headquarters of United States forces in the European theater.

7 JEWS SHOT IN ATTACK ON BORDER POLICE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 6 (AP)—Seven Jews were shot, one seriously, when a group armed with sticks today attacked Transjordan frontier police who surrounded the Djar Giladi colony after the entry of "about 70 illegal immigrants," a bulletin said.

"There was no further incident," said the announcement, adding: "Later the police cordon was withdrawn and the situation is now quiet."

The immigrants, said to be from Syria, were allowed to proceed to the Djar Giladi colony, near the northern Palestine frontier.

VIOLENCE FEARED UNLESS ROMANIA GETS NEW RULE

Coalition of Four Parties Called Necessary

[Following is another dispatch from a Tribune correspondent who has just toured the Russian occupied Balkan countries and returned to Naples, Italy, to write without censorship.]

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 6—The only solution of the crisis in Romania, which some think may result in open violence, is for the Groza government to resign as King Michael has recommended, according to Dinu Bratianu, leader of the Liberal party.

The only government suitable to replace Groza and his cabinet of Communists and dissidents, who were forced on the country last March by Soviet Commissar A. N. Vichinsky, would be a four party coalition, according to Liberal leaders in Bucharest. In Romania, the majority of the workers are Social Democrats, and the majority of the peasants are members of the National Peasant party, headed by Julius Maniu, or the Liberti party, headed by Bratianu.

George Tatarescu, vice premier, headed the dissident Liberal group, and is in the government, altho he is charged with having worked also with the Germans.

Socialists Are Disgruntled

The Socialist party, which participates in the Groza cabinet and National Democratic Front, is now reported to be disgruntled and hedging on its original position, but it has not yet withdrawn from the cabinet. Its leader, Titel Petrescu, is described in Bucharest political circles as lacking punch and ability.

Teothari Georgescu, minister of the interior, and a Communist, is the strongest man in the cabinet, after Premier Groza.

In the Groza cabinet of 18 men, there are five Communists who hold strong posts, three Ploughmans' Front ministers—the party of Groza, which is small and works with the Communists—three dissident Liberals, and three Socialists.

After the break with the Germans in August, 1944, what is known as the Fatherland Front was formed of all parties, but this was broken up to form the present National Democratic Front of Communists and leftist elements of other parties, and all moderate opposition was suppressed.

"Only Fascists Suppressed"

Seven political groups, which purport to represent the will of the nation, do not represent more than 20 per cent of the political sentiment of the country, according to Romanians in court circles. But Interior Minister Georgescu, in the government press, assures the country that "only the Fascists have ceased to enjoy liberty." He assures the public everything is going well, despite the rising tide of unsolved problems.

Under rigid censorship—the chief censor is editor of the leading Communist daily—the public learns nothing of what is going on.

Court circles say that the Groza government is a fumbling machine, retaining in a crude form all the faults of previous inefficient and grafting Romanian administrations.

Soviet policy, under the heavy occupation, is to keep the dominant position in every phase of the country's life, according to the opposition leaders, and the Russian tactics are to foment unrest in the country when they fail to win over Romanian favor.

Fear Nationalizing of Oil

The top fear in Bucharest among the moderate parties is that the recent agrarian reforms, which the Peasant party condemns, will be followed by, perhaps, a communist experiment in nationalizing the oil production.

The Russian armistice terms, which call for heavy payments, weigh heavily on the country. The economic life of the country, which has the disadvantage of being too rich for its defensive strength, is blocked by the occupation. Romanians say the country could be exporting in six months if the Russians got out.

The armistice indemnity is heavy. Under article 10, the requisitions for the first 10 months were said to be 400 billion lei. Unofficial spot takings or loot by the troops are estimated at 480 billions.

In order to meet sudden Russian demands, the Romanions print bank notes and hand them over to pay the Reds. As a result the lei has practically no value. Officially it is worth 200 lei to the dollar. Black market operators pay 11,000 lei for a dollar.

Peasants Refuse to Sell

As a result, the Romanian peasants will not sell their live stock for the newly printed notes.

In general, according to the Romanians, there are different conceptions about the armistice. For the Romanians, it should be an instrument leading to peace. For the Russians, they say, it is a guarantee for future security and local political domination. The Romanians see their future as depending on their ability to maintain their sovereignty. They wonder how they will do it and they note that the Reds now treat the king with scant consideration.

Some think the clash of Anglo-American and soviet interests will work to their advantage. Some think the soviets will pull out of the country when the feeling against them dies down. The bulk of the people are pessimistic. They regard the agrarian reforms effected recently as a means of discrediting the small peasant holder and the formation of coöperatives. They fear the soviet grant of independent status to the two republics of white Russia and Ukraine may point to the future pattern of Romania.

FALL FROM SCAFFOLD FATAL

Demands Bulgaria Oust Commissars from Army

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Democratic newspaper Zname today called for immediate elimination of political commissars from the Bulgarian army. In the first open opposition to the commissars, who are known as "assistant commanders," Zname said: "The Bulgarian army belongs to the whole Bulgarian people and not to a single party."

FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE LINK TO BRITISH FOUND

Reveal Medal George III. Gave Indian Chief

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANITOWANING, Manitoulin Island, Ont., Oct. 6—Chief Assikinac, or Blackbird, who led the Fort Dearborn massacre on Aug. 15, 1812, and murdered 52 Chicagoans, got a silver medal from England's king, George III., for his deed.

It has long been rumored that the 500 treacherous Indians who wiped out the garrison at Fort Dearborn, which stood at what is now Michigan av. and Wacker dr., were allies of the British. But for the first time evidence was at hand today that George III., smarting under the loss of the American colonies in the Revolutionary war, rewarded Indian allies in the abortive 1812 attempt to win the United States back to the crown.

Medal Authentic, Experts Say

Roy F. Fleming of the dominion Indian affairs department in Ottawa, Ont., an authority on Indian history, said the medal presented to Blackbird undoubtedly is the one held by Thomas Ham, proprietor of the Queen's hotel here. Blackbird received it in 1815 from Lt. Col. Robert McDowall, commandant of the British garrison on Drummond Island, west of here, acting for George III.

Ham said he obtained this medal from Angus Blackbird, a grandson of the Ottawa chief who led the massacre, about 10 years ago. The medal is about four inches in diameter. One side has the coat of arms of Great Britain, with a crowned lion on the left and a unicorn on the right. On the face is the image of George III., who died of paresis, and the legend "Georgius III. Dei Gratia" [George III., (king by the) Grace of God].

Chief's War Club Preserved

Another medal, as like the first as two silver dollars, is in the collection of the late John Reynolds here, now owned by Reynold's daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Mastin. Also in this collection is a war club that Chief Blackbird used to crush the heads of Chicagoans in the massacre. Benwit Blackbird, another grandson of the chief, was a friend of Reynolds and the club was obtained from him. It is about two feet long and has a six inch wooden ball on the end, surmounted by a carved bird's beak. This was Blackbird's sign. Reynolds, who ran a general store here until he died 21 years ago, picked up the relics in trade.

Half a dozen other medals given to Indians by George III. for attacks on Americans in the war of 1812 are held by Manitoulin Islanders.

Tells of Part in Massacre

Fleming gave this resume of Blackbird's part in the Fort Dearborn massacre:

The chief was born at Learbre Croche, near the strait of Mackinac. He hunted as far south as Chicago and there married a Potawatomi as his second wife.

When the war of 1812 broke out, he was enlisted as an ally by the British. Pontiac, an Indian chief loyal to the French, led a rebellion that annihilated the British garrison at Fort Mackinac, but new British forces recaptured the fort. Blackbird, in a speech lasting from sunrise to sunset, persuaded 200 Chippewas to join the British.

News of Mackinac's capture was taken to Fort Dearborn on Aug. 9 by a Potawatomi, Winnemeg, who also bore orders from Gen. William Hull, United States commandant of Fort Wayne, near Detroit, to Capt. Nathan Heald to evacuate Fort Dearborn, if practicable, and give supplies and property belonging to the United States to the Indians. Capt. Heald apparently angered the Indians by destroying his surplus guns and powder and dumping the whisky at the post into the lake.

Some authorities say the Indians claimed they had a pact by which they were to receive the goods in return for permitting the garrison to move peacefully toward Detroit.

Battle at 18th St.

Blackbird, the British ally, had joined his Potawatomi wife and her tribe, numbering about 500, at Chicago.

When Capt. Heald and Capt. William Walls led the garrison and its women, children and Indian vanguard of 15 south along Lake Michigan, Chief Blackbird and his warriors fell upon them near what is now 18th st. and Prairie av. Of the garrison party, only 27 survived the 15 minute battle. Capt. Heald lived and later effected the release of captives.

One of Blackbird's descendants, Francis, was sent to Upper Canada university at Toronto for education in the Anglican priesthood. He made history there by winning a race on foot against a man on horseback.

REPORT STALIN PREPARING FOR ANOTHER WAR

Builds New Bases; Points Guns Toward Sweden

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 6—There are reports here and in Finland that Stalin is preparing for another war. A two weeks' investigation in Finland, including interviews with seamen and refugees who have seen Russia's new Baltic ports, substantiated these rumors in part. At least the communists are working on a defense program for their northern frontiers.

A naval and military base is under construction on Cape Porkkala, just west of Helsinki. So secret is this work that Finnish civilians are barred from the area. The railroad thru the reservation, on the direct route between the port of Turku [Abo] and the Finnish capital, is open only to Russian military traffic.

Guns Point Toward Sweden

Former Finnish army intelligence officers said that coastal guns formerly on the gulf of Finland are being moved to the gulf of Bothnia on the west coast. An island south of Vaasa, at the narrows half way up the gulf of Bothnia, is being fortified with the guns pointing across the water toward Sweden. Residents of Vaasa verified this report.

An officer on a Finnish ship which called at Leningrad this summer said that he saw labor gangs working on bomb shelters and gun emplacements near the waterfront. This was after the end of World War II. His ship was delivering reparations goods from Finland to Russia. The soviet took two-thirds of the Finnish merchant fleet as part of the war indemnity and has chartered most of the remaining craft.

Carry Coal on Their Backs

"The Finnish crew was not allowed to leave the ship except to load coal," he related. "The officers as well as the men in the crew had to carry the coal on their backs from the dock into the ship under the supervision of armed Russian soldiers.

"The water front was cluttered with cables, steel, and manufactured goods piled in stacks and exposed to the weather. Warehouses appeared to be full. Women and children as well as the men carried huge burdens in unloading the ships. Soldiers were on guard everywhere."

Reports have come from Riga, Latvia, and from Tallinn, Estonia, of similar defense preparations. Also from Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania have come reports of the Russians moving civilians out of coastal areas to the interior of Russia.

Near the mouth of the Baltic sea the Russians still are occupying the island of Bornholm, a Danish possession since 1660. The Germans took Bornholm and fortified it after their occupation of Denmark. Immediately after V-E day the Reds rushed into Bornholm while the British were marching into Denmark.

Residents Appeal to Denmark.

Last week a Swedish newspaperman visited Bornholm—without a permit. He reported that the Russians were building winter barracks and that the Bornholm residents were appealing to Denmark for relief from the unwelcome visitors. Civilian authorities estimated the Russian force at between 4 and 5,000.

Swedish reports say the Russians also are fortifying the Aland Islands midway between Sweden and the southern tip of Finland. The 28,000 residents of the islands are petitioning Finland to permit a plebiscite for their divorce from Finland. They are part of the 10 per cent of Finland's population speaking Swedish.

Surrender of Isles Unlikely

The Finnish government, dominated by Communists, is not likely to surrender dominion over the strategic islands while Moscow is pursuing its forceful foreign policy. The islanders have appealed to the Swedish king who received them cordially but made no promises which might offend Stalin.

The islands were ceded to Russia after its defeat of Sweden in 1809. They became a part of Finland when that country was carved from Russia after World War I. Because a naval or air base there would control the water routes to Leningrad, as well as Stockholm and all the ports on the Gulf of Bothnia, the Geneva peace conference of 1921 agreed that the Alands should never be fortified by any country. Ten nations signed the agreement. Russia was not one of the nations.

WARSAW STIFLES DISORDER AFTER NEWS GETS OUT

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 1 [Delayed]—An Associated Press dispatch of 10 days ago concerning the disorder, shooting affrays, rape, and looting going on in Warsaw after dark already has had a salutory effect. The city is more heavily policed after dark. The moving about of unauthorized persons is restricted and there is a general cleanup of black marketeers, profiteers, and persons not having visible means of support.

In the last three nights I have heard a few random shots but have walked about the city unmolested except for being stopped by the police to show my credentials.

Complains to Embassy

The Polish foreign office complained to the American embassy about the Associated Press dispatch, but embassy officials replied that they too heard firearms, screams, and disorders and had confirmations of depredations, assaults, and robberies from other sources.

A foreign office spokesman said the government feared such articles would incite Polish political exiles in foreign countries to start a campaign alleging that the existing Warsaw government is not able to maintain order.

However, the embassy backed up the Associated Press correspondent, so the authorities bent their efforts to curb disorder and close up clandestine drinking places and all night cafes. Consequently the situation is calm and quiet.

Seek to Control News

The government press bureau also has asked foreign correspondents to submit dispatches for "control" before transmitting them.

But embassy officials pointed out that the Moscow conference and then the Potsdam declaration stipulated that foreign journalists would be permitted to visit Poland and write freely without censorship. The American officials declined to admit the necessity of having articles passed by "control."

The matter was left in abeyance since most newspaper correspondents are sending dispatches to Berlin, Paris or London for cabling via the diplomatic plane leaving here about every five days.

CHARGE POLES CHASE CZECHS FROM SILESIA

Frontier Disputes Stir Up Disorders

PRAGUE, Oct. 6 [Reuters]—A serious situation is arising along Czechoslovakia's northeastern frontier where French incidents are reported almost daily owing to the delay in settling boundary questions between Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The areas chiefly in dispute are:

1. The portion of the Teschen industrial district now held by Czechoslovakia in accordance with the decision of the council of ambassadors in 1920, which is claimed by Poland on the ground that the majority of its inhabitants are Polish.

2. The enclaves in former German Silesia of Ratibor, Glatz, and Hloubice, now occupied by Poland, which are claimed by Czechoslovakia on the ground that the majority of the inhabitants are of Czech origin.

Many Flee to Czech Lands

Recently many persons of Czech origin from the Ratibor and Glatz areas crossed the frontier, taking refuge in Czechoslovakia. They brought stories of Polish attempts to suppress Czech nationalism by various means such as the establishment of Polish schools, the prohibition of sermons in Czech and demands that the population should sign petitions to the peace conference in favor of the allocation of these districts to Poland.

The refugees also allege wholesale intimidation by Polish bands, robberies, and evictions of Czechs from farms and houses.

Copies of a long letter signed jointly by a Czech, on behalf of the Czech national council of Glatz, and by a German claiming to represent the German population in the area, have been handed to the Czech foreign office, the ministry of information, and the British embassy.

Tells of Poles' Actions

After alleging that "circumstances in Glatz under Polish administration become daily more and more unbearable," the document complained that Poles were occupying houses, shops and farms, squeezing out as much goods, clothes, personal belongings and money as possible, and then departing to start again elsewhere.

The whole district of Glatz was flooded with Polish settlers turning out the inhabitants, the harvest was not properly gathered, and most factories were idle, it said. Food rationing for some of the Czech and German population had stopped completely because the ration, consisting of only about three pounds of bread weekly, was not regularly obtainable, the document alleged.

Babies and young children no longer received even their quarter of a pint of skim milk. Only a few Czechs and Germans employed by the Poles received one loaf of bread weekly. The majority of the non-Polish population consisting chiefly of women and children faced starvation.

NEW BAVARIA CABINET PICKED, SAYS PREMIER

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 6 (AP)—William Hoegner, new Socialist premier of Bavaria, said tonight that he had allotted four places in his cabinet to his own party, the Social Democrats, one each to Communists, the Christian Social Union and the Democrats, and one place to a non-party man.

Hoegner said he took the post of minister of justice in the coalition cabinet. Names of the members will not be announced until they are approved by the military government. The Communists had demanded the ministry of interior with its control of the police, Hoegner added. A Social Democrat got the post.

PRINT BILLIONS OF MARKS FOR ALLIED FORCES

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Allied printing presses already have turned out more than one billion dollars of green, red, and brown invasion money to finance the four power occupation of Germany.

A reliable source said the Russians had printed five billion marks, the Americans three billion, the British two billion, and the French more than one billion. The mark is worth 10 cents at the military exchange rate.

Only a portion of the invasion money has been placed in circulation. Because of a difference in the financial systems used, the Russians have spent a higher percentage of their money than the other occupying powers.

The Russians issue marks to their troops to pay for commodities and services.

B-29 CRASHES IN OCEAN; 3 DIE, 15 ARE RESCUED

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—A B-29 bomber from the Marianas crashed into the sea 300 miles off of San Francisco today and the navy announced that three were killed, two were missing, and 15 were rescued by coast guard.

The 12th naval district estimated it would take until Monday for the small rescue craft to return to the coast with the survivors and dead. The search for the missing is continuing.

First word of the impending crash came when the pilot radioed that he was ordering the crew and passengers to parachute. Two of the engines were out, he said. The plane was ditched near a coast guard picket boat which guards the Hawaii plane route.

Navy planes spotted the survivors swimming in the sea. Coast guard and navy vessels aided in the rescue, which was hampered by heavy seas and a limited airplane ceiling.

The bomber was one of 10 Super Forts of the 497th bomber group returning to California from Saipan.

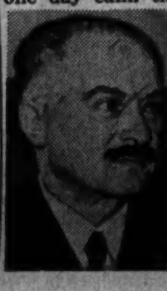
JUDGE 'UNFAIR,' LAVAL REFUSES TO ATTEND TRIAL

Stays Away After His Earlier Expulsion

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]



Albert Lebrun

PARIS, Oct. 6—After an uneasy one day calm the full fury of the gathering storm broke on the treason trial of Pierre Laval today blowing up a tumult rare even in French courts. As a result the former chief of the Vichy government was thrown out of the courtroom and defiantly refused to return.

In a rage, Laval charged that not only was he getting a raw deal from the judge and jury but he was being gratuitously insulted in the bargain. All attempts to force him back into the courtroom failed.

"Handcuff me if you want. I won't go back," he shouted.

Unless there is some other development before Monday the trial will wind up speedily with neither Laval nor his lawyers present.

Lebrun Testifies

After the shouting and violent table banging the fantastic session limped to a tame end with a few minutes testimony by former President Albert Lebrun. Lebrun said he had once been warned by Laval not to leave France for North Africa because he would then be committing an "act of treason toward the French people."

Meanwhile, across the hall from the court, Laval drew up an indictment of the court which was later read to the press by his lawyers.

"The incidents which have just taken place in the courtroom," it said, "make it my duty to abstain from appearing at the session. It is impossible for me to present my defense, not only because there was not adequate preliminary examination of the case but also because I am convinced that I am not in the presence of genuine judges.

"The insulting questions that Presiding Judge Mongibeaux put to me today and the invectives uttered against me by certain jurors show that a judiciary crime is being prepared.

Called "Dirty Dog"

"The presiding judge saw fit, immediately after asking me a question, to answer it himself in terms which I judge to be highly insulting. The jurors—who hurled such invectives at me as 'you dirty dog, your doom will be sealed in 12 days'—show in unequivocal fashion that they are not participating in a work of justice.

"The revolting partiality of the discussions won't allow me to present my defense. If it is afraid of the truth the high court will convict me but it will not have judged me. I leave to it the responsibility of its decisions. I will wait, from public opinion and from history, the judgment which was refused me."

The tempest was stirred up when Judge Mongibeaux asked Laval why Marchal Petain kept him as prime minister if, as Laval claimed, Petain had no confidence in him.

Laval shouted that first he must answer a statement from Prosecutor Andre Mornet, but Mongibeaux charged: "It was Abetz. It was the Germans who kept you in power." [Otto Abetz was German ambassador to occupied France].

"You asked me a question and gave the answer at the same time," screamed Laval. "That's illegal."

"I call your questions and answers an aggression," Mongibeaux replied. "Guards, lead the defendant out."

Nearly an hour later the sitting was resumed. The judge asked Laval to answer the original question.

Quietly Laval answered:

"The insulting way in which you have put the question to me and the demonstrations of certain jurors show me I may be the victim of a judiciary crime. I do not want to be an accomplice to this. I prefer to remain silent."

"Very well, call the first witness," said the judge. There were no witnesses present and the session again was suspended, this time for nearly two hours. When it resumed Laval and his lawyers were missing.

MRS. PATRICIA MURRAY

Damages of $100,000 were asked by Paul Murray, 23, of 2738 Pine Grove av., discharged army sergeant, in an alienation of affections suit filed in Superior court yesterday against Seymour Laney, 42, of 440 Barry av., sales manager of a paint company, who was accused of stealing the love of Murray's wife, Patricia, 21, a model.

The bill, drawn by Atty. William P. Ward, charged Laney alienated Mrs. Murray's affections in April, 1944, a year after Murray left for service in Africa and Italy. Murray, discharged from the army last July 23, lived with his wife until Sept. 8, when she left, the bill alleges.

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Almost half the American soldiers who were in Europe on V-E day have left the theater, United States headquarters announced last night. In the 145 days since the war ended 1,500,000 men have been transported from the continent.

HOLD ROOMMATE IN CLUB DANCER HAMMER DEATH

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The hammer slaying of Burt Solon Harger, 39, night club dancer, was disclosed today by police, who said dismembered portions of his body had been thrown into the Hudson river. Harger had been missing since Aug. 19.

Walter H. Dahl, 30, freight solicitor from Philadelphia, was booked today on a charge of homicide in the case. Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Ryan said Dahl had admitted killing Harger during a quarrel in a Manhattan apartment they shared.

Ryan said Dahl had been trailed since he reported Harger's disappearance Aug. 22.

POOCH, CAPTOR OF 3 GERMANS, RETURNS TO U. S.

One-Eyed Dog Mascot of Artillery Outfit

Camp Shanks, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Blackout, a one eyed, gum chewing little pooch, came home from Europe today to take his place in the upper strata of dogdom by virtue of a unique war record.

His pals—he is a mascot of B battery, 899th field artillery battalion, 9th army—say Blackout is the only dog to be with an army outfit thruout its training period in the United States, its combat service overseas, and its return home.

Captured Three Germans

What's more, say the soldiers, Blackout captured three Germans [officially], was awarded the bronze star medal [unofficially], and has 104 discharge points [very unofficially].

Blacakout is so GI that he was born in the back of an army truck at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., on New Year's day, 1944. His mother, who died shortly after he was weaned, preceded him as the outfit's mascot.

Smuggled Aboard Ship

Sgt. Paul M. Carden, Binghampton, N. Y., and Pvt. Fred Downs, Ridge Farm, Ill., adopted the pup—or vice versa. They said that last November they smuggled him aboard a troop ship by giving him morphine to keep him quiet, then placing him in a duffle bag.

In Holland Blackout routed three German snipers from a bunker one dark night, and they were captured. After this he wore a PFC stripe, but was busted to a private when caught fraternizing.

GI AND GIRL FRIEND ROBBED

Corp. Benjamin Kahn, 22, of 8402 Dorchester av., who served in France two years, and Miss Lillian Brown, 18, of Omaha, Neb., were robbed of $60 and their wristwatches by three men yesterday as the couple sat in an automobile in Jackson park.

EMPLOYES BARE UNRRA WASTE AND CONFUSION

Many Yanks Quit Jobs in Disgust

done on a basis of getting as many of their nationals into UNRRA as fast as possible regardless of background, capabilities, or honesty. Here was a great gravy train paid for by the United States."

"Just one example:

"Working under me in Granville was a French administrative man who had been classified as a mess officer. When I asked why, he said he had simply happened to be in the Paris recruiting office for UNRRA on a day when they were classifying all applicants, regardless of previous experience, as mess officers. He had had no experience in restaurant work.

"Other days, he said, the office might be recruiting directors, men who would be put in charge of displaced persons camps of up to 15,000 persons, and each applicant automatically would be listed as a director.

"This was confirmed in at least two instances at Granville. Two Frenchmen in their 20s with no previous administrative experience had been made directors. One had been employed previously solely as a window dresser.

296 Directors; 12 American

"As of July 8," the Chicagoan continued, "there were 296 UNRRA teams in the field, each with a director. Of the 296 directors exactly 12 were Americans. Other team positions were filled by a proportionate share of Americans.

"An example of the unbelievable stupidity with which the Granville base was operated," he said, "was the way in which teams were made up to go into the field. In adding members to team personnel, nationalities were so mixed that team members, without an interpreter, could not talk with each other.

"When I asked why this was done, the Granville director of training said it was to adhere to UNRRA's principle of internationality.

"One of the nice rackets at Granville," he added, "was the tipping for restaurant personnel. UNRRA trainees were told that French labor laws would not permit paying wages high enough to get civilian help and that it was necessary for all trainees, when receiving their free weekly mess tickets, to voluntarily contribute 35 francs [70 cents].

"This tipping totaled between $420 and $700 a week which more than doubled the wage rate of the mess hall's 40 employes."

Confusion in Austria

Resigning as staff member at Granville, the Chicagoan was assigned to an UNRRA team dispatched to Austria, and there gained additional insight into UNRRA's weaknesses.

"The director of our team was a Luxembourger who know little English. Yet he was going to an American zone with a team composed of Americans, English, Scotch, Irish, and a Hollander.

"Thus, in addition to sending out teams whose members could not talk to each other, I learned, UNRRA was assigning teams to three army zones, American, British, and French, with no regard to the nationality of the key members of teams who would have to deal with the army every day. This caused much hard feeling by the armies toward UNRRA."

"In Salzburg five redeployment teams were posted. Of the 15 key positions, just one was held by an American, a deputy director, tho this is an American zone of occupation. On the same day there were en route to the British Austrian zone at least four American directors. If the whole Austrian operation had been deliberately sabotaged it couldn't have been done better. It was at this point that I requested a transfer back to the United States for the purpose of resigning.

Lack of Coöperation

"Since then, from directors and other personnel who worked on teams in Germany, I have learned there is an absolute lack of coöperation on communications and intelligent orders of any kind from zone supervisors [supervising a number of camps, theoretically], area directors [supervising the zone supervisors] and all the higherups of the UNRRA organization.

"Many teams needed help or advice and coöperation from above and I have rarely heard of an instance where they got it. It was their impression that the men above them were far more interested in holding onto their jobs than in going to bat for the teams under them when it was necessary.

Good Job by Army

"From all I have seen and heard, the army is doing an excellent job of repatriation and would have continued to do the job if no UNRRA team had showed up in the field.

"Almost all the displaced persons camps were efficiently managed by the diplaced persons themselves who did their own organizing. All the army found necessary was to have in camp a few noncommissioned officers for general supervision and guards, in occasional instances. The displaced persons have their own doctors and nurses.

"The American and International Red Cross have done an outstanding job in handling food and lodging for the military over here. This will be substantiated by returning Americans. The reason the job has been handled efficiently is because there are businessmen, working without and post exchange rations which pay, at the top. The organization is sound.

"It is my belief that the entire UNRRA picture should be turned over to the Red Cross and if this is done the people of Europe will receive far better care than will be the case with the UNRRA doing the job.

"Caring for the people must be our first consideration. Secondarily, it will remove thousands of parasites from the UNRRA pay roll and allow them to go back to civilian life to shift for themselves instead of using the UNRRA as a huge charity organization supported chiefly by United States funds.

"The British, French, and Belgians in the UNRRA are, in almost every case, making far more actual money than they have ever made at any stage of their lives in addition to which they receive clothing, food, they can get nowhere else.

"It is my considered opinion that 95 per cent of the British and continentals are in the UNRRA for these reasons. They will never resign and only hope the UNRRA stumbles on for years and years.

STALIN RECALLS RUSSIAN TOKYO AID TO MOSCOW

Transfer Termed Blow at MacArthur

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6—The rift between the United States and Russia widened today when the soviet government recalled its military representative from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Japan.

Lt. Gen. Derevyanko

The action came as the two countries were carrying on an acrimonious long distance debate over which was responsible for the failure of the conference of foreign ministers at London.

Termed Blow at MacArthur

No explanation was advanced for the recall of the soviet representative, Lt. Gen. Derevyanko. It was generally accepted here, however, that the move was part of the soviet campaign for the removal of Gen. MacArthur.

[A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said yesterday that the return of Lt. Gen. Derevyanko to Moscow has "absolutely no significance." He said the Russian military representative merely was taking a short vacation.

["There is no foundation for reports that friction caused the departure," said the spokesman, who declined use of his name. "So far as I know, we are expecting him back soon."

[Derevyanko left a week ago on the same transport plane that carried Yacov Malik, soviet ambassador to Japan at the time Russia declared war on Japan. The Russian embassy in Tokyo had disclosed Malik's departure, but not Derevyanko's.

[The Moscow radio had been monitored in London as saying Derevyanko was summoned home.]

It is recognized in congressional circles that the Russians view Gen. MacArthur's program to instill a true democratic spirit in Japan as the best means of combatting future Japanese aggression with deepest suspicion.

Reds Fear Puppet State

The Reds, it is said, fear that MacArthur is attempting to set up Japan as a puppet state, which would act as a bulwark in any possible clash with Russia. The soviets have set up a cordon of such puppet states in Europe on the ground that Russia's security demands friendly neighbors.

Russia's distrust of MacArthur centered in part on the fact that Japanese political prisoners, largely Japanese Communists, were not released and placed in key positions upon American occupation. This objection was removed partially today when the Japanese home office directed the release of some 3,000 political prisoners.

Step to Force Issue Possible

It was believed here that the Russians were seeking to force MacArthur's retirement, but it was felt that the general will not give up the fight so easily. Instead, friends of the general said, MacArthur might throw the issue dramatically before the country with a demand that he be relieved of his command and brought home to state his position.

Such a maneuver, friends said, undoubtedly would place the nation overwhelmingly behind MacArthur and force a determined stand against Russian encroachment in the Japanese picture. Russia managed, with considerable haste, to get into the Pacific war just a few days before the Japs quit.

The debate on the failure of the London conference was followed with utmost interest in congress and official circles here. State Secretary Byrnes gave his side of the story last night in a radio address in which he acknowledged the conference had ended in a stalemate.

Seeks General Conference

Byrnes said this country was unalterably opposed to the Russian scheme of peace dictated by Britain, Russia, and the United States. He said he will continue to work for a general peace conference of all the countries involved, expressing hope the London deadlock may be resolved.

From Moscow the Russian side of the debate came in the form of an editorial in the government newspaper, Izvestia. The paper charged that if the United States and Britain continue to insist upon the position taken at London, the basis of collaboration among the three nations will be shaken to its foundations.

The Daily Worker, American Communist publication, which did not carry a story on the Byrnes speech but did carry one on the Izvestia editorial, said: "These are not idle words. We know the soviet press uses such language very precisely and very deliberately."

Speech Jolts Leftists

The Byrnes speech shook leftists here. It had not been expected that the administration would throw the blame for the failure of the conference on Russia. The speech was considered as having the blessing of the White House, because Byrnes conferred with President Truman before its delivery.

In some congressional circles it was held likely that the speech signals a new American policy toward Russia, one of firmness for principle rather than acquiescence in all soviet demands.

Pro-soviet spokesmen in congress were silenced by the vigor of Byrnes' language and his report on conference developments.

Senate Group to Meet

A special meeting of the senate foreign relations committee was called for Monday afternoon to hear a report from Byrnes on the London conference. Byrnes was not summoned before the committee, but asked for opportunity to discuss foreign problems with the group.

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said Byrnes also will be questioned about the Argentine situation and his attitude on soviet demands for a voice in ruling Japan. It was said Spruille Braden, former ambassador to Argentina, who is assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs, also may appear before the committee.

Committee members said they preferred not to discuss the collapse of the London conference pending the conference with Byrnes.

Herald Chinese Fete

Chicago's Chinatown will turn the "double tenth" into a double celebration this week. The double tenth is Wednesday—10th day of the 10th moon. It is the 34th anniversary of the Chinese republic's founding. It also is the first holiday since Japan's surrender. Chinatown leaders decided that the occasion was too important to be limited to one day, so festivities will start Tuesday.

The highlight of the fete will be the Lion dance when a multicolored paper beasts, symbolizing the greatness of China, will cavort in the streets in the neighborhood of Wentworth av. and Cermak rd. The lion will head a parade of 200 or more Chinese.

Other features will be a street carnival, broadcast by the Chinese Orchestra society, open air movies of Chinese historical dramas, and films of China at war and peace. Continuous entertainment will be given from 7 to 11 p. m. each evening on a stage at Wentworth av. and 22d pl., where a victory gate will be erected.

U. S. STORM INDICATED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—Any move to supplant Gen. MacArthur as supreme commander of occupied Japan seemed certain today to arouse a storm of protest in congress.

Russia proposed at the London conference the creation of a four power commission to take over policy making in Japan.

Legislators made it plain today, however, that there will be an explosion in their ranks if any move is made by the state department and President Truman to accept such a proposal.

MacArthur Power Backed

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] told a reporter that while he recognizes the Russians have some say about how Japan is run, he would never agree to taking away MacArthur's powers as supreme commander.

Sen. Shipstead [R., Minn.] said he could see no reason why the Russians should have any hand in deciding the final fate of Japan.

"The Russians didn't even get into the war until after the Japanese had made an offer to surrender," Shipstead said.

ARMY RESTUDIES PLANS FOR NEW LOCKS AT CANAL

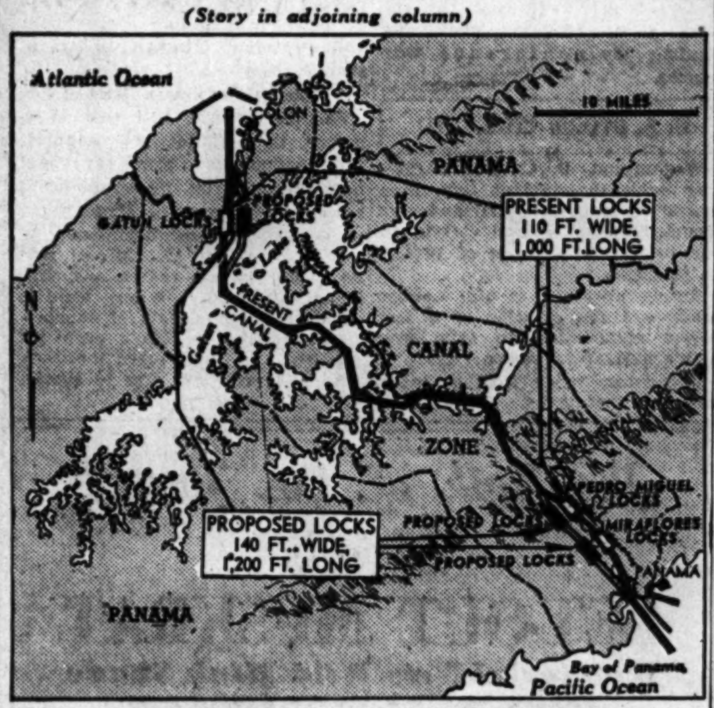
War Experience May Alter Design of 3d Set

VAST LAKE TRAFFIC

A story describing the vast traffic now passing thru the interlake canal locks at Sault Ste. Marie will be found in the graphic section.

Plan Panama Canal Changes

(Story in adjoining column)



BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6—A 277 million dollar project to build another set of locks for the Panama canal is being restudied by army engineers, it was disclosed today. The project was initiated shortly before the United States entered the war.

The engineers are seeking to determine whether changes in the original construction plans are necessary as a result of the army's war time experiences in preparing for defense of the canal, a vital link between the oceans.

Work on the new locks, regarded as one of the leading elements in hemispheric defense, was started in July, 1940. It has continued on a modified scale during the war, altho shortages of materials and shipping space forced suspension of work on the main features in May, 1942.

Bombproof Locks Planned

The proposed set of locks would constitute an almost separate canal on both the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the 50 mile channel, running roughly parallel to the existing channel. This dispersal was designed to obviate the possibility of the entire canal being knocked out by one heavy bomb or an act of sabotage.

In addition, it was announced when the project was started that the new locks would be made bombproof, altho in what way was kept a secret.

It was noted today, however, that the designs for the new locks were off the drafting boards long before the days of the atomic bomb and the 4,000 pound block-buster.

Canal Opened in 1914

Attempting to have the canal impervious to the bombs of the future, the engineers presumably are reëxamining the plans in the light of the explosives of unexampled power developed during the war.

The present canal was opened in 1914 after having been built in seven years at a cost of 366 million dollars. It has been a keystone of American naval strategy ever since, for it is the only way the United States fleet can be passed from the Atlantic to the Pacific without traveling 5,900 miles around Cape Horn.

The present canal goes up the valley of the Chagres river on the Atlantic slope, crosses Gatun lake, passes thru the ridge of the Continental Divide in the Gaillard cut, and descends to the Pacific down the valley of the Rio Grande. Its carrying of ships over the Continental Divide is accomplished by twin locks located at Gatun on the Atlantic side, at Pedro Miguel about midway across the isthmus, and at Miraflores on the Pacific side.

Vessels Raised 85 Feet

There are three sets of the twin locks at Gatun comprising three steps which raise vessels to the 85 foot level of the channel across the divide. On the Pacific side the passage between the summit level and the ocean—a descent of 85 feet—is accomplished by a twin lock at Pedro Miguel, then across Miraflores lake, and thru the Miraflores locks into the channel from the Bay of Panama.

Each of the present locks is 110 feet wide and 1,000 feet long. The navy has admitted that these are not large enough to accommodate the new 45,000 ton aircraft carriers of the Midway class.

The dimensions of the new carriers never have been revealed, but the navy has said the big carriers will be able to use the canal when the supplemental locks are completed.

140 Foot Locks Planned

The new locks will be 140 feet wide and 1,200 feet long, according to existing plans. A single set of three steps with an approach channel would be built east of the existing Gatun locks.

Another lock and a new channel connecting Miraflores lake with the old channel would be built west of Pedro Miguel. The remaining new locks, with still another approach channel, would be built west of the existing Miraflores locks.

The net effect is to by-pass the old locks, using large sections of the existing canal and linking the new locks into the present system with the new approach channels. The new locks would be between a mile and one and a half miles from the old ones.

Fear Effects of Bombing

This plan was devised after numerous expressions of doubt in recent years over the ability of twin locks lying side by side to withstand heavy air attack. Many authorities argued that, despite vast anti-aircraft defenses which were thrown up around the canal during the war, one well placed bomb could have knocked out the canal for weeks or months.

Records show that before congress authorized the present project there was a sharp division of opinion over the advisability of constructing an entirely new canal over Nicaragua or bringing the Panama canal down to sea level and doing away with the need for locks.

Following surveys authorized in 1929, the cost of a Nicaraguan canal was estimated at 697 million dollars and the cost of lowering the Panama canal to sea level was estimated at one billion. The cost of the third set of locks for the Panama canal at that time was estimated at 140 millions.

Labor Costs Rise

The cost of labor and material has risen since then, but when the matter was before congress again in 1939 the third set of locks remained the least expensive and speediest means for enlarging the canal.

As late as 1941, however, lowering the depth of the canal to sea level again was proposed, this time by Rep. Mansfield [D., Tex.], chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee. He declared this would make the canal as nearly invulnerable as possible to air attack. After the new canal locks are constructed, the channel could be lowered to sea level without interruption of traffic, he asserted.

18,000 JAPS GIVE UP IN TIENTSIN TO U. S. GENERAL

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, United States marine corps, today accepted the surrender of 18,000 Japanese troops in Tientsin for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. It was the first formal capitulation of Japanse troops in the Tientsin-Peiping area, where they totaled 50,588 men.

The Japanese, never defeated on the battlefield, were resentful at being compelled to walk half a block to the surrender table in front of the French municipal building, where they laid their swords on the green cloth. Before the ceremony the Japanese naval attache at Tientsin, a captain Taijiri, committed hara-kiri in his quarters.

The Chinese applauded as the Japanese walked down the broad street to surrender. While it wasn't clear to the Americans present whether the applause was meant for the act of surrender or the fact Rockey was acting for Chiang, it was evident that the Jap officers were humiliated.

INDIANS SAIL FOR ENGLAND AFTER RIFT OVER WORK

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 6 [Reuters]—Two hundred seventy-six Indian students left here for Britain aboard a British troopship after being held up because they objected to doing menial work aboard their original vessel, it was learned in Bombay tonight.

The original party of 350, it was stated, voluntarily agreed to keep clean their own mess utensils, cabin and toilet but some later changed their minds and asked to be disembarked. The captain then ordered the whole party ashore. Later 276 of the students went aboard another troopship, agreeing to carry out the master's instructions.

This morning's Bombay newspapers carried banner headlines on the story, calling it a case of "color prejudice" and alleging "outrageous treatment" of the party.

WHY DENY SLAVS HAND IN BALKAN PACT? REDS ASK

Pravda Editorial Stirs Hope of Solution

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP)—Pravda, official newspaper of the Communist party, said today that if France was to participate in the writing of Balkan peace treaties, then Poland, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia should also be permitted to take part.

Some diplomatic observers said the editorial might offer a possible approach toward a compromise of the disagreement which led to the breakdown of the foreign ministers' conference in London.

[United States Secretary of State Byrnes has urged that all allied powers which helped win the war should help write the peace. The soviet delegation in London had argued that, under the Potsdam agreement, only the countries which signed armistices with the axis satellites—Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria—should be permitted to take part in the drafting of treaties with them.]

"If one is to raise the question of expanding the circle of countries who will participate in the drawing up of peace treaties," Pravda said, "then the question should not be limited to France.

Poles and Czechs, too

"What reasons are there to exclude Yugoslavia from participating in the preparation of peace treaties with Italy and the former Balkan satellites of Germany, knowing full wel lthat Yugoslavia did more than some others to defeat Hitler and fascist Italy?"

"If one agrees to expand the circle of nations gathered to draw up peace treaties, how can one dismiss Poland and Czechoslovakia? It is clear there are no reasons whatever for it."

Pravda asserted that Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin not only went far afield of the Potsdam agreements by insisting that France and China be permitted to participate in discussions of Balkan treaties, but that they brought up questions which were not even entrusted to the foreign ministers.

Moscow Parley Cited

"This would not have happened," the editorial said, "if Messrs. Byrnes and Bevin had stuck to the basis of the Berlin tripartite agreement which the soviet delegation in London was aiming at."

Pravda cited the Moscow conference of Former Secretaries Cordell Hull and Anthony Eden and Foreign Commissar Molotov in 1943 as an example of what could be done when no one raised a question of "maintaining or not maintaining one or another agreement."

"The positive results of the Moscow conference are known to every one," the paper said. "The London session of foreign ministers could have given just as positive results if all participants had stood on the basis of an accurate maintainance of the agreement reached between the allies."

ANNAMITES END FIGHT BUT DEFY FRENCH TROOPS

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Oct. 4 [Delayed]—[Reuters]—Annamite nationalists here are obeying their leaders' cease fire order following disturbances with the French, and shops in the city are reopening with the return of confidence.

Of the 229 French men and women kidnaped by the nationalists, 102 have been released, but the safety of the remainder is causing some concern. Proclamations have been issued by some nationalist elements calling for continuation of the general strike and the refusal of food to the French. They said captured French soldiers would be shot, but that women and children must not be injured.

"Europeans will not be able to occupy Saigon before the town is reduced to ashes,, nor Indo-China before the country is reduced to a desert," the proclamations said.

Bridges went up and down and pedestrians and motorists fretted at the barricades shortly after noon yesterday while the small sailboat Hurricane made its way thru the Chicago river from the lake. Over 70 Pct. of Wounded Reds Lived to Fight Again

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP)—More than 70 per cent of Russia's hospitalized wounded were cured and returned to army ranks.

STALIN MUST GO BEFORE 'VOTERS' TO HOLD REINS

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Stalin and all other members of the present supreme soviet must seek reëlection next Feb. 10 if they are to continue in their seats for another four years.

The first general elections in the soviet union since Dec. 12, 1937, were ordered held in February by the presidium of the supreme soviet yesterday.

The terms of deputies chosen in 1937 would have run out at the end of 1941, but elections were postponed from year to year because of the war.

Make-Up of Soviet

When the current supreme soviet was elected it had the following make-up:

The council of the union: 569 deputies [461] Communists and 108 nonparty persons].

The council of nationalities: 574 deputies [409 Communists and 165 nonparty members].

The council of the union is elected on a population basis, one deputy for each 300,000 persons.

The council of nationalities is chosen according to union and autonomous regions and national areas. Citizens of a union republic elect 25 deputies, those of an autonomous republic, 11; each autonomous region five and each national area one.

Vote on One Candidate

Only one political party, the Communists, participates in elections. [It is the only legal political party in Russia.] Some nonparty persons are elected.

On election day the voters vote on only one candidate for a position—one who is nominated in advance. If a voter does not want this candidate, he turns in a blank ballot.

Men and women who have reached the age of 18 are entitled to vote. They also can hold office. In the last election 77 women were named to the council of the union and 110 to the council of nationalities.

Moscow sources said the coming election was expected to see several priests put up for election for the first time. They were eligible previously under the Stalin constitution.

ARMY SHOP MAY REVOLUTIONIZE MEAT BUSINESS

Frozen Package System Is Foreseen

Camp Shanks, N. Y., Oct. 6 [Special]—Representatives of meat packing companies, who recently inspected the Camp Shanks central meat shop, have indicated innovations installed here will result in a complete basic change in the nation's retail meat business. As the result of a system worked out in cutting, packing, and distribution, uniform cuts of frozen meat will be sold in package form thruout the country.

Col. Harry L. Calvin of Winnetka, Ill., Camp Shanks executive officer and the driving force behind the central meat shop development, said today the idea was born of necessity thru the handling of thousands of troops daily at this New York port of embarkation installation.

"Neighborhood Shops to Go"

One direct result, Calvin said, "will be the elimination of neighborhood butcher shops as this generation knew such places during the pre-war and rationing era. When there is a freezing element in every home as a result of the freezing craze that is sweeping the country, housewives will buy meat on a weekly, monthly, or even longer basis. The only requisite necessary to sell retail meat will be to read a label and hand out a package. This system will result in making more meat available at less cost."

Calvin is a member of the firm of Bradner, Smith & Co., paper manufacturers and distributors in Chicago. A veteran of five World War I. battles, at 23 he was a captain of a field artillery battery. He entered World War II. as a captain and was promoted rapidly. He has received the distinguished service cross, the silver star, the Purple Heart, the croix de guerre with palm, five battle stars, and the army of occupation campaign ribbon from the last war.

Studied Engineering

Calvin studied engineering at the University of Michigan, where he was a half back on the varsity football team, and he played pro football before World War I. While a business executive in Chicago his only contact with the meat industry was that he frequently raised for market several hundred hogs and about a hundred head of cattle on his farm in Earlville, Ill.

Streamlined methods used at the Camp Shanks central meat shop won recognition from the war department, according to a communication received here today. Capt. Bert Ferrara had been assigned here from the quartermaster corps to write a manual about the shop. A directive is being prepared by Ferrara to be sent to all army installations ordering them to carry out the procedure of the Shanks meat shop. The order will be sent out by the chief of staff.

Served Seven Staging Areas

The report said: "In general it was found that the simplified, yet effective procedure employed at Camp Shanks is so successful as to warrant standardization and will be used to a large extent in the manual being published."

When Shanks opened in 1943 there were 27 installations to be served, including seven staging areas, each equal to a village of more than 10,000 adults. Two companies of 809 men, who worked day and night shifts, were needed to distribute food to the areas. The meat was delivered in refrigerator railroad cars and handled similar to the wholesale distribution to neighborhood butchers in villages and cities.

Calvin stood by and watched husky GIs hack away at sides of beef, frozen so hard that an ax hardly dented them. Between 30,000 and 40,000 troops poured into Shanks each week and had to be given the best of care before embarking on ships in New York harbor. The Shanks staff took matters in hand and devised ways to meet the situation.

Central Meat Shop

The central meat shop was built. Capt. Thomas Frayne of Middletown, Conn., promoted recently to a major, and chief of the Shanks mess division, developed a system so a staff of 98 required to handle meat was reduced to 43 enlisted men. This crew, of whom only three had been butchers before the war, could cut enough meat in a week to feed a city of 75,000 for a month, Frayne said.

Master Sgt. Thomas Wise of Springfield, Mass., is the head GI meat cutter. The sides of beef, lamb, pork, thru the use of power knives, are reduced to uniform cuts of steaks, chops, and roasts. They are packed in trays and placed in the cold storage plant.

A packing plant representative appeared a bit nonplussed at the uniform size of each chop. Instead of chops varying according to the size of the animal, each chop was exactly the same size.

Frayne explained, "We freeze the pork and cut the chops with a steel buzz saw. One man is able to cut chops any desired size as fast as a delicatessen clerk slices ham."

Calvin produced camp records which showed 363,753 pounds of meat had been saved in 10 months, with all soldiers allotted normal rations. The camp was allotted 4,241,588 pounds of meat in the last 10 months. Only 3,877,835 pounds were used.

Saves Space on Ships

"By carefully saving every bit of fat and doing all trimming at the central meat shop, we have rendered monthly an average of 19,391 pounds of creamy, white, odorless fats and used 18,087 pounds," Calvin said. "We were authorized to draw 200,000 pounds of lard yearly. We saved the taxpayers $77,000 in shortening costs alone and the central meat shop, which made this possible, cost but $47,000. It has the facilities to store meat and fresh fruit in cold storage for a city of 80,000."

The central meat shop plan has been installed in many places by the army. Steamship lines are now taking aboard their meat allotments, cut and dressed, ready for cooking. This is said to have cut storage space 90 per cent.

Calvin said the butchers learned the method of cutting meat with power saws within a few days.

Packers Inspect Plant

For more than 14 months representatives of packers, steamship lines, service mess divisions, and others have inspected the local plant.

Many have said they believe the housewife will soon buy her meat as she now purchases frozen fish and vegetables.

Calvin said the representatives of the large packing houses who have inspected the central meat shop indicated the new system would have to be adopted but each wondered which firm would be the first to dare establish the method.

Consensus among Chicago meat distributors and dealers yesterday was that individual packaging and sale of meat cuts is not likely to become widespread in the near future.

Col. Calvin lives at 43 Locust rd., Winnetka.

BIZET'S 'CARMEN' HOLDS APPEAL IN RADIO VERSION

"Carmen," Bizet's fiery opera, which has been packing them in since its first appearance in 1875, was up to its old tricks last evening when a capacity audience filled the Medinah temple for the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air this season over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

It was a streamlined version of the gypsy tale with crucial scenes spliced together. But all the age-old appeal was there in the drama and dash of the music.

Marion Claire sang the title role and was particularly successful with the "Habanera" and the "Seguidilla." Richard Tucker, Metropolitan Opera tenor, had the supporting role of Don Jose and Bruce Foote sang the part of Escamillo, the matador whose stirring "Toreador Song" is one of the outstanding selections of the opera. Penny Perry took the part of Micaela.

A cast of 100 musical and dramatic performers filled the colorful stage. The W-G-N ensemble and symphony orchestra were directed by Henry Weber with Jack LaFrandre as the writer-producer of the program.

U. S. SUBMARINES TAKE PART IN A DRAMA OF IRONY

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Oct. 6 (AP)—One of those strange ironies of peace and war was disclosed today by the navy. The fantastic story revolved about the submarine Sculpin, one of six whose fate was depicted in an official navy release.

The six subs were among 49 lost in the war. Nothing has been heard concerning 43 but stories have been pieced together from survivors of the Sculpin, S-44, Perch, Grenadier, Tullibee, and Tang since their liberation from prisoner of war camps.

Back in 1939, the submarine Squalus was sunk off Portsmouth, N. H. The submarine Sculpin assisted in rescue and salvage operations. The name of the Squalus was changed to Sailfish.

Then came the war. On Nov. 19, 1943, the Sculpin fought her last battle 200 miles northeast of Truk atoll with a Japanese destroyer.

The destroyer put a shell thru the conning tower, killing the sub skipper, Comdr. Fred Connaway of Helena, Ark., and several others. But 39 enlisted men and three officers were picked up. Nineteen subsequently were put aboard a Japanese aircraft carrier and started for Japan.

That's where the Sailfish entered the picture. The submarine sank the flattop. Down to their death went 19 men from the same submarine which had played that rescue role when the Sailfish was the Squalus four years before.

SINGAPORE'S U.S. BANK DISCOVERS IT MADE MONEY

Japs Paid Off Some of Its Depositors

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SINGAPORE, Malaya, Oct. 6—American movies were shown in Singapore's 15 theaters tonight for the first time in two and a half years. The films, all pre-war, came from a group of 800 found in warehouses where the Japs left them untouched. They belong to nine American distributing companies, and are being shown under permits issued by the British film board.

About 100 American businesses and a few churches owned property in Malaya before the war. Some businesses are already operating. Chief among these is the National City Bank of New York.

Bank Made Money

In one of those freaks of war, National City officials who arrived here with the troops discovered that the bank made money during the war. The records and securities were intact. Tho the Japs closed the bank, they repaid some of the depositors—nobody knows where the funds came from—and deducted the withdrawals from the records. While the bank has the same assets, its liabilities are lower. The same thing happened to the British postal savings office.

Several importing and exporting firms are already taking orders for American goods, to be delivered when shipping is available.

Capt. Nicholas Deak, Larchmont, N. Y., assigned to safeguarding American holdings here, said most properties he has inspected are undamaged except thru neglect and looting.

Rubber Plantations Neglected

The biggest American investments in Malaya, he said, are the tin mines and mills of Pacific Tin Consolidated, Inc., a Guggenheim property, United States Rubber Company's plantations, and Waterhouse rubber processing plant and oil storages.

Some of the Guggenheim mines can be worked immediately, altho much of the equipment is ruined by neglect. The United States Rubber plantations, totaling 30,000 acres, are overgrown from neglect. The Japs used the Waterhouse plants, converting some of them for making oil from rubber. So bad was the Jap shipping problem that the Japs had to make low grade oil from surplus rubber. Malaya has no oil. The American owned storages are mostly intact, despite the bombings.

The church properties, mostly Methodist owned, were generally looted. One church was turned into a factory.

Most American concerns that had offices here, such as insurance companies, have lost their records. Capt. Deak is recovering some. In a warehouse outside the city he came across a roomful of records taken from the American consulate.

FIND U. S. SHIP, SEIZED BY JAPS, IN CHINA HANDS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6 (AP) — The American gunboat Wake, seized by Japanese at Shanghai on Pearl Harbor day, has been found in Chinese hands at Nanking, shipshape except for damage to one side by the near miss of a United States bomb.

Comdr. Columbus Darwin Smith, Atlanta, Ga., and San Francisco, the navy's port director, said today that the Wake—which he commanded when war broke out—was located at Shanghai early in September when the first group of Americans arrived here.

They were powerless to prevent the Japanese taking her up river to Nanking, however, Smith related. Later she was taken over by the Chinese at Nanking and now, with Chinese flag flying, she is at Hankow, 600 miles up river from Shanghai.

BREAK UP RITES FOR VICTIM OF ARGENTINE RIOT

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mounted police, trying to halt the wave of demonstrations against the government, today charged into two crowds and broke up the funeral of a young chemical student killed by gunfire during a street disturbance Thursday. A crowd of 4,000 gathered in front of the dead youth's home was scattered. Another crowd of 10,000 at the cemetery also was dispersed.

Those standing before the house of the victim, Aaron Salmun Feijoo, sang the national anthem as the coffin was brought out.

Reports said striking students still held four of the country's six universities which they seized earlier in the week.

Leaves No Wake

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The navy today told of a wakeless, electric-powered torpedo which accounted for more than a million tons of enemy shipping.

Steam turbine powered torpedoes leave a wake of bubbles, allowing target ships to dodge is seen in time. Ships sunk and damaged by the new torpedo totaled nearly 300 and ranged from battleships to small cargo ships, the report said.

The first attack by an electric torpedo fired by a United States submarine was made in September, 1943.

BRITISH OCCUPY BATAVIA AS JAPS BATTLE NATIVES

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 5 [Delayed]—[Reuters]—British and Indian troops today took over complete control of Batavia, capital of Java.

Dr. I. R. Soekarno, president of the self-proclaimed Indonesian republic, has submitted a memorandum drafted by his cabinet to the allied authorities here to be forwarded to Adm. Mountbatten, supreme allied commander for southeast Asia, it was disclosed.

Indonesian nationalists are in control everywhere, Soekarno said, and are "running the whole country."

Clashes took place in Batavia, Soerabaya, Purwakarta, and other cities between Japanese and nationalist elements on the one hand and pro-Dutch and anti-nationalist elements on the other.

In Batavia eight persons were killed in clashes between Japanese and Indonesians. One hundred were reported killed at Soerabaya.

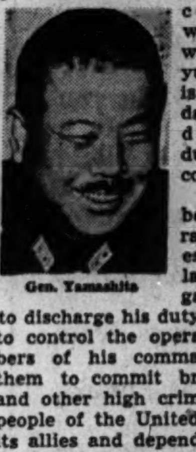
COURT MARTIAL FOR YAMASHITA STARTS MONDAY

Full Story of Atrocities to Be Told

MANILA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Standard procedure of United States army courts martial will be followed when Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita is arraigned Monday on charges of dereliction of duty which may cost him his life.



Gen. Yamashita

Yamashita will be formally arraigned on charges that he unlawfully disregarded and failed to discharge his duty as commander to control the operations of members of his command, permitting them to commit brutal atrocities and other high crimes against the people of the United States and of its allies and dependencies."

The indictment is so drawn as to permit introduction of evidence of all Japanese atrocities in the Philippines during the period from Oct. 9, 1944, to Sept. 2, 1945, when Yamashita was in command. As commanding general, he was responsible under the laws of war for acts of his command.

Prisoners to Testify

Wide latitude in the introduction of evidence on Yamashita's degree of control over his troops is expected. American officers indicated that prisoners of war and Filipinos who suffered at the hands of Yamashita's forces will be called as witnesses.

Date of the trial is expected to be fixed at Monday's arraignment.

Laws governing the introduction of evidence will be the same as those controling any court-martial, and in general follow civil court procedure.

Under the arraignment procedure, a commission of five generals who will try Yamashita will be sworn in along with court officials before the former "Tiger of Malaya" is asked to plead to the indictment.

May Have Counsel

Yamashita will be permitted to call Japanese defense counsel from his homeland, or he may accept designated American army counsel. So far the once arrogant war lord has not indicated how he plans to plead or whether he desires special defense counsel. If he requests Japanese counsel, the arraignment probably will be halted while his attorneys are flown in from Japan.

The trial is the first of alleged war criminals to be held in the Philippines.

The prosecution is expected to demand the death penalty as an object lesson that retribution inexorably overtakes violations of the laws of war, particularly acts of torture and violence against helpless prisoners and the civil populace.

Generals Are Named

American generals who will sit in judgment on the enemy commander are:

Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds, Dundee, Mich., assistant chief of staff of army forces in the western Pacific; Maj. Gen. J. A. Lester, Columbia, S. C., military police commander in the western Pacific; Maj. Gen. C. L. Sturdevant, Washington, D. C., deputy chief of staff for administration of army forces in the western Pacific; Brig. Gen. W. G. Walker, Washington, D. C., deputy assistant chief of staff for army forces in the western Pacific, and Brig. Gen. E. F. Bullene, Pacific Grove, Cal., chief chemical officer of army forces in the western Pacific.

FATHER, 'AFRAID OF DEVILS,' KILLS 2 SONS AND WIFE

Cleveland, O., Oct. 6 (AP)—A mechanic was held for investigation today after police quoted him as saying he killed his two sons to protect them from "devils" and beat his wife to death to ease his "conscience."

Police found Chester Kolladziej, 36, last night in an upstairs suite with the bodies of his wife, Jane, 32, and his sons, Robert, 7, and David, 3, who had been beaten to death with a gas pipe and stabbed with a screw driver.

Sgt. Theodore Carlson of the homicide squad, who said Kolladziej admitted slaying his family, quoted the mechanic as saying:

"I was afraid they would be possessed by devils and would grow up to be bad boys." When questioned about his wife, he said, "My conscience drove me to it."

U. S. FOOD SHIPS HELD BACK BY ZEALAND LABOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINNGTON, New Zealand, Oct. 6—The sustenance of the American South Pacific garrisons is menaced by the pressure tactics of the New Zealand longshoremen. Yesterday they halted night loading of food ships as asked by the navy. The region particularly affected is the wide Solomons Islands arc.

All night loading of the American ships was requested, both to keep supplies moving and to shift material not wanted here since V-J day. Each ship picks up about $15,000 worth of fresh vegetables, and large quantities of milk, foods, and meat. Auckland dockmen refused all night labor, demanding better facilities for meals. When this was conceded, they demanded more money.

Government officials hurried north today to try to persuade the longshoremen to abandon their stand before the arrival of three United States ships next week.

CLEW IS FOUND TO ASSAILANT OF ARMY NURSE

Detectives reported last night that they had found "a clear set of fingerprints" of the young man who beat Lt. Evelyn Peterson, 27, of Rockwell City, Ia., an army nurse, yesterday in an apartment she shared with her two sisters at 6020 Drexel av.

The prowler entered the apartment while Lt. Peterson, a European war theater veteran on terminal leave, was alone and took $150 from her purse after he struck her unconscious. Then the intruder who carried a brief case, told the apartment manager that he could find "an injured woman upstairs," and left the building before he could be questioned. The nurse is reported to be in a critical condition at Gardiner General hospital.

STATION RESTAURANT LIQUOR STOLEN

William Fitzgerald, manager of the North Western railway station restaurant, reported to police yesterday that he had discovered the theft of 24 cases of whiskey valued at $1,000 from the restaurant stock room.

SINGAPORE JAPS FACE EXILE IN PACIFIC 'UTOPIA'

200,000 Must Carve Out New Existence

KLUANG, Johore State, Oct. 6 (AP) Evacuation of the surrendered Japanese legions of Singapore and Malaya to three uninhabited tropic isles where they will be held in indeterminate exile is scheduled to begin next week.

There, almost astride the equator, the Japanese must carve out a new existence for themselves with pick and shovel, axe and saw.

The project, which involves perhaps 200,000 troops, has interesting angles of social experimentation.

They will tote along only essentials. These will include the two months' supply of Japanese rations which remain to them, tents, seeds, tools, building materials, austere clothing, toilet kits, medical stores and mosquito repellent.

The islands which they will occupy are Batam, Rempang and Galang, almost due south of Singapore in the Dutch Riau archipelago. They are lush, tree-covered flatlands with some beaches.

No Patrols Around Island

Japanese girls will accompany enemy soldiers and sailors into the tropic exile, for they fit into the category of surrendered enemy personnel.

Security is not expected to be much of a problem. Army and navy personnel will not be segregated, as was done in the Johore sultanate's post-surrender bivouacs for protection of the mutually unfriendly groups. Neither will allied patrols be maintained around the islands.

Apparently the exiles will have plenty of time to experiment, for it is up to Japan to provide shipping to return them home. Moreover, Gen. MacArthur has shown an inclination to take his time about restuffing them into the home islands.

Screening Japanese in Malaya is the task of the crack 161st infantry brigade, composed chiefly of Gurkhas, Punjabs and Rajputs.

Whole woods full of disarmed Japanese are tented among the towering rubber trees and undergrowth which they let go untended during their occupation. They have been coming forth to Kluang air field in labor parties to build the concentration pens thru which they will pass beginning in mid-week.

Black Pens for Criminals

Perhaps 2,000 will pass thru the pens each day. They will represent the entire Singapore garrison of 85,000 and sccres of thousands of other troops from Malaya proper.

The screening will consist largely of identification and segregation of war criminals, general interrogation and the checking of personal kits. A black pen will hold known criminals. A gray pen will contain those suspected on the basis of intelligence which was obtained chiefly from former prisoners of war.

The others will go into a white pen for transfer to the islands.

Those passing muster will go by train directly to the docks of Singapore's Keppel harbor. Then they will be ferried in a motley fleet to their new island "utopia."

TWO BIG ISSUES FACE FRANCE IN VOTE ON OCT. 21

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 6—The campaign for the elections in which France will choose a new legislative assembly and answer yes or no on a referendum on the country's constitution, got into full swing today.

The elections will be on Oct. 21 and all Europe is waiting for the outcome because of the effect it may have on international politics.

If the elections give a measure of stability to the government, France is envisaged as a possible rallying point for the moderate forces amid the unrest of a Europe christened increasingly with Red domination.

Two Issues Explained

The voters will pass on two questions. The first:

"Do you want an assembly elected today to be the constituent assembly [one having power to revise the constitution]?"

If the vote is yes, the 1875 constitution will be thrown overboard. There will be no French senate. The newly elected assembly of more than 500 members will be the single constituent body. If the vote is no, the 1875 constitution will remain in effect. The new assembly would be the chamber of deputies and a senate would be elected within two months and a new president of the republic would be elected by the bodies in joint session.

The second question:

"Do you approve of public powers up till the time a new constitution goes into effect, being exercised in accordance with the text of the proposed law on the back of this ticket?"

This presupposes a yes vote on the first question.

Reds Oppose No. 2

If the second proposition is carried the newly elected assembly will be a constituent body and choose the head of the government and approve his cabinet. But it could not afterward throw out the cabinet except by a majority vote of censure. It could approve the budget but could not initiate budgetary expenses.

A vote of no on this question, which the Communists want to defeat, would establish the constituent assembly as sovereign. At any time it could take powers away from the government and declare itself the government. Furthermore, the constituent assembly would have no limit on the duration of its mandate and could delay the drafting of a new constitution as long as it wanted. That prospect evokes the specter of dictatorship by a small group, as by the convention in the French revolution.

Indications are that the yes-yessers will win, with the Socialists dominating the new assembly and backing Gen. de Gaulle.

SNAKE HANDLER TELLS FAITH IN PERILOUS RITES

Not Afraid of the Reptiles When 'Anointed'

BY PAUL HOLMES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Birchwood, Tenn., Oct. 6—While rain battered the roof of an unpainted frame house in a mountain clearing, a group of bereaved but faithful snake handlers early today assembled for special rites tomorrow.

The dwelling is the home of Walter Ford, 55, farmer and believer in a literal interpretation of the phrase from the 18th verse of the 16th chapter of Mark, which says, "They shall take up serpents."

There were two serpents on hand—both rattlesnakes. One of them was named Outlaw because six weeks ago in Kentucky his bite killed a believer. Outlaw is a black diamond rattler with five rattles and a button. He and his untried but equally formidable companion were in a wooden box 30 inches long by 14 inches wide and covered with a wire screen.

14 Reported Dead

This area around Birchwood is the last untroubled refuge of the snake handling cult, whis has several hundred devotees in Tennessee, Virginia, and Kentucky.

State authorities of Virginia and Kentucky have moved to break up snake handling. Police in the larger Tennessee cities have done the same thing, but in rural Tennessee the snake handlers have been able to carry on their perilous demonstrations of faith without official interference.

Ford said 14 persons have died from snake bites in the three states since last July 1 as a result of these rites, which require that snakes be picked up and handled. Cottonmouth mossasins and copperheads are mixed with the rattlesnakes.

Dog Howls

Ford's dwelling was located after a 40 mile drive from Chattanooga, half of it over unpaved mountain roads. Near-by—over a hill and down a hollow—is the Dolly Pond Church of God, a frame one story building and headquarters of the local snake handlers. Tomorrow it will draw participants from Kentucky and Virginia.

When our automobile stopped in front of Ford's home, the place was dark. A knock on the door started a dog howling and brought the flicker of a match in the interior, followed by the glow of an oil lamp. Ford put on his overalls and opened the door, lamp in hand.

He was all hospitality. Night or day he is eager to talk about his faith. His visitors came dripping into a room lined with unpainted pine boards. The floor was covered with worn linoleum. Logs glowed in the fireplace. A squirrel rifle hung on pegs above the door. In the firelight religious prints were visible on the walls.

Mrs. Ford Joins Group

In adjacent rooms could be heard the sound of people getting out of bed. Mrs. Ford, a lean woman of 50, joined her husband and welcomed the guests, one of them the writer and the other a Negro cab driver from Chattanooga, who was certain he wanted nothing to do with rattlesnakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford were the parents of Lewis Francis Ford, 32, a lay preacher of the Dolly Pond church, who died Sept. 3 after a rattlesnake bit him at near-by Daisy.

The younger Ford's widow, who spells her name "Ressie" and pronounces it as if it were "Racy," came from a bedroom with two of her three children. She is a devout snake handler, and since her husband's death has taken over the duty of keeping the church records.

Explains His Faith

In front of the fire Ford explained that he and his son joined the snake handlers two years ago after they had watched a ceremony at the Dolly Pond church and felt themselves become "annointed."

"You've got to feel the annointing or you can't touch the serpents," he said. "When you get the annointing you know it because then you have no fear. If I ever feel fear, I know I haven't the annointing and then I keep away from the snake box."

"Remember," he cautioned, "the Good Book don't say the serpents won't bite, and it don't say they won't kill. But for two years now I've been handling serpents and I haven't been bit yet."

Once he said a copperhead nearly bit him. He had allowed the snake to coil around his arm and its head darted back to strike. Sister Martha Braddom, 86, was next to him and snatched the snake away.

Woman Often Bitten

"A wonderful woman, Sister Braddom," he said. "She has been bitten many times but is never harmed. In July, during the peach canning season, a rattler bit her, but she was canning peaches the next day just the same. She held that copperhead away from me and said she had a sudden feeling my faith had become weak and I needed help. In a few minutes my annointing returned and I took back the copperhead and he never moved to strike me."

Ford said snake handling in Tennessee is about 35 years old, getting its start at a Church of God in near-by Grasshopper. After a few years the practice almost died out, and for 25 years or so the only believers in the community were Sister Braddom and her son Mark. "They kept it alive," Ford said.

When his son was fatally bitten Ford said he wanted to kill the snake that did it. "My son begged for that serpent's life," he said. "I let him live, and he's over in Kentucky now."

Don't Use Tobacco

Ressie brought out her church record book. In the round handwriting of her late husband, the covenant of the church is set forth.

"We do not handle or use tobacco," the covenant says. Another rule prohibits the use of unnecessary jewelry, particularly earrings or bracelets. There also is a rule against going to shows, baseball games, or bathing beaches. Biblical references are quoted to support each rule.

"We do not believe in the sisters wearing bobbed hair or permanent waves—1st Corinthians 11:15."

"There is nothing in the covenant about snake handling," Ford explained. "We do not require our members to handle snakes. They do so only if they feel the anointing."

The book contained financial records showing the payment of tithes and expenses—$1.39 for nails and $10 for flowers for the funeral of Lewis Ford.

The book also contained a meeting account of church services.

There was an account of the death of Lewis Ford:

"On Sept. 3, Brother Lewis Ford went to Daisy to a brush arbor meeting and was bitten by a black diamond rattler with six rattles and button. He talked for 40 minutes after being bitten and was taken to his cousin's house close by. He died in 80 minutes after he was bitten and died in the faith. He trusted his Saviour until the last breath left his body."

Widow Still Faithful

Ressie said her husband's death has not shaken her faith. Saying it was the Lord's will, she has taught her three children to harbor no resentment against snakes. The oldest child, Mary Ellen, 9, has no fear of snakes. In her mother's arms, she smiled and told about allowing a rattlesnake to coil in her lap.

Ford said the Dolly Pond members have invited unbelievers of the countryside to bring the most poisonous snakes they can find to the church. The result is that snake contributors use all sorts of devices to arouse captured snakes to ferocity.

"Just last week a fellow brought a big old moccasin in a half gallon bucket of syrup," he said. "The syrup makes the snakes wild and also so sticky they are hard to hold. Sometimes they use soap suds, sometimes turpentine, sometimes pepper."

Ford described the snake handling prowess of Brother Rees Ramsey. This man, he said, never picks a snake out of the box without first shaking the box violently.

"He'll take it up and shake it and threw it in the air," he said. "Then he'll off with the lid and stick his hand right in. He has great faith."

Brother Ramsey, he said, will be on hand for tonight's rites. So will Mark Braddon and his mother. The Rev. Luther O. Morrow will preside in the absence of the Rev. Raymond Hayes of Cumberland, Ky., who will be kept at home to care for a daughter, Alice, stricken with a sort of paralysis after being bitten by a rattler last month.

Ford pointed to "Outlaw" in the snake box.

"The man he killed was named Murhpy," he said. "Murphy lived in Kentucky, and had a boy that got bit and died six years ago."

Ressie had built up a fire in the cook stove and made coffee. She came in from the kitchen, accompanied by a squealing sound. This came from a little white pig that toddled behind her.

"Pig's mother died five days ago," said Ressie. "There's six in the litter. We're taking care of them."

"Out of this nettle, danger, we pluck this flower, safety" Shakespeare, Henry IV

There was a lovely flower that bloomed miraculously on the rubble heaps of London. This flower never grew wild before in England. The miracle of its blooming came from the nitrates loosed by tons of bombs that fell on English soil.

There were not many pleasant things to be seen among the ruins of World War II. Yet one thing we can be thankful for—this war made production bloom miraculously. Here in America, all of us turned to, hand workers and brain workers alike, to heap up the mountains of munitions that backed up our men. We worked with all our might at a job we didn't like—to get it over quickly and get our sons back to the friendly jobs of peace.

Olin Industries did not like the job of war any better than anybody else. Now they are mighty glad it's all over and they can get back to peace time and the making of things that will help people everywhere enjoy life with a free heart once again.

Soon there will be guns and ammunition for sportsmen, roller skates for kids, and flashlights and batteries for everybody. There will be brass, bronze and other metals needed by countless manufacturers to create a thousand and one things to make life better. All these will again come rolling out of the acres of mills and laboratories that make up Olin Industries.

The job of peace has been Olin's job for more than half a century. Today, the mountains of munitions America produced have served their purpose, and the lovely flower of peace will grow out of them.

Don't Take Chances on this Law

IT HAS TEETH

If you value your right to drive a car, the time to protect it is NOW. The new Illinois Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law goes into effect January 1, 1946.

How can this law affect you?

It requires the Secretary of State to suspend the licenses and registrations of all owners and operators:

(1) who become involved in an automobile accident resulting in bodily injury or death or in damage to the property of any one person of more than $50, and

(a) who do not have adequate and acceptable Automobile Liability Insurance or who cannot furnish security (up to $11,000) to cover claims which may result from such accident; or

(b) who fail to satisfy (within 30 days and within the requirements of the Law) a final judgment arising out of such accident.

INSURE NOW AND BE SAFE

The easiest and most logical way to be prepared to meet the requirements of this Law is to buy adequate and acceptable Automobile Liability Insurance now — before an accident occurs.

BE WISE! ÆTNA-IZE!

An Automobile Liability Insurance policy written with adequate limits by the dependable Ætna Casualty and Surety Company not only meets the requirements of the Safety Responsibility Law in Illinois, but of all such laws in other States and Canadian Provinces.

At the time of an accident, if you have an Ætna Automobile Liability Insurance policy written for the necessary coverages and limits, this policy would be acceptable to the Secretary of State as security; would be acceptable as proof of your financial responsibility for the future and in addition, would give protection against liability claims filed against you on account of the accident. A complete policy that gives you complete peace of mind.

COAST TO COAST SERVICE

An added advantage of Ætna protection is the fact that the same high standard of service available locally also is available wherever you motor, through Ætna Agents and Company Field Offices, coast to coast.

GET THIS FREE FOLDER

For more complete information on this new Law and how best to meet its requirements, ask any Ætna Agent for a copy of the new Ætna folder "One Strike and You're Out." It's written in non-technical language and it's free.

They're not wealthy, these two. Just a pair of nice American kids starting out together to make a place for themselves. Still, this winter they're going to enjoy the grand luxury of automatic heat yet cut their heating bill at the same time. Listen to how they figured that one out.

Jane: But, Joe, of course it will be wonderful to have automatic heat; still are you sure we can afford it?

Joe: With the system we're getting, it isn't a case of "can we" afford it, it's a case of "can we afford to be without it?" This Fairbanks-Morse job won't burn only a less expensive kind of coal, but a lot less coal, too. How can we lose?

Jane: That sounds almost too good to be true. Just think, no more aching back for me from having to tend the furnace while you're away.

Joe: And for me, no more shoveling. No more having to stumble out of a warm bed into an icy house, to wake the fire!

PENSION PUZZLE EASILY SOLVED IN THIS ANALYSIS

Adjudication Officer Tells Claim Routine

BY WARD WALKER

Thousands of Illinois soldiers and sailors each month are filing applications for pensions with the veterans' administration—applications that vanish into "channels" and may not bob up again for months.

A. B. Chadwick, adjudication officer for the veterans' administration in Illinois and part of Indiana, yesterday explained the routine followed on pension claims and reasons for the delays, and outlined what a disabled veteran can expect.

Fundamentals of Operation

Chadwick emphasized certain fundamentals of the pension set-up: [1] Any person with a disease or injury incurred in or aggravated by service in the armed forces is eligible for a pension; [2] a disabled veteran's earning capacity has nothing to do with the amount of his pension; [3] all pensions are figured on the basis of $115 a month for total disability except that special pensions are paid for loss of limbs or eyesight; [4] pensions are the same for the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard.

The regional office at Hines hospital had received 64,932 pension claims from World War II. up to Aug. 31, Chadwick said, including 5,600 in August. About one-third of the claims were turned down.

Theoretical Case Analyzed

He outlined a hypothetical case: Sgt. Joseph Blow of Chicago, discharged from the army's Gardiner General hospital on Jan. 1, 1945. The sergeant's right arm, wounded in action, had been amputated above the elbow and he had suffered two malaria attacks within the six months preceding his discharge.

"Before he was discharged, he signed his claim," Chadwick explained. "That and his medical record were forwarded to our area office and by Jan. 10 the case was before the three man rating board, comprised of a doctor, a lawyer, and a vocational specialist.

"They rated him this way: 80 per cent disabled because of the loss of his arm, according to our pension tables. That would be four-fifths of $115—total disability—or $92.

Malaria Attacks in Rating

"His malaria attacks rate him 30 per cent disability—but only on the remaining 20 per cent of 'whole' man, or an additional 6 per cent, which we arbitrarily carry to the nearest multiple of 10. That adds 10 per cent of $115, or $11.50, to his pension.

"In addition, there is a special pension of $35 a month for the loss of a hand. So his total monthly pension was $138.50, payable the first of each month."

Chadwick said the time involved in establishing the rating varies according to each board and each case, but in the average claim—such as Sgt. Blow's—the disabled soldier should be notified in 10 or 15 days that his pension will start on the first of the following month.

Called for Physical Examination

"Sgt. Blow's case file was transferred to this office and he was notified to appear for a veterans' administration physical examination," Chadwick added. "We have to have specific details of the amputation. In the case of a man disabled more than 50 per cent, his examination will be held within six months. In the minor cases, the applicant will be examined within a year. However, in the meantime, he is receiving the pension allowed him by the rating board.

"In our sergeant's case, the matter has been handled speedily. However, many claims aren't filed before discharge and we have to gather medical records from Washington, D. C., and all over the globe. That sometimes takes months, and causes the disabled soldier inconvenience.

Pension Made Retroactive

"But in the end he does not lose any money. If his claim is filed within a year of his discharge, the pension is retroactive to the day of discharge."

Chadwick said that in 50 new cases, the average time involved before payments started was 54 days.

"Our sergeant now has a good job—$300 a month as a salesman," Chadwick said. "The veterans' administration keeps his pension check coming regularly. If, say next year, his malaria disappears, then he'll lose the $11.50 a month, but the rest is his for life."

BOARD TO HEAR PILOTS' CHOICE ON AIR TERMINAL

Mayor Kelly yesterday said that any action to obtain the Douglas airport near Park Ridge for Chicago's major air terminal would be up to the airport selection board he appointed. As part of a series of hearings, the board will meet tomorrow to get reports from a committee of air line engineers and from David L. Behncke, president of the air line pilots' association. The mayor refused to comment about recommendations by aviation experts and civic leaders that the Douglas airport, soon to be offered for sale by the government, be quickly acquired.

THE U. S. A., A DELAWARE CORPORATION

The house has passed legislation putting most government corporations under control of congress. If the senate concurs, as it should, 41 government corporations which thru almost the entire life of the New Deal have operated independently of congressional control will be required to submit annual business type budgets. These will be subject to review and possible rejection. In addition, these 41 corporations and 60 others would be subject to an annual audit by the general accounting office.

The vote in the house to bring these corporations under congressional scrutiny and control is to be applauded. For the best part of 12 years the hundred and more burocratic domains incorporated under the laws of Delaware, New Jersey, and other easy chartering states have operated under a law of their own creation, independent of congress both in authorization for their existence and in appropriations necessary for their support.

John T. Flynn, whose expose of the motives underlying the Pearl Harbor disaster was recently published in THE TRIBUNE, has written of the government corporation device: "Many people imagine that a country can lose its liberties only thru some such spectacular disaster as a violent revolution. In truth, more often liberties are frittered away. The process of whittling some of them away, right here in this country, is well under way. A little legal invention has done more to enfeeble our republican form of government than all the would-be revolutionists have accomplished. That invention is the government owned corporation."

Two plain violations of the Constitution occur whenever a government corporation is established. The Constitution provides that "no money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time." Another provision of the Constitution is that only congress can enact laws. Both specifications are violated in the practical operation of government corporations.

The corporations are usually established by executive decree. They are chartered, just as a private corporation is; the President selects some dummy directors, frequently without asking the consent of the senate, and, in lieu of appropriations, the corporation arranges to "borrow" the money it needs from some other government corporation. What has happened is that another government bureau has been brought into existence, with a large pay roll and vast expenditures, but its true nature is disguised as something else. It gets power, officers, and money without any direct law or appropriation on the part of congress, and it evades the constitutional requirement that it publish a balance sheet.

An example cited by Mr. Flynn is the board of economic warfare, later transformed into the foreign economic administration. It differed from other government corporations in that, altho it operated as a corporation, thru other corporations, it was not formally incorporated. The Presidential decree which established it provided that the BEW would draw its operating funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The "loans" thus requisitioned were obtained without discussion or even knowledge of congress, in clear violation of the constitutional requirement.

The RFC, at the request of the BEW, spawned a dozen separate corporations. Altho congress, in the "death penalty" legislation, had signified its opposition to the principle of holding companies, BEW, without congressional approval, was permitted to "hold" such varied subsidiaries as the Metals Reserve company, the Defense Supplies corporation, the Rubber Reserve company, and the United States Commercial company. In turn some of these had subsidiaries of their own, as, for instance, the Colonial Mica corporation and the Copper Recovery corporation, subsidiaries of the Metal Reserve company.

The plea of war emergency may be advanced in support of such juggling. To that it can be answered that the same justification was offered during the first World war, and that, after the lapse of 28 years, at least one of these 1917 agencies—the war time housing corporation—is still in process of liquidation following completion of another war.

The controler general of the United States, Lindsay Warren, recently testified that the New Deal is "a hodge-podge and crazy quilt of duplications, overlappings, inefficiencies, and inconsistencies, with their attendant extravagance." He told the house committee on expenditures in the executive departments, "It is probably an ideal system for tax eaters and those who wish to keep themselves perpetually attached to the public teat, but it is bad for those who have to pay the bill."

Mr. Warren said that there were 29 competing and duplicating agencies lending government funds, three insuring deposits and loans, 34 concerned with the acquisition of land, 16 engaged in wild life preservation, 10 operating in the field of government construction, nine dealing with credit and finance, 12 concerned with home and community planning, 10 having jurisdiction over the materials of construction, 28 engaged in welfare matters, 14 in forestry, four examining banks, and 65 gathering statistics. This burocratic congeries is what is called "planning."

In its decision to bring the government corporations under its control, congress has made only the first step toward what should be its objective: the complete liquidation of the hundred-odd government corporations. It has shut its eyes to the requirements of the Constitution in exempting the Tennessee valley authority and the farm credit association from budgetary inspection.

No half-way policy is possible in dealing with these rank growths of New Deal burocracy. As Mr. Warren said, "Before somebody starts seeking an excuse to make them permanent, they should be wound up quickly. We should adopt the auctioneer's chant, Going, going, gone.'"

FREEDOM FOR COLONIES

Independence movements have emerged in Indo-China and Java since the Japanese surrender. The leader in Java is said to be a Japanese puppet and the strike on the docks in Australia which has kept Dutch forces from suppressing the revolt is said to be communist led. Similarly, the leaders of the separatists in Indo-China who are resisting the effort to restore French rule are described as Communists.

Whether or not these charges are true, it still remains a fact that the sympathy of the people of the United States inevitably lies with the natives who are demanding self-government. The reasons which led the colonists in this country to demand freedom from alien rule were good reasons. The principles of the Declaration of Independence apply no less to Indo-China and Java than to New York and Massachusetts. There is no better excuse for Frenchmen to rule in Saigon or Dutchmen in Batavia than for Germans to rule in Paris.

A recent dispatch from Hanoi in Indo-China said that dozens of native committees have pleaded for American support of their independence movement. Certainly it is wrong directly or indirectly to use our power to aid the predatory nations of Europe in enslaving their Asiatic colonists. Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes ought to feel themselves disgraced for failure to realize this. In good conscience we ought to protest against the British meddling in Indo-China as trustees for France and we ought not to raise a finger to assist in suppressing the native movements. The right is on their side. If, after their own bitter experience of subjection, the French and Dutch haven't the decency to give their conquered subjects unqualified freedom, perhaps the natives can win freedom for themselves. Americans will wish them well.

THE RATE OF SPENDING

War expenditures of the United States government in September totaled $5,365,000,000, or at the rate of 64½ billion dollars a year. At the peak in March the war cost us 8½ billions a month, or on the scale of 100 billion dollars a year. The treasury is paying out 100 million dollars a day less than in the spring.

The trend is pleasing, but the scale of the disbursements is still far beyond our means. With the shooting over, and the necessity ended for turning out guns and ammunition, ships and airplanes; with reduced requirements for pay and maintenance of personnel, and with lend-lease canceled, the outgo should come down fast. Mustering-out pay for every man in uniform at $270 a soldier will cost 3 billions and settling up accounts with war contractors will require 4 or 5 billions. Shortly after the first of the year 2 billions a month should pay for everything.

There is another 9 or 10 billions that can be squeezed out, but it won't be done without great pressure from the people. It is unfortunately a fact that a considerable number of people influential in the administration believe that a large outpouring of public money is essential for national prosperity. That idea, implanted there by the British inflationist, John Maynard Keynes, kept Roosevelt in his first two administrations from carrying out his original campaign promises to balance the budget. Politicians impregnated with this fallacy are still on the job and are working on Mr. Truman.

Until those in authority realize that our well-being is not promoted by money disbursed freely for leaf raking, questionable public works, or to old folks as advocated by the Townsendites, or to the peoples of other countries as urged by Wallace, we shall not be safe. There are those even now who want the government to step up expenditures for anything at all, to counteract the effect of reduced payments on account of the war. They have no confidence in the expansion of business that would come if our finances are soundly ordered. The limited tax program as suggested by Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, or as broadened in the ways and means committee, will do a limited amount of good until the mischievous notions of Mr. Keynes about pump priming are rooted out for good.

NAVY REORGANIZATION

President Truman has ordered a reorganization of the naval command, the principal feature of which is that the post of commander in chief of the United States fleet is to be abolished and greater power is to be concentrated in the hands of the chief of naval operations at Washington. The reorganization, it is said, is to enable the navy to take advantage of some of the lessons of its war time experience. The naval command in the past has had some involutions that would baffle even the organizer of a utility holding company.

A prize example was uncovered by the army board that investigated Pearl Harbor and with great restraint remarked that the organization of its sister force "appeared to be quite complex."

It found that Rear Adm. Bellinger, the naval air officer at Pearl Harbor, reported in various capacities, on duties assigned to him, to the commander of the aircraft scouting force, who was stationed in San Diego; the commander of the scouting force of the fleet; to Adm. Kimmel, the commander in chief of the fleet; to Adm. Bloch, the commandant of the 14th naval district; and to commanders of three task forces in the fleet, when they had Bellinger's patrol planes assigned to them.

Adm. Bloch testified at the same hearing that he "wore three hats." As commandant of the 14th naval district he reported direct to the navy department. In another capacity he was under Adm. Kimmel and, in the third, under Adm. Kimmel, he was responsible for certain phases of coöperation with the army. There is neither rhyme nor reason in such complexities, which obviously must contribute greatly to the intolerable burden of naval red tape. It is to be hoped that the reorganization will correct some old and costly abuses.

STRATEGY OF PHILIPPINE SEA

[Following is an address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, and broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK

This is the first of two lectures on the naval war in the western Pacific.

The original plan of Japan for the war was to seize the Pacific empire by surprise, then garrison and hold it against counter-attack. Her failure to change her plan and take Hawaii after her overwhelming victory at Pearl Harbor, and her inability to take Australia, because of the genius of Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Fletcher, rendered the plan abortive.

The loss of Guadalcanal placed the Japanese on the defensive, and a difficult defensive, because while resisting our advance from the east, the whole line of communications was threatened by MacArthur from Australia.

Ships from MacArthur's force had helped the invasion of Guadalcanal, while his bombing planes and invasion planes had been of enormous advantage all thru that campaign.

Now considerably reënforced in planes and men, he could change these diversionary attacks into positive ones.

No such campaign as ensued in the western Pacific had ever taken place, and the only analogy to it I know was back in the middle ages when countries on the defensive depended upon castles and fortified cities to withstand the invader.

Just as in the former case catapults and battering rams proved too strong for defense, so now aerial bombs and naval artillery proved too strong for the caves and foxholes of the Japanese islands.

The Japanese had depended upon a long established military principle that ships could not successfully engage land batteries. The principle was proven wrong as concentrations of naval artillery, assisted by bombers, in every instance proved too much for the land batteries. The invasion moved from Guadalcanal thru the Solomon Islands to Bougainville, New Britain, and New Ireland; then the MacArthur forces took the north coast of New Guinea.

A description of this campaign would be too long and complicated for any but military students. It must suffice to say that there were naval battles mostly at night and air battles by day.

Of the latter the most famous were the sinking of an entire Japanese convoy of 40 ships by the land based bombers of MacArthur's command, and a tremendous air battle over Guadalcanal, where a force of 100 American fighters shot down 107 out of 120 enemy planes, with a loss of only six of their own. Our ascendence in the air was now fully established. We had better airplanes, better weapons, and better flyers.

The enemy limited himself to piecemeal resistance until the advance reached Guam, Tinian, and Saipan. There he staged a decisive battle.

His plan was based upon our defense of Midway, with the use of both carriers and landing fields. The Japanese planes left their carriers so far from Guam, where our fleet was maneuvering, that they could not attack our fleet and return to their carriers; and conversely it was thought that our planes could not leave our carriers to attack theirs and return.

The Japanese planned that their planes should refuel on Guam and Tinian Islands.

You will remember that at Midway the Japanese did not bomb the air strips, which omission was largely responsible for their defeat. Adm. Spruance did not copy this omission, but bombed Japanese strips so thoroly as to make them unusable.

Our air superiority in the ensuing battle was so great that we destroyed 400 enemy planes out of a total of 545, while only 17 American planes were lost, and there was only minor damage to four ships. Few of the Japanese survivors reached their carriers.

With the enemy air force almost annihilated, Adm. Spruance raced his carriers to come into bombing range of the Japanese. They were located on the afternoon of June 20, and it was nearly sunset before our bomber planes took to the air.

They sank two enemy carriers, two destroyers, and one tanker, and damaged or sank three carriers, one battleship, three cruisers. The surviving ships fled thru the strait between Luzon and Formosa. Only 16 American planes were shot down. In their heroism to destroy the enemy, many planes remained over the targets until they had insufficient fuel to return. Seventy-three of these planes were lost due to running out of fuel and landing in the ocean. Fortunately, many of their personnel were picked up by destroyers and cruisers.

Every action in which our flyers were engaged deserves the highest praise for fortitude. Here the tremendous courage of men who stayed at the kill until they could not return to safety stands on a par with the brilliant self-sacrifice of Torpedo Eight at Midway.

Editorials of the Day

TIME TO TELL

[Wall Street Journal]

Shortly after Pearl Harbor a Washington writer spoke of that disaster as the result of a "miscalculation." This man is generally credited with possessing excellent channels of information during the Presidency of Mr. Roosevelt. Furthermore he knows the meaning of words. And he did not speak of "surprise" but "miscalculation."

In the midst of the war a British official in making some impromptu remarks spoke of the United States having "provoked" attack by Japan. That significant reference has never been further explained.

When Mr. Truman during the 1944 campaign accused Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short of blame for Pearl Harbor, Adm. Kimmel publicly denied his assertions in good strong language.

There has never been an explanation, or indeed any serious attempt at one, of why a message warning the commanders at Pearl Harbor of the possibility of attack, which might have been transmitted almost instantly by wireless, actually was sent by the slower cable and did not reach them until after the attack had taken place.

One could make quite a list of queer and unexplained circumstances and a full and candid explanation is due the American people. Now that the war is over, it is the duty of congress to make the story public.

FRIED POTATOES

[Washington Star]

There are admittedly differences of opinion about it. In a land where men have been known to sprinkle sugar over baked beans one is not surprised at anything. On the other hand, it is difficult to reconcile the intransigency of the minority regarding the fundamentals of such an important dish as fried potatoes.

The best fried potatoes are made in an iron spider on a wood burning stove. After a few slices of bacon have been fried crisp and broken into small pieces and the surplus fat drained off and the spider is hot and sizzling, the cold, previously boiled potatoes are sliced into the waiting receptacle. Then the housewife moves the spider back a bit on the stove, puts a cover on it, and forgets it while the mass heats thru. About the time a farmer is stripping the last cow, she takes off a front cover and puts the spider over the heat. In a few minutes the slices are brown and crisp. No matter if some of the small pieces are hard and crunchy. That is all to the good. As a man comes in from his chores he smells that rich, satisfying fragrance before he gets to the kitchen. Fried potatoes with a few pieces of yellow cornmeal bread, plenty of grape jelly and sweet chutney, plus applesauce and chocolate cake, and two glasses of rich, cold milk, make an excellent September supper.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE EYES AS A BASIS FOR DIAGNOSIS

THE eyes are not only the mirrors of the soul but of the body as well. The healthy, vibrant person displays a sparkle and glow that is unmistakable. Conversely, the appearance of the visual organs is characteristic in a variety of diseases.

The first manifestation of jaundice may be a yellow tinting of the white part. Many an individual first discovers the existence of this condition by observing the color in a looking glass or being told by a friend. The pallor of anemia is best demonstrated on the inner side of the lids.

Since the orbits are traversed by blood vessels, hemorrhages may arise in almost any quarter, usually secondary to some internal disturbance. Pinpoint areas sometimes result from blood disorders or infection. Those with brittle arteries, especially the elderly, may awaken in the morning to find part of the white portion of the eye completely webbed. This situation may also follow a violent coughing spell or marked strain. The blood channels rupture and the vital fluid flows thruout the membrane. These are of little consequence and generally fade out at the end of two weeks. Visual impairment may come subsequent to hemorrhage into the deeper structures and only after a thoro examination can the true origin be located.

Congestion of the lids and eyeballs usually indicates infection. In the majority of instances this can be traced to a local difficulty but occasionally it is referable to abnormalities elsewhere. A focus in the teeth or sinuses may be responsible a may hay fever, exposure to wind, or overindulgence in alcohol. In gout the membranes may be red and the sufferer complains that the lids are hot and feel as if a foreign body were present.

Weakness of the muscles of the lids frequently accompanies myasthenia gravis. Swelling may result from a host of systemic maladies. When present in the morning, kidney or heart trouble is often the culprit. In certain cases of allergy edema is so severe that the eyelids are completely shut. With lack of thyroid secretion, thickened, puffy lids are the rule.

Both eyes may protrude should this gland become overactive as in exophthalmic goiter. The condition may be so extensive that the lids are no longer capable of closing over the globes. The opposite situation, in which the eyeballs are definitely set back into the socket, may be observed in extreme emaciation and is not unusual in the aged.

Now and then alterations in the size and reaction of the pupil indicate a neurological disorder. There may or may not be an associated weakness or paralysis of the tiny muscles which move the eyeball. When this occurs the victim may experience derangements in sight. Double vision is not uncommon.

Thus it can be seen that altho symptoms suggest eye involvement, the cause may be found elsewhere. When frequent changes of lenses are needed, or if glasses do not help, a search for a constitutional ailment must be made.

TAGGED

J. K. writes: What is a skin tag?

REPLY

A small flap which may occur anywhere on the epidermis as a result of overstretching or injury.

WOBBLY KNEES

A. F. writes: For about a year I have been troubled with my knees. They bend easily. Somebody said I have too much fat on them. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 235 pounds. Can you tell me what is wrong?

REPLY

In all probability it is not so much the fat about the knees as it is from that point up. Why don't you give these structures a break and lose weight?

NICOTINE AND THE EYES

F. D. S. writes: Is there a special disease of the eyes caused by smoking?

REPLY

Amblyopia [dimness of vision] sometimes results from toxins such as nicotine, alcohol, lead, and other poisons. Occasionally, spasm of the retinal arteries and nerves is observed. A mildly irritating effect of the smoke on the membranes is common.

VERTIGO

S. J. writes: Every time I look down I become dizzy and nauseated Tests show that my eyes are O. K. What could be wrong?

REPLY

A more general examination is in order, to determine the status of the ears and the vascular system, including the blood pressure.

HEAVES

H. T. writes: Is there any cure for emphysema?

REPLY

In the majority of cases, the victim does not know that he has the disorder. It may exist for years with little if any discomfort. In the occasional cases in which symptoms appear, not much can be done except in minimizing colds. For this reason, a warm, dry climate is advised.

UNRELATED

H. J. K. writes: Can you get tuberculosis if the thyroid is taken out?

REPLY

To my knowledge, there is no connection.

LIVER

H. G. writes: What is hepatitis?

REPLY

Inflammation of the liver. The prefix "hepat" refers to this organ.

INCIDENT IN A TYPHOON

Highland Park, Ill., Oct. 2—Your readers might be interested in the following account of a typhoon by my son, a coxswain in the coast guard:

"You would have enjoyed being aboard the 17th and 18th of this month. You have undoubtedly read about the typhoon in this area—39 ships lost, etc. On the morning of the 17th the order came out over the PA system: 'All hands secure ship for sea. Typhoon headed this way.' We had unloaded cargo and hadn't covered the hatches, so it took us until 11:30 a. m. to get under way. By 9 the wind was reaching 40 knots in the puffs and by 11 a. m. it was to as high as 55 knots.

"We put to sea at 11:30 a. m., for we didn't have a chance in Naha bay with 500 or 600 other ships, and proceeded westward with waves already 15 and 20 feet high. The ship was empty except for two trucks and a trailer so the riding was already rough. About 6 p. m. we changed course to northerly, for there were still lots of ships around us and the skipper wanted to get away from them. [500 or 600 ocean going ships, all running around, take lots of seaway to disperse.]

"We now had picked up two SOS's from ships. One frater and LST crashed and an LCM's motors went out leaving 14 men aboard at the mercy of 50 foot waves. An FS had two men washed overboard. We were now headed about five degrees westward of the path of the sea [waves] and were taking them over our bow all the time.

"Remember we had no cargo, which condition makes us sit high in the water, making half our propeller out of the water and half our rudder out also. [The pitching kept the prop entirely out half the time, which causes the whole ship to vibrate terribly.]

"Another ship signaled she was coming across our bow and we signaled back we couldn't make any more right rudder. We had the wheel hard over and all that did was keep us on our course. She wouldn't go to starboard at all. The sea and wind just held her as she was, even with hard right rudder. The other ship signaled back she couldn't make left rudder so would fall off and pass astern of us.

"Then out of the rain appeared a third ship, flying the red flag of an ammunition ship. She saw us first [about 300 yards off] and signaled us to make hard right rudder which would make us go starboard and solve all problems. But remember the wind and sea [and our rudder and prop out of water]. We had the wheel hard right and were just able to hold our present course. We signaled the above back to them, but they got the message crossed up and just kept coming.

"Now, we couldn't fall off to port because ship No. 1 would now be hit amidships and the ammunition ship was only 50 yards off our midships. The fellows on the bridge said the skipper was yelling to the signal man 'Signal hard left.' [And the same message was going over the supposedly silent radio.] The skipper ran up and down the wing, yelling at the other ship 'hard left,' cussing and shaking his fist. This is when I left the fantail and ran forward [partly to be as far away as possible when they hit us and partly to get my life jacket]. One of the fellows actually cut a life raft loose and started down the jacob's ladder to it.

"I couldn't say what happened, but the fellows on the bridge say the ammunition ship [she had full load and deck cargo] gave hard left and cleared us, with the help of a 60 foot wave, by about 10 yards. If that ship had hit us she would have undoubtedly exploded, blowing both herself and the Mintaka right out of the water. Maybe the few of us that ran forward on the port side might have lived, but damn few and then only maybe.

"Our skipper said we are all full fledged sailors now. I'd give a thousand dollars for a movie of that.

"That night the wind reached 89 knots [highest recorded] and held at 85 until about 4 a. m. We all tied ourselves in our bunks so we wouldn't roll out. The highest wave I saw the next morning was about 80 or 90 feet, but the old 'tub o' rust'' took it perfectly. DWIGHT H. DAVIS"

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT

A HARVEST OF CYNICISM

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 2—I send you some excerpts from a letter we received from our son in Germany:

"The cynicism that followed the last war will seem as an April shower, refreshing in its mildness, to the storm clouds that have collected this time. Do you think I will sacrifice one single hour more of my life that I am not forced to give at the pistol point of court martial and dishonorable discharge, when treason is no longer punishable if the offender be a general, an admiral, or a "statesman"? Do you think that my sincere belief that America, to preserve the peace, must maintain an army of occupation will induce me to spend one additional day in these feudal bonds while others in power, both here and at home, fatten on spoils they have wrung from the public with the magic sucker bait of "Remember Pearl Harbor"? Will my selfishness lead to another war? Let it! After all the principles of the Republic require that there be equal contribution to the welfare of the nation. Let the next generation give its best years; let the civilians of fat, well fed, untouched America find out what it is to boil water from the gutters to drink, eat grass, and sleep on the floor. If the roots of the great tree of democracy, in whose welcome shade all men are united in holy fraternity, sealed with truth and regard for the rights of their fellow men, must be watered every twenty years by blood. Good! Let it be some one else's.

"Winning the peace they harped about! And lost the peace before the war was won. Who has a hundred dollars to say there is no more war. We will give you odds of five to one. A million casualties, our resources drained, our economy upset, Europe destroyed—and where has the world progressed from Munich to Yalta? Where has democracy advanced on the face of the globe? In Poland, Romania, Latvia, Hungary? In Esthonia, Finland, Greece, Yugoslavia, Perhaps in the soviet union? CAROLINE S.

TIP FOR LANDLORDS

Chicago, Sept. 19—Why can't landlords and rooming house keepers realize that a nice appearing building brings a better class of tenants? A few years ago my building looked dilapidated and only riff-raff applied for rental. I borrowed a little money and proceeded to fix it up, planted grass seed, and removed excess shrubbery, giving the building an entirely new look. Immediately a better class rented the place. Some of my neighbors followed my example and we have a fine looking block and a good class of people. Respectable people want to live in a nice appearing building, yet many cannot afford to pay the high rent in exclusive neighborhoods. Where transportation is excellent it really would be a good investment to landlords to start "dolling up" their buildings. Riff-raff brings riff-raff and there is no sense to letting a neighborhood run down. READER

ARMY EFFICIENCY

Chicago, Sept. 29—I am the mother of a soldier who has 96 points.

Six weeks ago my son flew in from Trinidad, where he had gone straight from Italy. He was given a two week emergency furlough because of death in immediate family. An extension of furlough was denied him. When he reported in Miami, he was stationed at Miami Beach and forgotten. After pestering them for over three weeks for a discharge he was told his records are lost. Meanwhile every man with 80 points flew in from Trinidad and went on to separation centers.

Two weeks elapsed. This morning I received a letter from my son, saying that last night they had my son fly back to Trinidad for his own records. If that isn't ridiculous, what is?

ONE OF LIFE'S MYSTERIES ELUCIDATED

Chicago, Sept. 8—I suppose many of you women folks have been wondering for a long time why most men like apple pie. Well, I shall tell you.

[1] A baked apple pie looks bigger than other pies because its crust is full of holes and bumps; [2] when an apple is cut, its contents do not ooze all over itself; [3] when a piece of apple pie is held on a fork, or in the hand; there is hardly any danger of drippage or drainage; [4] when an apple pie's juice is mixed with its crust in the mouth, it whets the appetite; [5] it goes well with cheese because the apple and the cheese blend so easily together. HE'S "ESSENTIAL"

Whiting, Ind., Oct. 1—This is the first time I am writing a letter to a newspaper. I have just received a letter from my son who has been overseas for 48 months. He has been in service since March, 1940. He says:

"Dear Folks: Just to let you know I'm not leaving here. We were told last night that all of us would be held until we were replaced. How long it will take I don't have the slightest idea. They claim we're needed to keep this base up. There were civil service men here, too, but since the war has ended they went back to the states—the ones that are left don't know enough to run the place. We aren't needed here, either. All we do is make knives and keep the officers' cars repaired so that they can run around with the civil service dames that are supposed to work here.

"They just sent some men out to repair a place so the officers could have a place to go duck hunting. The carpenters here are making duck decoys. And they tell us they can't let us go.

"The ship is in now that we were to leave on. But some 120 of us won't make it. J. D."

IRON VS. CLAY SEWERS

Chicago, Oct. 2—I am writing with regard to a series of articles you are running about labor unions restraining home building because of needless requirements in their working rules, thereby increasing the cost of home building. These articles are interesting and timely. However, as a plumber and a member of one of these unions, I would like to correct you on one instance which you cite as being merely a work making rule.

If you were building a home, I am certain that, if properly advised, you would insist on having an iron sewer installed rather than one of clay or tile, which is mentioned as being less expensive. Sewage depends upon gravity to lead it from the home and any broken pieces from tile pipe, caused by settling or defects, hamper the flow and cause stoppages. When a tile sewer is rodded to clear it out more pieces may be broken off the tile and eventually the tile must be removed and replaced. A properly laid iron pipe sewer is a life time job. This is one rule the plumber adopted for the benefit of the home builder.

Inquiries about personal effects of army personnel should be directed to Commanding Officer, Army Effects bureau, Quartemaster Corps, Kansas City, Mo.

Whether you hire an attorney is for you to decide. It is not necessary and carries little weight with the veterans administration. If you belong to a veterans' organization your service officer may represent you in pressing a claim. If an attorney is employed his fee will be limited to $10 and if any compensation finally is granted to you the $10 fee will be deducted from your account and paid to the attorney by the administrator.

TRIAL REVEALS HOW NAZIS GOT SLAVE LABORERS

Concentration Camps Were Sources of Supply

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Joseph Kramer

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 6—Three weeks of the trial of war criminals of Belsen and Oswiecim [Auschwitz] in Lueneburg have revealed that there was method in the madness of the German concentration camps. They provided a giant slave market for German war production from which workers were drawn at a top rate of $2.50 weekly, according to Franz Hessler, S. S. chief of Belsen. They also provided human guinea pigs for nazi scientists and served to exterminate Jews and decimate racial and political groups whose numerical strength the Germans feared.

German concerns such as the Union munitions plant, the synthetic rubber plant of the German dye trust, the Goelschau cement works, the precision tool plant of Siemens-Schuckert, and others opened branches in Oswiecim in order to be close to the slave market from which their working fodder came.

Worked to Death

These and other German concerns also ran their own concentration camps, and the death rate of men and women, worked until they were exhausted, was almost as high as at the Oswiecim. Siemens-Schuckert plant where precision parts were manufactured for the German aviation firm of Heinkel. Even children with young, deft hands were compelled to work there. Thirteen year old Chaim Bastomski of Vilna, Poland, who saw his parents and entire family go to the gas chamber, worked there for three years, day after day, until he would crumple from exhaustion. He looks 10 years older than he is.

He has no one left in the world except a 22 year old fellow prisoner, Marcel Tuchman, who is seeking means of continuing the medical studies he started before the Germans made him a slave worker. At the same time he is trying to act as a father to Chaim and find a school for him. Together they told of the thousands of children they saw die because they were no longer useful.

Admit Gas Deaths

The accused themselves, including Fritz Klein, the camp doctor, admitted that they sent those who could no longer work to the gas chambers.

Before the prosecution closed its case against the 45 defendants this noon it read the signed statement of the chief accused, Joseph Kramer, made on Sept. 1, in which he admitted knowledge of the existence of the gas chambers at Oswiecim and told of sending women to their death by gas at another camp.

Kramer confessed that on instructions of Prof. Hirt of Strasbourg university he made a gas chamber out of an ordinary room in a camp at Struthof near Natzweiler, which he operated before he went to Belsen.

Denial Is Reversed

Altho previously he had denied the existence of the gas chambers, Kramer stated, "The first time I saw the gas chamber proper at Oswiecim was when I visited the building on an inspection tour three days after I arrived. It was attached to the crematorium. The first eight days I was there it did not work. Then the first transport from which gas chamber victims were selected arrived and at the same time I received a written order from Hoess, who commanded all of Oswiecim."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 7—Battle of King's Mountain

IN the Revolutionary war, American affairs never looked blacker than in the year prior to the final victory at Yorktown. Even Gen. Washington said he had "almost ceased to hope." In this gloomy picture, there was one bright spot, the battle of King's Mountain, on Oct. 7, 1780.

The British Gen. Cornwallis, undertaking the conquest of North Carolina, made the mistake of detaching from his army Col. Patrick Ferguson, one of his best officers, with 1,000 Tory militia and 100 British infantrymen. Ferguson was ordered to enter the South Carolina highlands, enlist all the Tories he could find, and rejoin the main army at Charlotte, N. C.

As Ferguson moved into the back country, he found himself surrounded by growing bands of frontiersmen, commanded by no less than five colonels—Campbell, Cleveland, Shelby, Sevier, and Williams. After vainly trying to escape, the British force made a stand on the top of King's Mountain, a ridge in North Carolina near the South Carolina border.

No battle during the war was fought with greater fury. The American force of about 900 men was out to avenge the massacre of 113 patriots by Col. Banastre Tarleton's British cavalry of Waxhaw creek on the preceding May 29, one of the most shameful episodes of the war.

From the top of the mountain, Ferguson challenged "all the rebels outside of hell" to dislodge him, and when they advanced he shouted, "Crush the damned rebels to the earth!" But the Americans seemed to spring from behind every tree on the mountainside, and Ferguson fell with seven bullets in his body. His disheartened men soon afterward raised a white flag. Seven hundred of them surrendered. The others lay dead or wounded.

After the battle, 10 of the captured Tories were courtmartialed on charges of murder and other crimes, and all were hanged from a tulip tree.

BELSEN WITNESS OFFERED BRIBE; HER OWN RING!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 6—Mrs. Joseph Kramer, wife of the principal defendant in the Belsen war crimes trial, is in Lueneburg, seeking witnesses willing to testify for her husband. She has been hovering about the Belsen camp, it is said, offering rings and jewels to former internees as the price of their testimony.

Zofja Tomczyk, one of the former women internees, was shown the rings and cried out, claiming that one of them was her own wedding ring which Kramer had taken from her. Zofja had a specially decorated fancy wedding ring and asserts that her name and that of her husband were inside the ring. A British soldier made her return it to Mrs. Kramer, telling her that she must take recourse to law in order to recover her property.

Zofja remained at Belsen because she was one of the women recovering from experiments made on her at the Ravensbrueck camp, where part of the bones of her arm were removed. She plans to appear in court to testify for the Polish accused, Stania Staroska, a former prisoner who was made camp senior.

'REASON TO BELIEVE' HITLER STILL IS ALIVE, EISENHOWER STATES

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower was reported by the Dutch radio today to have told Dutch newspapermen there was "reason to believe" that Hitler was still alive.

The broadcast said that one of the correspondents accompanying Eisenhower on a visit to The Hague asked the general if he thought Hitler was dead.

"I thought so at first," Eisenhower was said to have replied, "but there is reason to believe that he is still alive. But that in itself does not constitute a problem."

The broadcast said Eisenhower was received by Queen Wilhelmina and had lunch with her at the palace.

NAVY HINTS CUT IN POINT SCORE BEFORE NOV. 1ST

Short Term Enlistments Also Approved

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The navy may cut its discharge point score sooner than expected, Undersecretary Artemus L. Gates today told a news conference.

"Adm. Nimitz reports that they are rolling up bases and releasing ships faster than planned," he explained, "and as a result a reduction in critical scores for both officers and enlisted men may be speeded up."

Previous estimates had indicated a reduction about Nov. 1.

The navy plan announced Aug. 15 and liberalized Sept. 9 allows one-half point for each year of age; one-half point for each full month of service; 10 points for dependents, regardless of the number, and one-fourth of a point for each month of service outside the United States since Sept. 1, 1939.

Points needed for release are: Enlisted male personnel, 44; enlisted WAVE personnel, 29; male officer personnel, 49, and WAVE officer personnel, 35.

Enlistment Bill Signed

Legislation intended to help the regular army reach its goal of 300,000 men by next June was signed today by President Truman.

At the same time the army disclosed that it is releasing, outside the joint discharge plan, men who are found to be surplus.

The recruitment bill, intended to encourage enlistments in both the army and the navy, allows short term enlistments, optional retirement from the army on half pay after 20 years' service [already allowed by the navy], and benefits of the GI bill of rights for men reënlisting.

The short term provision allows 18 month enlistments for new recruits and 12 months for men reënlisting who have had at least six months of training. Army regulations also provide for two or three year enlistments.

Plan Release of Surplus

The 300,000 volunteer strength figure was mentioned by Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, in his recent appearance before congress.

Surplus enlisted personnel being released were described as soldiers found to be not needed by the force to which they are assigned, not possessed of scarce skills, who cannot be retrained economically for other duties, who are not eligible for discharge on point score or age basis, not qualified for foreign duty, and who have completed two years of army service since Sept. 16, 1940.

The army had no figures on the number of men who might be released. The order merely authorized commanding generals to turn loose men they no longer need, leaving it up to them.

BARRETT FILES TEST SUIT ON JUSTICE COURT

Atty. Gen. Barrett filed quo warranto proceedings yesterday in Circuit court challenging the right of William B. Kane, police magistrate of Harvey, to serve in the justice of peace court in the county highway police station at Homewood. Sheriff Mulcahy appointed Kane to hear cases involving arrests by sheriff's deputies in the south part of the county. Both are Democrats.

GUNMEN SEIZE $7,625 IN A RAID ON FARM HOME

Mount Vernon, Ill., Oct. 6 (AP)—Four men, one wielding a machine gun, held up between eight and 10 men and women today at the rural residence of Dale Hunt, a Mount Vernon restaurateur, and state and county police reported they escaped with $7,625 and a diamond ring valued at $1,000.

Shortly after police of surrounding communities were alerted, a car without lights, bearing four men, sped thru Salem. The occupants fired six shots at John Roddy, night city police chief, nearly ran over him, and continued fleeing eastward thru the town.

Sheriff Glen Murphy of Jefferson county reported the four men locked the women in the Hunt residence bathroom, holding the men at bay with pistols and a machine gun while they took money and keys to cars parked outside.

Sheriff Homer Lewellen, Marion county, also reported that an unidentified sailor was among the victims lined up against a wall and that the gunmen declined to take $200 of his money.

3,000 WILL GET TRIBUNE RULES ON PRIZE HOMES

Three Housing Problems Listed in Contest

Rules of the Chicagoland Prize Homes Competition, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and offering $24,000 in cash awards to encourage better home designs, were being mailed to more than 3,000 prospective entrants yesterday.

Requests had come from virtually every state, said Boyd Hill, Chicago architect retained as professional adviser by the sponsor.

The rules, drawn with the help of a jury of awards which will judge entries, disclosed for the first time the specific problems to be solved by contestants. The problems are three and eight prizes of $1,000 will be awarded for solutions to each.

Three Problems Listed

Here are the problems:

1. A dwelling designed for a family of father, mother, and son, aged 6. The dwelling shall not exceed 1,100 square feet of floor area disposed on one or two stories.

2. A dwelling for a family of father, mother, son, aged 12, and daughter, 8. The floor area maximum is 1,400 square feet.

3. A dwelling for a family of father, mother, two daughters, aged 16 and 6, and a son, aged 12. The floor area maximum is 1,700 square feet.

Desires to Build Homes

In a statement accompanying the rules, THE TRIBUNE announced its desire to construct actual homes from the prize winning designs produced by the competition. The statement said:

"To help the public visualize, locally and at close range, the value offered by the architectural profession, the builder, and the manufacturer, it is THE TRIBUNE's intention, conditions permitting, to sponsor, on sites in Chicago and suburbs and thruout the middle west, the construction of a number of homes demonstrating the full potential of prize winning designs produced by this competition."

The competition will close Dec. 10. Those who have not already requested a copy of the rules may obtain their free copy by filling out and returning the adjoining form.

PARLIAMENT TO MEET; CRITICAL ISSUES FACED

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Britain's labor government will convene parliament Tuesday, with concern over collapse of the foreign ministers' conference probably sharing attention with domestic issues and labor's ambitious nationalization program.

There is the question of the future of Palestine, brought to the fore by President Truman's reported suggestion that another 100,000 Jews be admitted to the Holy Land, and the Arab league's stiff opposition to such a step.

Other issues include a decision on whether Britain will permit use of its troops to back up the French in Indo-China and the Dutch in the Netherlands East Indies, and the definition of the government's attitude toward Spain and Argentina.

OSS IS LEGALLY DEAD, BUT REDS RIDE ITS GHOST

Spying and Propaganda Activity Kept Up

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6—Tho the office of strategic services, the 125 million dollar super secret propaganda and intelligence agency, is technically dead, its activities go on in the state and war departments.

Members of congress have learned that while the OSS was ended Oct. 1 under an executive order, not a single employe, including the avowed Communists who roused the wrath of senators and representatives, has been dropped from the pay roll.

Some army and navy personnel assigned to the OSS have won honorable discharges by accumulating enough points. Many Wall st. bankers and lawyers have submitted resignations. The Communists carry on.

Called Personal Gestapo

On Capitol hill fears were expressed that the OSS units assigned to the war department have become a personal Gestapo for War Secretary Patterson, a protege of Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter and a darling of the left wingers.

As a unit, the OSS operated under the combined chiefs of staff, with Maj. Gen. William J. [Wild Bill] Donovan as its head. The order dissolving the organization sent the research and analysis branches to the state department.

All other OSS activities, including its branches in Germany and Austria, were sent to the war department. The executive order did not place these under the chief of staff but under the secretary of war, which gives him his own intelligence force. The military intelligence division, known as G2, is under the chief of staff, but this has not absorbed OSS units.

Magruder Heads Units

Members of congress are watching the activities of the OSS units transferred to the war department to determine whether the secretary shows any disposition to use them as a private Gestapo.

The OSS units in the war department are under Brig. Gen. John Magruder, second in command to Donovan. At the outbreak of the war Magruder was on duty in Washington. He was sent to Chungking, China, suddenly, which aroused some conjecture in the war department, particularly as the shift brought no promotion.

In China he did not see eye to eye with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, so was returned to the United States. He was in charge of war department files on Communists, which were about to be destroyed when congressional committees intervened. Former War Secretary Stimson promised the files would be kept intact.

Magruder like Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, is a graduate of Virginia Military institute.

More Frankfurter Men

The state department units of the OSS are headed by Col. Alfred McCormack, former law partner of Assistant War Secretary John J McCloy, who has been a favorite of radicals. Both McCormack and McCloy are known as Frankfurter men.

McCormack's transfer to the state department reportedly is behind the expected resignation of Col. Frank McCarthy, former general secretary of the war department, who is assistant secretary of state in charge of personnel.

McCarthy, 33, another V. M. I. graduate, who was liaison officer between the department and the White House, is to discuss his resignation with State Secretary Byrnes during the week. While it is said in the department that McCarthy is in need of a rest, it is known in highest circles that McCarthy wishes to wash his hands of bringing the OSS units with their Communists into the state department.

Apartment Seekers Line Up to Get First Tribunes

[TRIBUNE Photo]

Crowd in Tribune Tower lobby, 435 N. Michigan av., yesterday afternoon waiting to get first copies of Sunday Tribune. Most of them were apartment seekers who hoped to be first to answer "For Rent" ads.

Search Goes On

Each Saturday evening an eager group of Chicago Tribune readers gathers in the lobby of The Tribune Tower to get the first Sunday issues off the press. They turn quickly thru the pages to the classified advertising section, study its columns for a moment, then hurry out.

They are the apartment hunters and their problems seem to have been little lessened since the end of the war. Some have been looking for apartments for more than six months. One woman said her home has been in a chemical laboratory with a cot set up among the Bunsen burners and other equipment.

One man in the lobby group last night concentrated his attention on other columns of the want ad section. He was in the market for an automobile.

U. S., NORWAY AIR PACT CALLS FOR STOP IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—The United States today signed a civil air transport agreement with Norway.

American planes will be allowed to operate between points in this country and Oslo or Stavanger and points beyond. Norwegian planes will be allowed to operate between Norwegian airports and New York or Chicago.

The agreement contains the so-called "fifth freedom of international air agreements," which means that planes of either country can fly into any of the other countries and pick up passengers and traffic and fly on to ports of a third country.

Three men who held him up in his tavern at 2059 Sheffield av., took $25 and a woman's wedding ring, Paul Delle told police yesterday.

LUNCH HOUR USE OF POOL TOLD IN CRANE DROWNING

Because of the need for using the swimming pool on a full schedule to care for the students who take swimming instruction, it is inevitable that some students will enter the pool soon after their lunch hour, Leo R. Klinge, principal of Crane Technical High school, said yesterday. William Ford, 15, of 2433 Harrison st., died in the Crane pool Friday. He was in the water about one-half hour after he had eaten. Death may not have been due to drowning, witnesses said, for there was no struggle and no outcry. The boy was discovered on the bottom of the pool, said Lt. Michael Laily of pulmotor squad 2, which worked on him. He said there was little water in the boy's lungs.

FIRST REPORTS IN FUND DRIVE DUE WEDNESDAY

Contributions totaling several million dollars are expected to be reported at a meeting of the Community and War Fund workers Wednesday in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman, Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman, said yesterday. The fund goal is $13,040,700.

The first report meeting of the current drive, which opened Oct. 1, will be called by the business division, but will include the city, suburban, and special gifts solicitation divisions. The business division, headed by William J. Kelly, has a goal of $10,200,000.

Paepcke predicted that "the several million dollars" will be reported by James R. Sterling, city division head; Mrs. Otto Madlener, chairman of women's special gifts, and Stuart W. Cochran, suburban chairman.

Divisions and Goals

The city division, with a goal of $1,000,000, is soliciting homes and small businesses. The suburban division, scheduled to raise $850,000, is conducting campaigns in 184 suburban communities, while the women's special gifts, with a quota of $330,000, is seeking contributions from a selected list of individuals, clubs and organizations.

The business division is assigned the task of staging more than 5,000 miniature campaigns in as many large firms and plants in an effort to obtain contributions of eight hours pay from more than 1,300,000 employes.

Believe Goal Assured

"We look forward to a successful appeal with the goal assured," Paepcke stated, "but this is only possible if every one contributes generously. We ask eight hours pay from those who make less than $5,000 a year and at least 1 per cent of the annual wage from those who earn more than that sum."

aer-a-sol 'bomb'

3% DDT

1 lb. insecticide

Non-inflammable—kills flies, mosquitoes, gnats, ants, cockroaches, bedbugs, moths, silver fish, spiders, etcetera!

You know what wonders DDT worked for the armed forces. DDT bombed malaria mosquitoes off Guadalcanal (malaria casualties dropped from 70% to about 5% when DDT spray methods were used). DDT not only murders moths, flies, roaches, mosquitoes and the rest, but goes on working long after you use it. Old fashioned insecticides didn't have this staying power. DDT is new and wonderful. Now Gimbels launches a new and wonderful way to use it. This Aer-a-Sol bomb holds enough DDT to spray 100 average size rooms, and it will spray a room in six to eight seconds. Aer-a-Sol bombs contain the powerful and lethal pyrethrum as well as DDT. Non-poisonous Freon propellent develops a fine fog, which permeates an entire room. Only a small quantity of spray is needed to murder all the insect life in the house, from the cellar to the attic.

ARE THESE THE IDENTICAL DDT BOMBS USED BY OUR ARMED FORCES? YES!

The Bridgeport, Conn. Brass Company made millions of these for the armed forces. The very hour that the Government cancelled its order, Bridgeport Brass called Gimbels. Gimbels is always quick to get new, scarce, and hard to get things. Restaurants, hotels, camps, boats, factories, hospitals, schools: order these bombs today. Orders will be filled in about 14 days. KELLY GETS LIST OF 3 FOR QUIZ AT SANITARIUM

Experts Ready to Serve; Meeting Tomorrow

The names of three leaders in hospital administration and tuberculosis treatment were suggested yesterday to Mayor Kelly for a survey of conditions at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, where food and medical service have been criticized severely by hundreds of patients and their families.

Arrangements for the investigation are expected to be launched tomorrow at a meeting of the experts with Mayor Kelly or a representative. A group of restaurant owners, acting at the mayor's request, recently made a study of the quality of sanitarium food and preparation.

Dr. John W. Towey, president of the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference, proposed the experts for the survey in a letter responding to a request made by the mayor last Monday. Dr. Towey also is superintendent and medical director of Pinecrest Sanatorium, Powers, Mich.

Names of Three Disclosed

The experts suggested by Dr. Towey are Dr. Harold Coon, superintendent of Wisconsin General hospital, Madison, Wis.; Dr. Ernest O. Mariette, medical superintendent of Glen Lake [Minn.] sanatorium, and Dr. Henry S. Willis, medical superintendent of William H. Maybury sanatorium, Northville, Mich.

The three have consented to serve if appointed, Dr. Towey said. He pointed out his recommendation would not give the inquiry the status of an official activity of his organization.

Dr. Towey also said he and his colleagues would be at the Edgewater Beach hotel this afternoon and would be ready for a conference this evening. Their organization opens a three day meeting here tomorrow.

Mayor Kelly said he has not decided whether to meet with the experts himself or send a representative.

Dr. Towey's letter said the men he recommended are "well qualified by years of training" to make the sanitarium survey and assured the mayor that he could expect "an intelligent and impartial report."

Teaches at U. of Wisconsin

Dr. Coon is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is professor of hospital administration at the University of Wisconsin. He has been superintendent of Wisconsin General hospital for several years.

Dr. Mariette, who resides at Oak Terrace, Minn., is assistant clinical professor of internal medicine at the University of Minnesota, of which he is a graduate. He has been medical superintendent of the Glen Lake sanatorium for 30 years.

Dr. Willis is a graduate of Johns Hopkins university. He has been medical director of the Maybury sanatorium for seven years.

URGE EXTENSION OF WEST SIDE'S 1-WAY STREETS

Motor Club Plan Asks Local Traffic Relief

Charles M. Hayes

The one way street system on Chicago's west side should be extended, regardless of plans to build a super-highway system, the west side area council of the Chicago Motor club declared yesterday. The council, at its regular monthly meeting, renewed its stand for the project, which first was advocated six years ago.

The one way traffic system is in effect between Garfield park and Ogden av., where Washington blvd. carries west bound automobiles and Warren av. handles east bound traffic. The motor club urged that this be extended, with west bound traffic using Randolph st. east of Ogden av. and West End av. on the west side of Garfield park. Washington blvd. then would be a one way street most of the way across the city.

Seek Improved Local Service

Super-highways won't solve all local traffic problems, President Charles M. Hayes of the Motor club said in a letter to the Rev. Walter Pond, chairman of the west area council.

"In considering motorways, we must remember that primarily they are designed to carry large volumes of thru traffic for some distance at reasonably high sustained speeds. We must remember that these structures cannot be described as expressways or super-highways if they are built to make local service readily available.

"If a sufficient number of ramps were built so that the motorist wishing to travel a few blocks could readily get on and off the super-route, the cost of the structure would mount immediately, and at the same time its efficiency would decrease. It is apparent, therefore, that multilevel super-boulevards, important as they are, cannot be considered the complete solution to the local community traffic problem."

Cites Accident Reduction

The one way street system on Washington and Warren has reduced pedestrian and vehicular accidents, council members said.

"It is essential that high speed traffic now using west side streets be segregated where it can move safely at time saving speeds," said Chairman Pond. "With the one way street system, the local neighborhood streets would be left free for the convenience of west side residents and the profit of west side business men."

Petitions urging the improvement will be circulated by a committee headed by William P. Schilke, chairman; P. L. Verschuur, John Schrik, Frank W. Stevens, Albert F. Keeney, Lee J. Walsh, and the Rev. Harry R. Allen.

TAILOR ROBBED OF $190

Harry S. Siegler, 65, a tailor at 105 E. 31st st., was robbed of $190 in his shop yesterday by two Negroes who choked him with a necktie until he disclosed where the money was hidden, he told police.

Kelly Takes Step to Bring Peace Capital to Chicago

Mayor Kelly said yesterday he will call a meeting this week of his 100-man committee to begin work immediately on seeking the capital of the united nations security conference for Chicago. The mayor already has made such a bid to Washington officials. He asserted that Chicago, as a center of democracy representing 32 nationalities and 60 dialects, and because of its location as a railroad and air center, would form a natural home for the conference.

Protect Your Health!

against the Rough Weather Ahead

Medical Knowledge and Facilities Are Available at UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE

Now is the time to prepare your body to withstand the many dangers to health which will prevail during the next four or five months. These are the critical months . . . when colds, influenza and pneumonia take their alarming toll. If your physical condition is up to par your chances of escaping these afflictions are immeasurably greater. On the other hand if your resistance is low, either from overwork or disease, grave dangers may lie ahead. It is no longer necessary to face these hazards unprepared. Modern medicine now possesses the knowledge and facilities to provide adequate protection against these diseases, as well as other diseases which menace health. A complete physical check-up is the first step toward adequate health protection. To be fully protective it must include the services of physicians with experience and knowledge in the different departments of medicine supported by X-ray studies and pictures of the heart, lungs and other important organs, electrocardiograms of the heart and special laboratory examinations. Every year thousands of persons come to a United Medical Service for this complete medical protection and care. Here you can obtain, through competent, experienced physicians, extensive X-ray and laboratory equipment and other facilities . . . under one roof . . . all the preventive and curative services that new discoveries in medicine are making possible today. Centrally located within easy access by railroad trains, street cars, elevated and subway trains, buses and automobiles, these complete medical services are available to all. The fees are moderate and the same to all. Information upon request.

A Physical Check-up Provides Greater Protection

[All persons who have passed 40 years of age as well as those of younger years who are not feeling physically fit should have a thorough physical check-up. To be fully protective there should be, in addition to the physician's clinical examination, an X-ray of the chest showing condition of heart and lungs, an electrocardiogram of heart, blood pressure, a basal metabolism test, a full mouth X-ray of the teeth (14 films), a urological or gynecological examination and laboratory tests of the blood, urine and other secretions. These combined services........ $18.50]

Skin Disease

As a rule the majority of skin conditions, when properly diagnosed and treated, present a simple medical problem. On the other hand there are afflictions of the skin which are serious and require the most expert medical knowledge and scientific facilities to diagnose and bring under control. Of these, skin cancer is the most feared and often the most difficult to recognize. Competent skin therapy is available here by physicians who have adequate knowledge and experience as well as the support of complete examining and treatment facilities. Examination includes urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The fee is...... $4.50

Women's Ailments Successfully Treated

Perhaps in no other field of medicine have modern scientific facilities added more value to prevailing medical knowledge than in the diagnosis and treatment of women's diseases. Many ailments long considered hopeless can now be successfully controlled if not entirely eliminated through early diagnosis and competent care. With the help of modern facilities the physician can diagnose such symptoms as: headache, nervousness, pains in the abdomen, irregular menstruation, frequent or painful urination and other conditions. This is important especially in women past 40, when beginning cancer is a dangerous possibility. It is also of value in all cases of infectious diseases, where an immediate diagnosis is desirable and often possible. On your first visit the physician will make a regional examination, including the use of the colposcope, Schiller's test, microscopic study of secretions and discharges, urinalysis and blood tests. When infection or beginning disease is discovered, treatment can start without delay. The fee for the examination is.................. $4.50

Ear, Nose, Throat

These organs are so closely related through connecting sinuses that one is rarely affected without involving all three. That is why severe colds will cause sore throats, inflammation and infection in tonsils, adenoids, discharge from ears and other serious conditions. Lowered body resistance may account for recurring colds or they may be the result of more serious acute or chronic ailments. Our ear, nose and throat physicians have the medical knowledge, experience and facilities to diagnose and successfully treat these conditions. The examination will include tests for hearing, urinalysis and blood tests. The fee is..... $4.50

Disease in Older Men

Modern facilities play an important part in the diagnosis of degenerative diseases which develop in men of 40 and older. These are the result of age and the strain of living. Outstanding symptoms are: fear, nervousness, frequent or painful urination, blood in the urine, discharges, and pain or discomfort of any kind. Any one of these symptoms calls for a thorough physical check-up. To be fully protective, the clinical examination by the physician must include microscopic examination of all secretions and discharges, blood and serological tests. Examining fee is.............. $4.50

Eyes Examined Glasses Fitted
UNDER MEDICAL DIRECTION

Such symptoms as persistent headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, etc., should call for a medical examination of the eyes without delay. These symptoms can be due to disease in the eyes or to ailments in other parts of the body. In any case treatment should begin at once. When vision is impaired and glasses are needed it is especially important to have them fitted correctly. Improperly fitted glasses can cause serious damage. Glasses fitted under medical direction provide greater protection to your eyes. This protective optical service is available here. In addition you can make your selection from beautifully engraved ful-vue, gold filled mountings with excellent quality lenses for near and far vision. Exceptional values are available for as low as......... $8.00

A Complete Medical Examination of the Eyes is......................... $4.50

Stomach Trouble

Now that facilities are available with which to see the stomach in operation, study its size, position and general condition, many acute and chronic stomach complaints can be diagnosed and properly treated. While many stomach complaints are the result of abuse and wrong eating habits, persistent cases often indicate a more serious condition. The stomach often produces the first symptoms of beginning disease, such as kidney and liver complaint, gall bladder trouble, and other serious ailments, including cancer. Therefore, never neglect a chronic stomach ailment, particularly if you are past 40 years of age. Diagnosis requires a special gastro-intestinal examination, including a physical check-up by trained physicians, blood pressure, urinalysis, a blood examination and serological tests. The fee is..... $4.50

A fluoroscopic examination of the stomach and small bowel following a barium meal, and an X-ray film of the abdomen when necessary, is.............................. $8.50

Teeth X-rayed
Under Medical Direction

Good teeth are an important asset, not only to one's appearance but to the general health of the entire body. Since the development of the X-ray it is no longer necessary to lose good teeth or endanger health through decayed teeth or infected gum tissue. An X-ray at regular intervals will disclose beginning decay before serious damage has occurred. Prompt treatment will save teeth and protect health. Unexcelled facilities operated by well trained technicians insure good service here. Full mouth X-ray, 14 films and a report, are $2.50

Rectal Disorders Diagnosed and Treated Without Pain or Loss of Time from Work

Under experienced medical care a simple hemorrhoid or pile will clear up within a short time. However, if neglected or improperly treated, rectal disorders can become very dangerous ailments. Chronic or long standing cases are frequently the source of cancer invasion, in fact statistics show that several thousand persons die every year from cancer of the rectum. Among other dangerous conditions which often follow an attack of hemorrhoids or piles is a

Fistula or Rectal Abscess

When this occurs the physician's problem becomes more difficult and the patient's condition more serious. As soon as the abscess is opened by the physician most of the pain will cease. If it is delayed too long, however, pus may burrow into surrounding tissue, causing more abscesses and fistula tracts to form. Proper medical attention can prevent this constant menace to health. Examinations made here include the services of a competent and experienced physician as well as urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The examining fee is $4.50

BY HARRY WARREN

A strong, well balanced University of Michigan football team struck thru the air and on the ground to overcome a seven point deficit and went on to defeat Northwestern, 20 to 7, in Dyche stadium yesterday before a crowd of 40,000 and to thus gain a .500 rating in the Western conference standings.

An overcast sky that spilled occasional drops of rain and the appeal of the world series served to hold down the crowd somewhat, but fans who like their collegiate football were rewarded with intermittent rays of sunshine.

Michigan showed considerable improvement since the 13 to 7 defeat by Indiana and seems to be in a fair way to challenge any conference championship-bound team the Wolverines encounter during the remainder of the season.

Wildcats' Attack Weak

The Wildcats, on the other hand, were not on a par with the team that played Indiana to a 7 to 7 tie only a week ago and showed only sporadic flashes of ground gaining. The aerial attack of Northwestern, which has been practically nil all season, was in that same phase for three-quarters of yesterday's game, but in the final quarter the Wildcats shifted into an aerial game that kept the Wolverine on its heels for the last 10 minutes.

Despite the team advantage of Michigan, Dick Conners, former Mount Carmel [Chicago] High school star, carried off the individual honors of the day. He carried the ball eight times and rolled up 86 yards, and a teammate, Bruce Bairstow of Waukegan, ranked second, totaling 51 yards in nine attempts.

Teninga Held in Check

For Michigan, Henry Fonde and Jack Weisenburger each picked up 48 yards, the former in eight attempts and the latter in seven. Walter Teninga, who led the Chicago public high school scoring while playing with Morgan Park last season, totaled only 37 yards in 11 attempts, but he, together with Captain Joe Ponsetta Jr., provided the spark that kept the Michigan team in high gear.

The Northwestern scoring machine started to click with a suddenness that startled the fans, as well as Michigan. Jim Farrar brought Ponsetta's opening kick-off back 5 yards to the Wildcats' 26. Bairstow, in two plays, made 11 yards, which brought the ball to the 37, then Conners reeled off the best bit of open field running of the day. He broke off right tackle, found a hole that was made when Left Tackle Charles Hagmann, freshman from Erie, Pa., took out three Michigan tacklers, outraced the Wolverine secondary, and scored stand-

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish this afternoon permitted Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets eight minutes of pleasure during which the home boys scored seven points for an early lead. Then the Irish, for this day at least, a team thoroly drilled in every letter of the gridiron alphabet and directed by Capt. Frank Dancewicz, a superb field general, took charge of matters with such conviction that they departed from here this evening with a 40 to 7 triumph in their luggage. It was the 14th Notre Dame decision in the 16 meetings between the two old rivals.

Dancewicz Is Brilliant

Whatever else the Irish have, they can be happy to recommend to post-season shoppers after All-American selections a brilliant quarter back in Dancewicz. The Lynn, Mass., blond youngster was at his best today, for the time that he and his varsity mates were in the contest, a span of no more than half of the 60 minutes. He punted perfectly from footing not too well suited to kicking, and tossed a 35 yard pass to Phil Colella, first-play hero of the Illinois struggle, for the tying touchdown.

The Irish last Saturday introduced a new kicking artist in Stan Krivik, who drop kicked the extra point against Illinois. Today Stan, 24 year old air forces veteran, who served four years as a bomber pilot in Europe, delivered four consecutive drop kick conversions before missing the last two.

Georgia Tech Scores

The entire company came in for praise including Colella, Elmer Angsman, the Chicagoan who scored two touchdowns, Vince Scott, substitute left guard, and Pete Berezney and Ed Mieskowski, tackles. Twelve backs were used in all, collecting an aggregate of 446 yards, 343 via rushing and 103 thru the air.

Georgia Tech organized its touchdown march after a Dancewicz punt landed dead on the Jackets' 25 yard line. Mathews twice slipped thru the Irish line to harvest 16 yards. Two more line plays were halted, then Mathews fired the ball to Quarter Back Ed Holtzinger, who moved up to the Irish 23 yard stripe. Mathews cleared the Notre Dame left end and was headed for a touchdown when Dancewicz hauled him down from behind on the 7 yard line. On the next play, Peek, a southpaw hurler, aimed a pass at Mathews in the end zone, but Dancewicz rushed from far over to bat it down. Peek faked another left handed toss, the scored over his right tackle. Left End Dan Kyker adding the extra point.

Irish Open Up

Krivik made a 30 yard return of the ensuing kick-off, and Colella, Frank Ruggerio, and 17 year old Terry Brennan of Milwaukee, drove to the Jackets' 13 yard line before Colella skidded on a wet patch of turf and fumbled, Mathews recovering. Dancewicz returned the Tech punt to the 40 yard line. Then on second down he shot the ball to Colella who had done a fancy job of outmaneuvering the Tech defense before accepting the ball on the five yard stripe and going over therefrom.

Angsman, who barely made the trip because of a bruised hip, delivered the second Irish touchdown on a 19 yard smash over his left guard, following a 54 yard second quarter Notre Dame drive which required only seven plays. The half time score became 21 to 7 when Quarter Back Joe Gasparella, Dancewicz's No. 1 replacement, rifled a pass to Bill Zehler, and the Rutledge, Pa., freshman made a neat catch to score touchdown No. 3. Krivik added the extra point on another drop kick.

Brennan Intercepts Pass

Young Brennan, whose older brother Jim scored two touchdowns against Georgia Tech in 1944, set up the fourth Irish score by intercepting a Mathews pass on the Notre Dame 10 and running to the Tech 32 before he was downed. Dancewicz passed to Bob Skoglund, Chicago end, for nine yards, then collaborated with Angsman and Ruggerio to make it 26 to 7, Angsman going three yards for the touchdown.

The final two touchdowns were contributed by a couple of hustling

PURDUE BLOCKS LATE WISCONSIN BID; WINS, 13-7

BY EDWARD PRELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 6—Wisconsin was three yards from gaining a tie or a victory in the 57th minute this afternoon over Purdue. With 30,000 fans watching the dramatic situation in an Indian Summer setting and prepared to loose a thunderous roar, the desperate Boilermakers twice hurled back Badger assaults, took the ball, and saved a 13 to 7 triumph.

Wisconsin, behind at the half, 13 to 0, and to all appearances destined to yield more points to Purdue, suddenly took command late in the third quarter, scored a touchdown, and kicked the point. The Badgers put on a menacing march the first time they had the ball in the fourth period, were stopped, then made that last unsuccessful effort.

Battle of Lines

It was a battle of tremendous lines and Wisconsin's forwards, badly outpointed in the early stages, were more than holding their own as the game wore on.

With six minutes of the game left, Wisconsin's Charley Chaney, from Evanston, caught Bill Canfield's punt on his own 24, broke thru a nest of Purdue defenders, and raced down the east side line. He went all the way, bringing the fans up screaming until they learned he had stepped out of bounds on the Purdue 42.

The Badgers' Mutt and Jeff backs, chunky Jerry Thompson and big Ben Bendrick, then went to work. Thompson hit for 5 and Bendrick, carrying it three times in a row, moved up to the 31. Then he slashed to the 19 outside defensive right guard. Next he hit for 6 to the 13 and 4 to the 9 for a first down.

Purdue Halts Drive

Here Purdue showed its first resolve to protect that lead. Thomp-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 6—Indiana's Hoosiers, lacking most of the polish they had shown in their opening Western conference victory over Michigan and frustrated for three quarters by a courageous Illinois line, a wandering dog, and a poorly judged pass, made one sustained drive in the fourth period and scored a 6 to 0 victory today in Memorial stadium before a crowd of 25,173.

The Hoosiers, with Melving Groomes taking the play away from the sensational George Taliaferro and accounting for most of Indiana's yardage, ran into their first heartbreak in the second quarter when Groomes tossed what appeared to be a touchdown pass to Ted Kluszewski only to find that the referee was busy collaring a Great Dane which was mixed up in the scrimmage. The play was called back and Ben Raimondi then pitched another pass to Kluszewski, but it was a bit too strong and Ted caught it just behind the end zone.

Stopped One Yard from Score

That should have been enough to turn Coach Alvin [Bo] McMillin's gray hair pink, but it wasn't all. The second half was barely under way when the Hoosiers worked the ball down to the Illinois 1 yard line with two downs to put it over, and none of his backs were capable of turning the trick. The Hoosiers gained almost at will except when yards counted until, shortly after the fourth period opened, Raimondi

IT'S IMPORTANT THAT CUBS WIN FOR EX-YANKEE

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The Cubs face game No. 5 today in the struggle for a world title and whatever coin goes with it without the comfortable feeling they enjoyed after taking the Tigers down the line in the third game for a 2 to 1 lead in victories.

The Tigers, who before the series generally were doped for the losers' role and who at various times have looked the part 100 per cent, now appear to have the upper hand in pitchers, the always important factor in a short series.

So the Cubs had no choice but to bounce back under the care of Hank Borowy in No. 5 today and the Tigers have things so arranged they are in a position to answer the man who whitewashed them in the opener. They will reply with Hal Newhouser, 25 game winner during the season.

Hal May Be Due Today

After the fashion in which the Cubs blew Newhouser's southpawing to bits in the inaugural game, there might be a tendency to be complacent about the gentleman's return for another fling, but he didn't win 25 games during the season simply by strutting to and from the mound. It is a rare day when he is deluged with hits and while the Cubs are able to boast they did it in the opener, they had the assistance of Lady Luck, who put him slightly off the beam with a series of none too clean hits in the first inning.

The ace lefty worked only four innings that day and has since enjoyed three days of leisure, a state of affairs strengthening the belief that the Cubs will have to have the best in stock on display, especially in the pitching department, if they hope to keep the Detroiters from taking the lead in the series for the first time. Eight hits were made off Newhouser in the four innings he worked in the opener.

Wyse Will Have to Come Back

If Borowy can't win today on whatever runs his pals might be able to chisel from Newhouser's southpawing, the pitching advantage now held by the Tigers will

BY EDWARD BURNS

Four runs accrued in one inning, against one run for the Cubs in the entire game, thus far has been the Detroit Tigers' prescription for beating the Chicagoans in 1945 world series contests. The score in the second game in Detroit was 4 to 1 on a four run fifth inning, and yesterday before 42,923 startled fans in Wrigley field, the American leaguers broke loose with a four-run fourth inning for the sum of their production, and another 4 to 1 victory to even the series for the second time.

Silent Ray Prim, the ripe Cub lefty, was the losing pitcher, and main pitching victim of the assault. Dizzy Trout, a Hoosier of a few million words, was the happy conqueror, on a five-hit effort.

Ray Collapses Suddenly

Prim's and the Cubs' downfall in the first world series game in Chicago in exactly seven years was exceedingly abrupt. The explosion was touched off after Prim had retired the first 10 men to face him.

Eddie Mayo drew Prim's only pass after Skeeter Webb had been retired in the fourth. Roger Cramer then lined out the first Tiger hit, the second Detroit safe one in 12⅔ innings, spread over the second and third games and the early business in yesterday's encounter. Hank Greenberg, whose three-run homer was the essential smack in Detroit's victory Thursday, singled to right, scoring Cramer. Roy Cullenbine, hitless in the three games in Detroit, whizzed a double along the left foul line, Cramer scoring the run that proved sufficient for victory purposes. Greenberg stopped at third on Cullenbine's effort.

At this juncture 39 year old Paul Derringer replaced 39 year old Prim.

Richards Finally Hits

Derringer gave Rudy York an intentional pass, loading the bases, whereupon Jimmy Outlaw forced York, Don Johnson to Roy Hughes, Greenberg scoring. Paul Richards singled to center, his first hit of the series, scoring Cullenbine. Trout forced Richards to end the second Detroit scoring inning in four games.

Cramer singled with two out in the fifth and Bill Nicholson drew the first Cub error of the series when he let the smash get away from him for an extra base. Greenberg walked and Derringer's day's work was over when Cullenbine rolled to Phil Cavarretta.

Hy Vandenberg retired the Tigers in order in the sixth and seventh innings, then yielded for Pinch Batter Paul Gillespie in the Cub seventh.

Erickson held the Tigers to a pass in the eighth and in the ninth

CHICAGO'S PRO ELEVENS SEEK VICTORY IN EAST

It's Cards vs. Eagles, Bears vs. Rams Today

Pro Football

GAMES TODAY
Chicago Bears at Cleveland.
Chicago Cardinals at Philadelphia.
Green Bay vs. Detroit in Milwaukee.
Washington at Boston.
New York at Pittsburgh.

Chicago's two professional teams, the Bears and the Cardinals, who between them have lost three National Football league games in three starts, hope for something better today on eastern gridirons. The Bears will furnish the first real test of the Cleveland Rams, who have designs on winning the Western division title.

The Cards, blanked by the champion Green Bay Packers and the Rams, may do better today, on the offensive at least, if one man can make any difference. That man is Paul Christman, late of the navy, and University of Missouri star passer just before the war. He will be making his big league debut. It happens that the Cards are playing the Eagles in Philadelphia and this eleven is reckoned far and above any of the other nine on the basis of man power and experience.

Packers Seek 10th in Row

That's how greasy Neale's team was regarded last season, but the Eagles lost out at the finish. This eleven, like the Rams, never has won even a divisional championship.

Green Bay, off to the same sort of start it made a year ago by whacking the Bears, will try to make it 10 straight over Detroit in the Fairgrounds at Milwaukee.

The Rams, under a new coaching staff and with a formidable lineup of young stars, are using the T formation, made famous by the Bears. Adam Walsh, one time Notre Dame star, is the coach, and he has two handy ex-Bears to help him—Bob Snyder and George Trafton.

League Openers in East

The five eastern teams are playing their league openers. Washington's Redskins, who hold exhibition decisions over the Bears and Packers, will play in Boston against the Yanks. The Yanks are using players from the inactive Brooklyn Tigers and are said to be loaded.

The New York Giants, always slow to reach winning form, draw an easy opponent in the Pittsburgh Steelers at Pittsburgh. This fits in well with Stout Steve Owen's strategy. The New York coach brings his team to a peak late when the crucial games are being played. Philadelphia is the fifth eastern entry.

DE LA SALLE PREP ELEVEN VICTIM OF CULVER, 7 TO 0

Culver, Ind., Oct. 6 [Special] — Culver Military Academy's football team opened its home season today defeating De La Salle High school, of Chicago, 25 to 0.

The play of Culver Half Back Alf Mulliken was outstanding. He threw two touchdown passes to his teammate, Gil Mueller, and broke loose for several long runs.

ILLINOIS PLAYERS CHARGE IN TO SPOIL RAIMONDI'S PASS IN GAME AT CHAMPAIGN

Tigers Defeat Cubs, 4-1, to Square Series

Outlaw and Trout singled to lift the Detroit hit total to seven.

And now, perhaps, you want to read about what the Cubs did or did not do on offense.

Only Run Is a Gift

They avoided a shutout on an unearned run, made in the sixth inning. Johnson led off the sixth with a triple to the right field corner. Lowrey grounded to Outlaw and Johnson, apparently, was trapped between third and home. Outlaw diverted the play with a throw to York to get Lowrey at first. Johnson, half way between third and home when Outlaw threw to first, ran back to third and so did Outlaw. Whatever chance the Tigers had of making a double play on their reverse maneuver disappeared when York threw high to Outlaw, the ball shooting off the latter's glove to the boxes. Johnson, who had dived back to third, scampered to his feet and ran home to deprive Trout of a shutout. Cavarretta and Andy Pafko then flied out.

Strike-out Ball Is Working

The four Cub hits other than Johnson's triple were singles. Mickey Livingston opened the third with a liner to left center and was forced on Hughes' attempted sacrifice. Prim sacrificed but Outlaw threw out Stan Hack.

Johnson and Lowrey each singled at the start of the Cub half of the fateful fourth. Then Cavarretta executed his second successive strikeout. Pafko was thrown out by Mayo, and Nicholson, like his captain, Caverretta, was guilty of a second successive whiffout. Trout, by the way, had two other strikeouts besides those four by Cavarretta and Nicholson. He sank Pinch-Batter Frank Secory in the fifth and Lowrey in the eight.

Heinz Singles in Pinch

The fourth single and last hit off Trout was a pinch grounder to left by Heinz Becker in the seventh. Heinz thus became the first pinch batter to deliver in the series.

Thruout the game the Tigers showed infinitely more enthusiasm for the business at hand than at any other time during the series, including their victorious game Thursday, which was mostly a matter of one fatal swipe by Greenberg.

The defensive play yesterday was for the most part routine, tho Webb made the sparkler of the afternoon on a pick-up and throw from very deep short to get Johnson in the eighth inning.

The outcome of yesterday's game, last in which the players share in the receipts, assured a six game series and at least three games in Chicago.

The players' pool from gate receipts is $445,714.50. The longer the series goes the less the players receive of the $100,000 radio fee.

Trout Recalls Time the Cubs Rejected Him

"That was Dizzy Trout's best pitching job in three years!"

The speaker was Catcher Paul Richards of the Detroit Tigers, the place was the visiting team's dressing rooms in Wrigley field and the time was immediately after yesterday's fourth world series game, in which Trout had let the Cubs down with five hits and one unearned run.

Trout's triumphant return to Wrigley field was far more satisfactory to him than the appearance he first made there as a teen aged kid, 11 years ago. At that time, he attempted to join the Cubs and began working out with them as a batting practice pitcher. He walked four miles to get to the park and when he appealed to the management for eating money, some one in the business office just gave him a big, blank stare, he said.

Whereupon, Paul packed his grip and returned to Terre Haute, Ind., his home, and started pitching professionally for the Terre Haute club the next year.

"And that ain't all," Trout shouted, "when the Indianapolis club sold me to Detroit, the Cubs were red hot after me to buy me then."

Jimmy Hines Leads in Tacoma Open With 204

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 6 (AP)—Jimmy Hines of Chicago shot a 67 to step three strokes in front of the field in the $10,500 Tacoma Open golf tournament with 204 for 54 holes, six under par, on the Fircrest course today.

ARREST THREE FOR SCALPING BLEACHER SEATS

Three men accused of ticket scalping were arrested yesterday near Wrigley field. Town Hall police said they attempted to sell $1.20 bleacher seats for as much as $10 each.

According to Detective Edward Haviland, William Grifin, 32, of 1906 N. Drake av., an assembler, offered to sell him a bleacher ticket for $10. Charles Prielli, 50, of 2906 Lowe av., was caught selling bleacher tickets for $5 each, Haviland stated, while a third man, Abram Neider, 43, of 3608 Sunnyside av., a salesman, was arrested on suspicion.

Each was released on $300 bond, and will appear tomorrow in the Town Hall court on charges of disorderly conduct.

Hank Borowy, Newhouser to Pitch Today

increase—at least on paper. When the Cubs offer Borowy as promised for today, they are reducing themselves in the pitching department to the point where it will be necessary to bring back Henry Wyse, who suffered in the second game from the impact of a three run homer by Hank Greenberg.

In the event of a Newhouser success today, a happening that would give the American leaguers a 3 to 2 bulge, the Cubs would have to look at Virgil Trucks in the sixth game. That, if it should be a Chicago defeat, would mark the end of the post-season event. Trucks, in case there is any need to refresh the memories of the partisans, is the ex-sailor, who, in the second game last Thursday, stopped the Cubs with one run, even tho yielding seven hits and three passes. Even the Cubs admitted afterward he was the fastest thing they had seen in many days.

Pitching Tells the Story

If the Tigers land the world title, and the confident fashion in which they went about their work yesterday indicated they had snapped out of a stupor that had gripped them since about mid-September, the job can be credited directly to the quaint but likeable Trout and the timely return of Trucks from two seasons of service in the navy.

Without the ex-sailor, the Tigers would have continued to stagger as they did in the waning days of the regular season, not a little of the staggering being due to the defection of the great Trout, who in 1944 captured 27 games. While the Tigers were struggling to clinch the flag, Trout was merely comfort for the enemy. But after he had flopped for the umpteenth time, Sept. 23, he was put aside for future reference, the result of the long rest being the five hitter reeled off yesterday.

TIGERS RESUME FAVORITE'S ROLE TO WIN SERIES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP)—James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, again installed the Detroit Tigers as favorites to win the 1945 world series today.

Carroll's odds show that a Tiger fan must risk $5 to net $4 with the Cubs rated at even money. Hal Newhouser was rated a 4 to 5 favorite [bet $5 to net $4] to beat Hank Borowy in the fifth game of the series tomorrow. Borowy was listed at even money.

INDIANA'S 4TH QUARTER PASS BEATS ILLINI, 6-0

connected with a pass to Kluszewski in the end zone. Charley Armstrong went in to kick the extra point, but his effort was wide.

The fighting Illini just couldn't get going and seldom were in Indiana territory, tho they made a gallant gesture after the Hoosiers had scored. Stan Stasica, who played with South Carolina university in 1942 and recently was discharged from the army, became eligible to play shortly before game time, but wasn't used until the last period, whereupon he ran 60 yards in seven plays to become his team's leading ground gainer.

Pihos Strong on Defense

Jack Pierce, a freshman from Pontiac, took the injured Eddie Bray's place at left half and wound up with a net gain of 25 yards. The Illinois passing attack, as well as that of Indiana, was well below previous form. In fact, it was almost negligible, Indiana completing four of 14 and Illinois two of seven.

Pete Pihos, who played most of the game at full back, was a demon on defense, while Illinois came up with a promising youngster in Mac Wenskunas of Georgetown, who time after time broke thru to haul down Hoosier ball carriers.

The lines battled resolutely in the scoreless first quarter and the game developed into a punting affair. Indiana showed more life and a sharper attack in the second period and was knocking at Illinois' door after Ravensburg intercepted a pass by Pierce and went to the Illinois 43. Two thrusts by Raimondi made a first down on the 16. Then came the touchdown pass from Groomes to Klusyewski which was nullified by the referee when the dog wondered onto the field.

Illinois Threat Fails

The fourth quarter was just 3 minutes and 10 seconds old when the Hoosiers scored on third down. Raimondi opened the drive with a 10 yard pass to Groomes on the Illinois 28. On third down Taliaferro passed to Ravensburg for six yards and Groomes made it a first down on the 15. Two plays gained five and Raimondi made his scoring pitch.

Illinois got a greak a few minutes after the kickoff when Perkins was forced to punt on fourth down and an unnecessary roughness penalty on Indiana gave Illinois the ball on the Indiana 37. Here Stasica took charge and lugged the ball to the Indiana 9, but Indiana swarmed all over the Illini carriers and pushed them back to the 32 and took over on downs. Illinois had the ball on the Illinois 38 when the game ended.

KANSAS FIGHTS IOWA STATE TO 13 ALL SCORE

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 6 (AP)—Kansas came from behind in the fourth quarter to tie Iowa State today, 13 to 13.

Kansas had scored first in the third quarter on a 44 yard pass, Frank Pattee to Norman Pumphrey, but had seen its lead vanish as the Cyclones struck back for two touchdowns in the same period.

With the score 13 to 6 against them, the Jayhawkers, who had been rated definite underdogs in the Big 6 conference opener for both teams, began a drive that clicked after the Cyclones had made two successful goal line stands.

Then the Iowans elected to pass from their own 6 yard line and Ben Wilson of Kansas intercepted on the 16. From that point Kansas worked the ball to the 4 and Leroy Robison plunged across. A moment later he place kicked the extra point that gave the Hawks their tie.

Baldwin, who had been at home in Hot Springs all week giving blood transfusions to his ill mother, tallied twice on the receiving end of forward passes by Bud Canada and Calvin Smith and again on a 2 yard plunge thru guard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7th. — Well, here it is . . . the World Series once again ends the baseball season. And this year we're back at the pleasant business of discussing batting averages instead of bombing missions. Back to the good old U.S. custom of "murdering the umpire" instead of the dirty business of killing the enemy. These are good days, — for Fall is a man's time . . . crisp football weather . . . week-end trips . . . hunting expeditions . . . AND gas again! But don't run the risk of holding out on those who'd trade shoes with anybody . . . the poor guys who'll be spending the first Victory Christmas overseas. Remember that October 15th is the deadline for mailing them gifts if they're to arrive by December 25th! Don't play a dark horse in gift selection, — here are tips on some favorites preferred by men overseas . . .

* * * * * *

IDEAL FOOD GIFT for Christmas overseas—HOENSHEL Brandied Fruit Cake! Because it's real fruit cake (not just cake with fruit) it actually improves with time and travel. HOENSHEL Brandied Fruit Cake is laden with glacé fruits . . . crystallized pineapple, cherries, citron, nuts and spices — mellowed with the finest of wines and brandies. Its compact loaf-shape and air-resistant, easy-to-mail carton protect it in all seasons and climates. Ask for it at fine Food, Department or Confectionery Stores! MAKE 'EM FOOT-HAPPY! Any footsore serviceman will thank his lucky stars if you've been thoughtful enough to mail him one of those ready-to-mail cartons of DR. SCHOLL'S Foot Powder! Ask any man who he'll tell you there's nothing like this refreshing powder to relieve and soothe feet that burn, perspire or are painfully sore from chafe, friction or marching pressure. All you do is buy the carton, jot down the overseas address, and stamp. An inexpensive Xmas greeting!

RICKSHAW OR STREAMLINER? No question of choice if you like to move fast and easily! For there's just as much difference between an old-fashioned straight-edge razor blade and a modern PAL Hollow-Ground! PAL pioneered, perfected and patented the Hollow-Ground blade to stay FLEXIBLE in the razor . . . so the blade naturally follows facial contours and shaves whiskers away with a "feather touch." No bearing down . . . consequently no irritation to tender skin. My best advice, — try a PAL! It shaves better and the blade lasts longer because it's hollow-ground! Rust-resistant in single or double edges . . . 4 for 10¢; 10 for 25¢.

Austin Whips Crane; Schurz Wins

Lindblom High school knocked Englewood out of first place in the City league central section football race yesterday by scoring a 6 to 0 triumph on Shewbridge field. It was the third straight victory for Lindblom and the first league loss for Englewood.

The touchdown came in the first quarter when Jim Ferretti ran 35 yards after taking a 10 yard pass from George Lackner. Thereafter, the defenses of both teams tightened and the game was a scoreless duel.

Austin Beats Crane

Austin defeated Crane, 14 to 7, in Key Branch stadium, in a contest in which all the scoring came in the first half. Rocco Mavigliano scored the first touchdown for the defending west section champions on a 6 yard plunge, and the second came when Bruce Morrice crossed from the 1 foot line. Leon Zdeblick scored Crane's touchdown.

Kelvyn Park suffered its first west section defeat when Steinmetz scored a 25 to 6 triumph in Hanson park, altho Jim Kallas ran 59 yards to give Kelvyn Park a 6 to 0 lead. The Steinmetz touchdowns were scored by Bob Spurlin, Don Leusch, Robert Keopple, and Robert Wisher.

Nunzio Mugavero scored the first touchdown for Harrison when he plunged 6 yards in the second quarter as the Hornets defeated Foreman, 13 to 7, in a west section meeting in Hanson park. Foreman led, 7 to 6, at the intermission.

North Section Winners

In the north section Lake View, Taft and Schurz scored victories, with Lake View routing Waller, 32 to 0, and Schurz whipping Sullivan, 64 to 6.

Taft defeated Roosevelt, 20 to 12, in Lane Tech stadium, largely thru the efforts of Earl Wurthman, who scored twice for the victors. Don Clement, of Roosevelt, scored the losers' touchdowns.

Lake View's victory, in Lane Tech stadium, was paced by Norm Rohter, who ran for three touchdowns, one a 60 yard sprint in the second quarter. Schurz was sparked by Johnny Miller, with four touchdowns, and Dick Redman, with three, as it kept in a first place tie with Lane.

Hirsch Wins 2d Straight

Hirsch won its second consecutive south section victory by beating Harper, 32 to 13, in 83d-Yates stadium. Succando Salvino scored three touchdowns for Hirsch While Johnny Wedel turned in a spectacular play when he intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards to score another. Both Harper touchdowns came on passes caught by Joe Kalsey.

ARMY SWAMPS WAKE FOREST IN POWER DISPLAY

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Army ran away from Wake Forest today, 54 to 0, as almost every play the Cadets engineered on a wet, slippery field was turned into a touchdown threat.

Runs of 50 yards or better accounted for four Army scores, as Tom McWilliams set the pace with an 80 yard touchdown sprint, Glenn Davis ran 65 yards to score and Doc Blanchard and Hershel Fuson tallied on dashes of 52 and 50 yards respectively. Still another long run, a 53 yard dash by third stringer, Bob Richmond, set up the final Army score. McWilliams and Fuson each made two touchdowns.

CORNELL GAINS VICTORY

Ohio State's 2d Half Power Overwhelms Iowa, 42 to 0

BY WILFRID SMITH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Columbus, O., Oct. 6—For 30 minutes this afternoon a fighting University of Iowa football team embarrassed Ohio State's defending champions of the Western conference before 49,842 partisans watching the opening Big Nine game for both teams. The Hawkeyes faltered only once in this time and trailed, 7 to 0, at the intermission.

The remainder of the game followed predicted script, however. The Buckeyes scored twice in the third period, once on an interception by Paul Sarringhaus of an Iowa pass which he returned 72 yards. Ohio State then added three touchdowns in the last period to win 42 to 0. It was Ohio State's 11th consecutive victory since a defeat by Michigan in the last contest of the 1943 campaign.

Ohio Line Invulnerable

In the first half Ohio State gained only 80 yards in 25 rushes and completed one pass in five thrown by Dick Fisher. While Iowa could cheer over this defense, its own attack showed a minus 2 yards for the half despite three first downs by rushing. The Hawkeyes picked up 68 yards as Jerry Niles completed eight of 15 passes.

Niles' passing was a constant threat in midfield but only one throw in the first three periods was completed for more than 14 yards. This style of play finally collapsed as Iowa's line was completely outplayed in the closing 10 minutes and no longer blocked effectively. The Hawkeye forwards never made an impression on the Ohio State defenders on rushing plays.

Fisher, only recently returned from military service, entered the Ohio State back field shortly after the start of the game and he had more drive even than Sarringhaus who was a star half back on Ohio State's 1942 championship team. Fisher played on the 1939, 1940, and 1941 teams.

Sarringhaus Starts Drive

Midway in the first quarter, Ohio State served notice that victory could not be denied. The Buckeyes advanced 69 yards in five plays for their first score, the drive being started by Sarringhaus, who swept around Iowa's left end for a 34 yard gain. Paul stepped out on Iowa's 35 yard line but continued on the 24 yard stripe where he fumbled and Iowa recovered. Official decision on the out of bounds continued Ohio's attack from the Iowa 35.

Fisher then dashed around the other Iowa flank for 11 yards. Sarringhaus plunged for 4 and Ollie Cline, Buckeye full back ripped center for 5 more yards. Paul Fagerlind and Bob Gustafson of Iowa were called for roughness after Cline was down and the ball was placed on Iowa's 1 yard line, a 14 yard penalty. Cline plunged for the touchdown and Max Schnittker, Ohio State's place kicking specialist added the first of his six consecutive points after touchdowns.

Buckeyes Start Rolling

Ohio State was denied a second touchdown as time ran out at the half with the ball in the Buckeyes' possession on Iowa's 1 yard line. This failure, after a drive of 55 yards of which Sarringhaus' pass to Fisher accounted for 37, touched off the action in the third quarter. Certainly, the Ohio State forwards were charging harder and the secondary was more alert in covering Niles' passes. On the sixth play after the kickoff, Sarringhaus was under Niles' long pass. He set off at an angle for the east sideline, got outside two tacklers and with perfect protection went 72 yards to the goal.

The third touchdown was made the next time Ohio State got the ball. Fisher returned Niles' short punt 18 yards to Iowa's 33 yard line. He then picked up 11 yards on the first play, lost 2 yards on three more line plays, but Cline renewed the momentum by plunging over guard for a first down on the Hawkeye 6. Despite a 15 yard penalty for clipping on second down, Tom Watson scored by crossing from right end behind Obern Simons, Iowa safety, to catch Fisher's pass in the end zone. Thus, the Buckeyes led 21 to 0 at the start of the final period.

Iowa Passes Backfire

Three intercepted forward passes set up as many Ohio State touchdowns in the last quarter. Two were thrown by Niles, the other by Wendell Weller. Clyde Marshall, Ohio State's No. 3 right half back, got the first on Iowa's 48 yard line. Chuck Gandee plunged for 4 yards and Hal Daugherty, left half, made a first down on Iowa's 10. Marshall turned Iowa's right end for the touchdown on the next play.

After the kickoff to Iowa, Daugherty grabbed Niles' pass thrown from the Hawkeye 35 yard line. He lateraled to Marshall who ran to Iowa's 24. Daugherty, who only weighs 164 pounds, then ripped over Iowa's left tackle to the goal.

Matt Brown, Ohio State's third team full back, grabbed Weller's pass on the second play after the kickoff and was downed on Iowa's 35. Daugherty and Jim Fout got 8 yards in two plunges and Fisher returned to the game and circled defensive left end for his 27 yard touchdown run to establish the final score.

Ohio State's victory was its sixth in the 11 games of the series and by its largest score. One game was tied. The Hawkeyes' last Western conference victory was over Wisconsin in 1942.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 6 [Special]—Marquette university's football team, making the first appearance by a midwestern varsity aggregation in the east this fall, will engage Villanova college of Villanova, Pa., in an intersectional game in the neutral setting provided by the Civic stadium here tomorrow.

Tomorrow's game will find Coach Tom E. Stidham's Marquette Hilltoppers eager for victory for more reasons than one. The Milwaukee university never has beaten the Main Line Wildcats, having played them to a scoreless tie in 1911 and having lost to them at Shibe park in Philadelphia in 1937, 25 to 7. Moreover, the Spartans consider themselves a better team than their recent losses to Purdue and Wisconsin would indicate and they are anxious to break into the victory column.

NAVY SAILS TO 21 TO 0 VICTORY AGAINST DUKE

Durham, N. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—Navy furthered its national championship aspirations today by defeating Duke, 21 to 0, in what the Middies considered their toughest game before Army.

Clyde Scott, fleet Arkansas half-back; R. J. [Hunchy] Hoernschemeyer, former Indiana university star, and Bob Jenkins, Talladega, Ala., scored Navy's touchdowns. Jenkins and Hoernschemeyer sent the Middies away to a 14-0 lead in the first period. Then Scott broke away for a sensational 82-yard run in the final period.

Hoernschemeyer ran 26 yards for the second Navy touchdown.

ing up. It was a run of 66 yards. Farrar added the extra point. The Conners plays came after a minute and 10 seconds of play had elapsed.

Michigan Starts to Click

Michigan a few minutes later discovered why Indiana had so much trouble a week ago. After Michael Prashaw returned Northwestern's kick-off 10 yards, Teninga and Bob Nussbaumer, former Oak Park High school star, made 10 yards in three smashes. But at this point the Wildcat defense stiffened and Michigan was forced to punt. Bob Johnson later broke thru and spilled Farrar for a 12 yard loss and Conners kicked to Nussbaumer, who returned 15 yards to the Purple 47.

Michigan then began a march. Teninga and Nussbaumer made first down and Ponsetto passed to Art Renner for 16 and a first down on the 17. Ponsetto lateraled to Teninga for 15 and Jim Foltz went over for the touchdown from the 3 yard line. Ponsetto missed the try for extra point.

Pete Elliott Scores

Northwestern made another exhibition of stout defensive play at the start of the second quarter. Starting on their own 20, Michigan swept right down the field to the Northwestern 3, and the advance was stalled there, Northwestern taking over. The Wildcat moment of triumph was short lived, however. Conners kicked out to Fonde, who returned 10 yards to the Purple 23. With Fonde and Foltz alternating, the Wolverines drove to a first down on the 6, from where Pete Elliott of Bloomington, Ill., scored in two plays. Ponsetta didn't miss this time and the Wolverines took a 13 to 7 lead.

The Wolverines made their final score in the third quarter. It was set up when Farrar fumbled and Harold Watts recovered for Michigan on the Purple 24. Elliott and Weisenburger picked up 12 yards in three plays for a first down on Northwestern's 12. Elliott made 7 yards around right end and Dan Dworsky plunged over for the touchdown. Pomsetto's try for the extra point was successful.

The final quarter saw a succession of substitutes pour on the field from both benches, but nothing happened in the way of scoring for either team, altho the Wildcats did give Michigan a few anxious moments with a series of passes.

Vikings Seek Soccer Lead; Meet Hakoahs

BY OFFSIDE

The Vikings, striving to regain National league soccer supremacy and rained out of their last two scheduled engagements, will make a third attempt to get back into action at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when they will meet the equally ambitious Hakoah Centers in Winnemac Park stadium.

Altho beaten by the Swedish Americans two weeks ago, the Hakoahs are at the top of the National league standing as a result of winning a protest regarding the eligibility of a player. Their lead is a slender one, however, and is due to the fact that they have played and won one more game than have the Vikings. Should the latter club sweep its remaining games, it will win the league title by the margin of one point.

Leaderman, Lewin Return

The Hakoahs today will welcome Lt. Yale Leaderman and Siggi Lewin back from the services.

Sharing the spotlight with the Vikings and Hakoahs' battle will be the meeting of the Swedish Americans and Spartas, in Sparta stadium. The Swedish Americans have begun to bolster their lineup for the National cup matches, and foremost among their recruits is Jack Dickson, who will be making his debut in Chicago soccer in today's game. Dickson formerly played for the world famous Queens Park club of Glasgow, Scotland, and comes to Chicago from Winnipeg.

Three Milwaukee Players

Walter Schroader, John Petek, and Gene Edwards of Milwaukee, Wis., also are to appear in the Swedish Americans' lineup. Billy Fraser and Tommy Reily are holdovers who rate a word of praise.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 6 (AP)—Minnesota had little trouble today in scoring nine touchdowns to rout a game but outclassed Nebraska eleven, 61 to 7, before 25,000.

Winning their 16th straight victory for Coach Bernie Bierman, who came back to Minnesota after three years in the marines, the Gophers scored at will.

Substitute Full Back Hudson Mealey went into the game shortly after the opening kickoff when Vic Kulbitski was injured, and came thru with a three touchdown performance and made good two place kicks for a total of 20 points.

Gopher Line Is Powerful

A powerful Minnesota line held Nebraska to a minus 17 yards on rushing plays, while Gopher backs rolled up 504 yards on the ground, good for 24 first downs.

It was the most one sided contest in the 28 game series between the teams, bettering Minnesota's 54 to 0 victory in 1943 and the sixth straight over Nebraska for the Gophers.

Full Back Dick Lutz contributed two touchdowns for Minnesota, while Bob Kasper, Bill Shearer, Bob Carley, and John Westrum added one each.

Nebraska Uses Passes

Nebraska showed a fancy second quarter passing attack to sandwich in a touchdown between Minnesota scores. Half Back Mack Robinson complete five of six tosses in a 51 yard march, pitching the last five yards to 17 year old Freshman Don Sailors. Bill Sloan kicked the point.

Trojans Beat St. Mary's for 3d Straight

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—Southern California chalked up its third straight victory by defeating St. Mary's Preflight Air Devils, 26 to 14, today, in four quick scoring thrusts.

Two blocked punts, within a space of minutes, by Capt. Jim Callanan, end, and Tackle John Pehar, were quickly converted into third period touchdowns to clinch the game for the Trojans.

After Callanan's block of Bob Delauer's kick, Half Back Joe Scott broke off tackle for 40 yards to score. Pehar's effort set up a 14 yard Trojan drive, ending with Full Back Blake Headley going over from the 1.

The Trojan's other touchdowns came in the first quarter.

The Air Devils fought back gamely when Right Half Carl Leibert made a 60 yard scoring run in the second quarter. The Air Devils scored again in the final period when Chuck Harrington cracked over from 5 yards out, climaxing a 42 yard march.

CALIFORNIA WINS, 27-14

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—California's twice beaten Bears rose from the depths of previous defeat to score a 27 to 14 victory over the Washington Huskies today before 40,000.

Full Back Billy Agnew, who served with the army air forces, threw the touchdown pass that enabled California to tie Washington at half time, 14 to 14. In the final period, John Buestad, who served three years with the naval air corps, was in at full back. His charges and good passes broke the deadlock and gave the Bears a 21-14 lead soon after the fourth period opened. His throw to Right End Roland Chambers put California into the lead.

California made certain of the game when Left Half Jim Gierlach intercepted a pass thrown by a desperate Washington team from behind its own goal. He ran back 20 yards and the Bears drove over from the 1 foot line on the third play.

National Leaguers Win Navy's World Series

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 6 (AP)—The National leaguers scored two runs in the ninth inning to nose out the American leaguers, 4 to 3, and win the navy's little world series here today. Schoolboy Rowe, one time Detroit hurler, hit a homer for the Americans in the last of the ninth.

RECORDS FALL AS GRAND CIRCUIT SEASON ENDS

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP)—Beatrice Hanover, driven by Harry Pownall, today captured the $10,300 Trotting Oaks stake, closing day feature of the Lexington trot and the grand circuit for 1945. Earl's Spencer Jane and Cita Scott divided second and third monies in the event.

Deanna, owned and driven by Gibson White, Lexington, won the Acorn stake for 2 year old trotting fillies, worth $5,500. Deanna covered the first mile in 2:04½ and the second in 2:04, equalling her own season's record of 2:04 for 2 year old trotters. The filly trotted the final quarter of the second heat in 29¾ seconds.

The world's record for a dead heat was lowered to 2:05 today when a photo finish showed Ouster Volo and Earl's Moody Guy nosing the finish at the same time in a condition trot. Ouster Volo, owned by Guy Cleveland, Carmi, N. Y., is 14 years old and was used to help plow 150 acres of farmland last spring. Besides the dead heat, he has scored four victories at the meeting here.

During the afternoon, Ed Havens piloted Millbrook thru a record 1:59¼ pacing for the mile. Before the 1945 season, Millbrook raced as a trotter, and he is the 13th 2:00 performer for his sire, Volomite.

BURGOO MAID IS FEATURE WINNER AT HAWTHORNE

Burgoo Maid, fleet 5 year old daughter of Burgoo King, the one time Kentucky Derby winner, defeated 13 other speedsters in the $10,000 added Sprint handicap at Hawthorne yesterday, scoring by four lengths at the end of the six and a half furlong test before a crowd of 15,674.

Jockey Aullie Carr on Burgoo Maid elected to step out in front at the start and proceeded to draw away the rest of the journey, while Daily Trouble made a futile attempt to catch up. Another length and a half in arrears of Daily Trouble was St. Jock, which raced as an entry with Burgoo Maid.

Runs for Miss Sidell

The winner performed for Ruth Sidell of Chicago, while St. Jock carried the racing silks of her father, S. D. Sidell. Sigma Kappa took down fourth money.

Burgoo Maid carried 116 pounds in her second straight triumph at the west side course and turned the six and a half furlongs in the good time of 1:21 3-5 over the slow racing strip. It was her richest victory of the season and worth $9,125.

Tickets on the entry were worth $9.80, $5, and $6.60. Daily Trouble, which took down $2,000 for landing second, returned $19.20 and $13.20. St. Jock received $1,000 third money and Sigma Kappa, $500.

Bolus' Start Slow

Bolus, the top weighted favorite, and Sirius, winner of the same stake last year, each broke from an outside position but were away rather tardily so as to have scant chance thereafter.

The mutuel handle was $1,288,596.

Illinois Ducks Go on the Spot Next Saturday

BY BOB BECKER

Next Saturday is the big day for duck hunters in Illinois and other states in the central zone, for, starting one-half hour before sunrise on Oct. 13, it's waterfowl hunting time. The 1945 regulations continue the 80 day open season which we had in 1944, but have eliminated that bonus of five extra mallards, pintails, or widgeons over the regular limit of 10 birds. This year hunters may take only 10 ducks per day and have 20 in possession.

Only one wood duck may be included in any limit.

There are only two ducks which are on the free and easy shooting list this fall. It's too bad that they're mergansers—the fish ducks which nobody cares about. To reduce the populations of these birds, the waterfowl regulations this year state that you may kill 25 mergansers per day, American and red breasted species, with no possession limit.

The usual number of daily fee hunting spots will be open along the Illinois river, the area that attracts millions of ducks each fall. And the Illinois department of conservation again will operate the Rice lake free hunting preserve below Peoria. This is the only place in the state where a shooter can reserve a free blind on a state owned hunting grounds. Blinds are reserved for hunters who make applications ahead for them. Application blanks may be obtained by writing the superintendent of the Rice lake hunting preserve, R. R. 3, Canton, Ill.

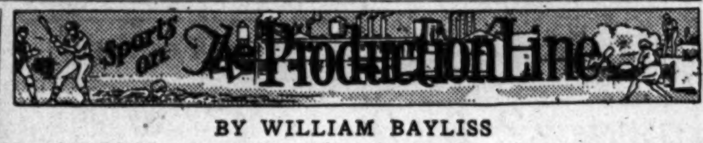
BUSHER WINS VANITY; 7TH IN EARNINGS

Inglewood, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—Busher, packing 126 pounds and conceding weight to older horses, captured Hollywood Park's Vanity handicap today and forged into the seventh place among all time money winners of the turf. She covered the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:43 4-5, won $17,445, and boosted her total to $334,035.

Busher's victory today enabled her to pass such money winning standouts as Shut Out, Gallant Fox, Phar Lap, and Challedon, and left her less than $4,000 behind Equipoise in sixth place. This was her 15th victory in 19 starts. Busher paid $2.70, $2.20, and $2.10.

EXHIBITION FOR CONN

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP)—Billy Conn, heavyweight challenger, will appear on the Nov. 7 fight card at the Municipal auditorium which is headlined by a 10 round bout between Fritzie Zivic and Jackie Robinson.



Sports on The Production Line

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS

ROUNDING up reports on its most successful season and electing officers for next year at the same session, directors of the Industrial Amateur Golf association already are looking forward to next spring, if only as a time when they can start setting some new marks. Claud S. Gordon, head of the engineering firm which bears his name, founder of the association in 1943 and president during the three years it has been building a reputation as the top organization in the industrial golf field, has been reëlected as president.

Claud S. Gordon

The other three officers, all of whom served their first terms during the recent season, also were extended votes of confidence and told to start right now planning for 1946. This threesome includes Art Sweet, vice president, and John Gertenrich, secretary, both of whom were on the Douglas Aircraft pay roll when that plant was in operation, and Frank Ogrin of American Steel and Wire, treasurer. Committees will be named at a meeting of the association's directors in January.

232 Bowling Teams in Carnegie-Illinois Leagues

One of the nation's largest industrial bowling programs now is under way at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. A thousand individuals have signed up for 232 teams in 12 men's and five women's leagues, under the supervision of the plant's Good Fellow club. In addition to the regular leagues, the club plans two mixed doubles tournaments, a special event for team captains and, of course, the seventh Carnegie-Illinois Steel championship tourney, plans for which will be announced later. Presidents of the leagues now in operation include:

MEN—John Capata, R. Davis, Carl Schoonover, Ottie Whiteside, Mike Bosak, G. Todd, Harry Linkhart, H. Langford, L. Zadra, H. Hopkins, F. Heydorn, and J. Karaffa.

WOMEN—Carmella Stramaglia, Betty Keegan, and three still to be elected.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel's summer sports program has been completed, with the Met Lab team winning the championship in the intraplant league and Mike Fedorchak of the Central Mills department taking top honors in the annual golf tournament at the Cressmore Country club. A horseshoe tournament, feature of the fall schedule was held last week.

Bell & Howell Co. Recreation Field Dedicated

Sports events had a prominent place on the program of the Bell & Howell company Mardi Gras and open house last week-end in the company's Lincolnwood plant, McCormick rd. and Touhy av. The athletic end of the entertainment included softball games, tennis, and horseshoe pitching tournaments, and dedication of the new Bell & Howell recreation field by J. H. McNabb, company president, assisted by the American Legion.

Ray Quaglia, Ekco Products center fielder, won the batting championship in the Division Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league with a season average of .559, the result of 19 hits in 34 times at bat. His closest rival was Johnny Dahmer, who played beside Ray in the Ekco outfield and compiled a mark of .551. Skipper Rampenthal of Thordarson Electric was third with .540 and Russ Coon of Lion Manufacturing fourth with .514.

Thordarson Finally Wins Softball League Title

After four postponements because of the weather, the Thordarson Electrics and Eicor, Inc., champions of the two halves of the Division St. Y. M. C. A. Softball league season, finally were able to play their championship game, Thordarson winning, 4 to 3. Willie Phillips was the winning pitcher. It was the second straight championship for Thordarson. Hammond Instrument won the league's sportsmanship trophy for the second time.

Five teams now are tied for first place in the Chicago Association of Commerce Industrial Bowling league. The five, with records of nine games won and three lost, are Illinois Bell Telephone, Railway Express Agency, A. R. Barnes & Co., Pyott Foundry and Machine, and Verson Allsteel Press. In the Division St. league, Rauland Corporation moved into undisputed possession of first place last week when Redmer Sons company, which had been tied for the top, dropped three to International Printing Ink. These last two now are tied for second.

Georgia Tech Is Routed by Irish, 40 to 7

third team backs from Ohio, John Agnone of Youngstown and Emil Slovak of Elliston. Following a good punt by Quarter Back George Ratterman, which landed out of bounds on the Tech 9 yard line, the Georgians were penalized to their 1 yard stripe, and after the Jackets punted out, Agnone scampered 29 yards on the first play. Slovak, a fast-moving little gent, ran it up to 40 to 7 after Zehler intercepted a Tech pass and returned to the Irish 34. John Panelli, Gasparella, Joe Yonto, and Slovak drove down to the 9. Agnone took it to the 4 yard mark, and Slovak then sprinted around his own left end for the final touchdown.

WINNING TEAM IN WORLD SERIES TO GET $187,200

The winning team in the 1945 world series will cut up $187,200.09 from a players' pool of $445,714.50.

Altho under new baseball regulations neither the Detroit Tigers nor Chicago Cubs was permitted to announce its individual split, the size of this pool might result in a new record for a single winning player's share.

The losing team in the series will split up $124,800.06, while the six other clubs to finish in the first division in the two major leagues during the pennant race will cut up a total of $133,714.35.

The individual shares, based on how the clubs vote to divide their portion of the pool, probably will not be announced until the baseball commissioner mails out checks to the individual players.

MICHIGAN STATE PASSES DEFEAT KENTUCKY, 7 TO 6

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 6 [Special]—Michigan State this afternoon defeated Kentucky, 7 to 6, before 9,300 rain soaked fans who witnessed the opening home football game of the year for the Spartans.

Kentucky opened the scoring during the first minute of the second quarter when Ralph Beard broke loose from his own 39 yard line and raced to the 43 before being stopped. On the next play Jesse Tunstill went thru left tackle for 57 yards and a touchdown. Fred Ferris' attempt to convert was wide.

Late in the second quarter Bob Godfrey recovered a Kentucky fumble on the Colonels' 39 yard line. Steve Contos went thru tackle on a reverse to the 33 yard line. Here Michigan State unveiled a new back, Russell Reader, who proved to be a sensation at tossing and carrying a wet football.

On his first play Reader picked up a yard. He then shot a pass over the line to Dominic Contos, who went to the 19 yard line. Contos, on a reverse, picked up 6 yards to the 13. Then Reader slipped thru right tackle for the Spartan touchdown.

Bob Malaga kicked the point.

son was thrown back for a yard loss. But Bendrick, running low, picked a hole in the Boilermakers' right side and scrambled to the 3. Bendrick tried the right side but he was resolutely met at the line of scrimmage by Tom Hughes, Purdue tackle.

On fourth down Jerry swept wide to his right, but three white shirted opponents smacked him out of bounds on the 5.

Bill De Moss, an 18 year old freshman from Danville, Ky., directed the Boilermakers' smooth T formation plays and played 60 minutes for the third successive game.

Purdue Scores Early

The dull first quarter suddenly brightened the third time Purdue had the ball. Starting on their 35, the Boilermakers went down for their first touchdown in 12 plays.

The gangling De Moss mixed in two passes with running plays. One was in the flat to Canfield for 20 yards, which put the ball on the Badgers' 44. Then Purdue ground out a first down to the 34. On second down, De Moss fired a high pass to Cody, who caught the ball on the 27 and ran to the 10. Canfield hit for 2, Cody for 4, and Canfield then was nudged out of bounds on the 1. George Mihal went over for the score, but Hughes missed the kick for the point.

Late in this period, the Boilermakers again struck, going 48 yards in five plays. They took the ball just past midfield after Herb Anspach's poor punt out of bounds. After two short line gains, De Moss threw a long pass a split second before being knocked down by two onrushing Badgers. Canfield took the ball on the 24 and ran 3 yards. Cody smacked thru center 14 yards to the 7, then made a ridiculously easy touchdown by popping over right tackle. This time Hughes kicked the goal for 13 to 0 half time lead.

Badgers Go Over

Wisconsin went from there to its touchdown. It was Thompson and Bendrick on almost every play as Purdue yielded three straight first downs. The Badgers were a yard short of midfield when they suddenly abandoned line smashing tactics. Thompson retreated, fired the ball and Jack Mead made a leaping catch on the 21 yard line. He sprinted down the west sidelines for the score. Martin Meyer kicked the extra point.

Great Lakes Beaten, 21-12, by Ft. Benning

The Fort Benning doughboys scored a spectacular 21 to 12 victory over Great Lakes on Ross field at the naval training center yesterday as Half-Back Dick Weber, former St. Louis university star, threw three touchdown passes before 20,000 sailors.

Weber, who replaced Jeff Burkett in the second quarter, threw a 19 yard pass to End Monk Edwards with 90 seconds left in the first half. Then, after Great Lakes took the lead with two touchdowns in the first five minutes of the third quarter, Weber went into action again. He threw a long pass that went to Half-Back Russ Craft for a 50 yard gain and a second touchdown. Craft snagged the ball on the 10 and dashed over. With 35 seconds left in the game Weber connected with End Bill Spoor for 20 yards and another touchdown. George Hecht made good on all three tries from placement.

The Bluejackets, who muffed a couple of scoring chances in the first half, opened up at the start of the third period to take the lead.

Half-Back Bob Sullivan took Hecht's kickoff opening the half on his 2 yard line and ran 98 yards for a touchdown. Marion Motley missed the try for point, the first of two failures.

A few minutes later Great Lakes got possession of the ball, when Burkett fumbled and Jean Lamoure recovered on the 17. Five plays later Motley smacked over from the 2 yard line.

DIRECTORS' FUNCTIONS

Boards of directors are elected by stockholders of corporations primarily to represent them in the conduct of the enterprise and to safeguard their interests. But as trustees for the shareholders, the directors assume wide responsibilities to other groups—executives, employes, customers, and the public.

In the present reconversion period, the problems dealt with by boards of directors have become more weighty in many enterprises, involving adjustments necessitated by the shift from war production to normal civilian operations. John Calhoun Baker, president of Ohio university, after making a comprehensive study of the place of directors in business society, has presented his findings in "Directors and Their Functions," published under the auspices of Harvard Business school of which he formerly was professor of business administration.

Some of the duties of directors, as described by Dr. Baker, are summarized as follows:

1. The board selects the chief executive and senior officers and makes certain that able, young executives are being developed. It controls executive compensation, pension, and retirement policies.

2. The board discusses and approves objectives and policies of broad corporate significance, such as pricing, labor relations, expansion, and new products, as well as dividend payments, changes in capital structure, loans, lines of credit, and public relations.

3. It examines the company's progress not only as to immediate profits but also as to the discharge of the board's trusteeship responsibilities. Directors arrange for outside audits and in general maintain vigilance for the welfare of the enterprise.

The board chairman provides needed leadership, drawing from the individual directors their maximum contribution. Generally stockholders presumably would hold that the paramount concern of directors is the protection of their interests, but Dr. Baker asserts it is not merely that.

"The problem," he says, "is the reconciliation of private enterprise with the smooth functioning of democratic society with justice to all groups. . . . Such a broad concept of the functions of directors is frequently overlooked. Nevertheless, this should be the contribution of directors to our national life."

BANK INVESTING PRACTICE SHIFT WIDE SINCE '29

Government Paper Replaces Loans

BY THOMAS FURLONG

Changing investment practice and the marked transformation that has occurred in the character of banking are emphasized in the position reported by Chicago banks in recently published statements.

Bank resources are invested mainly in government securities. Commercial loans and credits employ only a small part of the resources. This is the reverse of the condition that existed in 1929. At that time bank funds were predominantly employed in commercial loans and credits with investments in government securities making up a minor part of bank assets.

A typical bank statement today lists the following division of resources: Investments in government loans, 55 per cent; investments in other bonds and securities, 10 per cent; commercial loans and discounts, 15 per cent; cash and other resources, 20 per cent.

Here's How It Was in 1929

By contrast, a typical bank statement in 1929 showed the following division: Investments in government securities, 10 per cent; other bonds and securities, 15 per cent; commercial loans and credits, 55 per cent; cash and other resources, 20 per cent.

Accompanying this change in the use of bank resources has been a tremendous expansion in total resources. This growth stemmed directly from the government's policy of financing its deficits by selling securities to banks. That policy created new deposits for the banking system as a whole corresponding to the amount of government securities absorbed by the banks.

The expansion in resources has occurred thruout the banking system, and is reflected in the increase in each of the four largest Chicago banks to more than double its total in 1929. The increase has been much greater in certain banks.

Budget Balanced Only Twice

In 16 fiscal years, 1929-'45 inclusive, the federal government balanced its budget only twice, in 1929 and 1930. The fiscal year ended last June 30 was the 14th consecutive year in which the government had to borrow to cover the margin of expenditures over revenue. The main reliance of the government was on bank borrowing, recognized as an inflationary financing method.

The transformation in the character of the banking business is illustrated in the comparative figures of two Chicago banks that went thru the period 1929-'45 without any change resulting from mergers or acquisitions of resources of other banks.

Present resources of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank total 535 million dollars, compared with 106 million dollars in 1929. Forty-one per cent of the resources is employed in government security investments, compared with less than 10 per cent in 1929. Commercial loans and credits make up 21 per cent, compared with 54 per cent in 1929. Other bonds and securities represent 15 per cent, corresponding closely to the ratio in 1929.

Northern's Pattern Similar

The pattern for the Northern Trust company is similar. It has resources of 688 million dollars, compared with 69 million in 1929. Government investments represent 59 per cent, compared with 14 per cent. Commercial loans and credits employ about 9 per cent, compared with 60 per cent in 1929.

There are marked differences between the two banks in the division of present day resources. The Harris shows a higher percentage employment of funds in commercial credits and a lower ratio for government bond investments, reflecting differences in the type of banking business done. The major changes in each since 1929, however, are similar.

Chicago's two largest banks, the Continental Illinois National and First National, have undergone similar changes. Resources of both have increased greatly in the last 16 years. Today 63 per cent of Continental's and 56 per cent of First National's resources are invested in government loans. In 1929 the Continental had only 5 per cent of its resources so employed and the First National had less than 2 per cent.

Totals Up Tho Ratios Drop

Altho the ratio of commercial loans and credits to total resources has dropped steeply in all four of these banks, three of them have more commercial loans and credits outstanding than 16 years ago.

For example, commercial loans and discounts of the Harris bank total 61 million dollars, compared

Banking Thaw Thru Europe Starts Slowly

BY WILLIAM FULTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 6—European banking institutions are slowly thawing their frozen position resulting from the war, but it will be a long time before capital again flows freely into the economic arteries of Europe.

The allied control commissions are demanding a thoro housecleaning of all nazi influences in the continental financial structure. Otherwise, the liberated countries are being permitted to work out their own banking rejuvenation, observers said.

Germany, which was the center of European economy before its defeat, is operating on a vastly reduced scale under rigid controls set forth in the Potsdam declaration. There is no central bank. Rather, there is the semblance of four banking system in each of the zones occupied by American, British, Russian, and French troops.

Reopen, But Mark Time

The only bank actually liquidated was the Nazis' Bank for German Labor. Private banks in the American, British, and French zones have been allowed to reopen under cautious controls. They are reported having little outlet for their limited funds, marking time except for a few loans to farmers and certain selected industries.

Deposits are increasing in the American zone. One interpretation of this trend is that the Germans are regaining confidence in their banking system. However, the more skeptical hold that the acute shortage of all goods and supplies leaves Germans nothing else to do with their money.

The soviet zone, according to reliable reports reaching London, lacks both banks and bankers. It was more intensively fought over and many banks were blasted or burned into rubble. Bankers fled before the Red armies carrying what records and currency they could, many to American and British territory, it is said.

Assets Tied in Nazi Debts

Nevertheless, soviet authorities decided banking had to be resumed. When Berlin was under their full control they established a stadt kontor or city bank. Banks in other cities were allowed to reopen as branches.

"No matter what their zone German banks are in an extremely difficult spot because their assets are tied up in German state bonds. No decision has been reached by the allied control commission in regard to recognition or servicing of this debt.

There is some discussion of "common policies" on currency and banking and establishing a central German finance ministry. The main difficulties lie in finding suitable personnel untainted by nazism for positions of such importance and responsibility. A system of interzonal bank clearances slowly is being devised so essential commercial transactions can be carried out.

Purge Has Four Phases

The possibility of inflation looms because of the tremendous increase in bank note circulation under the nazis and additional amounts of allied currency. There is no place for money to go because of the acute shortage of goods and almost a complete cessation of industrial production.

Reorganization of banking in liberated countries and purging nazi influences breaks up into these major phases: [1] Eliminating nazi administrators or "quisling" appointees in banks, [2] finding suitable new personnel, [3] rebuilding in each country a central direction of financial institutions, and [4] reestablishing intercountry relationships without nazi connections.

France has set the pattern generally for Belgium, Norway, Holland, Greece, Luxemburg, Yugoslavia, and other European countries. The French arrested some of their bankers as collaborationists and many banks are under investigation for deals with the nazis. The property of German branch banks set up during the occupation has been seized.

New Coal Shipping Curbs Will Affect Chicago Little

New restrictions prohibiting shipment of soft coal from commercial docks on the Great Lakes to dealers for residential or nonessential heating, announced by Fuel Administrator Ickes yesterday, should have no widespread effect on shipments thru Chicago, shippers said. Most coal is going to railroads or industrial plants, which are not affected by the order.

A. & P. TRIAL'S ISSUES CENTER ON INTEGRATION

Case Holds Many Ramifications

BY LEWIS HUNT,

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Danville, Ill., Oct. 6—After 18 weeks in court, prosecution of the government's anti-trust action against the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company has reached the stage where the issues as defined by both sides have taken clear cut form. Opposing counsel differ in their conceptions of the government's objective, but it is conceded that whatever United States District Judge Lindley's decision may be it will have historic effect on the business practice that combines manufacture and distribution.

When the government completed its case July 19 it had offered more than 4,500 exhibits to support its charge that A. & P. and 28 officials and subsidiaries had conspired to control "a substantial part of the food business in the United States." This was to be accomplished, the trial brief stated, in two ways:

"First, an integrated organization, including manufacturing facilities, buying facilities, and distribution outlets, was to be developed under a single management. Second, such integrated organization was to be used in such a way as to secure advantages over competitors not similarly integrated."

Becomes Center of Arguments

Thus introduced, "integration" has become the center of contention. A. & P.'s organization, with its subsidiaries, is called "vertical integration" because it handles some food items on all levels.

The government stated in its trial brief that it 'does not hold that "mere size in itself constitutes a violation." As the trial proceeded the prosecutors have said from time to time that vertical integration is not an offense in itself, but the manner of operating it.

The defense, however, has a different view of what the government has in mind. Since beginning their presentation on Sept. 17, when court reconvened after a two months' recess, the A. & P.'s lawyers have insisted that the government is attempting to outlaw integration in all fields of business.

Contention of Real Issue

"Stripped of such mumbo-jumbo as 'horizontal and vertical integration,' the government's theory in this case boils down to the proposition that it does not like this method of doing business," the defense trial brief said. "Its dislike is apparently bottomed on the theory that too much efficiency in the retail food business will destroy the competition of independent merchants."

Defense objection is based on its view that instead of intending a straightaway prosecution for alleged anti-trust violation, the government is seeking to make a pattern case to enable it to proceed against all vertically integrated businesses.

Professor Important Witness

The most important defense witness has been Malcolm P. McNair, professor of marketing in the Harvard graduate school of business administration, who testified last Wednesday.

Questioned by Atty. Henry I. Green of Urbana, Prof. McNair said that the cost of distributing food has decreased in the last 20 years whereas distribution costs generally have risen.

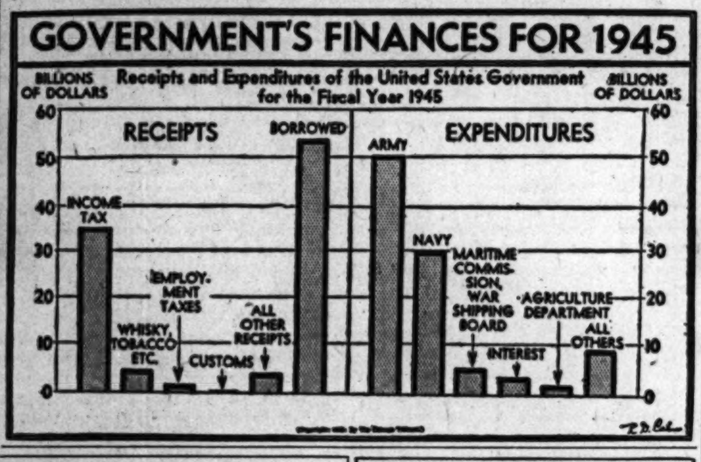
"Frankly, it is my opinion, based on studies, that vertical integration is really the heart of mass distribution," he said.

"There is no charge of any evil in integration itself," said Horace L. Flurry of the prosecution staff. "They [defendants] are charged with misuse of integration in specific conduct."

"Well, I am inclined to agree with you," said Judge Lindley, altho he permitted Prof. McNair's answer to stand, subject to objection.

The court sustained the government's objection to Prof. McNair's reading from two government publications commending food chain store operations.

GOVERNMENT'S FINANCES FOR 1945



Reports Many Improvements in '46 Buicks

Details of the 1946 Buick automobiles, which will have many improvements over the 1942 cars, were disclosed yesterday by Harlow H. Curtice, general manager of the Buick division of the General Motors corporation. Production, which has just started, will be confined at first to the 50 Super series with a 124 inch wheel base and characterized by the long front fenders which Buick introduced in 1942 models.

As production increases and materials become more abundant, the two other series will be assembled. These are the 70 Roadmaster on a 129 inch wheel base and the 40 Special on a 121 inch wheel base. Whereas the 1942 super models were confined to the 2 door bodies the 1946 line will be built in 4 door models also.

"Sweeping Airfoil Fenders"

In its announcement of the new models the company said they are "characterized by long, low appearance accentuated thru use of sweeping airfoil fenders in combination with wide bodies, massive front end treatment, smoothly fitting rear wheel shields and substantially simplified chrome trim."

The straight eight cylinder engine is being retained, tho with improvements and refinements. A new method has been developed for fabricating the cylinder bores for superior accuracy. A single carburetor of the dual downdraft type replaces the double, compound units formerly used. The cooling and spring systems have been refined. A new spark plugs is being used.

Heating, Ventilating Changed

Major changes have been made in the construction and controls of the car heating and ventilating equipment. Fresh air intake scoops mounted at the front of the grille have been enlarged and provided with fine mesh screens for better control of ventilating and heating.

Innovations include a new arrangement for the windshield wiper which gives virtually silent operation and a new bumper jack designed to straddle the bumper back bar, thereby preventing any tendency to slip sidewise when in use. The battery has been improved.

Charles Carroll

Levinson, Becker & Peebles, law firm, announced yesterday that Charles Carroll, former lieutenant colonel in the army ordnance department, had become associated with the firm in the general practice of law. Carroll was called to duty in March, 1941, and has been chief tax officer of the army ordnance department's legal branch and chief officer of the allied commission in charge of private properties in Italy. He was with the Chicago Title and Trust company before entering army service.

Graham Patterson, president of the Farm Journal Publishing company, Pittsburgh, Pa., will be chairman of the Brand Names Research foundation luncheon Thursday in the Palmer House. Several Chicago companies whose brand names have been in the market for 50 to 100 years will receive certificates of public service, presented by George L. Russell Jr. of Philadelphia, president of the John B. Stetson company and chairman of the foundation.

Charles S. Downs, director of advertising of Abbott Laboratories, announced the appointment of G. Harold Fritzlen and John F. Engelke Jr. as assistant advertising managers. Fritzlen has been in charge of production in the advertising department. Engelke has been copy chief.

Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will discuss reconversion in industry and education at the 41st anniversary dinner of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, in the Bismarck hotel Wednesday.

J. J. Laks, chief of the grocery and produce unit of the metropolitan OPA enforcement section, resigned yesterday to become general manager in Chicago for Altheimer, Baer & Co., household furnishings distributor.

GRAINS HIGHER; TALK OF PARITY HIKE IS FACTOR

Grain futures prices advanced rapidly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. General buying was attributed to department of agriculture estimates that possible passage of the Pace bill to include labor costs in parity prices would increase the parity on wheat 50 cents or more a bushel and other grains in proportion.

July and September wheat rose more than 2 cents a bushel to a new seasonal high and May barley went into new ground. Despite profit taking the close was near the top with wheat up ⅝ to 2 cents. Corn gained ⅛ to ⅝, oats were unchanged to ⅛ higher, rye gained ⅝ to 1⅝, and barley rose ¼ to ½.

COAL SHORTAGE TO CUT STEEL OUTPUT MORE

Threatens to Stall Auto Production

Further curtailments in steel production threaten unless labor disputes in the soft coal industry are ended soon, Chicago steel men said yesterday. Severe shrinkage in coking coal supplies because of strikes has caused several steel companies to reduce operations.

Curtailment of steel production is expected to deal a serious blow to the automobile industry which is just getting into production on its 1946 models. After having been closed for weeks by a strike at one of its principal suppliers Ford is resuming output again. General Motors' units have just been getting started and assembly lines of other companies were beginning operations. All would be halted soon by a closedown of the steel plants.

Will Cut Steel Output

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, big United States Steel corporation subsidiary, tomorrow will shut down six of its blast furnaces, three at the Gary mill and three at South Chicago, to conserve coal supplies. This will result in a 10 per cent reduction in steel output, officials said.

Having operated since V-J day at 90.2 per cent of capacity, this week's schedule will be at 80 per cent of capacity, they said. If all coal deliveries were to stop, a complete shutdown would result in three or four weeks.

Republic Steel corporation spokesmen said coke oven operations and pig iron production have been reduced about 35 per cent. Open hearth operations will continue at capacity as long as possible. Coal supplies will last about 10 days, a portion of which is in transit.

Would Leave Four Operating

Wilfred Sykes, Inland Steel company president, said two blast furnaces in the Indiana Harbor plant have been shut down, with another scheduled to be out of operation tomorrow if there is no improvement in supplies. The third shutdown would leave only four of Inland's furnaces in operation.

Officials of Wisconsin Steel company, a subsidiary of International Harvester company, said operations have not been affected because its mines are manned by members of the Progressive Mine Workers [AFL], and they are not on strike.

Officials of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company said there had been no shutdowns so far.

BIG FALL CATTLE SHIPMENTS FAIL TO MATERIALIZE

Contrary to the usual fall trend of large receipts of cattle, supplies in Chicago last week were far below normal. Arrivals were the smallest for the first week of October since 1941.

Conditions in the cattle and beef markets for weeks have been in sharp contrast to the congestion forecast earlier by federal officials. The heavy fall selling of cattle which many had expected after V-J day has not materialized.

This was emphasized by last week's developments at the stock yards. Chicago buyers paid an average of $16.85 for the steer supply, the highest weekly price since August, 1919, and the highest October level on record.

Last week was the fourth consecutive week that the cattle price average advanced, the longest uninterrupted rise since March.

CED Reports Trend to Rapid Reconversion

Walter D. Fuller

Possibilities of rapid reconversion were disclosed in a survey of 84 major cities and war production centers announced yesterday by the committee for economic development.

Twenty-five cities reported reconversion was well under way with no major unemployment problems indicated. Three will require a three month period, 20 six months, and 12 a year for full reconversion, but these cities did not expect serious unemployment problems.

Thirteen cities did not list the time required for full reconversion, not having sufficient data. One community predicted the peak of unemployment in 1947 and 10 cities did not foresee the day when all the unemployed could be hired.

"Not National Forecast"

Walter D. Fuller, chairman of C. E. D.'s field development division, said, "I wish to emphasize that this is a spot picture of reconversion. It is in no sense a national summation or forecast of the unemployment situation. What we are giving is a report of the pace at which reconversion is being accomplished or can be accomplished in the opinions of local business leaders.

"Many factors can influence the future stages of reconversion. As one example, many workers seem to have dropped out of the labor force. In a few months they may come back for jobs. It is unknown how many people today are going to draw their unemployment compensation and retire from paid employment; how many are on vacations; how many who find it unnecessary to work may do so if they find the kind of jobs they want."

Smaller Communities Report

C. E. D. also announced similar reports from approximately 800 communities, ranging in size from less than 1,000 to 80,000 population.

All except about three dozen of this group estimated unemployed in their areas can be rehired within the community after reconversion, provided that workers transfer to jobs in commerce and services when necessary. In many cases these transfers will involve reduction in take home pay because of reduced overtime and because prevailing wage rates in commerce and services are lower than in manufacturing industries.

500 Chicago Firms Sign Industry for Vets Pledge

More than 500 Chicago companies have signed the pledge of Industry for Veterans, James Simpson Jr., president, reported yesterday. Total signatories were 1,344 companies thruout Illinois and 21 other states.

INDUSTRY LIST BOOSTS STOCKS TO 8½ YEAR TOP

Many Issues Climb Point Or More

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Steels and pivotal industrial issues advanced one to more than three points today in the stock market and the average climbed to its highest level in eight and one-half years.

Revived hopes of strike settlements thruout the nation were a principal bidding stimulant for issues that stand to benefit when full peace time output begins. Large amounts of idle funds and realization of inflation possibilities also helped boost prices as did optimism over taxes. The likelihood of a technical correction, however, continued to keep many customers cautious.

Gains Well Maintained

Prices moved up from the start and, tho a few active issues slipped at the close, most gains were well maintained. Slow trading was frequent but transfers for the two hours totaled 770,000 shares, compared with 950,000 last Saturday. The week's volume of 8,750,000 shares was the largest since the week ended June 30.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.3 to 71.9, a top since March 31, 1937, and a gain of 0.9 in the week. Industrial and utility averages established peaks since Aug. 19 and March 11, 1937, respectively. Of 846 issues registering in the broadest two hour market since last Dec. 16, advances totaled 498 against 151 declines.

Pepsi-Cola, again the most active issue, touched a new high in the first hour, but met sufficient realizing to throw it for a loss of a point at the finish.

RAIL LIENS RISE AGAIN

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Railroad bonds rose again today, some issues advancing more than a point. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 5s of '54 B certified rose 6½, Seaboard Air Lines 4s of '50 certified, 3¼, and Milwaukee Road 4½s of '89 E, 2¼. Some Southern Pacific, Rio Grande Western, New York Central, and New Haven liens showed small declines.

Utilities were slightly lower on average and industrials were mixed.

CHICAGO STOCKS ADVANCE

Chicago stock prices mostly higher in turnover of 23,000 shares yesterday. Sixty issues of the 96 traded advanced against 17 declines. More active issues included Cities Service, up 1 to a 1945 peak of 25⅛; Consolidated Biscuit, up ½; Miller & Hart and Asbestos Manufacturing, each up ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, unchanged.

PRODUCTIVE DOLLARS FOR INDUSTRY

A Suggestion To Executives, Their Bankers or Legal Representatives
We Are Principals . . .

READY TO PAY CASH FOR A BUSINESS

We are prepared to negotiate for the outright purchase of a business, either manufacturing or retail . . . and will pay all cash. It is our policy to come to you as buyers; you do not approach us as a seller. Negotiations will be kept confidential—we deal with you directly as principals.

We have funds available for the purchase of operating companies or their subsidiaries, either acquiring up to 100% of the capital stock or their assets. It has been our consistent policy to continue existing executive and operating management wherever possible and practical so to do.

As principals we would like to consider the purchase of solvent, well-established operating companies or their subsidiaries with at least $200,000 assets and regardless of current earnings. We prefer concerns valued at $500,000 or more. If investigation indicates to us that you should not sell your business, we will frankly tell you so. Address your inquiry to Chairman of the Board, marked "Confidential".

BANK INVESTING PRACTICE SHIFTS WIDELY SINCE '29

with 42 millions in 1929. This bank and others were able to increase commercial loans while adding heavily to their government investments because of the vast expansion in resources that accompanied the latter operation.

The position of banks today is considered strong. The government securities they hold consist in a large part of short term issues. It is commonly accepted that the government will enforce a policy of continued low interest rates, thus maintaining the prices of long term government securities near present levels.

In any event, the set-up is such that banks do not foresee losses such as those incurred after the last war when the slump in bond prices carried 4th Liberty loan 4¼s from a level of 100 in 1918 to 85 two years later.

The position of the banks in 1929 appeared much stronger than subsequent events proved it to be. The drastic deflation in market values of securities, commodities, and real estate that occurred in the three ensuing years impaired or destroyed the ability of many private borrowers to meet their obligations. Present stock market loans are relatively small and large corporations generally are in a strong capital position.

Chicago Bank Clearings Decrease to 489 Millions

Chicago bank clearings last week were $489,700,000, compared with 516 millions in the preceding week and $470,700,000 a year ago, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures:

	Clearings	Balances
Monday	$76,700,000	$ 5,000,000
Tuesday	82,700,000	13,900,000
Wednesday	84,200,000	7,500,000
Thursday	76,300,000	6,100,000
Friday	78,600,000	8,300,000
Saturday	91,200,000	8,700,000

STRAUS OFFERS
THESE SUGGESTIONS:

1st, Renew your present lease if possible.

2d, Eliminate the idea that producers of war materials are going out of business; 90% of them are in production or ready to produce civilian merchandise.

3d, Forget gov't surplus properties. They would not supply 2% of the present demand.

4th, New building is not a certainty with the unknown supply or price of labor or material.

5th, A successful business must grow, and there has been no expansion of normal requirements during the war.

Conclusion: Investigate without obligation our offerings. No responsible broker will refute these facts.

INDUSTRIAL PROPERTIES

To Buy or Not to Buy
To those needing 50 m. sq. ft. or more. Don't get desperate and think your only solution is to build. Overlook no bets, especially this Gibraltar of a factory with about 200 m. of solid stone, steel, etc.
100 m. without a post, on truck level, same area on track level. You couldn't duplicate this long slung Goliath for a $1,000,000 today. It's clean as a whistle.

70,000 Sq. Ft.
Without Cost
Available to you as soon as we can move to smaller quarters [or might exchange with you], rest available in 2 years, but meantime rents pay all costs and net you 5% beside giving you your 70 m. space free.
Better move fast, this is too good to last; if forced to build you'll wait until summer to get settled. Here's the workshop of your dreams. Ready to move into. You can overlook its somewhat unfavorable Chicago location—its good points far outshadow all else—costs you little more than a new 70 m. bldg., but see what you get. This ad tells only a part—for full facts.

You can safely count on a very strong Suburban Boom in the next few years. While we do not advise building a new home at once; we think it wise to select the site for a home NOW. Land in desirable areas for new building has not moved up so much as most other real estates values [homes] but it will do so soon.

PUBLIC AUCTION
on the premises
SAT., OCT. 20TH, AT 3 P. M.
by
COLONEL
J. CLINTON BOWDEN
Nationally Known Land Auctioneer of Oak Park, Illinois.
Included on the farm are two wooded sections containing a great variety of beautiful trees; oak, maples, walnut, elms. The larger section is adjacent to the farm buildings. What a prize grove to appreciate! THE FARM HOME, No. 1, is a 2-story white frame house, two years old; 4 bedrooms, 2 baths; dining room, living room, lovely kitchen with most modern electrical fixtures and plumbing. A wood burning fireplace equipped with Heat-O-Lator unit heating system is perfect. Heavy insulation also insures against loss of heat. Air-conditioned; it's an adorable home. No. 2 is a new 6-room frame white house. Best of conveniences. Occupied by the farm helper and his family.
The DAIRY BARN is erected to perfection with the latest devices. When you inspect this perfect dairy barn, you will agree it is the best money can buy; it's a model of dairy efficiency, insulated against sudden changes in temperature which are injurious to cattle. A special fire hydrant is installed nearby. Maternity Pens are the best. Ideal Milk House. Steel barn, 100 ton capacity; two new Silos, 300 ton capacity. Large, round, cement Crib and Granary, capacity 8,000 bushels. Large Machine Shed. Work Shop attached. Poultry House. Surrounding the buildings is a 5-board white fence, which is an added attraction.
NOW THE REASON this farm is such a wonderful purchase is the fact that nowhere could you buy such PRODUCING SOIL at the price. Seldom can you purchase a farm where the buildings and soil are so valuable—just think not a building four years old.
AUCTIONEER'S STATEMENT: "In my career of more than 50 years selling over 1,000 farms, I have never sold the equal of this gorgeous place. Drive out this Sunday and inspect the class of home buildings and soil you have always wanted."
Send for illustrated catalogue.
TERMS: 15% down on day of auction; balance in 30 days. Mortgage arranged if desired. Fifty acres of standing corn goes with the sale. Looks like 100 bushels per acre.

Builders Disclose City, Suburban Plans

(This is the third article on what Chicago home builders plan to do when all federal controls on construction are removed next week.)

BY AL CHASE
[Real Estate Editor]

John C. Lindop

Chicago's largest home building program is rapidly getting under way. Never before has there been such a vast backlog of needed living quarters. In addition to thousands of single family dwellings announced as soon as the public learned it could build what, when, and where it chose after Oct. 15, several million dollars' worth of apartments are scheduled for construction soon, it was learned yesterday.

The Fred J. Walsh company has probably the most ambitious apartment building program of any Chicago builder. It expects to construct seven buildings in Chicago and Evanston, containing 306 apartments, and costing 1¾ million dollars. In addition it plans many single family homes.

Start on Evanston Flats

The Evanston flat buildings have all been started. At the northwest corner of Ridge av. and Dobson st. three six-apartment buildings are being built. Three six-flat buildings are under way at the northeast corner of Elmwood av. and Dobson. On the south side of Oakton st., between Callan and Custer avs., seven six-flat buildings are under construction.

With the exception of an 18 flat building nearing completion at 225 Custer, these three Walsh projects are the first apartments constructed in Evanston for some years, it was said.

Walter Schuhknecht, another Chicago residential builder, has outlined a large apartment house program for 1946. He intends building four 32 flat buildings, costing $700,000, on N. Kolmar av., near Diversey.

Plans $840,000 Homes

In addition to building 80 homes last summer, Schuhknecht will start work on $840,000 more of single family units in the Nagle av. and Higgins rd. area. Thirty will be built this fall and 75 during 1946, he said.

One of the biggest privately financed apartment projects built in Chicago since Pearl Harbor is nearing completion at the southeast corner of Lowell and Barry avs., by Schuhknecht. It will cost about $385,000 and contain 60 suites in 11 separate buildings, designed by Architect B. J. Bruns. They were financed with a $310,000 FHA mortgage made by the Merchants National bank.

Each apartment will have its individual automatic gas heating unit, so tenants may control the temperature without calling on the janitor. A separate basement is provided for each two apartments. The project will have three playgrounds.

Lindop to Build Flats

John Cummings Lindop, who completed one of the few war time suburban apartment buildings recently in River Forest, said he will build several more. In addition he contemplates building 300 residences in the $10,000 to $20,000 bracket in the west suburban area in 1946.

Morton Robbins, president of Moderate Cost Homes Construction company, announced plans for 376 homes, costing 3½ million dollars, during the balance of 1945 and in 1946.

Harry Quinn, one of the south side's most active builders, said he intends building 250 more homes, costing 2 million dollars. He negotiated a $469,500 refunding loan on his Damen av. and W. 76th st. development thru Dovenmuehle, Inc., for 20 years at 4 per cent.

150 Homes for Glenview

Red Seal Homes, Inc., affiliated with the National Mortgage and Investment company, will build 150 homes in 1946 in its Glenview Park manor, at Golf rd. and Harlem av. It is completing 60 homes for veterans.

Arthur E. Fossier of La Grange, president of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders' association, said he will start work on 50 homes this fall in La Grange, La Grange Park, and Western Springs. In 1946 he expects to build at least 200 homes in the $10,000 to $20,000 bracket.

The only limitations the builder has today is his ability to get materials and labor, Fossier said. The public demand seems unlimited.

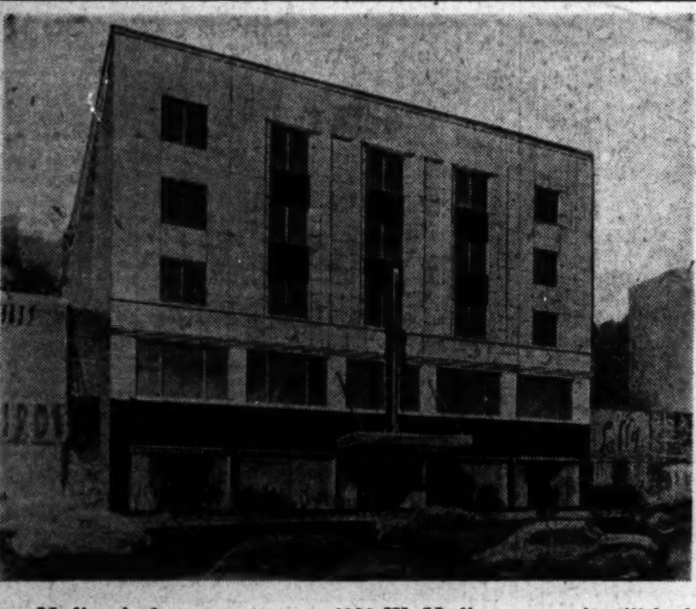
West Side Store to Expand



Madigan's department store, 4030 W. Madison st., as it will look when a three story addition is completed.

Madigan Plans a Three Story Store Addition

Madigan Brothers, west side department store, yesterday announced completion of plans for a $375,000 addition of three new floors to the present two story and basement building at 4030 W. Madison st. Leichenko & Esser is architect. The 49,000 square feet of floor space to be added will double the store's selling space. Departments will be enlarged and several new ones added, it was said.

The expansion will continue a modernization program begun in 1937 when an entire new front was installed. A year later the store was air conditioned. In 1940 the interior was remodeled and new equipment and lighting installed.

The store was founded in 1881 by three Madigan brothers, uncles and the father of the present owners. Joseph D. Madigan is president, Maj. George P. Madigan is secretary, now post-exchange officer at West Point, N. Y., and Miss Marion Madigan is treasurer.

Work on the new addition will be started Nov. 1 with completion set for late next spring.

COSMETIC FIRM TO BUILD PLANT ON NORTH SIDE

Purchase of the northwest corner of Seneca ct. and Illinois st., 150 by 100 feet, yesterday by Associated Distributors, Inc., gave the company an entire block of frontage on the north side of Illinois, between St. Clair st. and Seneca. A five story plant to match the five story building at the northeast corner of St. Clair and Illinois, purchased by Associated for $200,000 in 1944, is planned when building conditions permit, said David Kendall, general manager.

It will be used for the manufacture and shipping of cosmetics. The Seneca-Illinois corner was bought for $50,000 from the Swift estate thru the Bowes Realty company.

Associated Distributors, headed by Lewis J. Ruskin, president of Ford-Hopkins company, recently bought the eight story building at 1006-12 S. Michigan av. from the E. J. Lehmann estate thru Robert Lehmann for $200,000 cash. It will be used as a warehouse. Frank G. Reynolds was broken for the buyer. The lot, 87 by 127 feet, was the original homesite of Edward J. Lehmann, founder of The Fair.

Six Story Loop Building Is Sold for $151,000

The six story building at 115 N. Wabash av., 24 by 162 feet, was sold for $151,000 by the New York Life Insurance company to the La Salle National bank, trustee, R. M. Grossman, attorney for the buyer, said.

Fruit Firm Buys Former Fleischman Yeast Plant

The Standard Fruit Processing company, 401 N. Paulina st., yesterday bought the industrial plant at 2600-28 W. 19th st. formerly occupied by the Fleischman's Yeast division of Standard Brands, Inc. Title was taken in the name of the Liberty National bank, trustee, with Charles T. Greene, president of Standard Fruit, and Ann Greene as beneficiaries of the trust. A $110,000 remodeling program is being partly financed with a $70,000 10 year first mortgage at 4½ per cent interest, negotiated by Stephen G. Cohn, president of the First Mortgage corporation.

AIR LINE LEASES SPACE IN 5 STORY BUILDING IN LOOP

American Airlines, Inc., has leased 25,000 square feet of floor space in the Williams building at the southeast corner of Wabash av. and Monroe st., the company said yesterday. It will be remodeled into a ticket office, passenger terminal, and headquarters for the reservations department and regional and district sales offices of American.

This will make the Wabash-Monroe intersection and near-by areas the center of Chicago's air line business activities. Most of the major lines will have their ticket offices within a block of that point. Northwest Airlines recently completed an elaborate office a block east at Monroe and Michigan av. Eastern Airlines is a few doors south.

T. W. A. to Spend $100,000

Transcontinental and Western leased the northeast corner of Wabash and Monroe and has started work on one of the most modern ticket offices in the country from plans by Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, at a reported cost of $100,000. United Airlines, Braniff Airways, and Chicago and Southern Airlines have ticket offices in the Palmer House.

American Airlines leased space for its new quarters from the University of Chicago for 10⅓ years beginning Jan. 1, 1947. Lyndon H. Lesch, assistant treasurer, represented the university, and Lewis W. King, regional vice president represented the air line. The lease includes the corner store, the second floor containing 18,000 square feet and 5,000 square feet of basement space.

Seek Other Air Lines

A supplemental lease provides for immediate possession of second floor space to be occupied by the air line's reservations department now at the municipal airport.

Architect Ralph Milman has been commissioned by the university to prepare plans for remodeling and air conditioning the entire five story building with a view to leasing the remainder of the first floor space for other air lines' ticket offices and passenger terminals.

A new private street lighting system for Monroe st., between Wabash and Michigan av. rivaling State st. in brilliance, is planned by the university and Aldis & Co., manager of the Champlain and Monroe buildings, it was said.

START CLEARING TAX DELINQUENT EVANSTON PLOTS

The first of 6,000 Evanston lots, delinquent in special assessments for several years, has been placed back on the tax roll, Atty. Sidney W. Mandel said yesterday. The remainder, with $300,000 in delinquencies, are expected to be cleared shortly.

The property is a vacant lot on the west side of Hurd st., south of Isabella av., valued at $1,400. Principal and interest special assessment liens delinquent since 1929, totaled $1,800. The price bid to settle the delinquencies was $892. The property now probably will be improved, Mandel said.

The suit was known as City of Evanston vs. W. Dale McLaughlin. Thru coöperation of City Atty. O. D. Buckles an offer of settlement was submitted to the city council and an ordinance approving it passed. The sale was held on Aug. 6. Last week Circuit Court Judge Harry M. Fisher confirmed the decree of sale.

ASTOR STREET APARTMENTS TO BE REMODELED

The six story apartment building at 1415 Astor st. was purchased yesterday by Robert H. Reid, of R. H. Reid & Co., for $128,000. It will be remodeled next May into 20 suites of 2½ to 5 rooms, for October occupancy. It has 5 large apartments—4 with 13 rooms and 5 baths and a penthouse suite of 18 rooms and 7 baths occupied by the seller, Mrs. Vail Bucklin, widow of the patent medicine manufacturer of that name. Helen Gately, of Ross, Browne & Fleming, was broker. The remodeling will cost $50,000 Reid said.

This is the first of a series of articles describing the major campaigns of World War II. in which Americans took part. Other articles of the series, illustrated with maps, as this one is, will appear from time to time in the Graphic Section.

AS THE WORLD WAITED for the western allies, America and Great Britain, to launch a large scale offensive against Germany and Italy, the blow was struck not in continental Europe, as many were expecting it to be, but in North Africa.

On Nov. 8, 1942, three major landings were made on the African coast, two from the Mediterranean and one from the Atlantic, the greatest sea borne assaults ever delivered up to this time. Under the supreme command of General Eisenhower, American and British troops poured ashore at Casablanca, Morocco, and Oran and Algiers, Algeria. At Casablanca forces of the Vichy French navy resisted for five days, but at Oran French troops surrendered after two days and at Algiers they made little resistance. Not long after the landings the French were ordered by Admiral Darlan to coöperate with the allies.

Axis military leaders had not been expecting this African invasion, the purpose of which was to drive eastward and occupy Tunisia before the Germans and Italians could concentrate in strength there. The enemy thus was caught flat-footed, but he quickly sized up the situation and acted almost as quickly. As the allies were making additional landings at Agadir, Mogador, Port Lyautey, and later at Philippeville and Bone, the beginning of the Tunisia campaign began to take shape.

Altho the campaign in Tunisia was in its broadest purpose a dress rehearsal for the greater campaign that was to follow in Europe, it proved to be a grim and costly one. In carrying it thru to victory the allies naturally, owing to lack of experience, made some mistakes, but all the while they were learning the lessons of modern warfare that were to prove so valuable in the final crushing of Germany.

The networks of major movements made by the allied and enemy troops in the campaign—advances, withdrawals, and flanking operations—are presented in the accompanying maps, which provide the details of the fighting that are covered in a general way in this article. The lines in the maps, it should be borne in mind, represent only the routes taken by land forces.

The initial German reactions to the African invasion were a sweep into unoccupied France, the seizure of Corsica, and the rushing of troops to Bizerte and Tunis, the two principal cities of Tunisia.

Unable, because of a lack of transports and carrier plane coverage, to occupy Tunisia at the same time his forces landed in Morocco and Algeria, Eisenhower ordered a quick thrust into Tunisia from the west. Advancing eastward from Algiers, the allied force available for this undertaking amounted to little more than a division. It encountered bad roads and other difficulties and thus was slowed up in its drive, giving the enemy in the meantime a chance to seize the mountains on the western approaches to Tunisia. As the year 1942 came to a close the Germans and Italians held a strongly defended line running north and south thru Medjezel Bab.

In this manner came to an end the first of the four phases into which the Tunisia campaign has been divided by military writers. The allied drive to seize Tunisia before the enemy could mass his strength there had failed—a drive that marked the first appearance of American troops fighting side by side with the British against the Nazis and the Fascists.

Thruout the rest of the cold, rainy winter, designated as the second phase of the campaign, the enemy delivered five separate major attacks against the allies along this front, employing both armored and infantry divisions. His object was to hold the Tunisian corridor open until the German General Rommel in his retreat westward all the way from Egypt could arrive with his Afrika corps.

Most desperate of the German attacks was a blow by armor against untried American troops resting on the end of the long supply lines before Gafsa. The enemy tanks pushed thru the pass at Sidi Faid to Sbeitla, Gafsa, and Feriana in a three-pointed thrust which on Feb. 14, 1943, overran the Kasserine pass. Nearly half of the American 1st armored division's tanks were lost in this action, and the Americans retreated to avoid complete encirclement from the south. The position of the allies in central Tunisia now was gravely threatened.

The American 9th and 34th infantry divisions were rushed forward to the front from Oran, the artillery of the 9th being forced by the emergency to cover 770 miles in three days, an achievement possible only for motorized equipment.

As British troops held the enemy on the north flank and allied bombers swept over the front in large numbers, the German drive, led by Rommel, who by this time had swung part of his force from the east into central Tunisia, finally was stopped near Thala. The enemy commander was compelled to pull back thru the Kasserine pass. Sbeitla was retaken by the Americans on March 1 and Gafsa on March 17. By the 22d the allies had rolled eastward to Maknassy and were threatening the rear of the Mareth line, the old system of defenses constructed by the French.

In the meantime the allies had been reorganizing their forces for the final conquest of Tunisia. Land troops under the British General Alexander were designated as the 18th army group. Over them, and over naval units and air forces as well, was Eisenhower, the supreme commander. The land forces included the British 1st army under Anderson, striking at Tunisia from the west; the British 8th army under Montgomery, who had been pursuing Rommel out of the east; the French 19th corps under Juin, and the American 2d corps under Fredendall, later under Patton, and still later under Bradley. Fredendall was replaced by Patton in mid-March. The American corps consisted of the 1st, 9th, 34th, and 1st armored divisions. Air Marshal Tedder (Continued on page five)

SOO LOCKS HAVE A BOOM

Graphic Laboratory of Popular Science

By JOHN G. ZABELKA

FRATE continues to pour thru the interlake canal locks at Sault Ste. Marie at the rate of 500,000 tons a day. Aided by high water, steamers for the first time are loading to capacity, an average of more than 10,000 tons per cargo ship, and 80 cargo ships use the five locks—four American and one Canadian—each day.

Thru July of this year a total of 56,754,775 tons of frate had been handled by the locks, most of it iron ore. This compares with 59,594,436 tons at the halfway mark of the record year of 1942, when 120,199,479 tons were handled during the first full year of war.

The locks operate about nine months of the year. This year they were opened early to permit transit of maritime cargo carriers from Duluth to the gulf via Chicago. The transit of the Duluth-built carriers was in January, the first time in history that cargo ships used the river in the dead of winter. The river was opened by the $10,000,000 United States coast guard ice crusher Mackinac, stationed at Cheboygan and built purposely for keeping the upper lake channels open for traffic.

Lockmen say that thus far there has been no change in the complexion of the frate. Iron ore continues to be the chief commodity, and sometimes more than 20,000 tons are carried in a single cargo of the modern Pittsburgh Steamship company ore fraters when they take advantage of the record draft of 24.5 feet provided by the $14,000,000 General MacArthur lock, completed in 1943.

Perhaps the best way to appreciate the size of the cargoes carried on Great Lakes steamers is to break them down into acres. For instance, the entire crop of nearly 30,000 acres of wheat can be stowed away in the cargo hold of a Great Lakes frater such as the Col. James M. Schoonmaker, which twice in succession last July broke the grain cargo record on the Great Lakes. The Schoonmaker carried 525,500 bushels of wheat (15,750 tons) to Port McNicoll. Her cargo on the basis of 18 bushels to the acre represented the total yield of 29,200 acres of land.

Important new records for cargo bottoms of United States registry during this year included: Iron ore, 18,593 gross tons (more than 20,000 short tons); wheat, 525,500 bushels; oats, 721,000 bushels.

The ore cargo record was established by the Benjamin F. Fairless, which loaded the 18,593 tons at Two Harbors, Minn., on June 30.

The closest of the locks shown in this picture, the Weitzel lock, was replaced by the MacArthur lock. The other American locks are the Poe, Davis, and Sabin. The Canadian lock is shown in the far background.

The official opening of the General MacArthur lock, with the frater Carl D. Bradley passing thru it. This lock is 800 feet long, 80 feet wide. The Sabin and Davis locks each are 1,350 feet long and 80 feet wide, while the Poe lock is 704 feet long, 100 feet wide.

The Fairless, one of the Pittsburgh fleet's super-steamers, is 640 feet long and 67 feet abeam, steam turbine, 5,000 horsepower, capable of making a 2,400 mile round trip of the Great Lakes in 5½ days, including loading and unloading. She was built in 1942. Her captain is Harry Ashby and chief engineer Leland Haggan.

A sister ship, the Irving S. Olds, last year traveled some 75,000 miles, equivalent to three times around the earth. The Olds alone carried 700,000 tons of iron ore last year.

While allocation of cargo space has been shifted somewhat in favor of grain in view of the relief needs thruout the world, there remains tremendous need for iron ore for reconversion.

A combination of circumstances permits these record cargoes.

In the first place, the war time General MacArthur lock, greatest of the four on the American side of the Sault river, opened July 11, 1943, permits greater draft than any other lock here. In the second place, the water level of the Great Lakes is holding up well, thanks in part to the Ogoki diversion in northern Ontario, which is dumping 5,000 feet of water per minute into Lake Superior. It is interesting that this diversion of water from one of Ontario's inland lakes was effected to permit mining ore at the lake's bottom. This ore is now being shipped by train to Port Arthur for transporting to steel centers.

A third factor in the heavy shipping is the 24.5 feet permissible draft. That's about the maximum of the Great Lakes ore and grain fleet. A half dozen Pittsburgh ore carriers are built for 24.7 feet maximum draft.

The combined fleet of some 300 fraters at the present rate is expected to transport thru the locks close to 115,000,000 tons of frate, including some 85,000,000 tons of iron ore.

Lockmen are of the opinion that the rush of iron ore and other frate will continue well into peace days to supply tremendous peace time needs as the nation heads into reconversion.

As an example of the type of frate carried thru the locks, the July lock report, the latest available, shows: Pulpwood, 127,984 tons; flour, 12,933 tons; wheat, 1,777,038 tons; grain other than wheat, 256,897 tons; iron ore, 11,677,969 tons; soft coal, 1,806,228 tons; hard coal, 77,951 tons; petroleum products, 119,435 tons.

The total of frate in June, both eastbound and westbound, thru the American and Canadian locks was 15,948,737 tons, which is more than 500,000 tons a day.

Lake Superior at 602.95 feet above sea level is only .57 foot below the high stage of July, 1943, and Lake Huron at 581.01 feet above sea level is only 1.129 feet below the high stage of July, 1929.

The frate figures show clearly why Sault was the most heavily fortified inland city in the United States during the early stages of the war.

To safeguard this traffic in ore, wheat, and coal Uncle Sam stationed 12,000 troops here and in the Canadian Sault, and also scattered in outposts extending to Hudson bay. Barrage balloons floated from 51 anchorages in and around the Sault and at the locks, while 48 anti-aircraft guns pointed heavenward to intercept possible air borne foes. In addition there were WACs, chemical troops, military police, medical corps, station complement (Fort Brady).

A steamship of the Chicago Tribune fleet loaded with pulpwood. Tribune ships bring pulpwood down thru the Sault locks from timberlands at Heron bay on Lake Superior.

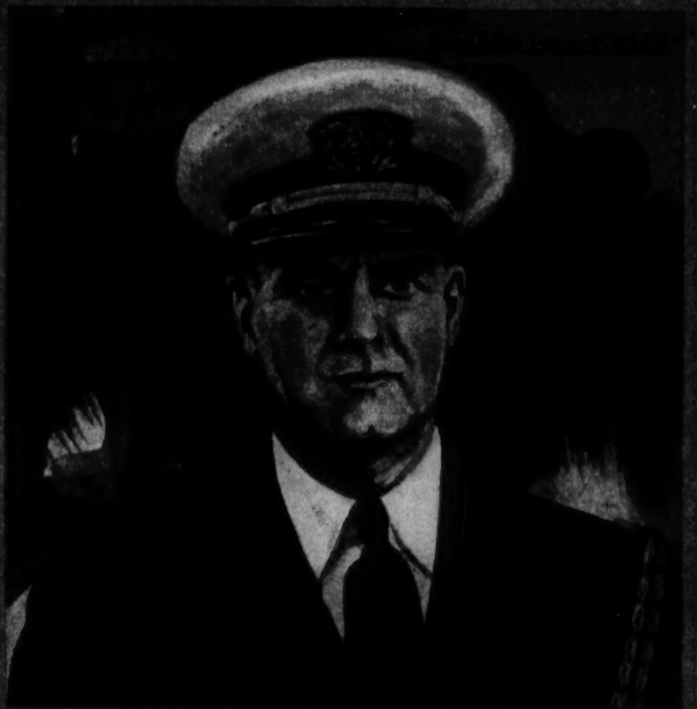
AMERICAN HEROES OF WORLD WAR II.



This is another of the series on outstanding American heroes of the present war. Subjects are heroes who have been decorated for valor. Illustrations are by Clare Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

AMONG the first of America's heroes to lose their lives in our war with Japan was Rear Adm. Isaac C. Kidd, who as commander of a battleship division of the Pacific fleet helped direct the fighting at Pearl Harbor from the bridge of his flagship, the U. S. S. Arizona.

The Japanese aviators on that fateful day of Dec. 7, 1941, concentrated a considerable part of their attack on the battleship Arizona. In fact, it was the only one of our capital ships lost at Pearl Harbor, all of the others hit and damaged, including the U. S. S. Oklahoma, which at first was regarded as a loss, being raised later for service, some of them within a surprisingly short time.

In an inferno of fire Admiral Kidd remained gallantly at his post of action until he was killed. On the following April 1 the posthumous award of the medal of honor (congressional medal) to the heroic officer was announced. The government further honored him by naming a new destroyer after him. The vessel was launched on Feb. 18, 1943.

Born in Cleveland, O., March 26, 1884, Admiral Kidd was graduated from the naval academy in 1906. He served on various vessels from time to time, at the academy at two different periods, and at one time was captain of the port of Cristobal in the Canal Zone. In 1935 and 1936 he commanded a destroyer squadron. Before becoming commander of a division of the Pacific fleet he was captain of the Arizona, the vessel upon which he later lost his life.

Can BORDERLINE ANEMIA* Sap Your Stamina and Strength?

THE answer is yes! Borderline Anemia can steal away your pep and vigor—can take all the fun out of life. Borderline Anemia makes people pale and listless.

And medical records say that thousands and thousands of men—as many as 68% of women—suffer from a Borderline Anemia resulting from a ferro-nutritional deficiency of the blood.

You Need Big Red Blood Cells to Release Energy

If your oxygen-carrying, energy-releasing red cells aren't sufficiently large and rich, you can't hope to keep your full vigor. Your blood is the "supply line" of energy to every muscle, every fibre of your body.

Better Blood, More Energy with Ironized Yeast

*Resulting from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Energy-Building Blood

This is what the doctor sees through his microscope looking at blood rich in energy-elements. Note big, plentiful red cells that carry oxygen to release energy to every muscle, limb, tissue.

Borderline Anemia

Thousands have blood like this—and never know it. Note puny size and irregular shape of red cells. Blood like this can't generate the energy you need! Only sturdy blood can give you top energy.

MEET THE DIRECTORS!

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

GEORGE SIDNEY . . . started as an office boy.

ROBERT Z. LEONARD . . . from odd jobs to director.

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune)

Hollywood

IF YOU'RE as curious as I am, I'm sure you'd like to get a peek behind the scenes. Here, where the stars get all the credit, we seldom give you the lowdown about the men behind the camera on each picture. I'm talking about the directors. Inasmuch as the two fellows I have in mind are behind two of our greatest screen successes—and I do mean George Sidney, who directed "Anchors Aweigh," and Bob Leonard, whose "Weekend at the Waldorf" you'll be seeing in a few weeks—I thought you'd like to know something about them. They've both been in show business since their youth—in a different capacity.

When George first started he was known as General Nuisance, and, believe me, he lived up to that title. He was 14 when he caught the ear of one of the big boys at Metro, who paused long enough to say, "And what do you think you should do in the picture business?" "Direct," answered young George. "Why, that's impossible," spluttered the big one. "Don't you know you'd have to spend at least three years in each department at the studio? And do you know how many departments we have here?" "Okay," flipped young Sidney. "I'm young, so I'll start as an office boy." And he did.

But Bob Leonard wasn't that lucky. At 14 he was doing odd jobs around the theater, hoping to get a look-in as an actor. Yes, Pop, as we lovingly call him, finally did, and he was a handsome leading man for many years.

We've been friends from away back when we used to dance the light fantastic at the old "60" club in New York, and he nicknamed me Heda Hooper.

Bob came here in 1922 to shoot exteriors for a Mae Murray epic. He expected to stay two weeks. Today, 23 years later, Leonard has just signed a new long-term contract with Metro. That's a good item for the chamber of commerce—Pop came for two weeks and stayed 23 years. Now he's the dean of film directors, but let me point out he's dean in point of service only—not age.

What a different setup he had in the old days! He remembers when stars worked in pictures only under assumed names on their summer vacations. They wore heavy disguises so their real identities were not revealed on the screen, because their reputations might have been soiled or injured if they'd let it be known they were working for the flickers, as they were called then.

Bob, like Clark Gable, got into pictures because he could ride a horse. In the early days of the 1900s nature provided our settings and horses were our leading actors. In 1907 the industry was built around one-reelers. They could be made by five people. It was share and share alike in those days—each person getting $7.50 a day. That included the director. And if the picture cost more than $250 you lost your job. That was all they had—there wasn't any more.

The early movies were strictly off the cuff. Pop illustrates this by mentioning the first scene he ever played. He was told to ride to the top of the hill and look off expectantly at something in the distance.

"What am I supposed to be looking at?" he asked.

"We'll decide after lunch," replied the director, who was still busily writing the script on a single sheet of paper.

But things change, even in a few years. By 1913 Mack Sennett was paying an obscure slapstick comic $100 a week. His name was Charlie Chaplin, and only three years later he was getting $670,000 a year. But Mary Pickford topped them all in 1917—she got a million.

Bob also remembers testing a new girl in 1924 whose name was Greta Garbo. In fact, he's directed practically every great name of the screen. He was responsible for the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy epics. It was in one of them that the front office sent out Jimmy Stewart to him to play a small part. After running thru the scene Bob Leonard took time out to go to the front office and say: "I can't use that boy in this scene. He's too good. You've got a star on your hands, not a bit player."

Lana Turner did her first acting under Bob's direction in "Ziegfeld Girl." Bob also did "The Great Ziegfeld" and "The Divorcee," which won Norma Shearer an Oscar. He also directed Norma in "The Restless Sex," but in that she only played an extra. He can remember the time Clark Gable was one of the mob in "The Cardboard Lover."

Yep, Pop knows them all. They don't come any bigger than Bob Leonard, and when they started thinking seriously of doing "Weekend at the Waldorf" it was only natural that they should think of him. He's done a swell job. "You can have the old days," says he. "I'm living for today and tomorrow."

Now let's go back to former Office Boy George Sidney. As a matter of fact, there isn't much George hasn't done, including a turn in vaudeville. He has a fine musical background. His dad managed theaters east and west. Once in Denver he had four theaters within four blocks of each other, and George saw from four to five pictures a day. Says he: "I still remember many of them, including 'Nanook of the North,' 'Foolish Wives,' and 'Over the Hill.' But it was when I was known as General Nuisance and got $1.50 a week that I really started what I thought was directing. My job in a Pittsburgh vaudeville house was seeing that all employes were in the theater on time and in their proper places, and for that I could see all the acts free. When I thought some of them needed improving I didn't hesitate to speak right up to Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen. I couldn't understand why they never used any of my ideas. When I look back upon it I wonder why they ever let me live.

"Of course, starting as a mes-

Clowns in Cones

By MARY MEADE

EASY-TO-EAT, nutritious food, prepared in an eye-catching way, is the pattern for children's parties. They like color and trimmings in their refreshments as well as table decorations.

These ice cream clowns will do a great deal more toward coaxing youngsters to eat than the honeyed blandishments of mothers. An inverted cone forms the hat, raisins are used for the eyes, and pieces of cherry make the nose and mouth. A cooky forms the collar of the clown's suit. For convenience in eating the cones may be turned right side up.

ICE CREAM CLOWNS

(Serves six)

6 large cookies
1 quart vanilla ice cream
6 ice cream cones
Seedless raisins
Candied or maraschino cherries

Place cookies on a serving plate. Put a ball of ice ceram on each and top with an inverted cone. Decorate each ball of ice cream with raisins for eyes and pieces of cherry for nose and mouth.

If you want to enlarge the menu, serve tiny sandwiches cut with fancy shaped cooky cutters and a cool glass of milk.

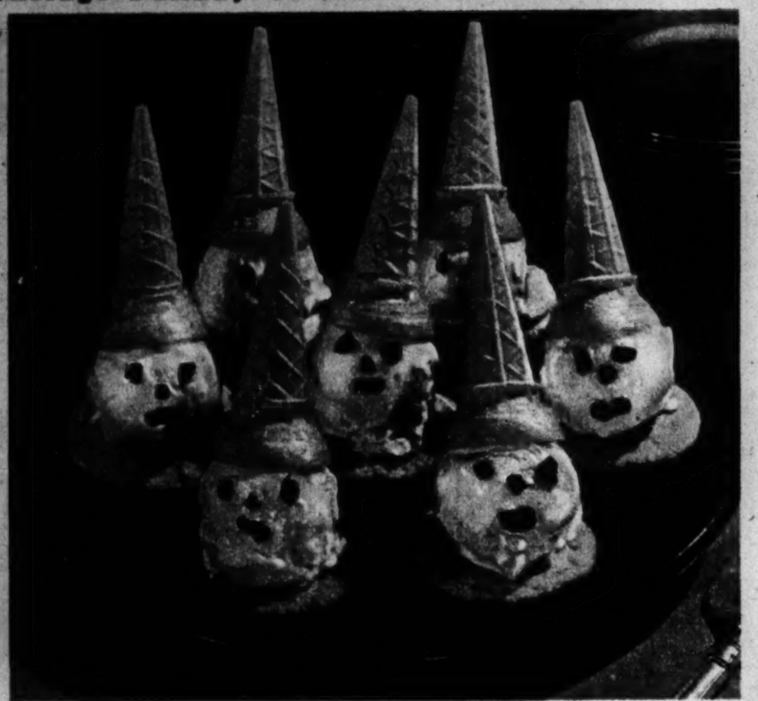
Change the daily glass of fruit juice to a party refreshment by serving it with sugar cookies cut in enticing animal shapes, some with coats of tinted icing and varicolored candies. Such refreshments will not ruin their appetites for the next meal or result in the unpleasant after effects of rich, heavy food.



At right: Festive ice cream clowns are a favorite for children's parties. They're fun for the children and easy on the mother.

Looking at Hollywood

senger boy at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, I was able to meet a lot of interesting people, and it gave me an opportunity to ask questions. One day while delivering a message to a sound stage the boom boy failed to put in an appearance, so I took over, and became identified with sound. I spent a year learning how to make the lion roar, listening to Tarzan's yells, tickling the baby to make it laugh and pinching it to make it cry. Then I stuck my nose into the cutting department. They didn't let me stay long, and pretty soon I found myself an assistant director in the short subjects department." He did pretty well there, because he directed Pete Smith's "Quicker'n a Wink" and John Nesbitt's "Of Pups and Puzzles"—both Academy award winners.

But in spite of the awards it was the test department that really interested George. "There I learned about personality," says he, "because studying these people before they became big names is an interesting phase of this many-sided business. When I was assigned to direct a test I studied the person, took time out to learn what he was like. Each one has an outstanding characteristic, and when I found out what it was I tried to bring out that quality before the camera." Take Esther Williams, for instance. Sidney was convinced she was star material, capable of doing more than a graceful crawl across a technicolor pool, so he did a trick test of her. Sure, in a bathing suit, as every one expected Then suddenly he had her dressed in an evening gown and off on a bit of dramatic dialog. A second later she appeared in a business suit as an efficient secretary. On the strength of that test she was signed to a long-term contract. Of course Esther thinks he's a genius.

So does Red Skelton. Sidney said, "I realized he was a natural clown and show-off, so I let him run wild." You'll see that test—or one like it—in "The Ziegfeld Follies."

After finishing "Anchors Aweigh" he did "The Harvey Girls," which stars Judy Garland, and he's now busy on another super-musical, "Holiday in Mexico." He owns one of the largest theatrical libraries in the country. He could open an enormous shop with his phonograph records. He's also a nut on photography and never fails to take in the neighborhood plays.

Both George and Bob are on the comfortable side—and I do mean around the waist line. Maybe that's the reason they're so easy to get on with.

The African Campaign

commanded the air forces and Admiral Cunningham the fleet in the Mediterranean. From this it can be seen that the Tunisia campaign, so far as land operations were concerned, was largely a British enterprise.

Of approximately 500,000 allied troops in North Africa about half were available for service in combat zones, the rest being necessary for the operation of supply lines and to guard the rear. The allies had to protect themselves against a possible enemy attack in the rear thru Spain and Spanish Morocco. Opposed to the allied troops at this time were about 165,000 German and Italian troops—about 90,000 under Arnim in the north and approximately 75,000 under Rommel to the south in the region of the Mareth line.

It was not long after the middle of February (1943) that the first troops of Montgomery's 8th army, which had been pursuing Rommel from the east, arrived in front of the Mareth line. Before continuing with the description of the campaign from this point on it will make it all clearer to explain what Montgomery previously had been doing.

GENERAL EISENHOWER

A forerunner to the allied success in Tunisia was Montgomery's victory in the 15 day battle at El Alamein, Egypt, which began on Oct. 19, 1942. Thru the summer and early autumn of that year Rommel's force, the Afrika corps, consisting of 12 divisions, none of full strength, had been held up at El Alamein. In this time Montgomery's army gradually was growing in power, until it consisted of 10 full strength divisions and twice as many planes and tanks as Rommel had.

Montgomery attacked at El Alamein with infantry, engineers, planes, and tanks. Rommel quickly lost control of the air. Four British divisions pierced the northern sector of the enemy line to a depth of five miles, while British armored units, employing American tanks, penetrated still deeper along the coast. The German commander swung most of his panzer strength to the north in an effort to engage what he believed to be the main British attack, but in doing this he was left without reserves to meet attacks elsewhere. Then he spent his strength in vain counter-attacks which were thwarted largely by the allied air forces.

On Nov. 2 large numbers of General Sherman tanks struck swiftly, splitting the enemy tank forces on the north and cutting in behind the enemy rear. Two days of fighting in the region of El Aqquaqir concluded the battle of El Alamein, in which the axis forces lost 500 tanks, 1,000 pieces of artillery, and close to 60,000 men killed, wounded and captured.

Rommel, who long before this had come to be known as the Desert Fox because of his cunning in this sort of open warfare, was so thoroly beaten that he began a full scale retreat immediately, withdrawing with what was left of his army to El Agheila, Libya. From there he continued his retreat all the way to Tunisia without stopping to fight.

It was not until March 6, 1943, after he had pulled his Afrika corps into the Mareth line ahead of the pursuing British 8th army, that Rommel hit back at Montgomery in a drive at the latter's right which cost the Germans 50 tanks. On March 15 Rommel was recalled to Germany.

With heavy artillery preparation inaugurated on March 21, Montgomery set about the business of overcoming the Mareth line. Hurling the 50th British division across the Wadi Zigzaou, he was met by a strong panzer counter-attack. In this situation, as he pinned the enemy to the front, the British commander turned the line on the left with his reserves. A New Zealand division penetrated the German mine fields and the 4th Indian division circled the enemy from the Matmata hills. At the same time American tanks from the west front rolled forward from Maknassy to take part in the operations in the vicinity of the Mareth line.

In an effort to avoid this trap the Germans began switching from the front to the flank. The British 51st division ripped thru the Mareth defenses. Pushing east from Guetar, the American 1st armored division closed in on the German flank, and on April 6 the 4th Indian division shattered the new enemy line at Wadi-el-Akharit. The next day American troops and British of the 8th army made a junction southeast of Guetar. With the completion of the British plunge around the Mareth line on April 13 came the end of the third phase of the campaign.

The Germans of Rommel's former command, the Afrika corps, withdrew to the north toward Enfidaville, by this time having lost close to 20,000 men as prisoners. As a result of the junction of the Americans and British 8th army troops Montgomery now could supply his men from North African ports and troops could be switched back and forth along the whole front. The Afrika corps joined up with Arnim's army, the combined force establishing a defense line about 120 miles long in northern Tunisia.

The stage now was set for the last act of the drama, the allied grand offensive that was to bring victory and tear loose the last hold of the axis on Africa. For the final smash Alexander shifted his attack from the tight bottleneck at the south in the vicinity of the Mareth line to the lengthy front on the west, where American, British, and French troops could operate together to an advantage.

Secretly transferring three divisions from the 8th army to the 1st army and moving the American corps, now under Bradley, 150 miles to the north thru the lines of the British 1st army, he prepared for the knock-out punch. The British 8th army, thus stripped of part of its force, launched a drive which pinned the enemy in the south and permitted the allies to capture Enfidaville on April 20, first penetration there having been made three days earlier. The enemy, it should be borne in mind, still did not know about this weakening of the strength of the 8th army. On the 21st the 1st army started its main drive toward Tunis on two flanks from Medjezel Bab. It advanced slowly until halted by enemy concentrations on a strongly defended hill in front of the capital. The hill was taken by means of heavy artillery bombardment and air attacks but was rendered untenable by enemy counter-attacks. Simultaneously the French 19th corps captured the mountain Djebel el Zaghouan and threatened Pont du Fahs.

General Montgomery

Slowly the allies pressed eastward on Bizerte and Tunis, protected by strong air support, thru the valleys of Melah, Djoumine, and Medjerda. The four American divisions played an important role in this advance. Desperate fighting ensued in the taking of one strong defended hill after another and the meeting of fierce enemy counter-attacks. The fight at hill 609 on April 28 and 29 was one of the hardest of the whole campaign.

The Americans seized Mateur and drove to within 13 miles of Bizerte, second to Tunis the most important objective of the campaign. At this point the axis troops in the vicinity of Bizerte started south toward Tunis with the hope of finding a haven on the Cape Bon peninsula.

Pushing toward Tunis, the British 1st army on May 6 took Massicault and the next day rolled into Tunis itself, thus cutting in two the axis forces in Tunisia. On the same day American troops occupied Ferryville and a motor battalion reached Bizerte. On May 8 American tank units cleared the streets of Bizerte of enemy sharpshooters, crossed the ship canal there, and captured a number of enemy rear guards. The Americans, with the help of French Moroccan troops, succeeded in isolating about 25,000 German troops in northern Tunisia.

With his defensive line flattened at Bizerte, cut in two in the middle at Tunis, and pressed in from the south by British and French, the enemy commander was left without a place to make a final stand. Arnim was captured by the allies on May 12, and thereafter the resistance of his troops collapsed. The last of the axis forces to surrender were some Italian units.

General Bradley

The Tunisian campaign cost the axis 15 divisions; enemy prisoners taken numbered 267,000, which was a great many more men than the Germans and Italians possessed there at the beginning of the campaign. The enemy lost 250 tanks, more than 2,300 aircraft, and about 230 ships. Allied casualties were fewer than 70,000, of which about 18,500 were American. Approximately 2,200 Americans were killed in the campaign.

This was the first campaign of the war for these Americans. They landed in Africa as green troops and entered Bizerte six months later as seasoned veterans. What they learned in Africa was to prove of great value to them in the fighting later on in Europe.

Altho the greater part of the fighting done on the ground in Tunisia, as previously indicated, fell to the British troops, the air strength in the campaign was largely American. Of 922 enemy planes destroyed in Tunisia up to March 26, 575 were shot down by American-manned planes.

A CHART FOR CHARM!

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

WELL, here we are on the eve of another cold season. We may plan to take in more concerts, lectures; do more with our needlework; develop that hobby that's been nagging us into action. While some of us do use the long cold weather evenings profitably, others of us just talk about it.

Now, vanity is another urge. Call us nitwits, but wouldn't we to a woman rather have a gorgeous figure than be able to quote Shakespeare? Wouldn't we rather have that crowning glory than be able to burst into poetry about it?

We have that long fall and winter season ahead in which to prepare for a real spring blossoming. Truth is, rejoicing will not have to await spring. There'll be winter rejoicing over how much better the silhouette is for the new dinner frock, how much more attractive the hands are for the bridge game, how much more lovely the hair is after but a month or so of ardent effort.

We will give you a brief chart to check and then leave it up to you to map out a program according to your individual needs:

Your hair—Is it glowing with health and vitality? Is it arranged its most becoming way?

Your skin—Is it blemish free? Is it clear and clean? Are wrinkles etching their way in?

Your make-up—Does it really do things for you? Is it flattering?

(Posed by Irene Dunne)

Lovely hair, becomingly arranged, is an important item in the charm chart.

Natural looking? Make you look younger, brighter, smarter?

Your eyebrows—Do they provide a clean-cut frame for your eyes, with no thick, wild overgrowth or undergrowth?

Your eyes—Do they look as if they got enough sleep? Look as if you'd learned to take life philosophically, with a soft light in them to prove it?

Your teeth—Are they what they should be? Gleaming white, lending beauty to your smile? Are the gums firm and healthy of color?

Your chin and neck line—Any sign of chin doubling? Of crepy throat? Of sagging jaw line?

Your figure—Is it what it used to be? Heavier? Thicker in the midsection? Protruding in the back? Shoulders lumpy in the back? Thighs and hips overgrown?

Your bust line—Does it sag or cave in? Chest high?

Your waist line—How would one of those grand decorative belts look on you? Or have you lost your waist line in a welter of flesh?

Your diaphragm—Does it curve out like a pouter pigeon, ruining a profile view of the silhouette?

Your legs—Are they all set for the nylons promised them around the first of the year?

Your hands—Do they qualify as the perfect setting for that emerald, ruby, or diamond Santa may slip into your stocking comes his day, 1945?

Your posture—Is it tall-stretched poised, sure, and lovely enough to make your house frock look a million?

Your gestures—Are they under control, with no more bead fumbling, chair arm picking, jittery emphasis on words, or stiff, angular thrusts to receive a paper, package, or book?

Facial grimaces—Are you a tooth gritter? A grim-lipped critter? A frowning onlooker? A person who can't keep her hands away from her face?

Choose a major fault, clear it up, and then go on to the next. You've got a long season to give over to corrective work.

(Posed by Jane Harker)

Are your legs set for the nylons promised them around the first of the year?

SHIRLEY TEMPLE AGAR

WHAT HEDDA HOPPER describes as "the longest kiss I ever saw in a church" completed the wedding just 18 days ago of Shirley Temple and Sgt. John G. Agar. The baby star of films, after 14 years of fame and of careful protection by bodyguards, had started out upon her own private life. Since she was 4 (despite publicity releases, Shirley now is 18) the screen's favorite moppet has been a constant center of movie fan attention, and her film work has amassed her a fortune estimated at 3 million dollars.

Shirley's wedding was typical of the good taste her parents have shown in handling their precocious daughter. Not a big star was on hand. Shirley doesn't know many of them personally, and this wedding was hers, not her studio's. It was attended by her friends—and so was the large reception held afterward—the largest party Shirley ever has had. The Temples always have shielded Shirley from cheap exploitation and have avoided taking advantage of her fame. The effect of their wise care has been to make Shirley at 18 a charming young woman with the poise and wisdom you'd expect of some one 30 years old.

Meet Mrs. Wanger

Joan Bennett and her three daughters (left to right): Diana, 17; Stephanie, 2, and Melinda, 11. Mother and daughters often sun-bathe and swim together. In background is their 22 room French provincial house.

Mrs. Wanger in her living room. She is wearing generously made hostess pajamas. Generally she buys tailored clothes, sometimes has them designed at the studio. Turquoise and Kelly green are her favorite colors.

By FREIDA ZYLSTRA

YOUNGEST of the three daughters of Richard Bennett (she was born on Feb. 27, 1910, in Palisades, N. J.), Joan ran away from school in Europe when she was 16 and married John Marion Fox of Seattle. Two years later, in America, they were divorced—months after their daughter, Diana, had been born.

But no Bennett could stay off the stage indefinitely, and Joan took a part in her father's play, "Jarnegan," and that started a stage and screen career. Her first film role was opposite Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond." After she made "Disraeli" with George Arliss she signed a contract with 20th Century-Fox.

In 1932 Joan married Gene Markey, by whom she had another daughter, Melinda, in 1934. The Markeys were divorced three years later, and in 1940 she married Walter Wanger, a movie producer. Their daughter Stephanie was born two years ago. The three girls, despite the differences in their ages and parentage, get along beautifully and entertain each other well.

About two years ago Joan wrote a book on "How to Be Attractive." Among her recommendations, which of course she follows herself, are to comb your eyebrows, grin when you put on rouge, learn to like soap, and wash your neck before you bathe.

Joan in her solarium. She is only 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 110 and is smaller than her daughter Diana. The solarium contains a puppet stage which was built for the children but is used as often by the Wangers and their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wanger at his desk. Wanger is a well known producer of pictures such as "Foreign Correspondent." He often helps her with her scripts, the latest of which is "Scarlet Street," being directed by Fritz Lang, who directed her in the mystery hit, "The Woman in the Window."

GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER

BETTY GRABLE

and

in

"THE DOLLY SISTERS"

(Now in its world premiere performance at the Chicago theater.)

1 It is 1912. From a small-town cabaret Jenny (Betty Grable) and Rosie Dolly (June Haver) are headed for Elmira, N. Y., for a dancing date at a theater. They meet Song and Dance Man Harry Fox (John Payne), who tells tall tales of his exploits.

2 Several months later Harry tells Jenny she should join him in a team, but Jenny says she and Rosie always have worked together and always will.

3 Back in New York, Harry engineers an introduction for the girls to Oscar Hammerstein (Robert Middlemass). Harry refers to the Dolly sisters as "the famous dancing stars from Budapest."

4 Hammerstein signs them for his Victoria, and from there they go to stardom on the Ziegfeld Midnight Roof. Jenny is in love with Harry, but Rosie feels she is wasting her time on him.

5 One night when Jenny and Harry are singing Harry's newest song, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," at a cafe, Producer Sam Harris (Eddie Kane) hears them and offers to buy the song.

6 At right: Harry gains fame with his tune, and with his new wealth feels able to ask Jenny to marry him. She does, but she and Rosie continue to star in the Ziegfeld show. Then America enters the World war in 1917.

7 Jenny is shocked to learn that Harry has joined the army. Rosie is secretly delighted and helps Harry and his friends convince Jenny it is the thing to do.

8 At left: The Dolly sisters get an engagement in the Folies Bergere in Paris. When the war ends Jenny decides to stick with Rosie in the act, but Harry tells her it's the end.

9 While Jenny and Harry are breaking up, Rosie finds romance in the person of Irving Netcher (Frank Latimore).

10 At right: Jenny divorces Harry after Rosie's marriage. Then she meets the duke of Breck (Reginald Gardiner), who asks her to marry him. A lingering fondness for Harry prevents her.

11 At left: Back in New York, Jenny, seperated from Rosie since the latter's marriage, is badly shaken one night by a chance encounter with Harry and his fiancee, Leonora Baldwin (Trudy Marshall). She tries to be gay, but both she and Harry are hurt by the unexpected meeting.

12 It all works out, however, for it leads to a reunion of the Dolly sisters, and again they are on the stage, with Harry smiling encouragement from the wings.

If You MUST Travel, Here's How

BY SHEILA JOHN DALY

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune)

SO YOU'RE about to hit the road? Perhaps you're due to make your annual pilgrimage to Aunt Millie in Maine, or you're going to visit a brother or cousin still sweating it out at an army base, or maybe you've just been struck by wanderlust and are hearing the call of the open road. But the urge to roam is on you and you're set to leave town. Well, you'd be smart to make sure that the trip really is necessary, for travel still isn't what it was in pre-war days.

Before you pick up and get out of town there are a few details to be taken care of. Number one on your list of things to do is get your luggage settled. Whether you have to buy, beg, or borrow it (tho the latter is never the best routine), make sure that you have suitcases adequate to carry all you plan to pack. It's a smart idea, too, to check on the condition of the locks and fastenings. No need to spill the contents all over the Grand Central Station just because you neglected to have the locksmith fix that loose hinge.

As soon as your bags are in fine shape, take time enough to pack them well. Plan in advance what you'll need and lay everything out on a bed before packing to make sure you have all you want. This saves your having to unpack the whole business just to find out if you put your toothbrush in under all your other equipment. It helps to make a list of the things you're taking and check them off as they go into the suitcase. The same list comes in handy when you're repacking for the return trip—you're more certain of returning with as much in your bags as when you left.

Plan your wardrobe carefully. Bring one coat that will fit with all your costumes rather than two or three for special outfits. Pack in one small bag everything you'll need on the journey—your night clothes, your cold cream and curlers, and the book you're going to finish while traveling. No porter will appreciate it if he has to run back and forth with your heavy luggage just because you can't locate your tooth powder.

Once you're all neatly packed, you're almost set to go—but not quite. Perhaps you plan to hitch-hike all the way or make the journey on foot, your suitcase strapped to your back and your hatbox balanced on your head, but there are simpler ways. If the trip you're making is short, all that's necessary is to take your bags to the station in plenty of time, buy your ticket, and then hope you find a seat. But if the trip is long and you plan to make reservations, do it as far in advance as they'll let you, just to make sure you don't have to stand all the way. A first class ticket is the basic requirement, and then additional fare for the accommodations you plan to take. You are offered an upper, a lower, a compartment, or a bedroom for steadily increasing rates. So decide how comfortable you want to be, look into your financial status, and then buy your tickets accordingly.

When train time comes, and you've made your farewell to all those who came to see you off, give your bags to the porter on your car, keeping only the one you'll need during the trip. No need to worry about them—he'll take care of them as you would your favorite letter sweater.

From then on your entertainment on the train is strictly up to you. If you've planned ahead you'll have brought a book or enough magazines to keep you occupied from dawn to dark. Or perhaps you're a wool wizard and have decided to tend to your knitting while en route. Or you may find some one who'd love to share with you the deck of cards you brought along in a fast game of gin rummy.

But go easy on the refreshment for entertainment angle. You may be able to eat nails and thrive on them, but the chocolate bar that to you is a definite delight may be exactly what your fellow passengers are most allergic to. So unless you're traveling in a separate compartment, keep the food for the diner. You'll be a much more popular young character that way.

When you've made your farewell to all those who came to see you off, give your bags to the porter—all except the one you'll need on the trip.

But you're bound to get hungry. And that's where the diner comes in. The porter will be glad to tell you where it is, if you haven't already explored the train. Let the steward seat you, for he's running his little dining room in the most efficient way and will do the best he can for you. He'll give you a check and a menu, you'll write your choice of the meal, and presto—your dinner is served! When you've finished the waiter will present the check. Don't forget your change, but don't forget, either, that 10 per cent of the amount of the check is still the minimum tip. Of course no one will complain if yours is a little more liberal.

When you're ready to turn in, ask your porter to make up your berth, while you make your night time preparations in the dressing room at the end of the car. Be sure you tell the porter when to call you in the morning, then scramble up the little ladder if you're in an upper, or just crawl into the berth if it's a lower. It's all as simple as that.

TOPS AMONG TEENS

YOU'VE SEEN HER before and you'll see her again. Just leaf thru the pages of any popular magazine to meet in pictures the nation's top teen-age model, pert and pretty Betty Cornell. A sure combination of beauty and brains with that refreshing all-American look, the 18-year-old model has already reached every model's goal—she's a cover girl!

Three years ago, besides her high school classes, Betty's chief interest was ballet dancing, which she thought "fun but hard work." During those dancing days young Betty's picture appeared on a department store poster, was noticed by an advertising executive, and a few weeks later Betty was registered as a professional model with the Harry Conover agency! Since then her picture has appeared often enough from coast to coast to establish her as the healthy, smiling prototype of the ideal American gal.

Betty, who managed to sandwich afternoon modeling assignments into a regular high school program for three years, has saved her earnings and planned to attend a four year college this fall. Advertising, "the other side of modeling," is slated as her major subject. Altho she can keep that cover girl look in everything from typical joey clothes to sophisticated evening gowns, Betty changes into jeans and a white shirt just as soon as she gets home from work or school, for her better clothes must be kept in tiptop condition. Her usual formula for keeping her pert face camera perfect is a lotion base, a dust of powder, and lipstick.

Betty's boss, Harry Conover, has this advice for other young models: "You must be natural and unsophisticated. Real sophistication is nothing more than naturalness! And added to that you must have personality, intelligence, and an interest in modeling." That's a big order, but smart young Betty Cornell can just grin—and fill it!

WILL DAVIDSON

DAVE DEXTER no longer is with CAPITOL, but he has left behind a monument that will stand for a long time. It is CAPITOL's new series of albums issued under the general heading of "The History of Jazz." Volume No. 1 is now ready, and it is a magnificent start. Called "The 'Solid' South," it picks up one of the earliest threads that has since been woven into the fantastic fabric of jazz—the ragtime piano—and carries on up thru the early '20s.

Side No. 1 is "Rock Island Line," a folk song sung and strummed on the 12 string guitar by Huddie (Leadbelly) Ledbetter, with Paul Mason giving zither accompaniment. It is a primitive thing, but it epitomizes the Negro's tremendous contribution to folklore and our musical culture. In it you will find the first traces of the jazz idiom.

Zutty Singleton

It should be pointed out here that in cutting this series of albums CAPITOL gathered together men who knew the styles of jazz they were to play. It was impossible, of course, to get always the best exponents of a particular style, but there isn't a weak man in the group, and all of them have a fine musician's perception of fundamentals. Leadbelly's contribution (the second side is "Eagle Rock Rag," a wonderfully nostalgic rag piano and vocal) is probably the most authentic and a collector's item itself.

Symptomatic of the World War 1 period is "Lulu's Mood" as played by Zutty Singleton's trio. Barney Bigard and Fred Washington collaborate wonderfully in this slow blues and in the last, even better "Barney's Bounce"—a magnificent sample of New Orleans jamming. Then Singleton adds trumpet, bass, trombone, and guitar, and produces a good counterfeit of a typical seven piece band improvising away on "Crawfish Blues." The other side has Eddie Miller's Crescent City Quartet playing "'Cajun Love Song," a splendid vehicle for Miller's wonderful clarinet.

One of the strongest elements in jazz is its inheritance from the New Orleans bands that used to vie with each other on the street corners or lead a parade. "Tailgate Ramble" has a triple trombone effect that is luminously illustrative of the band style, and Wingy Manone's Dixieland band plays it to perfection. With Wingy are men like Matty Matlock, Nappy La Mare, Singleton, and Jake Flores—with Johnny Mercer giving voice now and then. The same group, except for Mercer, does equally well by "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate."

The fifth record in the album is Dixie again, with Nappy La Mare's Louisiana Levee Loungers going strong on "At the Jazz Band Ball" and "High Society." The Loungers include La Mare, Manone, Matlock, Miller, Irvin Verret, Stan Wrightsman, Budd Hatch, and Ray Bauduc. Miller demonstrates superbly the way the tenor sax had come up in importance by the middle '20s.

This entirely incomplete review can't touch upon the real value of this album and the series. When completed it will be unique—a masterfully prepared musical history of jazz. Coming up are volume 2, "The Golden Era"; volume 3, "Then Came Swing"; volume 4, "This Modern Age." In each case a group of expert musicians has illustrated the styles of the period under consideration.

One further observation: Immediately after playing La Mare's "At the Jazz Band Ball," which is strongly like the Original Dixieland band's style, I played a beloved original of the "Originals." The difference is fascinating. Fundamentally the modern group catches the spirit, the feel, the meaning of the old Dixieland. But, great as the old masters were, techniques have improved and the modern version of genuine jazz is actually the better.

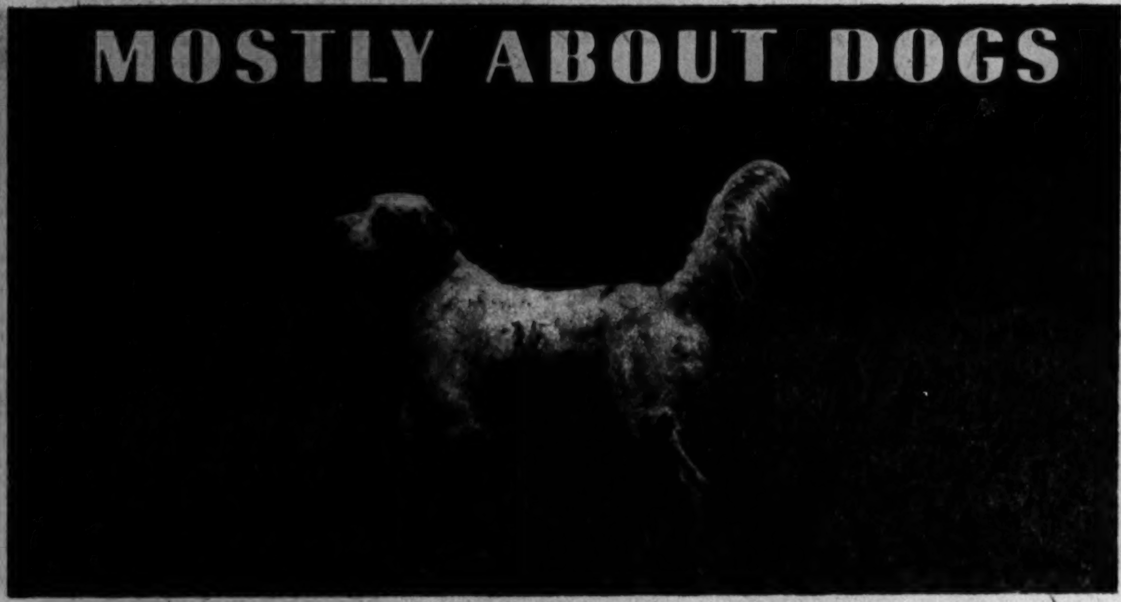
MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS



Thousands of setters now are in the hunting fields finding game for their owners. This one, a stylish one on point, is Skyrocket's Flashlight, winner of a national grouse championship field trial. It's owned by J. N. Leggett of Pittsburgh, Pa.

By BOB BECKER

THE QUESTION of how to feed dogs is undoubtedly one of the most controversial subjects in the whole canine world. Wherever we go we find owners, breeders, and even veterinarians differing on what represents the best combination of foods for puppies and grown dogs. One owner will point to his sleek, healthy pet and explain how tomato juice has done the trick—tomato juice and meat. That's the only diet, says this dog owner.

Drop into a kennel where there are many young and mature dogs running around as perky as can be, ask what the dogs are being fed, and you may get a lecture on the importance of eggs in a dog's diet. Be sure and give eggs to a young dog and he gets off to a wonderful start, insists the kennel owner. The next owner will swear that the only way to develop healthy pups is to give them (along with meat and prepared dog foods) a daily ration of a baby food. Talk to another experienced and smart dog breeder and he'll laugh at the idea of giving puppies an infant food. So it goes.

We meet so many bewildered dog owners (either in person, on the telephone, or by mail) who have just acquired a puppy and say that they know nothing about feeding a dog that it looks like a hopeless job to get all prospective owners to do what we believe to be the smart thing—read a chapter or two of a good book on dog feeding and care, so as to learn how to prepare a meal for a pup before bringing it into the home.

You may feed your dog a fairly steady diet of pancakes, mashed potatoes, spaghetti, or corn meal mush and get away with it, but experience shows that mighty few dogs ever go wrong on a diet made up of a well prepared dog food, a little meat if available, milk, and a few vegetables. The puppy should get plenty of milk (either fresh or canned) after it is weaned. As it gets older and is able to digest solid foods the amount of milk can be cut down. Some of the prepared dog foods contain sizable quantities of meat.

If the owner of a young dog will keep in mind the fact that all breeds eat the same foods, raising a pup will be much easier. Hundreds of times each year we are asked to furnish the correct diet for a Manchester terrier, wire-haired terrier, Kerry Blue, or whatever the breed may be. A Kerry or a Great Dane eats and thrives on the same basic foods as a Labrador or Scotty. It's merely a question of amounts. Naturally a big dog like a St. Bernard needs more filler foods—that is, foods other than meat. And tests have shown that dogs can get along very well without fresh meat (beef, horsemeat, lamb, and pork) if they are fed a prepared food with an adequate amount of meat in it. We have seen many healthy dogs that never get fresh meat.

The following foods usually are on the approved list for dogs: Some brand of balanced dog food, milk, soft-boiled eggs, cottage cheese, meat, and such vegetables as carrots, asparagus, boiled onions, tomatoes, lettuce, and celery. Raw eggs do not agree with some dogs. Nor is all of a raw egg digestible. If soft-boiled eggs do not agree with the dog, don't give it any. The pup will get along all right without 'em.

Cooked breakfast foods (leftovers) may be fed to dogs. They are fillers, and both pups and adult dogs usually like them with a little milk added. But we would never substitute cooked cereal and milk for a prepared dog food and milk. The latter has much more nourishment, because a good one contains several kinds of cereals, bone meal, meat vitamins, meat, and other food elements combined to make a balanced food.

Heart, liver, and kidneys agree with most dogs, and they are good for 'em, too. In recent months we know of some owners who have cooked a piece of beef heart and then added prepared dog food to make a meal for the house pet. On the other hand, organic food disagrees with some dogs. If such is the case, give the pet something else. In other words, dogs are much like people when it comes to food. They are individualists.

But the basic fundamentals of a dog's food requirements are known and if an owner stays close to them he'll usually get along all right.

INDIA. British Army personnel here get Parker "51" pens at the Canteen Contractors Syndicate . . . but only in a ratio of one pen for every 500 would-be owners. So in the interests of fairness, the Canteen distributes its slim supply of 51's by a monthly lottery. Soldiers in this area have been offered the equivalent of as much as $90.00 in U. S. currency for the 51's in their pockets.

CHUNGKING. Following the recent shakeup in the Chinese Cabinet, certain new cabinet members did not own Parker 51's. Because these pens are considered symbols of high position and real importance, an urgent request was transmitted to The Parker Pen Company for prompt shipment of sufficient 51's to equip each of the new cabinet members. (The required pens went to China by air.)

CHUNGKING. So treasured are Parker 51's among the Chinese that they are reported to sell for as much as seventy to ninety thousand Chinese dollars a set. Those who own 51's regard them as badges of affluence as well as writing instruments . . . wear them conspicuously.

IN Paris, Calcutta, Chungking . . . and here at home, Parker 51's are the "most wanted" pens. Today's supply is limited, but more 51's are coming.

We hope that one day not too far off, one of them may be yours. And when you hold that balanced instrument, you will admire its eager feel . . . you will see the magic of its effortless, soundless writing!

TUNA AHEAD!
Chicken of the Sea
WHITE STAR

By the time you read this both of these great tuna clippers will have been completely outfitted and will have put to sea on their maiden voyages. They might have already run into great schools of tuna—filled their refrigerated holds to capacity . . . and be on their way back to port with nearly five hundred tons of choice tuna stowed away in each ship.

Christened "CHICKEN OF THE SEA" and "WHITE STAR" in tribute to our famous brands, they are the largest and most modern all-steel tuna clippers ever built . . . sleek, streamlined ships, powered to cruise thousands of miles over the vast Pacific in search of the nomadic tuna.

Of course, it will take some time to build our fishing fleet back to pre-war size and bring in enough tuna to supply all the dealers in the country. But, before many months have passed, we hope that you will be able to go into any grocery store and buy all of these famous brands of tuna that you want. We are doing our best to make this come true . . . and soon!

PAIN RELIEF COMES FAST WITH 2-SECOND DISINTEGRATING ACTION

This simple test shows why Bayer Aspirin makes ordinary headache, neuritic or neuralgic pain go— in a remarkable hurry!

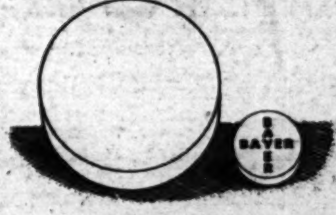
Because a glass of water can show you what goes on in your stomach when you take Bayer Aspirin, you can actually see why pain relief comes with such sensational speed.

All you do is drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet in the water and watch what happens. Bayer Aspirin starts disintegrating so fast—within two seconds—it's ready to go to work almost instantly.

Keep Bayer Aspirin's speed in mind when you buy. And remember, too, that Bayer is the only aspirin with a 45-year record of successful use by millions of people. So always ask for Bayer Aspirin—not for "aspirin" alone.

3 STEPS INSTEAD OF ONE

give Bayer Aspirin its astonishing 2-second disintegrating action!



BAYER

Although aspirin powder can be purchased ready-made from outside suppliers, every grain of aspirin that goes into a Bayer tablet is made in Bayer's own laboratories. And, although normal size tablets could be made from aspirin powder in its original state, the process Bayer uses requires three steps instead of only one:

1. Bayer makes its own aspirin powder, tests it, compresses it into giant tablets (like the one above) 18 times larger than normal.
2. These "giants" are reduced again to powder—which is passed through an extremely fine screen.
3. After the "binder" is added the familiar Bayer tablets bearing the famous cross are made.

This painstaking 3-way operation gives Bayer Aspirin astonishingly fast disintegrating action—an action so swift Bayer Aspirin starts to work almost instantly!

Always ask for Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

Mrs. Nicholas R. du Pont

"The quickest, most refreshing complexion pick-me-up that I know is a 1-Minute Mask with Pond's Vanishing Cream," says Mrs. Nicholas R. du Pont, of Wilmington. "The moment my skin begins to feel rough, I smooth and brighten it with a Mask."

1-Minute Mask
makes skin look clearer... feel smoother

Mrs. Nicholas R. du Pont is devoted to Pond's 1-Minute Mask

Give your skin this refreshing beauty "pick-up" today!

When your skin is coarsened by curling, dead skin cells that "snag" your make-up—slather a luxurious fluffy white coat of Pond's Vanishing Cream over your whole face—all except your eyes.

Leave this Mask on for one minute. The cream's "keratolytic" action loosens and dissolves particles of roughness and imbedded dirt! After 60 seconds, tissue off—clean.

Right away, your skin looks clearer, fresher! Feels smoother! Takes make-up more evenly, more clingingly!

Grand powder base . . .

For an ungreasy foundation—smooth on a light film of Pond's Vanishing Cream and leave it on. "It holds make-up beautifully," says Mrs. du Pont.

by its longer polishing action!

• Are your teeth discolored by ugly smoke smudge—or other surface discolorations? Then make these 3 discoveries.

1 Most dentifrices disperse and stop polishing long before you finish brushing your teeth.
2 Your teeth need longer polishing action.
3 You get this longer polishing action from Iodent No. 2, made by a Dentist. It contains millions of tiny particles scientifically treated to safely polish teeth up to twice as long. They do not dissolve—but get finer, tinier as you brush. It's the way a jeweler polishes precious jewelry.

Watch the natural sparkle of your teeth return. You'll see why Iodent No. 2 is America's favorite for teeth hard to bryten. Tooth Paste or Powder.

MEET GEORGE BACKUS, summer school graduate of Thornton High, Harvey, Illinois. Holder of a University of Chicago scholarship at 15, George finished high school in only 3 years. That takes real up-and-at-'em energy!

He knows how to avoid "MORNING SLUMP"

George eats a real energy breakfast. For the heart of that breakfast, he favors Corn... that famous energy food. GEORGE SAYS:—

"I go for KIX as a particularly good 'breakfast starter'.

"Since KIX is made from Corn, it must be nourishing. I read somewhere that our colonists won the Revolution on corn meal mush!

"I don't know about that.. but I'm certain of one thing.. Corn this swell new KIX way is a real WINNER!"

Intensely Interested in Science, George is spending his spare time building a telescope, even grinding his own lenses!

A Flying Fan, he's also built 3 gliders. The first two "didn't glide", but George says the third was a real success.

Indians knew this secret, too!

The Indians called Corn "The Food of Life". On long hunting trips, or in time of war, frequently their mainstay food was energy-giving Corn.

But, Lo, the poor Indian, missed out on KIX! KIX—Corn in a brand-new, grand new way! Corn popped into tempting, tasty "Crunchy Puffs"

Delicious... nutritious! Try KIX—that energy breakfast cereal. General Mills

"It's Number One on my Wish Parade — THAT'S HOW I WANT dreft!"

...dreft works wonders no soap can do for silks, woolens, dishes!

"I need dreft for dishes IT MAKES EVEN GLASSES SHINE WITHOUT WIPING!"

IT'S TRUE! . . . No soap ever made can perform the dishwashing miracles that Dreft can! It makes dishes positively gleam without wiping. For Dreft leaves no streaks or cloudiness the way soaps do. Gets even glasses so clean they sparkle—without touching a towel to them!

"AND I need dreft for lingerie IT KEEPS COLORS SO MUCH FRESHER THAN SOAP!"

IT'S TRUE! . : : Dreft is so gentle to wash colors—it's as non-alkaline as pure drinking water. Keeps colors fresh far longer than finest soap flakes. Dreft leaves none of the deposits all soaps leave. Stockings washed with Dreft look so much fresher—precious new woolens wash softer and fluffier than with any soap you've ever used.

GOOD NEWS! dreft is coming back!

Here's the big news women have been waiting for! Dreft is again being made. It is being distributed as quickly and fairly as possible. But please be patient. It will take time, probably many months before you can again have all the Dreft you want, whenever you want it. So if your grocer does not have Dreft from time to time, you'll understand. The important thing is—Dreft is on the way back! Soon Dreft will again be in your home, performing its famous washing miracles—making dishes shine without wiping—and washing all your nice things brighter and fresher than any soap could ever do! Watch for Dreft!

WORKS MIRACLES NO SOAP COULD EVER DO!

No soap in the world gives you the wonderful benefits Dreft gives. Special ingredients used in making Dreft have been helping Uncle Sam. That's why so many people are having to do without it. But, Dreft is on its way back . . . watch for Dreft!

BAD LUCK?

"I got me some spider web for to make some sockses,
"I knit 'em very fine and put in some clockses.
"I went out to the country and slept by a tree,
"Along came a spider and spun the sockses off of me."

. . . sang the Dunce while he washed his face in an acorn basin on the back porch.

"Don't do dat!" exclaimed Gogo, who was drying his hands on a Teenie Weenie hand towel, about the size of a common postage stamp. "Dat bad luck to sing befo' breakfast."

"Shucks!" laughed the Dunce. "I think it's bad luck not to sing before breakfast."

"Yo' wait and see," warned Gogo. "We suah goin' fo' to have a heap of bad luck befo' de day is ovah."

Probably the Dunce's singing had nothing to do with it, but the Teenie Weenies did have a lot of trouble that day. The Dunce had hardly stopped singing when the Cook burned a Teenie Weenie skillet of fried hominy, and immediately afterward the Policeman upset a cherry seed of bumble bee honey.

The little folks had made arrangements to gather black walnuts, but the respectable mouse who was to pull the Teenie Weenie cart sent word that it could not come. The General persuaded Skippy the chipmunk to pull the cart, but the mouse shafts on the cart were too small for Skippy's fat little body and there was a long delay while the men put in new ones. Next, the belly band on the chipmunk harness broke, and that had to be mended. By that time it was nearly noon, and the Teenie Weenies hadn't brought in a single walnut.

After lunch things went a little better. The men hauled in two carts of nuts, but two of them were bad when they were blasted open with Teenie Weenie powder, which the Doctor makes out of saltpeter, charcoal, and sulphur. The work went along fairly smoothly for a time, and then, while loading the cart, a walnut slipped and fell on the Turk's foot, smashing his big toe. The Turk yelled loudly with pain, and that made Skippy so nervous the General decided to stop work for the day.

"Ah told yo' we all would have bad luck with yo' singing befo' breakfast," Gogo told the Dunce on their way home.

"Shucks!" exclaimed the Dunce. "Nothing has happened to me, and I don't call that unlucky."

The Dunce's bad luck came a little later, when he stole half a walnut meat, ate nearly all of it and became terribly sick.

JOYCE CHURCH TO CELEBRATE FOUNDING DATE

Month Long Jubilee Is Planned

A month long observation will mark the golden anniversary of Joyce Memorial Methodist church, Byron and Seeley avs. Guest pastors will speak at each Sunday morning service, and communicants will participate in a mortgage burning ceremony and parish banquet.

Initiating the jubilee month, the Rev. Benjamin Will, pastor of the Granville Methodist church [Country Church of the City], Granville and Lakewood avs., will speak at the 10:45 a. m. service today.

Honor War Veterans

At 7:45 p. m. a candlelight communion will be given by the Rev. William A. Collin, pastor. As part of the world wide communion, observed today by churches of all faiths, the ritual will honor World War II. veterans.

During the ceremony wives and relatives of service men and women will act as vestal guides, lighting memorial candles and presenting choral readings of the liturgy.

An anniversary banquet has been scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the church hall. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Trask, assisted by Harry R. McNabb, are in charge of arrangements. Dr. Clark Heubler, president of Ripon [Wis.] college will be the speaker.

Retired Pastor to Preach

Next Sunday the Rev. Roderick Murray, pastor of the church from 1910 to 1913 but now retired and residing in Dowagiac, Mich., will occupy the pulpit.

A mortgage burning ceremony for the present frame building, built in 1900, will be conducted Oct. 21 by Bishop Magee. The speaker Oct. 28 will be Dr. W. E. Bradburn, superintendent of the Chicago Northern district of the Methodist church.

Named in memory of the late Bishop Isaac Joyce, the church was organized in 1895 by a group of young couples holding services in an empty flat in a two story building at Cuyler and Ravenswood avs.

Church Grows Larger

Outgrowing these quarters the congregation next rented a store at Irving Park rd., east of Wolcott av. The following year a one story, frame structure was erected at the corner of Cuyler and Wolcott avs., present site of the Pilgrim Evangelical church.

When the district west of Damen av. and south of Irving Park rd. was opened as a subdivision in 1899, property for the present church, which was dedicated in 1900, was purchased.

The Rev. Mr. Collins has been pastor of the church for the last year. Dr. Clyde C. West is chairman of the board of trustees.

HOUSING BOARD AT N. U. TO FETE 140 LANDLORDS

More than 140 north shore residents who have rented living quarters to undergraduate women will be guests of the housing board of Northwestern university at a tea at 3 p. m. Tuesday in Scott hall on the Evanston campus.

Mrs. Ruth O. McCarn, counselor of women, and Miss Lucille Scheuer, director of women's dormitories at Northwestern, will discuss student housing. She also will thank residents for housing students who otherwise might have been unable to attend the university for lack of living accommodations.

University dormitories have been filled for some time. Building of new ones must await release of materials. Since 1939, enrollment of women on the Evanston campus has increased 37 per cent to 3,353 as of last fall. Students representing this increase have been housed in private homes.

GROUP LEADERS OF LOOP Y. W. C. A. TO MEET TODAY

Members of the Business and Professional council of the Loop Y. W. C. A. will meet in conference today with other council leaders at Sunset camp near Bartlett.

Sessions will concern the place of the returned veteran, the white collar worker, and professional groups in the post-war world. Miss Ruth Keever, city-wide council chairman, will preside. Speakers will be Mrs. R. S. Van de Woestyne, director Y. W. C. A. public affairs, and Miss Essie Maguire, research director of the Chicago division.

Taking part in panel discussions on "Jobs—To Have and To Hold" will be Mrs. Lampi Matthews, Miss Margaret Fox, and Miss Frances Wells.

DR. H. C. WEIGERT, WIFE TO MARK 50TH WEDDING

Tho Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Weigert, 1244 Astor st., will hold open house this afternoon in observance of their 50th wedding, no advice was forthcoming for newlyweds on maintaining a happy marriage.

"Each couple must find an individual recipe for happiness," declared Dr. Weigert. "I wouldn't presume to advise any young people. They probably couldn't hear me anyway," he said with a twinkle in his eye.

Residents of Chicago since 1912, the Weigerts were married in Iowa City, Ia., and have a daughter, Mrs. Lois Boud, 1331 N. Dearborn st., and a son, Wendell, of the Astor st. address.

Boys Set Pattern but Girls Set Type in This Topsy-Turvy School World

Cooking breakfast in the home economics department of Waukegan Township High school is just the dish of Fowler Stevens Jr., 15 (right), who has served an apprenticeship on camping trips. His freshman classmate, Richard Metcalf, 13, learns the mysteries of dish washing. Both boys are students in an orientation program in which the 700 freshman boys and girls study such subjects as cooking, sewing, electricity, driver education, woodwork, printing, machines, and commercial work.

Shrdlu etaoin! That means nothing to the uninitiated reader, but to a young girl learning to set type, it's a headache. Pied type, any printer will tell, has absolutely no reference to a bakery. Dolores O'Black sets type as part of a graphic arts course, which also teaches makeup and publication costs of newspapers, books, and magazines.

[TRIBUNE Photos]

Kaarina Mikkila, 13, holds the attention of an orientation speech class as she tells a Swedish folk tale handed down by her ancestors. During the year students spend six weeks in each of the program's 12 divisions, studying two concurrently. Purpose of the program is to broaden the student's general knowledge and help him discover his interests and abilities. Freshmen spend two hours of a six hour day in orientation classes which were initiated this fall.

Boys in the sewing class don't thread a sewing machine. They "string it up." Similarly, when a bobbin runs out of thread it's "dethreaded," and straight pins are known as "stick pins." Here Otto Mohr (left) prepares to cut out an apron, aided by kibitzing from James Holm.

HIGHLAND PARK TO VOTE ON PARK PLAN THIS WEEK

Town Is Interested in Lake Front Area

Highland Park residents will vote Wednesday on a park district referendum which would provide a number of improvements in recreational facilities,including acquisition of a 12 acre lake front area for a park, at no increase in taxes.

Tho the referendum calls for issuance of bonds amounting to $198,000 by the park district, no change in tax rate is necessary, park board officials said, since the present rate includes funds for retirement of indebtedness incurred years ago in the purchase of park lands and property.

Bonds to Mature

All of these outstanding bonds will be paid up next year and the park district, with approval of citizens, will be free to issue new ones, officials said.

The first proposition in the referendum calls for a $132,000 bond issue to purchase and improve a tract of land at the foot of Roger Williams av., where the park district has for the last few years operated a beach on riparian rights of the Rosenwald and Mandel estates. This area would provide a park to serve the south half of the suburb as Central park serves the north half.

List Improvements

Improvements would include construction of a bath house, pier, remp for bathers, parking space, and barbecue pits. Since the Rosenwald estate is about to be subdivided and sold, park board members said, immediate purchase of this property probably is Highland Park's last opportunity to acquire a lake front park.

The second proposition, asking a $66,000 bond issue, provides for construction of asphalt tennis courts in Sunset Woods and West Longview parks and a bluilding to house and repair park equipment, improvement of the fieldhouse and erection of additional back stops in Lincoln park, and a replacement of the Sunset Valley Golf course watering system.

MOUNT CARMEL TO SAY SPECIAL PRAYERS TODAY

Parishoners of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Belmont av. at Broadway, will mark the 32d anniversary of the dedication today with special service and prayer.

Solemn high mass will be sung at noon, followed by exposition of the blessed sacrament thruout the day. Several years ago Pope Pius XI. granted the privilege of special blessing to communicants on the dedicatory feast day, which is also Rosary Sunday in the church calendar.

The indulgence was granted during an audience the Very Rev. Joseph J. Casey had with the pope several years ago.

Wesley Service Club to Give Tea Wednesday

The Wesley Service club will begin fall activities with a tea at 2 p. m. Wednesday in Wesley Memorial hospital, 250 E. Superior st. Mrs. George Custer, social chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. H. H. Wegner and Mrs. Harry Greene. Mrs. Harry M. Richter is club president.

An additional 22,000, members of the citizen's service corps, acted as salvage, war bond, victory garden, plant protection, defense housing, recreation, transportation, physical fitness, and youth activities wardens.

Raise 15,000 War Gardens

Thru the effort of conservation chairmen, the 19 communities in the division yielded an average of 125,000 pounds of kitchen fats and grease each month. Housewives turned in 1,750,000 tin cans flattened for salvage. More than 15,000 war gardens were tended each year.

During the seven war bond drives workers obtained subscriptions exceeding $162,000,000. This figure covers house to house canvass only for sale of individual bonds.

Aid for Service Centers

In each community a canteen chairman supervised the collection of cakes, candy, cookies, and cigarets. The division's weekly quota of 700 cakes, 100 pounds of candy, 150 pounds of cookies, and 100 cartons of cigarets always was met and frequently exceeded. A war garden was set aside in the central uptown community, which supplied in-season vegetables to all centers.

Many workers earned service stripes for donating more than 5,000 hours of work, thousands have been rewarded with stripes for chalking up from 2,000 to 4,000 hours.

All community activities were financed by residents of the area, principally thru popular subscriptions. Several of the communities still have residue funds on hand. These will be distributed among the veterans hospitals and service organizations in the Chicago area, the Red Cross, and the Community and War fund.

Canteen Needs Continue

On the eve of his retirement as division director Lee Ross thanked his co-workers. He asked that they continue to support and contribute foodstuffs to the service men centers, whose needs, said Erwin R. Tucker, chief of the commissary, will continue for at least another year.

Ross also announced plans for a follow thru on the OCD and CWRC whereby community commanders, who so desire, may continue with their organizations as participants in local, civic, and community affairs. This plan, if accepted, would be known as the Federation of Community organizations. It would operate, Ross said, on a community basis without direction from a division or central headquarters.

BOYS DROP BALL (FOOT OR BASE) TO PITCH NEEDLE

Run Up Yards of Seams in Sewing Classes

BY RUTH LOGAN

The Mother Goose lass who sewed a fine seam [tho probably not on a butcher apron] has nothing on freshman boys of Waukegan Township High school, who not only can run up nifty aprons in nothing flat, but cut the patterns and baste the material as well.

The boys go the miss of nursery rhyme fame one better when they don said aprons and whip up a breakfast that—some 10 years hence—might put their wives to shame. If the high school continues its orientation program which turns classroom traditions topsy-turvy, the future may see an acute shortage of husbands who cook from the living room, as well as wives who drive from the back seat. Interest in sports more commonly associated with boys is paralleled only by interest in needlecraft.

Girls Operate Machines

Because the program, initiated for freshmen this fall by Dr. J. Lloyd Trump, principal, includes a course in which girls learn principles of driving automobiles, safety rules for motorists, and fundamentals in the care of machines. Other courses are taught in electricity, fine arts, speech, woodwork, machines, commercial work, and social relationships.

Smiles and enthusiastic comments of students, whose ages range from 13 to 15, indicated their approval of the setup. Surprisingly enough, the skills are not wholly new to some students. Said Fowler Stevens Jr., 15, "I learned to cook on camping trips." And John Walsh, 15, declared: "I can already sew. I used to tinker with mother's sewing machine."

Rosyln Mae Boxerman, 13, and Marian Starovick, 13, think the schedule is "a fine idea, because we learn so many new things." Dr. Trump said the program, tho still an experiment, seems to be succeeding. Little criticism has been voiced by parents, he said, and many have expressed approval.

Courses Help Freshmen

Believing that students can accumulate requirements for college entrance in sophomore, junior, and senior years, Dr. Trump, with assistance of faculty members, has arranged freshman work on an exploratory basis, designed to assist individulas in discovering their own interests and abilities.

"The program should enable students to broaden their general knowledge and see what opportunities for further study the school affords," the principal said. "It also should enable them to make a wiser selection of courses the last three years of high school in preparation for either a job or additional training in college or technical schools."

The program, consisting of required subjects with a few electives, apportions the six hour school day as follows: two hours in orientation classes; one hour in English and other languages, one hour in mathematics with related science, one hour in health and physical education, and one hour in a basic skills review or an elective for approved students.

700 Freshmen Take Work

The 700 freshmen, approximately half boys and half girls, spend six weeks in each of the orientation program's 12 divisions, studying two concurrently. Boys and girls are segregated in the program, and at the end of the year all students will have covered the same work.

In sewing classes students learn selection and care of clothing, operation of sewing machines, and simple construction. Cooking classes teach nutrition, table etiquet, food costs, and preparation of simple dishes. Two divisions cover individual relationships to school, work, community, state, nation, and the world. Speech courses teach diction, participation in talks and discussions, and dramatics.

Fine arts cover history, appreciation, and basic skills in art and music. Introduction to commercial subjects and use of business machines are taught in the business division. Electricity classes teach repair of home appliances and elementary facts about electricity. Graphic arts cover elementary printing and make-up of publications.

Plan Meets with Favor

Field trips supplement classroom work, and aptitude tests play an important part. Dr. Trump discussed the program with faculty members last year and held several conferences thru the winter to plan the courses. Last spring he presented the proposed schedule to 8th graders in various schools and to other persons, all of whom generally approved the plan.

Now in his second year as principal in Waukegan, Dr. Trump holds a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago. He has been principal of Horace Mann school, Gary, Ind., and an administrative assistant and social studies teacher in the high school of the University of Chicago.

STUDY EVANSTON SCHOOL FUTURE FOR DISTRICT 76

With a view to improving recreation facilities for children of Evanston public school district 76, Lincoln PTA will sponsor a panel discussion on "Planning Together for Our Children" at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the school.

Speakers will include: Homer Wessling, 1st park district board member; Aldermen Harold W. Mogg and John R. Kimbark, 3d ward; Charles T. Byrnes and Mrs. Polly Froelich of the bureau of recreation; Lowell Noyes and John T. Butterworth, district 76 board members; the Rev. A. O. Hjerpe, pastor of Second Presbyterian church; George Cyrus of the Evanston Real Estate board; H. R. Russell, Evanston realtor; Municipal Judge James Corcoran, and Dr. E. T. McSwain, Northwestern university education professor.

District Schools Supt. David E. Walker will be chairman. All district residents are invited and will participate in an open forum after the talks.

Mrs. Herbert H. Taylor Jr., PTA president, said facts prepared for the meeting show the Lincoln school area is unique in the suburb in that more than 80 per cent of its children live in apartments. With the exception of beaches which can be used only occasionally, these children have approximately half a block set aside for play.

A letter sent to panel speakers pointed out that such congested conditions prove difficult for children.

Evanston has one of the three full time local health departments in the county, others being those of Chicago and Winnetka, Dr. Tucker said.

STILL RECALLS BLAZING CHAOS OF CHICAGO FIRE

Otto Stumpf

An 8 year old boy whose eyes didn't miss a trick during Chicago's great fire after three-quarters of a century still can recall accurate details of his experience as a refugee—the blaze of light against a night sky, flight with his family as citizens streamed to northwest prairies, lack of food, and fright as hoodlums took advantage of unorganized authority.

An octogenarian, Otto Stumpf, 907 Irving Park rd., is a pioneer Chicagoan on several scores in addition to his memories of the disaster. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stumpf, who came to Chicago in 1848, Stumpf retired in 1942 after more than 66 years as a loop jeweler. Three years ago he and his wife, north side residents for many years, celebrated their golden wedding.

Father Rouses Family

In 1871 the Stumpf family lived near Franklin st. and Chicago av. The fire began for young Otto when his father, a musician in a downtown theater, arrived home at midnight and roused his family to tell them the news. On the porch the elder Stumpf read a copy of THE TRIBUNE by light of the fire, Mrs. Stumpf then made an accurate prophecy—she told her children it was an occasion they would never forget.

Next morning, Oct. 9, the flames were too close for comfort. Otto and his five brothers and sisters went to the home of relatives on Granger st., now Scott st. By afternoon the fire had swept farther north and the two families joined a panic stricken army fleeing across the North av. bridge to northwest prairies.

Hang Hoodlums to Posts

It was every fellow for himself, Stumpf recalled. Signs were erected, telling people to protect themselves. Saloons and stores, deserted by their owners, were looted. Many ruffians were hanged to lamp posts. Families became separated, and grownups wandered thru the streets, ringing bells and calling children and relatives. Troops were called out to preserve order.

On the prarie the Stumpfs ate pickles and preserves they had brought with them. There was no bread or water, but the next day men with wagons peddled water taken in barrels from Lake Michigan. After many hours the Stumpfs found shelter in a building where they slept in rows on the floor.

Fire Still Smolders

A few days later, while fires still smoldered in the city, the Stumpfs moved to New York City availing themselves of railroads' offer of free transportation for families who lost their possessions in the holocaust.

Returning some months afterward, they found all north side buildings destroyed except the Michigan av. water tower and the Ogden home that stood on the present site of Newberry library. Residents were living in small wooden shacks erected by relief societies, Stumpf said.

Mrs. Stumpf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zimmerman, who lived at Division and Wells sts, also lost their home in the fire but saved a few possessions by burying them in the yard.

SULLIVAN HIGH ALUMNUS FINDS NICHE IN BALLET

Stresses Need of Wind, Brawn, and Agility

A new reason for being interested in the ballet has been given residents of Rogers Park. One of its sons, a graduate of Sullivan High school, is dancing with the Ballet Russe in the Opera house.

Aaron Girard

Aaron Girard Gobetz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gobetz of 5791 Ridge av., joined the Ballet Russe in the fall of 1942. A leg injury soon forced him to withdraw and after a long period of inactivity the Chicagoan got a job on Broadway in the cast of "Something for the Boys," with Ethel Merman, that lasted 18 months.

While studying at the School of the American Ballet in New York City last spring, his work attracted the attention of George Balanchine, choreographer, and Alexandra Danilova, premier danseuse, who selected him, alone, of his class, for the Ballet Russe. A month ago he appeared with the company in New York. During the coming year he will travel with the group thru almost every state in the country and possibly to England.

Parents "Not Elated"

Girard says that while his parents were not opposed to him studying for a dancing career, they were not elated about it. By way of encouragement, tho, after he left Sullivan High school in 1937 his father found work for him in his furniture manufacturing company. The earnings were used for lessons. His first professional job came with the Littlefield Ballet company during the 1939 opera season in Chicago. Later he traveled to Philadelphia with this organization.

A member of the corps in about a dozen ballets, Aaron does a solo number in "Coppelia" as a Chinese doll. This dance lasts about three minutes, but for 15 minutes prior to it he must sit motionless in an uncomfortable position. During this time he says he is so tense and nervous that he can think only of the steps he soon is to perform.

Sometimes He's a Bum!

A bum in "Frankie and Johnny," an adolescent in "Scherazade," and a pasant in "Snow Maiden"—these are some of the extremes in characterizatians which he does. Because of his height, 5 feet 5 inches, many roles are denied him. However, he does understudy Leon Danellian in "Comedia Balletica," and expects to appear in this demanding role while on tour.

Refuting the idea that dancing is "sissy stuff," Girard points out that a dancer has to have the agility of a wrestler, the brawn of a ditch digger, and the wind of a marathon runner. The thrill of dancing in his home town inspires greater perfection in his performances, he said.

Married Recently

Sgt. and Mrs. R. L. Suender

Mrs. Margaret Piehr, 4314 Kenmore av., has announced the marriage of her daughter, Betty Jane, to Sgt. Raymond L. Suender, son of Raymond E. Suender, 2086 Greenleaf av. 2,500 N. SHORE BOY SCOUTS TO VIE IN POW-WOW

Ceremonial fires will burn next week-end in the wooded area of Camp Fort Dearborn, when north shore district Boy Scouts will gather for their annual pow-wow.

Deriving its name from the Algonquin Indian term denoting a conclave with dancing and feasting, the pow-wow will be emulated by the 2,500 Scouts of 10 north shore communities.

Each community will be assigned its own camp site where troops will live under self-prepared shelters. All will participate in the general camp program, which is designed to develop experience in outdoor crafts and fellowship.

Plan Day of Contests

Thruout Saturday community troops will hold stunting contests with the winners appearing before the assembled communities in the camp fire show that evening. Senior Scouts will present a demonstration of skills at 6:30 p. m.

Reveille will sound at 5:30 a. m. next Sunday with sunrise field church services for Catholics, Protestant, Christian Science, and Jewish Scouts scheduled for half an hour later.

From 10 a. m. until noon community Scout craft contests will be held in signaling in Morse of semaphore code; flapjack cooking, fire building and water boiling, and lifeline rescue. Winners will compete in the all-council contest at 1:30 p. m. Sea Scout and Air Scout inspection also is on the morning program.

Troops Taking Part

George Hay is acting as director of the two days' activities with C. E. Buschick in charge of physical arrangements and David Blaka handling administration.

Participating community troops and their directors are: Rogers Park, C. A. Spagenberg; North Town, Walter Noyes; Ravenswood, M. C. Webb; West Lake View, Edward Fontaine; West Lake View, S. S. Hoffman.

Irving Park, C. F. Rebmann; Shabbona Park, H. W. Watkins; Norwood and Edison community, Roy Rodger; Jefferson-Portage, H. L. Blaseck, and Albany Park, Arthur Olin.

Community activities directors are Sam Sachoff, Herbert Pietschmann, Bruce Kenyon, W. C. Tiedemann, William Mortimer, and W. F. Schmidt.

Ted Pawlias, George Simmons, W. E. Bostwick, William Beseke, and Thomas Keegan have been named program aids.

'LA BOHEME' IS NEXT OPERA ON THEATER OF AIR

Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," with its story of artists in Paris' Latin Quarter, will be presented by The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday evening. Marion Claire and Richard Tucker will be the singing stars. Presented before an audience of 4,500 at the Medinah Temple, the opera will be broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting System from 10 to 11 p. m.

"La Boheme" tells the story of Mimi, the frail, graceful flower girl, which will be portrayed by Miss Claire. The painter, Rudolph, will be played by Tucker. Bruce Foote, baritone, will be heard as Marcel, also a painter, and Penny Perry will sing the role of Musette.

Music for the production, which includes "My Name Is Mimi" and "Musette's Waltz Song," will be played by the Theater of the Air orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber. The Theater of the Air chorus also will be heard.

MASQUERS' CLUB STARTS REQUEST SERIES TONIGHT

Harvest of Stars Opens at 2 P. M. Today

BY LARRY WOLTERS

If you're never heard Command Performance as broadcast on the short waves for the troops overseas you'll experience somewhere near the same thing thru the new series to be introduced at 9 tonight over WBBM-CBS.

This show is titled Request Performance. Requests of listeners will be granted by great entertainers of the nation on this program. Among those to contribute tonight will be Ronald Colman and Arthur Treacher of the movies; Frances Langford, songstress, and Charlie Cantor of Duffy's Tavern. Charles Coburn will be master of ceremonies.

Another newcomer is Harvest of Stars to be introduced at 2 p. m. today over WMAQ-NBC with Raymond Massey as master of ceremonies. Each Sunday this program will present music and drama dedicated to some section of America. Today the theme is the Mississippi valley. Massey will present a sketch about Mark Twain, who was much associated with the Mississippi. The music by Howard Barlow's orchestra, Lyn Murray's chorus and Jan Peerce, guest tenor, fit in with the Mississippi theme.

Dr. Walter A. Maier returns to the Lutheran hour at 12:30 p. m. today over W-G-N-Mutual. The 13th season of this series will be launched in connection with a massmeeting at Chicago stadium at 3:30 this afternoon. The Lutheran hour is heard over some 700 outlets scattered around the world, some as far distant as Australia. It has brought in as many as 21,000 letters a week.

Fred Allen and company will return to the air following the Bergen-McCarthy show, effective tonight. The two shows will occupy the 8 to 9 period on WMAQ-NBC. Portland Hoffa, Minerva Pious, Parker Fennelly, the De Marco Sisters and Al Goodman round out the company. Master McCarthy will drop in for a visit on Allen.

The New York Philharmonic symphony will start its 16th season of broadcasting over WBBM-CBS at 3 p. m. today. Artur Rodzinski will conduct the orchestra in Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony and Copland's symphonic arrangement of his ballet, "Appalachian Spring."

The Chicago Sunday Evening club services will be heard over FM station WGNB from 8 to 9 p. m. starting tonight. Dr. Alan Tory of St. Stephan's church in Sydney, Australia, will speak tonight. Dr. Edgar Nelson will direct the 100 voice choir. John Nuveen Jr., club president, also will be heard.

Baseball League

The annual dinner dance of the Chicago Baseball league will be held in Mailton park fieldhouse, 72d st. and Normal av., at 7:30 p. m. Satur-

YOUNG CITIZENS SHOW TO RETURN NEXT SATURDAY

Citizens of Tomorrow, youth program, with Philip Maxwell as "principal of the air," will return for its seventh series at 9:30 a. m. next Saturday over W-G-N. Harper High school will be saluted. The program will be recorded Wednesday and broadcast from transcription. Butler Laughlin, principal of the school, will be host.

Harper students will present much of the program. Louis E. Schilke will direct the a cappella choir in several selections. Richard Culbertson, a senior, will present interscholastic news. Student star entertainer will be Wesley De Lacy, pianist for the school choir, who will play excerpts from Grieg's Concerto in A minor.

A highlight on each broadcast will be the naming of two students to the roll of honor for school accomplishments. This week Shirley Studenroth of Harper and William Gigure, Manitowoc, Wis., are the ones to be selected. More time will be quiz this season with students participating. Jane Anderson will be the pianist; George Bauer, announcer; and Morrison Wood, producer.

HALL OF FAME SWINGS INTO THIRD SEASON

When the third Radio Hall of Fame season starts on WENR-ABC at 6 o'clock tonight, Burgess Meredith will be heard in a scene from Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset." Paul Whiteman and his orchestra and chorus and Martha Tilton, songstress, are regulars on the full hour variety show. Music for tonight's broadcast will include a presentation of "Now I Know Your Face by Heart," from "Polonaise," by the Whiteman group, and offerings of "Linda" and "Stars in Your Eyes," by Miss Tilton.

RAILROAD VETS PLAN COLONY IN THE OZARKS

Theres' a spot in Arkansas being groomed as a railroad man's Shangri-La. It's 81 wooded acres about four miles from Hot Springs, Ark., where it is planned that retired railroad men can live in contentment among people of similar age and interests.

The idea belongs to John M. Liedtke, 6947 Cornell av., switchman for the Santa Fe, who disliked facing idleness and separation from railroading friends on his retirement. Liedtke interested a few retired and soon to be retired employes of the railroad in his scheme to form a community where retired railroaders could sit around and rehash their experiences.

They organized the Shore Acres company about a year ago, and, under the spell of the "Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm" stories which appear in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, bought the Ozark land as their community site. It is located along Lake Hamilton and the main channel of the Ouachita river.

Group Numbers 80

About 80 persons are now in the organization, not all of them railroad men. Since the purpose of the company is to provide a contented atmosphere for the retired railroaders, their friends may also buy into the company and build in the community.

It is planned that each man will build his home according to his means, and have as much land adjoining as suits his fancy. Liedtke says he believes there are enough of the members who are masons, electricians, plumbers, painters, and cabinet makers by hobby so that by neighborly arrangement homes can be constructed at minimum cost.

For those who intend to earn a little spare cash and keep busy in spite of retirement, a community cabinet and woodcraft shop is planned where picnic tables and games will be made and sold.

Urge Early Retirement

A secondary motive of the organization, Liedtke explained, is to induce men to retire as soon as possible to make room for returning veterans.

Fifteen members and prospective members of the Shore Acres company and their wives will leave soon on a tour of the acres, Liedtke says, to plan the subdivision.

Leaving on the tour from here are Liedtke, president; Ed Vicha, vice president, 341 Normal parkway; Bill Mundt, treasurer, 5118 Dorchester av.; Nora Carney, secretary, 3228 S. Oakley av.; Leslie Morrow, 1922 S. Avers av.; Bill Somes, 334 N. Avers av.; Joe Aigner, 5152 Mayfield av.; Gertrude Protzman, 6127 S. Marshfield av.; Mrs. C. A. Jacoby, 5525 Aberdeen st.; Earl Davis, 6915 Cornell av.; Homer Davis, 7047 East End av.; Larry Kliefges, 5624 S. Campbell av., and Joe Swersky, 1617 Union av.

He Has Sweet Way to Beat Sugar Scarcity

Lots of people no doubt have tried one thing or another to beat the sugar shortage . . . such as learning to drink their coffee black, to eat their oatmeal with butter and salt, or to sniggle an extra stamp from their ration board.

Wesley Lincoln of Hammond, Ind., thinks he has the best solution. His method is to set up some hives in the back yard and let the bees go to work

Bees Delegate Duties

All summer Lincoln's bees have worked, bringing in nectar from a two mile radius. Part of the bees has been on the gathering end, part detailed to fanning the nectar to evaporate moisture, and still others were on guard duty around the hive. They literally kept busy as bees and frankly admitted they didn't like to be interrupted. Even an old pal like Lincoln was told off almost daily with a sting or two, and neighbors and dogs soon learned to keep their distance.

A week or two ago this sugar saviour donned his veil and long gloves and set out for his hives with a gleam in his eye. The honey should be about ripe. He admitted the raid seemed like a dirty trick on the bees, and said he thought the bees thought so too, but added he left 60 pounds in the hive to keep them alive all winter.

System Not Perfect

Mid much buzzing, swarming, clustering, and stinging he took out tray after tray, and carried them into the basement for straining. "The system may have its drawbacks," he said rubbing a swollen place on his arm, "but I think the results are worth it. I expect to gather 400 pounds of honey this fall."

Lincoln first started his apiary a year ago last April with just two hives. The first year, due to not knowing the bee business, he gathered scarcely enough honey for the family. Last winter was so long the bees in one of his hives died.

Undaunted he got down his trusty mail order catalog, purchased five more hives and several more pounds of bees, and started again this spring. The bees were willing, and judging from the amount of honey he got this year, even coöperated against their better judgment.

When Do They Sleep?

"Bees never sleep," said their owner. "When I was working the four to midnight shift at the plant I'd come home this summer and go out for a look at them. Tho they'd be in the hive, unless it was a hot night and they were clustered outside, they wouldn't be sleeping. I don't know what they were doing, but they were not taking a nap."

The future looks so rosy, what with the sugar shortage continuing, that Lincoln hopes to turn his hobby into a profit. When he retires from the steel company, where he and his son are employed, he'd like to be able to sell his honey.

The bees seem to realize this plot against future stores, too, for they sting with amazing and vindictive regularity.

MARK 60 YEARS OF EMERALD AV. BAPTIST PARISH

Jubilee Events to Open Wednesday Nights

Four events this week will commemorate the founding of the Emerald Avenue Baptist church, 59th st. and Emerald av., 60 years ago.

On Wednesday night there will be a historical program. Mrs. Oscar Qstling, 8009 Bishop st., will talk on "When I Was a Girl" and Alex Erickson, a former member living in Algoma, Mich. will reminisce on "When I Was a Boy." Walter A. On Thursday night Sunday school will be held, with talks by Oscar Ostling, former superintendent, and the Rev. Victor E. Sherling, missionary.

Mission Night Friday

Mission night will be held Friday, with messages by the Rev. Gust Pearson, member of the church and missionary on furlough from his post in French Equatorial Africa, and the Rev. Walfred Danielson, secretary of foreign missions. On Saturday night there will be a church banquet.

Sunday school classes at 10 a. m. will open the religious observances next Sunday. Morning worship will follow at 11 o'clock with the pastor, Dr. G. A. Hagstrom, preaching. The Rev. William Tapper will speak at the young people's meeting at 4:30 p. m. An evening service at 7:30 o'clock will present a message by the Rev. Virgil A. Olson, associate pastor, and a sacred concert.

Carpenters Open History

The history of the church begins with two carpenters, John Ost and Louis Johnson, who left South Chicago seeking employment. They walked until they reached Englewood, where they found work. Later these two settlers banded together with C. E. Sweiberg, a building contractor, and other Swedish Baptist people who followed from South Chicago and Joliet, for prayer meetings in each other's homes.

On Oct. 10, 1885, the group was organized as the Swedish Baptist church of Englewood, the name used until 1941, when, because the membership included other nationalities, it was changed to the Emerald Avenue Baptist church.

For two years the congregation met in a store at 59th st. and Wentworth av. On July 10, 1887, their own church building at 59th st. and Emerald av., was dedicated. Later it was moved to the present address. In 1897 a fire leveled the structure and in April, 1898, the present church was dedicated.

Of the 11 former pastors only one is living, the Rev. Carl A. Olsson, who resigned two years ago to become an army chaplain. He is stationed in Manila, P. I. Church membership numbers 547.

This will be the 177th program of the seventh broadcast series. More than 150,000 high school boys and girls participated in past programs.

The program will be recorded at noon Wednesday in the school auditorium, 6520 Wood st., and broadcast on W-G-N at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. Philip Maxwell of the Tribune editorial staff will be "principal of the air." George Bauer will announce the program and Jane Anderson will provide piano accompaniment. The show will be produced by Morrison Wood.

Cadets on Program

Prior to the broadcast Otis Robinson, Joseph Robb, Frank Prath, and Phillip Rosso, R. O. T. C. cadets, will present the national and school colors. Opening sound will be the school cheers led by Carol Anderson, Elaine Prescin, Natalie McGee, Jeanne Little, Howard Stockwell, and Robert Nelson. Maxwell then will introduce Butler Laughlin, principal of Harper for three years, who will give a welcoming address.

Among Harper students who will appear on the program are Shirley Studenroth, 6516 S. Maplewood av., selected as senior honor roll student; Wesley De Lacy, 6512 S. Marshfield av., 16 year old pianist who will play Grieg's Piano Concerto in A Minor, and Richard Culbertson, 6604 Wood st., who will read the first issue of the Interscholastic News.

Chosen to appear on the music-history quiz portion of the show are Virginia Affhauser, Lorraine Tomei, Camille Keenan, James Ruehl, Walter Jurkiewicz, and Paul Bonheimer. Members of the a cappella choir will be heard in three selections: "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "This Night," and the Harper school song.

Honor Wisconsin Student

A Manitowoc, Wis., student attending Lincoln High school, William Gigure, also will be added to the honor roll. Besides being active in all sporting activities and the student council, he was chosen student Rotarian by the faculty.

Guests who have been invited to witness the recording include Mrs. Curt Westerhausen and Mrs. O. F. Courtney, president and membership chairman of the PTA; the Rev. John De Lacy, pastor of Thoburn M. E. church; Dr. Earl V. Hedeen, Ogden Hill Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. William Mather, past president of the PTA, and John McCarthy of the Paul Schmidt American Legion post.

Du Sable High school will appear Oct. 20 on Citizens of Tomorrow.

CHURCH TO OPEN DIAMOND RITES SUNDAY MORNING

South Congregational church, 40th st. and Drexel blvd., one of the oldests congregations on the south side, will commemorate its 75th anniversary during the week beginning next Sunday, with special activities and services. The Reverends Howard E. Spragg and William N. Lovell are pastors.

The anniversary program will be inaugurated at the 11 a. m. service at which both pastors will officiate. Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will speak. A tea will be given in the parish house in the afternoon. Dr. Neil Hansen, general director of the Chicago Congregational union, will be a guest.

Women Plan Luncheon

Other activities planned include the Women's association luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 15, and an anniversary dinner for church members and friends at 6 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 16. Friday night will be Youth night with members of the Sunday school, the Boy, Girl, and Cub Scouts, the South Church Youth club, the Older Youth group, and the Church Door canteen taking part in a program.

At 11 a. m. Sunday, Oct. 21, the Rev. Edgar Ross, pastor of the First Congregational church of Pueblo, Colo., will speak. Following the service an alumni dinner will be held. This will be a get-together for former members as well as present members and friends of the church.

South Congregational originally was known as Memorial Congregational church and occupied a building at Lake Park av. and Oakwood blvd. Two years after its founding in 1870 it united with the Forty-Seventh Street Congregational church on 47th st. between Drexel blvd. and Ellis av. In 1878, when the Oakland Congregational church disbanded, the Forty-Seventh Street congregation moved its frame building to its present site, and adopted its present site, and adopted its present name.

Altho membership barely exceeded 100, it was decided to erect a new church, and in Feb., 1888, the present edifice was dedicated with a seating capacity of 500. Heavily carved wooden arches decorated the church proper.

A year later the lot adjoining the church was sold and with these funds a building was purchased near-by for use as a chapel. This building, at 40th st. and Cottage Grove av., burned to the ground a year ago.

Increase of students became so great that when the church moved into its present building it voted to give its former frame building to the Sunday school which had adopted the name, Forrestville Sunday School association. Later a Forrestville church was organized which in 1909 was united with the South church.

MASQUERS' CLUB STARTS REQUEST SERIES TONIGHT

Harvest of Stars Opens at 2 P. M. Today

BY LARRY WOLTERS

If you're never heard Command Performance as broadcast on the short waves for the troops overseas you'll experience somewhere near the same thing thru the new series to be introduced at 9 tonight over WBBM-CBS.

This show is titled Request Performance. Requests of listeners will be granted by great entertainers of the nation on this program. Among those to contribute tonight will be Ronald Colman and Arthur Treacher of the movies; Frances Langford, songstress, and Charlie Cantor of Duffy's Tavern. Charles Coburn will be master of ceremonies.

Another newcomer is Harvest of Stars to be introduced at 2 p. m. today over WMAQ-NBC with Raymond Massey as master of ceremonies. Each Sunday this program will present music and drama dedicated to some section of America. Today the theme is the Mississippi valley. Massey will present a sketch about Mark Twain, who was much associated with the Mississippi. The music by Howard Barlow's orchestra, Lyn Murray's chorus and Jan Peerce, guest tenor, fit in with the Mississippi theme.

Dr. Walter A. Maier returns to the Lutheran hour at 12:30 p. m. today over W-G-N-Mutual. The 13th season of this series will be launched in connection with a massmeeting at Chicago stadium at 3:30 this afternoon. The Lutheran hour is heard over some 700 outlets scattered around the world, some as far distant as Australia. It has brought in as many as 21,000 letters a week.

Fred Allen and company will return to the air following the Bergen-McCarthy show, effective tonight. The two shows will occupy the 8 to 9 period on WMAQ-NBC. Portland Hoffa, Minerva Pious, Parker Fennelly, the De Marco Sisters and Al Goodman round out the company. Master McCarthy will drop in for a visit on Allen.

The New York Philharmonic symphony will start its 16th season of broadcasting over WBBM-CBS at 3 p. m. today. Artur Rodzinski will conduct the orchestra in Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony and Copland's symphonic arrangement of his ballet, "Appalachian Spring."

The Chicago Sunday Evening club services will be heard over FM station WGNB from 8 to 9 p. m. starting tonight. Dr. Alan Tory of St. Stephan's church in Sydney, Australia, will speak tonight. Dr. Edgar Nelson will direct the 100 voice choir. John Nuveen Jr., club president, also will be heard.

Paul Harvey to Receive Disabled Veterans' Award

Paul Harvey, conductor of the Jobs for GI Joes program, will receive a certificate for outstanding service from the organization of Disabled American Veterans for aid given veterans of this war during the broadcast of 10:30 o'clock tonight over WBBM.

ST. DOMITILLA TO CELEBRATE SILVER JUBILEE

Prelate to Preach at Rites Sunday

With a solemn high mass in the presence of Archbishop Stritch, St. Domitilla parish of Hillside at 11:30 o'clock next Sunday morning will commemorate its silver jubilee.

The celebrant will be the Very Rev. Jerome De Pincier, O. S. M., provincial superior of the American province of Servite Fathers. The deacon will be the Rev. A. M. Griffin, O. S. M., of Afton, Mo., a former pastor of St. Domitilla, and the subdeacon the Very Rev. P. Condon, O. S. M., of Our Lady of Sorrows church, Chicago, who is also a former pastor of St. Domitilla and a past provincial superior of the American province of Servite Fathers.

Archbishop to Preach

Archbishop Stritch will preach the sermon. St. Domitilla's men's choir will sing the mass. Dinner for the archbishop ad visiting priests will be served in the Mater Dolorosa seminary dining room. In the evening parishioners will sponsor a dinner at Moran and Galvin's restaurant, Hillside.

The following Monday morning there will be a requiem high mass for the souls of all departed parishioners.

St. Domitilla mission became a parish in 1920. Various churches in the area are mentioned in connection with the anniversary because many of the older parishioners first worshipped in these churches.

Early West Side Churches

In 1860 a little church called St. Mary's was built at York Center. In 1862, a small frame structure was erected in what is now Elmhurst. The church of the Sacred Heart, Melrose Park, was built in 1903. St. James church in Maywood was started in 1908.

In the fall of 1913, Miss Anne E. McLaughlin, teacher in the public schools of Chicago, came to teach catechism at what was known as Wolf Road Highlands.

Early in 1916, Catholics of Berkeley and Hillside began to organize and in August of that year, Archbishop Mundelein instructed the Rev. Conrad Knur to take over the territory as a mission of Sacred Heart church, Melrose Park.

First Priest Father Agnew

A former office of Mount Carmel cemetery was obtained for a church. It was moved to land offered to the new mission by John Wolf. The first priest to care for the new mission was the Rev. William Agnew, S. J. Two classes took their first communion under his direction. Mrs. Grace Beaupre assisted with the instruction of the children.

Father Agnew later became president of Loyola university. In 1926, he preached the sermon at the cornerstone laying of Mater Dolorosa Preparatory seminary.

Successors of Father Agnew were Father Cavallo, a Mexican refugee priest, and the Rev. C. Plomin. The Rev. Oscar Strehl was appointed to the pastorate and said mass for the first time at St. Domitilla Oct. 17, 1920. He continued as pastor until 1923.

School Begun in 1922

Purchase was made of the Schreiber farm on the west side of Wolf rd. and St. Domitilla church was moved there. Father Strehl began the construction of the present school in 1922. Sisters of St. Francis of the Christian Family were engaged as teachers.

The Servite Fathers from Chicago took charge of St. Domitilla parish in 1923. The first Servite pastor was the Rev. A. M. Griffin, O. S. M., who remained until August, 1935. The Servite Sisters followed the Franciscan Sisters as teachers in the school.

The Servite Preparatory seminary —Mater Dolorosa—was erected in Hillside in 1926. Upon its completion the pastor of St. Domitilla took up his residence there and the Sunday parish masses were said in its chapel.

Father O'Shea Assistant

Father Griffin was succeeded by the Very Rev. P. Condon, O. S. M., who was followed by the Rev. James McLennan, O. S. M., in August, 1936. Father McLennan was pastor until July, 1939, when the present pastor, the Rev. Francis J. Wiehl, O. S. M., arrived to take charge of the parish. For the last four years the Rev. Vincent M. O'Shea, O. S. M., professor of the seminary staff, has assisted with parish work.

Some of St. Domitilla's original territory has been incorporated in the parish of St. Simeon, Bellwood, and in the parish of St. John Vianny, Northlake village. At present people in the Westchester area are asking for a church.

Boys Are Glad to Forsake War Jobs to Continue Their Education

Back in school after working as an inspector in a war plant, Vincent Corona, 17, 1442 N. Ridgeway av., has resumed his studies with new appreciation of their value to his future career. "I wasn't working long before I realized that if I wanted to get ahead I had to have a good education," he said. Vincent is one of many students at Crane Technical High school who returned to their classes this semester after holding full or part time jobs in industry. At a drafting board in a Crane classroom, he is working on plans for a model house.

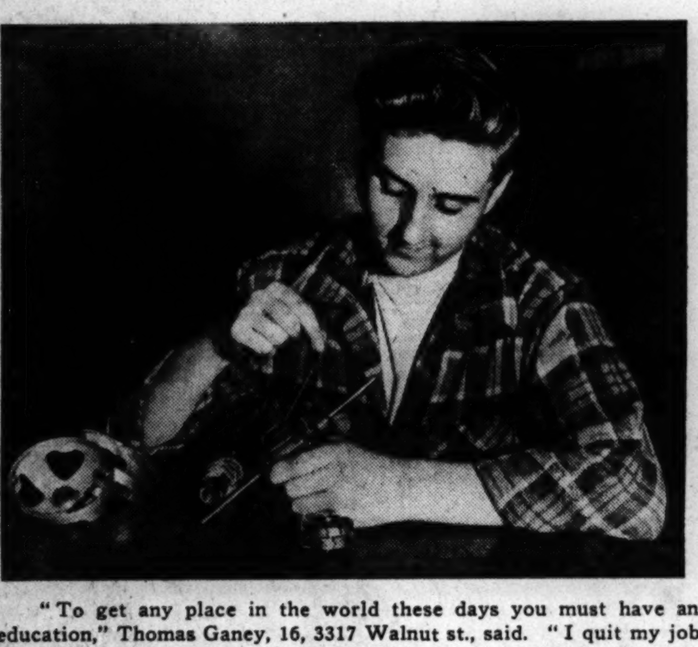
Feeding the press in Crane Tech's school print shop is Eugene Cokinis, 16, a sophomore. "School looks pretty good to me since I've been back," he declared. "I feel that I can get further in life by finishing my education." Eugene worked as a plater's helper in a firm that plated parts for bomb sights.

Studying forces that occur in the operation of electric motors are Joseph Liddi, 17 (left), 919 S. Kedzie av., and John Kormaniak, 17, 1833 25th st. Both are seniors at Crane. Until V-J day, Liddi worked in the shipping department of a firm that manufactured radar equipment.



"To get any place in the world these days you must have an education," Thomas Ganey, 16, 3317 Walnut st., said. "I quit my job in a factory because I thought school was more important." Ganey is winding an armature for a small motor in the Crane High school electric shop.

GROUP WILL AID WHEATON VETS TO FIND HOMES

Committee Ask Help of Householders

Recognizing Wheaton's responsibility to make every effort to care for the housing needs of those who served in the war, a veterans service committee recently was organized to aid returning service men find homes.

It is admitted that many who return find it next to impossible to find living quarters in Wheaton. Unable to obtain rooms, homes, or apartments in their own city, these folks who have been away serving their nation are being obliged to remove themselves and families to other towns.

Suggests Remodeling

The Wheaton committee, organized at the suggestion of one of the city's veterans organizations, points out that with the prospect of the release of building materials many residents should be able to renovate their homes in order to provide much needed apartments.

"These service men and women," reads the resolution," were forced to give up their rooms, apartments, and homes when they answered the call of their country.

"It has come to the attention of the committee that several discharged service men and women and their dependents already have been forced to leave Wheaton and seek housing accommodations elsewhere."

Wants Landlords' Names

Mrs. W. T. Platt has been appointed to accept listings of accommodations from those offering to help the veterans and their families.

Members of the veterans service committee are Mrs. Byron O. Binder, Mrs. Harold P. Dunton, H. M. Engstrom, Mayor W. A. Gamon, Lawrence Hattendorf, Elmer Hoffman, Dr. A. B. Jones, Joseph W. Kreibs, Palmer Loren, Mrs. Thomas S. McCarty, the Rev. F. H. Millett, Mrs. William T. Platt, M. F. Roberts, Orville H. Ross, Howard F. Shurtleff, Joseph C. Thor, Miss Clara E. Radio Singers Pursue Dual Roles in Army

Howard Dill

How Corp. Howard R. Dill, 4940 Washington st., Downers Grove, and Pvt. Ralph M. Hovel of Middletown, O., were always one step behind the other in their radio and army careers is told in the McClellan Cycle, an army publication.

Both men are singers. Dill left a national radio program because of impending induction and Hovel took his place. Then Hovel was inducted and followed Dill to Fort McClellan in Alabama. Both sang in the camp choir and both were assigned as chaplain's assistants in the 4th regiment. They never met until one night at a church banquet.

"So you're the fellow I've been following around," remarked Hovel. "At last the musical ditto marks have caught up with each other."

Just as their careers have been identical, the two admit they are not unlike in appearance. What's more, they have discovered that their wives look alike.

Corp. Dill studied at Northwestern university where he won a master's degree and his wife, Mrs. Dill, accompanied him on the piano when he sang at the university.

ALD. LANCASTER OPPOSES ROUTE OF BUS IN 37TH

Says Augusta Blvd. Is Too Narrow

Ald. William J. Lancaster [37th] has joined the fight of those residents of west suburbs and in the north Austin district along Augusta blvd. to prevent the Bluebird bus lines from starting a new line that would pass thru the 37th ward on Augusta blvd.

The proposal is that the Bluebird bus system be given permission to operate a line from Stone Park thru Melrose Park, Maywood, River Forest, Oak Park, and the city. The line would use Augusta blvd. in Chicago except in the loop area, Augusta st. in Oak Park, and Chicago av. thru the remaining suburbs.

Testimony before the Illinois commerce commission thus far has been from Chicago residents who said they would use the service if established.

L, Surface Lines Anti

Citizens in both Oak Park and River Forest, by petition, have objected to the line because the streets to be traversed in those suburbs are residential. Objection also is made by the Rapid Transit Lines, surface lines, the Motor Coach company, and the West Town Lines.

Lancaster's objection, filed with the commerce commission after he had received complaints from residents along Augusta blvd., is based on the contention of Oak Park and River Forest residents plus the fact that Augusta is suitable for only one lane of auto traffic each way.

"Augusta never should have been made a boulevard in the first place," said Lancaster, "and the paving job done on the street was bad because high crowns at each intersection make it necessary for auto traffic to hug the middle of the road in order not to hit the deep valleys caused by this crown."

Opposed in River Forest

It was pointed out by Lancaster that Chicago av. is only two blocks scuth of Augusta, and Division st. is only a few blocks north. Both streets have car lines on them, altho he admits the Division st. line is not of much value. This, he said, would be remedied in a short time by the surface lines, which have promised to put buses on the route.

The Bluebird petition asks to carry local as well as interurban passengers.

John P. Hampton, River Forest attorney, speaking for the 30 residents of his suburb who signed a petition last June objecting to the proposed line, said his neighbors felt it would provide them no desired service, and that the bus company should select a traffic rather than a residential street.

4 Baby Photos Among Final V-Mail Flights

Lt. Smith went overseas a month before Mark was born. He is stationed in Naples, Italy, after several months in Florence. Three months ago he sent Mark a big red horse for his first birthday. Mark and his "horsie" are seldom separated during play hours.

When Lt. George Guerine, 3245 Adams st., comes home he will be greeted by Richard Lee, a 17 months old exhuberant youngster. Lt. Guerine has been in the army three and a half years, and has been overseas two years. At present he is serving with the army of occupation in Germany.

Winsome William Raymond Clark, 6 months, is the son of Pvt. and Mrs. Raymond Clark, 32 S. Kedzie av. Pvt. Clark has been in service since June, 1944. He was assigned to duty in the Pacific last December. A member of the 1st marine division, he took part in the hand to hand combat on Okinawa where he is stationed.

From Chicago to Calcutta, India, is a long distance geographically, but Mrs. William N. Andrews, 26 S. Waller av., sees that her husband, Sgt. Andrews is kept closely informed of the development of their son, William Thomas, 7½ months. Sgt. Andrews is a member of the signal corps.

WAR JOBS HELP MOLD FUTURES AT CRANE TECH

Boys Are Back to Finish, but with a Goal!

That the school of experience is a hard teacher is a proverb to which many youths at Crane Technical High school are willing to subscribe. After holding down men's jobs in Chicago war plants, many of them have returned to school this semester with a new appreciation for academic training.

"At my age I figure that education is more important than work," Thomas Graney, 16, 3317 Walnut st., a junior, said recently. Thomas worked nine hours a day in a west side factory that manufactured fuses for large bombs. For helping to keep the assembly line supplied with material he earned 65 cents an hour, or $5.85 a day.

Couldn't See Future

"For a beginner I was getting good pay," Thomas said, "but it soon dawned on me that without more education I'd probably be earning just about the same salary 15 or 20 years from now. There were plenty of men in the plant who had been doing the same type of job for years just because they didn't have the right background to enable them to forge ahead."

Thomas' observations were echoed by John Kormaniak, 17, of 1833 25th st., a senior, who worked for a firm manufacturing X-ray equipment.

"Even tho I hadn't finished school," he said, "I found the men respected me for the amount of training I had. Many of them advised me to go ahead and get all the schooling I could, and I felt those fellows knew what they were talking about."

Fills Many Duties

John was something of a jack-of-all-trades at the plant, he said. His duties included drill press work, cutting metal, and welding. After he is graduated from Crane he plans to go to a technical college to prepare himself for a career as draftsman in the fields of air conditioning and refrigeration.

"Getting out and working certainly makes a person see the necessity of a good education," commented Albert Chester, 17, 1544 S. Trumbull av., a junior. Albert worked as a stock boy in a plant that made castings and plates for ships.

"Even when plants were cryin for help during the war the people with the best training got the preferred jobs," he said.

Altho he enjoyed his work, Albert does not plan a future in industry for himself. He looks foward to matriculation at the University of Illinois, where he will take a pre-medical course.

Will Pursue "War" Work

Peter Polites, 16, 1153 Harrison st., who is in his senior year at Crane, found his war work at a woodwork pattern making firm so interesting that he is going to make it his life work. But meanwhile he is going to get a good education to equip him for the trade.

"I was doing only an elementary part of the work," said Peter, who shellacked wooden patterns for gear housings and gears before they were sent to the factory. "In time I'd like to do some of the designing myself. For that a good knowledge of mathematics and drafting is absolutely necessary. School looks better than ever when I see how it will help me to get ahead in a job I like."

Hopes to Attend U. of I.

"When I saw some of the older men in the plant where I worked plugging along day after day at routine jobs, I decided that a good education was a pretty valuable asset," said Vincent Corona, 17, 1442 N. Ridgeway av., a junior student. Vincent was employed as an inspector in a metal products company. Since the opening of the fall term he has been working part time at the plant checking blue prints and doing weight counting.

Vincent hopes to attend the University of Illinois where he will major in drafting. "The way I see it now," he said, "the investment of a few extra years in education will pay long term dividends in a career."

Legler, first regional branch in the Chicago Public Library system, opened its doors to the public for the first time Oct. 9, 1920. Miss Pearl I. Field, who retired last October, was the first regional librarian.

At the present time Legler has under its supervision 10 branches and 11 subbranches, as well as seven high school libraries.

PLANS TO STUDY GREAT BOOKS IN LA GRANGE TOLD

Adler Series to Continue Until June 16

Group discussion of great books on basic problems will start at 8 p. m. Thursday in the La Grange library and will continue on alternate Thursday nights until next June 16. The La Grange group, limited to 30 members, is part of a Chicago area project which has been organized jointly by schools, libraries, and the University of Chicago.

The three moderators for the La Grange library course, who have been training in the Hutchins-Adler method of studying great books, are:

Miss Beverly E. Saunders, childrens' librarian in La Grange, who is a graduate of the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis and the Minnesota library school.

Will Seek Discussion

Miss Aileen Daugherty, who has a master's degree from the University of Chicago and is teacher of English and journalism at Lyons Township High school.

Mrs. Lucy Suddard Young, who is active in La Grange literary circles.

As explained by Miss Rebecca Ditto, La Grange librarian, the three leaders will ask questions designed to stimulate argument and not to elicit information. They will discuss the works of such authors as Plato, Aristotle, Rousseau, Machiavelli, and Shakespeare.

Will Furnish Books

There is no charge for the course and the library will furnish the books. It is explained that no educational qualifications are necessary for participation in the group. Willingness to read, to express views, and to face new ideas are the only requirements.

The great books are described as those which provide new insight into the fundamental problems—personal, moral, social—of mankind. It is contended that they contain the relatively small number of basic ideas by which man has advanced. In actual age they may be a few days or a few thousand years old.

Mothers of Cadets

Mothers of freshman cadets at Morgan Park Military academy will be introduced to faculty members and their wives, alumni mothers, and upper class cadets' mothers at a tea Tuesday in Alumni hall.

TWO BROTHERS, BOTH ENGINEERS, MEET IN PACIFIC

They Built Air Fields to Speed Tokyo Raids

Henry Aramburu

Victor Aramburu

Brother engineers who met on Okinawa recently for the first time in three years, are Capt. Henry and Lt. Victor Aramburu, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aramburu, 3828 Monroe st. Both are serving in engineer aviation battalions.

Both have been overseas for the last 15 months. They have helped construct air fields on the road to Tokyo in preparation for the heavy bombardment against the Japanese homeland.

Each Has Bronze Star

Each wears a bronze star for participation in the construction of B-29 bases in the Marianas. Victor has seen duty in the Palaus, Marianas, and Okinawa. His wife and son, Richard, are living in Garfield, Wash.

Henry, who has served on Guam and Okinawa, recently received the meritorious service wreath for performance of exceptionally difficult tasks. His battalion has gained recognition in the Pacific theater for its speed in hacking airfields out of the jungle and coral of islands.

Race to Get Home Now

Both brothers were inducted into the army at Camp Grant in 1942, Henry in June and Victor in December.

When they met they were arguing about which would be in Tokyo first. With peace a reality there is a much more serious argument over who is going to get home to Chicago first to claim all the best family neckties.

$11,300 SOUGHT FOR WESTERN SPRINGS CHEST

President Tells How Fund Started

The Community Chest is asking Western Springs citizens for $11,300 to be divided as follows: Family welfare, $1,500; community health, $900; Girl Scouts, $1,275; Boy Scouts, $2,025; local youth, $100; operating and emergency, $900, and National War Fund, $4,600.

A review oaf the Western Springs Community Chest, Inc., compiled by H. B. Storm, president, for the benefit of newcomers reveals that the movement originated at a meeting of Harry G. Maxted post of the American Legion in 1925. The purpose was to put charities of the village on an equitable, economical, and efficient basis. The idea was to do away with independent drives several times a year.

Legion Pledges Aid

As first planned, the chest was to raise funds by benefits held by various local organizations. The Legion post pledged two-thirds of the net proceeds of its 1925 carnival. Gene F. Graham of the Legion was appointed to investigate the proper course to follow in creating a chest. A meeting was called in 1925, but nothing concrete immediately resulted.

A Legion carnival in August, 1925, raised more than $1,300 for the chest with no chest organization to accept the funds. A survey of peeds showed that a drive for additional funds would be necessary.

Name Early Leaders

To start the chest organization the Legion selected as directors Thomas A. Ford, Harry C. Stewart, Mrs. Alex Gollan, Gene F. Graham, W. R. Tylor, and R. D. Allbright. The chest became an actuality on April 4, 1926, when by-laws were adopted and officers elected. The first officers were Graham, president; Ford, vice president; Allbright, secretary, and Tylor, treasurer.

"The chest now starts its 21st year serving the village," cites Storm. "Our local budget is worthy of support. We of the board believe it is all justified. The need for supporting the National War fund is not over. Many of our young men are not scheduled to return home for many months and their need of aid from this fund is greater now than before V-J day.

WAR FUND PLEA STRESSES WEST SIDE RECIPIENTS

With the opening of the second week of the Community and War Fund drive, west side volunteer workers are pressing solicitations in this area. When west siders contribute they are helping to support a variety of home organizations, Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman of the drive, said recently. Of the money raised by the current campaign, 36 per cent stays in Chicago to help support city agencies.

The Community and War Fund's budget calls for an allocation of $4,648,000 for community agencies, an increase of almost $400,000 over last year's budget.

West Side Benefactors

Among west side agencies which are members of the Community Fund are Hull House, the Jewish People's institute, Gads Hill center, Howell Neighborhood house, Cathedral shelter, Firman house, West Side Community center—C. Y. O. branch, Emerson house, St. Mary's Home for Children, Sarah Hackett Stevenson memorial, Mary clubs, Mount Sinai hospital, Home for Destitute Crippled Children, and Central Free dispensary.

Among west side captains assisting in the drive are Gertrude Hale, 5446 Augusta blvd.; Mrs. T. R. Zumbrook, 1144 N. Waller av.; Dr. Lloyd Kenny, 5401 Haddon st., and Daniel F. Lyons, 911 N. Lawler av.

Bartlett Crew at Work

Keeping pace with city solicitors are suburban volunteers. Women workers in Bartlett are waging a particularly intensive drive in that suburb.

Bartlett volunteer workers include Mrs. A. H. Taylor, Mrs. Luella Lange, Mrs. Grace Porter, Mrs. Elizabeth Humbracht, Mrs. Irene Schultz, Mrs. Effie Weiher, Mrs. Stella Krumfuss, Mrs. Maud Rieckhoff, Mrs. Elsie Krumfuss, Mrs. Mildred Ries, Mrs. Ruth Mayer, Mrs. Ann Artmann, Mrs. Ruby Schultz, and Mrs. Alice Schnadt.

'DOWNERS CAN DO IT' IS SLOGAN OF SUBURBAN DRIVE

Fund Campaign Has $15,500 Goal

"Downers Can Do It" is the slogan of Downers Grove's first official Community Chest and War fund drive. The goal is $15,550.

Benefitting groups will be war agencies, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Family Service association of Du Page county, the Community center, and the Downers Grove Service council.

B. H. Groves, president of the Community Fund Committee, pointed out that the budget is not much larger than in 1944 in view of the fact that the Community center project and the Downers Grove Service council have been added as recipients.

Plan Community Building

"The Community center project," explained Groves," is a move to provide a community building for our own people, young and old. The service council provides entertainment, free counsel, and information to our sons and daughters returning from service."

Ray E. Wachter, campaign chairman, has for sub-chairmen: Robert O. Archer, publicity; Bertram V. Jomes, commercial; Mrs. G. Conrad Dahl, school; Mrs. Frank D. Moran, northeast division; Russell D. Fernald, southeast division; Harlow Gregory, northwest division, and Mrs. Robert Moore, southwest division.

Girl Scouts Help

Girl Scouts under direction of Mrs. George W. Geffert have prepared kits to be used by solicitors.

"We have the organization ready to make our first Community Chest fund effort a big success," said Wachter. "Downers can do it, and judging by support to past campaigns, I am convinced Downers will do it."

It was pointed out that persons who give their subscriptions at places of employment may have gifts credited to the Downers Grove fund if they report their names, addresses, amount of pledge, and employers' names on pledge cards.

Bishop Quarter

Mrs. James Gerage will be chairman at the luncheon bridge to be held Oct. 18 at Bishop Quarter school, Oak Park.

Plan Halloween Party in Lyons Twp. High Gym

Under sponsorship of the La Grange Recreation commission, La Grange and La Grange Park are planning a Halloween party in Lyons Township High school gymnasium. Professional acts of entertainment will be provided and there will be awards for various contests.

GI CHRONICLES ARMY LIFE IN 100 DRAWINGS

Sometime between acquiring seven battle stars and an English wife in his near three years overseas, Corp. Robert Magnusen, 416 115th pl., also found leisure to record GI life in a series of colored drawings.

A night student at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts before he entered service, and with aspirations to become a comic strip cartoonist, Magnusen seized upon army life as an opportunity to improve his drawing technique. He drew about 100 sketches, depicting the life of the GIs in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and England. Recently stationed in South America, he was cartoonist for the Toucan Topics, and several drawings were exhibited at an army show in British Guiana.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo M. Magnusen, he went to Africa in May, 1943. His scenes from that part of his army career include drawings of soldiers' expressions as they first sight land, a GI bath a la Arabia, pitching tents, and an African tonsorial parlor. He also made a large cartoon of a sidewalk cafe in Algeria, complete with la belle femme and an international group of admirers.

His drawings record his unit's advance thru Sicily and Italy, and finally his landing in Scotland, where a welcoming committee of two bagpipes and a drum quickstepped them from a boat to an England bound train.

Magnussen met his future wife, Peggy, a private in the ATS when he landed in England early in 1944. They were married the following Oct. 14. Magnusen also found time to make several drawings of the countryside around Sutton-in-Ashfield, Peggy's home. His wife is now discharged, he says, and is awaiting transportation here.

Harper students will present much of the program. Louis E. Schilke will direct the a cappella choir in several selections. Richard Culbertson, a senior, will present interscholastic news. Student star entertainer will be Wesley De Lacy, pianist for the school choir, who will play excerpts from Grieg's Concerto in A minor.

A highlight on each broadcast will be the naming of two students to the roll of honor for school accomplishments. This week Shirley Studenroth of Harper and William Gigure, Manitowoc, Wis., are the ones to be selected. More time will be quiz this season with students participating. Jane Anderson will be the pianist; George Bauer, announcer; and Morrison Wood, producer.

She was cited as an operator of a clubmobile from April until August of this year.

Her interest and "unfailing cheerfulness," in visiting isolated detachments were lauded. For nearly a year and a half before going overseas, Miss Phelps served as a volunteer driver in the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

WAVE Cecelia Ridderikhoff, 102 Wesley av., Oak Park, yeoman 3d class, has accumulated 31 points for a discharge. This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 8

It is worthwhile to protect outdoor plants by mulching the surface of the ground, especially when planting is done in the fall. This applies to woody things, such as perennials, vines, shrubs, and trees. However, it is unnecessary to complete the work before the ground freezes.

Plants are hardy and do not suffer from the cold, but spring thaws force them partially out of the ground exposing their roots. Mulching keeps the frost in the ground and prevents heaving.

Climing roses may be protected by placing them on the ground and covering with soil.

Tuesday, Oct. 9

Grading and cleaning gladiolus corms may be done any time. However, timeliness in all garden operations is imperative if the best results are obtained.

See that all weeds are cut and burned before winter sets in; clean up the entire yard to remove insect harbors, place all garden furniture under cover.

Wednesday, Oct. 10

Do not remove the potted bulbous stock from darkness to light until it is thoroly rooted. Many potted plants of this kind are disappointing because the gardener could not wait until the plants were ready.

Allow the amaryllis to rest by gradually withholding water, then lay the pot on its side and wait until it resumes activity in spring before starting it into growth again. Do not separate dahlia tubers until spring for they can remain dormant until that time.

Roses can be planted up to freezing weather and one of the most recent All-American selections is the lovely yellow, pink edged variety Peace.

Thursday, Oct. 11

As the season advances, protect the coldframes by placing straw or strawy manure up to and around all its sides. Give a bit of air on warm days and when winter really sets in cover the glass with boards and later with strawy manure or other materials.

Gardeners living in suburban areas and who have the space will find the coldframe a miniature greenhouse that may be utilized for many purposes. It differs from the hotbed in that no artificial heat is installed. Frequently second hand sash may be procured from wrecking companies.

Friday, Oct. 12

Chrysanthemums are now available and their autumn beauty appeals to every one. Plants in pots will endure if the soil is not allowed to dry out and they are removed to a cool room at night. Excessive heat ruins plants quickly.

Watch for aphids or green flies for they will be carried into the home when the plants are purchased.

Saturday, Oct. 13

Spade the vegetable garden before cold weather arrives and allow it to remain "in the rough" all winter.

If mushroom manure or stable manure can be obtained spread a goodly layer over the ground before spading. Add the much needed humus to the soil and add some food elements.

Unless the weather is very cold, pruning can be done at any time, altho warm spring days are better for doing such work. Only a few shrubs are pruned when dormant, most of them requiring attention after flowering.

RAILROAD VETS FOUND COLONY ON OZARKS LAKE

Retire to a Shangri La All Their Own

Theres' a spot in Arkansas being groomed as a railroad man's Shangri-La. It's 81 wooded acres about four miles from Hot Springs, Ark., where it is planned that retired railroad men can live in contentment among people of similar age and interests.

The idea belongs to John M. Liedtke, 6947 Cornell av., switchman for the Santa Fe, who disliked facing idleness and separation from railroading friends on his retirement. Liedtke interested a few retired and soon to be retired employes of the railroad in his scheme to form a community where retired railroaders could sit around and rehash their experiences.

They organized the Shore Acres company about a year ago, and, under the spell of the "Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm" stories which appear in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, bought the Ozark land as their community site. It is located along Lake Hamilton and the main channel of the Ouachita river.

Group Numbers 80

About 80 persons are now in the organization, not all of them railroad men. Since the purpose of the company is to provide a contented atmosphere for the retired railroaders, their friends may also buy into the company and build in the community.

It is planned that each man will build his home according to his means, and have as much land adjoining as suits his fancy. Liedtke says he believes there are enough of the members who are masons, electricians, plumbers, painters, and cabinet makers by hobby so that by neighborly arrangement homes can be constructed at minimum cost.

For those who intend to earn a little spare cash, and keep busy in spite of retirement, a community cabinet and woodcraft shop is planned where picnic tables and games will be made and sold.

Urge Early Retirement

A secondary motive of the organization, Liedtke explained, is to induce men to retire as soon as possible to make room for returning veterans.

Fifteen members and prospective members of the Shore Acres company and their wives will leave soon on a tour of the acres, Liedtke says, to plan the subdivision.

Leaving on the tour from here are Liedtke, president; Ed Vicha, vice president, 341 Normal parkway; Bill Mundt, treasurer, 5118 Dorchester av.; Nora Carney, secretary, 3228 S. Oakley av.; Leslie Morrow, 1922 S. Avers av.; Bill Somes, 334 N. Avers av.; Joe Aigner, 5152 Mayfield av.; Gertrude Protzman, 6127 S. Marshfield av.; Mrs. C. A. Jacoby, 5525 Aberdeen st.; Earl Davis, 6915 Cornell av.; Homer Davis, 7047 East End av.; Larry Kliefges, 5624 S. Campbell av., and Joe Swersky, 1617 Union av.

525 Tenn-Agers Set Attendance Mark

A record breaking attendance of 525 on opening night marked the recent resumption of Saturday night dances for teen-agers at Emerson school under the sponsorship of the Maywood playground and recreation board.

Proviso High school students serving on the membership committee are Betty Matte, Ardie Bever, Don Mueller, Tom Shoop, Richard Hutcheson, and Charlotte Offerman. New committee members, selected on a month's trial basis to replace members who have been graduated, are Marilyn Griffy, Barbara Staup, and Kenneth Polkow.

Some Orchestra Dances

Juke box music is provided for all dances except on special occasions. The first of these will be on the night of the Proviso-Oak Park football game Nov. 10. Other dances with orchestra music will be at Christmas time, Washington's birthday, and the final night, May 25.

The Saturday night dance series is in its fourth year. Last year there was an attendance of 10,100 for the 31 dances, the average weekly attendance being 325.

Attendance Limited

Profits are set aside in a special fund for youth activities, committee members deciding how the money shall be spent.

Attendance is limited to students of Proviso High school, Maywood residents attending other high schools, and boys and girls who have not reached their 18th birthday and left high school for employment. Service men and others who may be visiting in Maywood are welcome if guests of a member.

WEST SUBURB'S CHIEF WARNS—PREVENT FIRES

"Fire prevention begins with you, whoever you are and where you are," admonishes Waldo Erickson, chief of the Western Springs fire department, in a message for national Fire Prevention week, which starts today. His message follows:

"Fire destroys lives, homes, and jobs, and places a tax upon every one. While it is true that the fire department is employed by you to prevent and fight fires, you are not relieved of the responsibility of causing them.

"You might enjoy less the spectacle of seeing the 'fire engines go by' if you realized you are paying the cost of that run and also the value of whatever is burned. Fire is always a loss, whether insured or not. It is permanent lowering of our national wealth and resources. If the property destroyed is insured it does not lessen the distress and suffering. It simply makes many participate instead of a few.

Consideration Is Urged

"Fires do not just happen. They start from known hazards, which may be eliminated easily or safeguarded by a little serious consideration and care on the part of each one of us.

"Are your heating appliances properly protected and your chimneys in good condition? Do you allow rubbish to accumulate in your basement, attic, or closets? Do you have metal containers for hot ashes? Is the electric wiring in safe condition and properly fused? Do you use inflammable liquids for dry cleaning or other purposes? Are you careful about your 'smokes' and matches? Are you careful in the use of electrical appliances?

Department Offers Advice

"Do you know how to eliminate hazards? If not, ask your fire department what to do, or better still, ask the department to make an inspection of your premises and advise you. This is an important part of our work and we need your help to do it efficiently.

"Visit your fire department before it has to visit you. Fire prevention requires only a little care and thought on your part and close contact with your fire department. Let us all join together and make this fire prevention week the starting point for fire prevention during the 52 weeks of the year."

ELMHURST CITY OFFICE TO MOVE INTO GLOS HOME

Offices of the city of Elmhurst, for 14 years located in store buildings at 132 Addison av., are to be moved this fall to the Lucy M. Glos mansion, Kenilworth and Park avs.

The Glos home has been a landmark in the suburb since it was erected during Chicago's first World fair. There are 12 rooms in its first and second stories. The third floor provided for a dance hall. Construction, including an observation tower, is of stone.

Glos Former President

Henry Glos, pioneer banker, served as president of the village of Elmhurst from 1882 to 1887 and later from 1888 to 1902. Elmhurst became a city in 1911.

The widow of Henry Glos gave the building and grounds to the city in 1939. There was a stipulation that it be used for municipal purposes, an exception being made that no fire extinguishing equipment be housed on the property.

OPA Board Has Office

During the war emergency, the ration board has had headquarters in the home and will continue to have space in an upstairs room.

Recently the city council voted $5,040 to make the building suitable for city office purposes. Henry Glos had a vault off his study which will be utilized in the new arrangement.

HOW WORKERS ON NORTHWEST SIDE AIDED WAR

Civilian Citations to Go to 117,100

More than 117,100 northwest side residents will be presented citations for their activities in the office of civilian defense and its sucessor, the Chicago war service corps which was terminated recently. Figures and activities of the OCD, organized following the bombing of Pearl Harbor, have been disclosed by Roy Levinson, director of division 5.

This army of volunteer workers in the 4,319 blocks of division 5 sold a total of $63,059,052 in war bonds by house to house canvasses in seven drives, sponsored five cake drives for the service men's center, and erected numerous memorial plaques honoring the dead of World War II. It planted 100,000 victory gardens yearly and collected 5 million pounds of grease and 3,000 tons of metal.

Volunteers early took part in a training program designed to prepare the man on the street for effective civilian defense in case of bombings. They were trained in basic survey, fire defense, gas defense, and first aid.

Tell Air Raid Work

Air raid wardens were equipped with fire extinguishers, gas masks, helmets, and first aid kits. Air raid shelters were built in each block and equipped with axs, rope, lanterns, and emergency food supplies for sustaining enemy attacks.

Activities were financed by the residents of the 21 communities in the division, principally by subscriptions. Several communities still have funds which they will donate to veteran hospitals and service organizations including Hines, Vaughn, and Gardiner hospitals.

In the Belmont-Cragin community commanded by John W. Robinson, 15,473 men and women have sold $9,427,362 in war bonds since the OCD's inception. To the service men's center they donated 2,503 cakes, 492 pounds of cookies, 256 pounds of candy, and 622 packages of cigarets. The canteen opened by the volunteers in December, 1943, at 3109 N. Central av., for service men is still operating.

Hanson Park Record

The Hanson park community, with Thomas M. DeVaney as commander, sponsored 2,800 victory gardens, collected 36,000 tons of tin, and sold $837,866 in bonds. Wokers solicited 3,779 cakes, 135 cartons of cigarets, and 639 boxes of cookies besides other food and articles for service men. More than 1,000 air raid wardens were trained.

Volunteer workers in Portage park community to receive citations total 6,415 residents, several thousand of whom completed first aid courses besides taking the four basic OCD courses. Workers sold $3,386,426 of war bonds and delivered 8,420 cakes and hundreds of cartons of cigarets, and candy, and fruit to the service men's center.

More than 3,000 residents in the Milwaukee-Armitage-Western community serving the OCD sold $13,864,157 in bonds since November, 1942, and salvaged 283,130 pounds of paper and 50,810 pounds of metal. Lewis G. Rosen was commander.

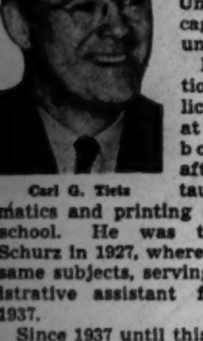
Cite Garden Record

In the last three summers 650 workers in the Mayfair community planted more than 2,115 gardens, Walter B. Nitsche, commander, said. They sold bonds worth $1,153,408 in house to house canvasses and donated 133,350 pounds of scrap paper and 57,790 pounds of metal in salvage drives. During 1943 and 1944 a service men's center was maintained in Gompers park, Foster and Tripp avs. Every Tuesday night about 150 men were entertained.

A. W. Kaercher, commander of the Avondale community, said volunteers planted more than 3,000 gardens, sold $946,707 in bonds, collected 10 tons of scrap metal, and gave to the service men's center.

Total sales of war bonds among other northwest side communities are Albany park, $9,280,285; Belmont Heights, $432,178; Edgebrook, $1,943,749; Edison park, $1,038,980; Forest Glen, $456,728; Humboldt park, $1,087,980; Irving park, $1,559,470; Jefferson park, $2,275,550; North park, $3,586,210; Northwest town, $3,640,750; Norwood park, $2,605,053; Mont Clare, $612,595; Logan Square, $2,145,815; Sauganash, $1,191,751, and Wrightwood, $1,586,025.

C. G. TIETZ RETURNS TO SCHURZ HIGH IN ROLE OF PRINCIPAL



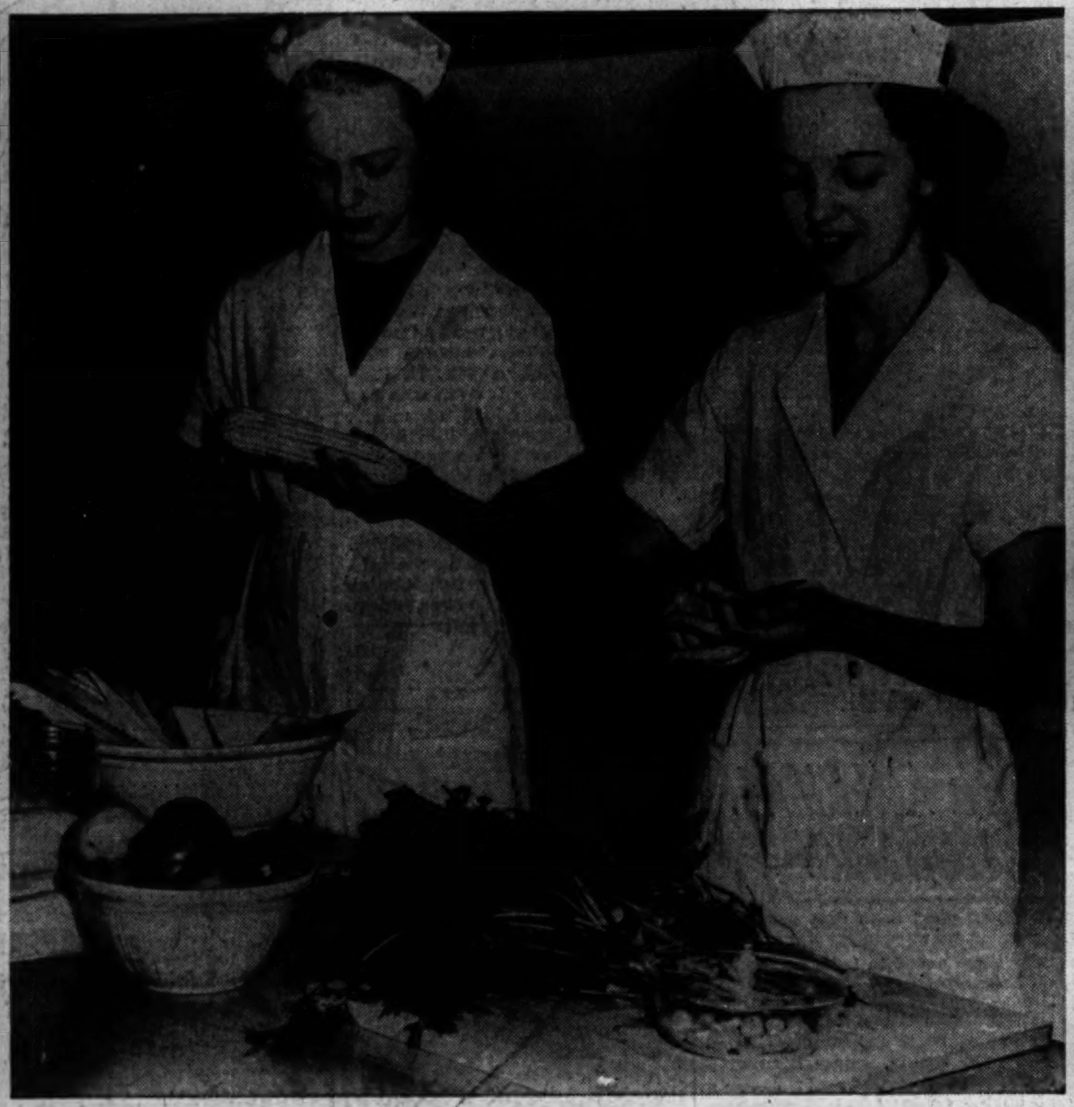
Carl G. Tietz

Carl G. Tietz has returned to Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee av., as its new principal after an absence of eight years. He holds degrees from the University of Chicago and Loyola university.

His first position in city public schools was at Von Humboldt school after which he taught mathematics and printing at Tuley High school. He was transferred to Schurz in 1927, where he taught the same subjects, serving as an administrative assistant from 1931 to 1937.

Since 1937 until this fall Tietz has been principal of Lloyd school. He also teaches a course in school administration in the Loyola graduate school.

Scholastic Talents Combine with Practical Work to Ready Girls for Adult World



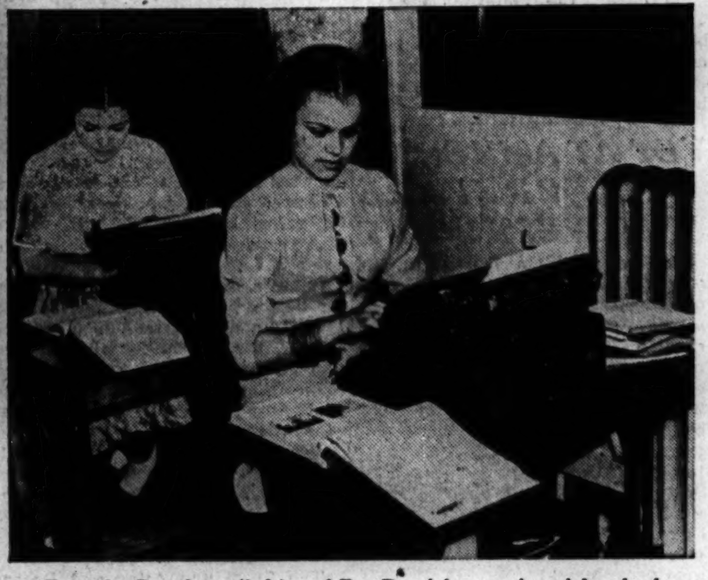
Harvest wealth from gardens at the Park Ridge School for Girls will be available into winter months thru the industry of Jeanne Zrust (left) and Donna Parrish, high school sophomores. Lessons in canning are more than just another home economics course for "housewives" still in their teens who put scholastic knowledge to practical test.

[TRIBUNE Photos]

A grandfather's clock keeps its dark burnish by regular dusting and polishing, Nancy Morris would tell a student in home care. Equally thoro Helen Mae Burcham maneuvers the vacuum cleaner over the carpets in Illinois cottage to demonstrate her knowledge of mechanized cleanliness.

The school's string ensemble brings girls from 11 to 16 years old harmoniously together in a class where again they learn the best results come from co-operation. The girls are Dorothy Yates, pianist, and (front row, from left) Nancy Anderson, Joanne Zrust, Audrey Skidmore, and Betty Hicks. In the back row are Margaret Krupp, Lila Stein, Jackie Adair (standing), and Jean Zrust.

A separate study room in each cottage and the sight of all the girls studying at the same time help toward making tomorrow's assignment more attractive. In foreground Barbara Jones (left) and Shirley Bonsteel study alone, while Louise Egner gets a helping hand on that algebra problem from Audrey Koch.



Dorothy Burcham (left) and Pat Parrish are wise girls who know that proficiency in shorthand and typing have become standard equipment for the school girl who looks toward the future job.

Fried chicken for dinner is the immediate reason that Sarah Buckwalter (left) and Kathleen Preston are taking such interest in their sophomore home economics lesson. From the classroom they'll take a new talent into the school kitchen when their turn comes to help there.

HAS SOMETHING BEEN ADDED TO BOBBY SOXERS?

It Would Seem So at Park Ridge

A giggle, a bright hair bow, and the perkiness of bobby sox above a pair of well-scuffed saddle shoes. A sigh for the radio crooner, and the inevitable bull session between "just us girls."

That's the girl of junior high and high school today, but with the girls of the Park Ridge School for Girls there's all that and more, too. Don't be fooled by that strictly decorative exterior; these girls can sew a dress, can a bushel of peaches, cut up and fry a chicken, or give the house a good, thoro cleaning.

To the superintendent, Miss Ethel Barger, this matter of "know how" is the "philosophy of work." But the name doesn't tell the full story.

Duties of Home First

That starts with the home economics course, a required subject for all the girls, under the tutelage of Miss Bonnie Rich. The girls in the youngest group learn to prepare simple meals, bake muffins, and begin their sewing lessons. They have no opportunity to forget their lessons, however, for in the two story brick cottages [looking for all the world like sorority houses] the girls put their new found knowledge into practice.

The high school freshmen advance to more complicated phases of the house. As early as their sophomore year they solve the mysteries of dressing a chicken and canning their own homegrown produce.

The result? The girls are self-sufficient in maintenance of their cottages, take care of their own laundry and ironing, and are away out in front of most of their elder sisters in the exacting talent of home making.

Many Sided Life

In the clothing classes the pig-tailed stylists learn that those extra touches were created instead of just happening on the latest dress style. In the past summer the older girls worked in near-by war plants. They now are finding it a shewd investment to create their own clothes in the sewing classes.

But it's not all work and no play for the 90 some girls—an outdoor swimming pool, string ensemle, and sports fields attest to another side of life. A juke box dance in the gym is a regular Saturday night event, and Friday is always party night in one of the six residence buildings.

Supported by Many

The school was opened in 1877 to serve as an industrial school for girls. Since then, however, a changing world has developed the tree-shaded campus into a home and school for girls who thru no fault of their own have been deprived of a normal home life with both parents.

Now students are guided by a staff of women teachers most of whom came from retirement in Park Ridge and Edison Park during the teacher shortage.

The school obtains its funds from a wide variety of sources. Tuition paid by families, contributions of women's organizations, an endowment fund, and a portion of the Community and War fund go for school upkeep. And the money keeps doubling itself in valuable returns to the community, for these girls are on the ground floor of building a successful life.

CARGO OF GOOD CHEER OCCUPIES THIS AMBULANCE

Toy Auto Collects Funds for Yanks Abroad

It was a cold, blustery morning in November, 1941, when a gray ambulance was driven into the quiet streets of Arlington Heights. The driver, half frozen in the open cab, noticed a light in the Parkview tavern.

He found the owner, Mar Johnson, and a wealth of friendliness. The tavern didn't dispense food, but in this case Johnson made an exception. Soon a hot breakfast was set before the driver while he explained how he came to be driving the ambulance.

Buys Ambulance for Canadians

He worked for a firm in Minnesota, the stranger said, and as a good will gesture the firm's employes purchased the ambulance for their Canadian neighbors for rescue work in England. The stranger was driving the new ambulance from Detroit, Mich., to Minneapolis.

In gratitude for the hospitality the driver gave Johnson a plastic model of the ambulance fashioned as a child's bank.

Now, almost four years later, Johnson would like to find that driver. He'd like to tell him how that small bank has brought pleasure to 185 service men of the Arlington Heights community. In that replica of the ambulance more than $4,070 has been deposited since Johnson placed it in the tavern.

Each Thursday Johnson selects a service man from among those with the longest service records as the "driver." The following Thursday the contributions are emptied from the bank and a money order for the amount is purchased. Then, either Johnson or his wife, Lillian, writes a letter of home town news and the gift is sent on its way.

Money Is Always Welcome

"The money usually seems to arrive just at the time when the service man is out of funds, judging from the majority of the letters we've received," Johnson said. "We've had a good many letters telling us of outings the traveling bank has financed for whole groups of men."

The matter of letters has grown into an awe inspiring correspondence and bookkeeping job for Mrs. Johnson. Her records show that they have received 4,800 letters, and she corresponds regularly with almost 400 service men. The innumerable changes of address have kept her constantly working over the files, and she's become an information center where the townsfolk can get the correct data for their letters. These calls upon her files have begun numerous friendships with townspeople.

Like a pebble cast into a quiet pond, setting up innumerable and far reaching waves, the "good neighbor" policy of that Minnesota firm started innumerable waves of good cheer, the Johnsons reason. The warmth of the strange ambulance driver's breakfast has been multiplied a thousandfold in the warm memories of a thousand service men.

FLOWERS BLOOM INTO JEWELS IN KILN'S RED HEAT

Clay Takes on Beauty and Color

In her small studio at 3313 Foster av., Mabel Blair Liggett, former cosmetic package designer who also has studied ceramics, has found a new career in the art of hand glazing—the craft of painting and baking colorless clay for costume jewelry.

Starting a year ago in ceramics, Mrs. Liggett bought an average size kiln and put herself on a 10 to 15 hour daily schedule.

Uses Few Tools

Mrs. Liggett's tools for creating talisman roses, violets, and other flowers for jewelry are few. Her fingers do most of the work shaping each individual petal.

Before the flower is mounted on an earring screw, comb, or ribbon to be worn as a necklace it must be fired in the kiln twice. Beginning with a small bit of clay Mrs. Liggett pats and shapes petals and leaves. When the parts are completed they are assembled into a flower.

Next they are placed in the kiln and baked for several hours to give strength. The glaze, which gives the flower its color, is applied with a small brush after the first firing and then baked again.

Job Born of Depression

Mrs. Liggett was graduated from the University of Illinois during the depression. She planned to teach, but there were no jobs available for those without experience. Undaunted she came to Chicago to find a commercial art job. Her first was designing letter heads. She later designed packages for cosmetic companies.

Later she started designing plaster flower pot and fruit plaques for kitchen walls. A mail order house bought the rights for the plaques and produced them wholesale as an inspiration for housewives to go into gardening during the war. Her next step was ceramics.

When there's time Mrs. Liggett makes personal ceramic ash trays. These are personalized with the name, hobby, or family crest.

Altar Society

The St. Kilian Altar and Rosary society will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the school, 87th and Aberdeen sts., Mrs. E. W. Rowland, president, announced.

$23,000 Addition Voted for N. W. Suburb's School

Construction on a $23,000 addition to the Prospect Heights school will begin within the next few weeks. The addition will include a classroom, library, office facilities, and basement.

The present one story brick building was completed in 1939 with two classrooms, which accommodated 60 pupils. Another classroom was added last year. The new addition will be 36 by 42 feet and increase the capacity to 140 pupils, W. H. Spears, president of the board of education, said.

Fifth and sixth grade classes, now being taught in a basement room, will be moved into the new quarters. The tax voted recently by the city to build the addition is not to exceed 5 mills of $100 assessed valuation.

The first Prospect Heights school was built in 1865 and was in use until the present building was completed. It was a one room, eight grade school operating between December and August. The highest enrollment for many years was 20 pupils.

Members of the board of education besides Spears include Homer C. Torreyson, Carl K. Stehman, James M. Nielsen, Frank Raupp, Fred C. Jungbluth, and George H. Sheppard.

LIBERATED YANK STILL THINKING OF HOME FIRST

He's Returning After 4 Years Under Nips

What does a released prisoner of war think about? What are his first thoughts as he writes to his family after four years in a Japanese camp?

If Marine Sgt. Walter C. Johnson, 30, is a fair sampling, a man who comes out of a "hell on earth" brings with him a deep concern for his family, an eagerness to come back to the good things of life, and an unwillingness to describe in detail the horrors thru which he has lived.

Lives on One Hope

Sgt. Johnson, a marine since 1939, was taken prisoner with the fall of Corregidor and spent the major portion of his years of imprisonment at the Osaka prison camp. Only one hope made the dreary years bearable, the eventuality of Japan's surrender.

"But after it happened it was hard to believe," he wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson, 4938 Melrose st., five days after his liberation.

"You no doubt have read or heard of life in a prison camp. The one I was in was no exception," he remarked cryptically.

"I won't bother to write about it, but when I get back home I will give some vivid details of the last four years which left alive today one out of every five who served on Bataan and Corregidor."

Looks for Letters

The days following his release are the ones he eagerly writes of: The train trip to Yokohama, where he got medical examinations and new clothes, the days of rest and treatment aboard a hospital ship, the assurances that he would soon get letters from home.

"I am writing this in a hurry aboard an army hospital ship in Yokohama harbor, Japan," he explained. "I say in a hurry because some time tomorrow we are to be flown by plane to Manila. Some class, eh? Please make allowances for this scribbling, as a P. O. W. is apt to be a bit 'flighty' upon being released."

Makes Mother Happy

The closing lines of the letter pleased the sergeant's mother the most. He wrote:

"Well, folks, it is almost time for the movies and as I haven't been to one in four years I'm going to attend. Say hello to every one for me and I'll try to see you about November of this year."

"Now I know he is all right," she smiled. "Even tho he said it was only a bad cold that keeps him on the hospital ship I might have worried. But if he is eager to go to the movies, then there is nothing seriously wrong."

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 8

It is worthwhile to protect outdoor plants by mulching the surface of the ground, especially when planting is done in the fall. This applies to woody things, such as perennials, vines, shrubs, and trees. However, it is unnecessary to complete the work before the ground freezes.

Plants are hardy and do not suffer from the cold, but spring thaws force them partially out of the ground exposing their roots. Mulching keeps the frost in the ground and prevents heaving.

Tuesday, Oct. 9

Grading and cleaning gladiolus corms may be done any time. However, timeliness in all garden operations is imperative if the best results are obtained.

See that all weeds are cut and burned before winter sets in; clean up the entire yard to remove insect harbors, place all garden furniture under cover.

Wednesday, Oct. 10

Do not remove the potted bulbous stock from darkness to light until it is thoroly rooted. Many potted plants of this kind are disappointing because the gardener could not wait until the plants were ready.

Thursday, Oct. 11

As the season advances, protect the coldframes by placing straw or strawy manure up to and around all its sides. Give a bit of air on warm days and when winter really sets in cover the glass with boards and later with strawy manure or other materials.

Friday, Oct. 12

Chrysanthemums are now available and their autumn beauty appeals to every one. Plants in pots will endure if the soil is not allowed to dry out and they are removed to a cool room at night. Excessive heat ruins plants quickly.

Watch for aphids or green flies for they will be carried into the home when the plants are purchased.

Saturday, Oct. 13

Spade the vegetable garden before cold weather arrives and allow it to remain "in the rough" all winter.

If mushroom manure or stable manure can be obtained spread a goodly layer over the ground before spading. Add the much needed humus to the soil and add some food elements.

Unless the weather is very cold, pruning can be done at any time, altho warm spring days are better for doing such work. Only a few shrubs are pruned when dormant, most of them requiring attention after flowering.

RAILROAD VETS PLAN COLONY IN THE OZARKS

Theres' a spot in Arkansas being groomed as a railroad man's Shangri-La. It's 81 wooded acres about four miles from Hot Springs, Ark., where it is planned that retired railroad men can live in contentment among people of similar age and interests.

The idea belongs to John M. Liedtke, 6947 Cornell av., switchman for the Santa Fe, who disliked facing idleness and separation from railroading friends on his retirement. Liedtke interested a few retired and soon to be retired employes of the railroad in his scheme to form a community where retired railroaders could sit around and rehash their experiences.

They organized the Shore Acres company about a year ago, and, under the spell of the "Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm" stories which appear in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, bought the Ozark land as their community site. It is located along Lake Hamilton and the main channel of the Ouachita river.

Group Numbers 80

About 80 persons are now in the organization, not all of them railroad men. Since the purpose of the company is to provide a contented atmosphere for the retired railroaders, their friends may also buy into the company and build in the community.

It is planned that each man will build his home according to his means, and have as much land adjoining as suits his fancy. Liedtke says he believes there are enough of the members who are masons, electricians, plumbers, painters, and cabinet makers by hobby so that by neighborly arrangement homes can be constructed at minimum cost.

For those who intend to earn a little spare cash and keep busy in spite of retirement, a community cabinet and woodcraft shop is planned where picnic tables and games will be made and sold.

Urge Early Retirement

A secondary motive of the organization, Liedtke explained, is to induce men to retire as soon as possible to make room for returning veterans.

Fifteen members and prospective members of the Shore Acres company and their wives will leave soon on a tour of the acres, Liedtke says, to plan the subdivision.

Leaving on the tour from here are Liedtke, president; Ed Vicha, vice president, 341 Normal parkway; Bill Mundt, treasurer, 5118 Dorchester av.; Nora Carney, secretary, 3228 S. Oakley av.; Leslie Morrow, 1922 S. Avers av.; Bill Somes, 334 N. Avers av.; Joe Aigner, 5152 Mayfield av.; Gertrude Protzman, 6127 S. Marshfield av.; Mrs. C. A. Jacoby, 5525 Aberdeen st.; Earl Davis, 6915 Cornell av.; Homer Davis, 7047 East End av.; Larry Kliefges, 5624 S. Campbell av., and Joe Swersky, 1617 Union av.

Y CENTER GROUP AT STOCK YARDS PLANS SEASON

The Robettes club, which meets at the Y. W. C. A. Stock Yards center, 4856 S. Ashland av., announced a new series of activities for the weekly meetings beginning at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Josephine Kuhl, president, said the activities will include volleyball games, community singing, speeches and discussions on current affairs, roller skating classes, group piano lessons, and handicraft classes. Week-end trips also are being planned, she said, and a united nations program series is being arranged for the monthly supper night.

Other club officers are Lorraine Iglinski, program chairman; Marie Pietrzak, secretary, and Cecile Tuman, chairman of the news reel committee of the League of Industrial Girls.

Morgan Park Mothers

The governing board of the Mothers club of Morgan Park Military academy will hold a tea Tuesday in the academy for mothers of freshman cadets, faculty members, and alumni mothers.

LIEUTENANT IN NAVY RETURNS TO DIRECT S. SIDE PARK ACTIVITY

W. M. Collins.

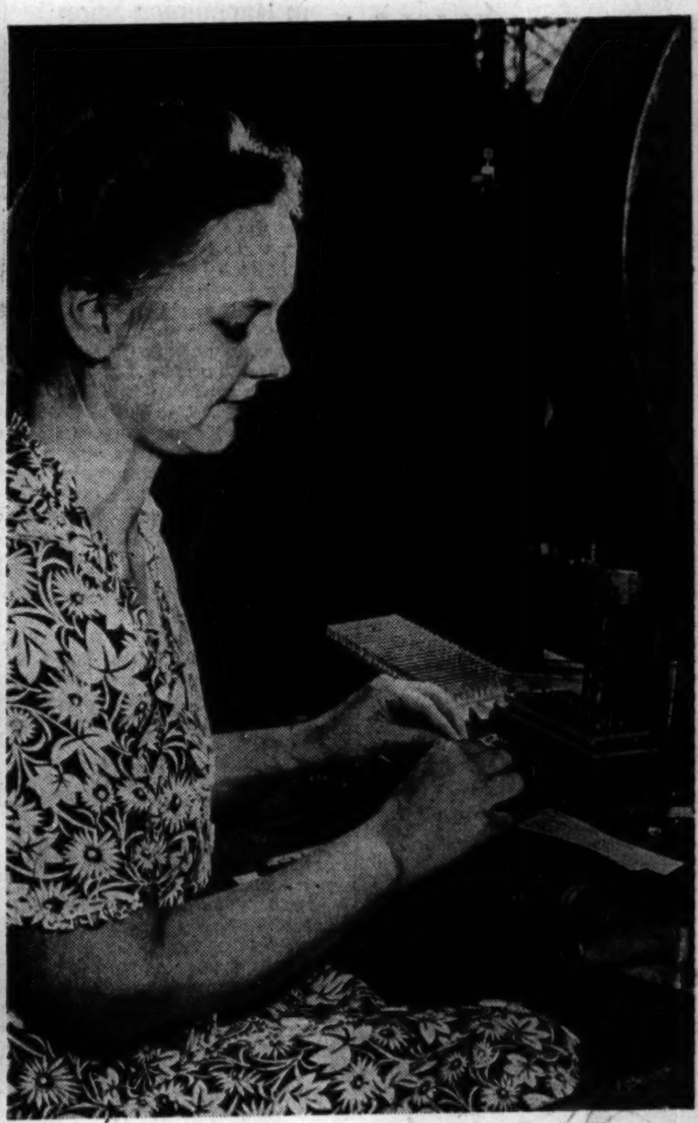
William M. Collins, 5722 S. Sacramento av., has returned as area supervisor with the park recreation staff after three years' service in the navy. He will be in charge of all recreation activities on the south and southwest side, north of 71st st.

When discharged Collins was a lieutenant, having spent 20 months in the South Pacific as staff officer. He also completed a 12 month tour as recreation officer on Florida Island in the Solomons when it served as a jumping off place for naval action.

Serving as a forward fleet recreation center, the island's facilities provided relaxation for more than a million men during Collin's stay.

Harmonica Factory Workers Testify That from Tiny Reeds Mighty Melodies Grow

One of America's newest industries is manufacturing harmonicas. Mrs. Louise Huckins, Matteson, an employee of a harmonica factory in Hazelcrest, prepares to make sweet music with one of the company's products. Before the war, most harmonicas were made in Germany and Japan. None were manufactured in the United States.



A simple appearing instrument with only three pieces visible to the casual observer, the harmonica contains two brass plates fastened to the sides of a wooden core. Each plate contains 10 brass reeds tapered down to the thousandth of an inch. Miss Carol Cummings, Hazelcrest, loads the reeds from a muffin tray into a cartridge to be stamped by the punch press operator, Mrs. Esther Duwe, Homewood, to the plate.

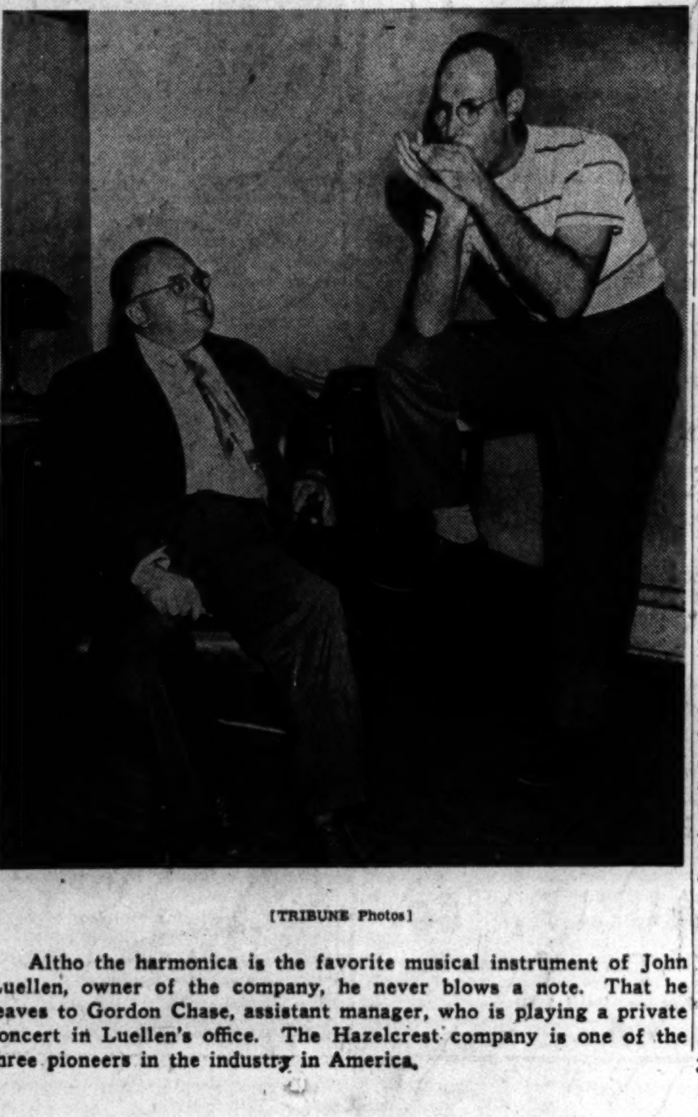
Before American manufacturers entered the market harmonicas were tuned by ear. Now, thru a device constructed in Harvey for the manufacturer, the stroboscope connected with a tuning fork tunes the instruments accurately by sight. Each girl tunes only one note. When the vibrations of the fork equal the vibrations of the harmonica note, the dots on the stroboscope become stationary and perfect tuning is attained. Tuners facing camera (left to right) are Miss Thea Thoma, Miss Agnes Hansen, Mrs. Eileen Leonardy, and Mrs. Minnie Thoma. With backs to camera (left to right) are Miss Jeanne McNeil, Mrs. Evelyn McCoy, Miss Mary Lou Moffitt, and Mrs. Edna Mangum.

If a note is out of tune the reed is filed down carefully. Some filing work is farmed out to housewives anxious to earn extra money at home. The close-up shows the hands of Miss Agnes Hansen, Hazelcrest, trimming down one of the reeds. When the recalcitrant reed is filed, the plate is given a final testing by Mrs. Jean Ganster, Midlothian, on the organ, a vacuum device which blows single notes when the plate is passed over it.



[TRIBUNE Photos]

Altho the harmonica is the favorite musical instrument of John Luellen, owner of the company, he never blows a note. That he leaves to Gordon Chase, assistant manager, who is playing a private concert in Luellen's office. The Hazelcrest company is one of the three pioneers in the industry in America.

SITE SELECTED FOR FIRE HOUSE IN DIXIE GARDENS

Seek Funds for New Department

"Selection of the site for the engine house and community hall to house the new Dixie Gardens community fire department was announced recently by Andrew Leoni, newly elected fire chief. The building will be erected at 202d st. and Ashland av. as soon as materials are available, he said.

Meanwhile, the fund raising campaign to finance the volunteer department is continuing, he said. A dance will be given Oct. 13 at Polish Falcon hall in Chicago Heights. Rex Mansell, one of the volunteers, is in charge of the dance committee.

The community is bounded by Joe Orr rd., Dixie hwy., Vollmer rd., and Western av. The fire department is the outgrowth of the OCD fire fighting classes, Leoni said, when the community became conscious of its vulnerability to fire.

Donations from residents totaling $300 bought the first piece of equipment, a truck. Later two 700 gallon tanks from a refrigerator railroad car were purchased to hold the water supply. The truck is equipped with a jeep powered high pressure fire pump.

Volunteers Study in Chicago Heights

With the aid of the OCD a hose and other equipment was added. The truck is being converted into a fire engine in a garage with the help of volunteer workers.

It is expected the truck will be ready about the same time the volunteers complete training under George Mahnke, chief of the Chicago Heights fire department. Volunteers training are Charles Hank, Ralph Stockinger, Frank Bider, Ralph Hall, Ivan Howe, Owen Boughton, Edward Mack, Al Stelter, and Mansell.

Movie Club Meets

Two color movies of "Lincoln's Trails" and "Tulip Time in Holland" will be presented at the meeting Tuesday night of the Movie and Slide club of Palmer park in the fieldhouse.

Bishop Magee

Julia Gay Memorial Methodist church, Garfield blvd. and Paulina st., will celebrate homecoming and mortgage burning Sunday. Bishop J. Ralph Magee will be the speaker at the 10:45 a. m. service when the mortgage will be burned, marking the end of debt on the church's property. Dr. C. A. SENSE OF HUMOR IN HIS FEET TRIPS NAZI SS SOLDIER

Two big feet poking out under a truck was the tip that saved Pvt. Frank T. See, nephew of Charles S. See, 943 W. 68th st., from capture in Germany. See tickled the feet with a bayonet and thereby added one SS trooper to his bag of prisoners.

With the 35th infantry division, See was setting up his gun in a small German town when he was approached by a newly liberated Pole. The Pole warned See that the son and husband of the family in whose house he was billeted were German soldiers at war.

That night while See was standing guard in the entrance of the house he heard a shuffling sound coming from two army trucks. He sidled over to the trucks and his eye fell on two bare feet sticking from under the running board.

The SS man had changed to civilian clothes and had tried to get back to his home. Unfortunately for him, See wrote friends, the Nazi hadn't counted on previous occupancy by the Americans.

WORKERS ALLOW NO SOUR NOTE TO MAR THIS PLANT

55 Specialize on Harmony in Harmonica Shop

The reedy, uncertain little notes that float from the brown shingled building in Hazelcrest across from the Illinois Central station are sounds that were foreign to this area until about a year ago. They emanate from harmonicas being tuned at the factory owned by John Luellen, one of three pioneers in a new American industry.

Until the Nazis and Japs had delusions of the right of eminent domain over the world, most harmonicas were made in Germany and Japan, according to Luellen who started his business in Hazelcrest in August, 1944. The Hohner factory in Bavaria, which manufactured all kinds from the novelties strung on necklaces to the chromatic harmonicas played by such artists as Larry Adler and Borah Minnevitch, turned out about 25 million yearly.

Bomb Harmonica Plant

Hohner had about 4,500 employes before they turned to war production and were bombed out of business by the 8th air force. Japan, he said, manufactured the tuneless little mouth organs ordinarily available at dime and country dry goods stores.

The American demand for harmonicas was 15 million annually before the war, a demand which he expects will increase principally because of the use of the instrument in veteran rehabilitation programs. At present his company is turning out 500 harmonicas daily, most of them on army, navy, and Red Cross contracts.

Luellen, former president of the Continental Music company, musical instrument importers, started his business from scratch, devising tools and tuning methods and training his 55 employes. At present his company is equipped to make only the 4 inch, 20 note, key of C type harmonica.

Use Mathematical Precision

A simple appearing instrument with only three pieces visible to the player, the harmonica is planned mathematically down to the thousandth of an inch. Two brass plates, fastened to the sides of the wooden center, contain 20 brass reeds of varying lengths. The vibrations of the reeds under the blow and draw breaths of the player produce the notes.

The American manufacturers have improved on the European method of tuning, Luellen said. The Hohner factory tuned by ear, farming their products out to families whose ear for notes in certain keys had been inherited for generations. American manufacturers tune by sight.

Luellen uses a tuning fork attached to a stroboscope developed for his use by a physicist. When the vibrations of the fork, tuned for example to the key of G, equal the vibrations of the harmonica note, the dots on the stroboscope become stationary and the operator passes the plate to the next girl who repeats the process for tuning another note. Each operator tunes only one note on the plate. The note is sounded when the plate passes over a vacuum. If the dots persist in whirling on the stroboscope, the operator must file the reed down until perfect pitch is obtained.

Look for Sour Notes

When all notes are tuned, the entire plate is given another testing by operators who, after testing 500 a day, have developed an ear for sour notes. One operator tests the blow plate, containing the notes C, E, and G, in three octaves, and another, located at some distance from her, tests the draw plate, with the notes D, F, A, and B, in three octaves. Luellen separates them to keep them from getting their notes mixed.

This sight tuning is all right, says Gordon Chase, assistant manager, but he often gives the finished product a trial by running thru "Yankee Doodle," or the "Irish Wash Women." Luellen, altho he considers the harmonica his favorite instrument and sweet music, never plays. The strains that float from his home at 2158 Cedar rd., Homewood, are those from his clarinet and saxophone.

MARK 60 YEARS OF EMERALD AV. BAPTIST PARISH

Jubilee Events to Open Wednesday Nights

Four events this week will commemorate the founding of the Emerald Avenue Baptist church, 59th st. and Emerald av., 60 years ago.

On Wednesday night there will be a historical program. Mrs. Oscar Qstling, 8009 Bishop st., will talk on "When I Was a Girl" and Alex Erickson, a former member living in Algoma, Mich. will reminisce on "When I Was a Boy." Walter A. Carlson, 8019 Carpenter st., church historian and editor of the anniversary book, "Down Thru the Years," also will speak. An old time choir will sing favorite songs.

On Thursday night Sunday school will be held, with talks by Oscar Ostling, former superintendent, and the Rev. Victor E. Sherling, missionary.

Mission Night Friday

Mission night will be held Friday, with messages by the Rev. Gust Pearson, member of the church and missionary on furlough from his post in French Equatorial Africa, and the Rev. Walfred Danielson, secretary of foreign missions. On Saturday night there will be a church banquet.

Sunday school classes at 10 a. m. will open the religious observances next Sunday. Morning worship will follow at 11 o'clock with the pastor, Dr. G. A. Hagstrom, preaching. The Rev. William Tapper will speak at the young people's meeting at 4:30 p. m. An evening service at 7:30 o'clock will present a message by the Rev. Virgil A. Olson, associate pastor, and a sacred concert.

Carpenters Open History

The history of the church begins with two carpenters, John Ost and Louis Johnson, who left South Chicago seeking employment. They walked until they reached Englewood, where they found work. Later these two settlers banded together with C. E. Sweiberg, a building contractor, and other Swedish Baptist people who followed from South Chicago and Joliet, for prayer meetings in each other's homes.

On Oct. 10, 1885, the group was organized as the Swedish Baptist church of Englewood, the name used until 1941, when, because the membership included other nationalities, it was changed to the Emerald Avenue Baptist church.

For two years the congregation met in a store at 59th st. and Wentworth av. On July 10, 1887, their own church building at 59th st. and Emerald av., was dedicated. Later it was moved to the present address. In 1897 a fire leveled the structure and in April, 1898, the present church was dedicated.

Of the 11 former pastors only one is living, the Rev. Carl A. Olsson, who resigned two years ago to become an army chaplain. He is stationed in Manila, P. I. Church membership numbers 547.

Capt. Borkenhagen

Joseph Roses

Marine Pvt. Joseph A. Roses, 24, son of Mrs. Sophie Richards, 140 W. 66th st., recently was awarded the bronze star medal for assisting in setting up and maintaining communications, without which his artillery battery would have been unable to render effective night fire support on Iwo. Pvt. Roses is a veteran of the Tarawa, Saipan, and Guam operations.

Sgt. Hugh F. McKinley, 26, son of Mrs. Margaret McKinley, 1243 W. 71st pl., has been awarded the bronze star medal for heroism in action last March 25 in Germany. Sgt. McKinley deliberately exposed himself to draw enemy fire while a machine gun section moved to put their guns into action to neutralize the fire. He opened fire on the enemy positions, creating disorganization and confusion. His platoon, which had been pinned down, was able to surge forward and capture a large number of prisoners and seize the objective.

Cite Battle Surgeon

The bronze star medal went to Capt. William H. Borkenhagen, 9027 Ada st., for outstanding service in military operations in France, Belgium, and Germany. As battalion surgeon, Capt. Borkenhagen displayed expert surgical skill. During large scale operations he made frequent visits to his widely separated aid stations to insure expert care for the sick and wounded. Capt. Borkenhagen also instituted a thoro training program for his aidmen. He formerly was attached to the staff of Evangelical hospital.

Pvt. Poseph S. Korpalski, son of Mrs. Pauline Korpalski, 4211 S. California av., has received the bronze star medal for heroism in action with the 5th army in Italy. Pvt. Korpalski served with the 88th [Blue Devil] division.

Sgt. Vale L. Gilbertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos L. Gilbertson, 6212 Kolmar av., recently was awarded the bronze star medal in Manila. His photo mapping achievements against the enemy in the Southwest Pacific area from May, 1942, to June, 1945, were cited.

Sgt. Gilbertson joined the army in May, 1941, and has been on duty in Australia, New Guinea, and the Philippines. He also wears the Philippine liberation ribbon, and the meritorious service unit award. While in Melbourne, Australia, he married an Australian girl. They have one son.

Sgt. Elvin F. Schnable, husband of Mrs. Loretta J. Schnable, 6834 Aberdeen st., has been awarded the bronze star medal for heroism in action against the enemy in Germany. Formerly employed as a pressman, Sgt. Schnable joined the army in October, 1942, and has been a member of an engineers battalion.

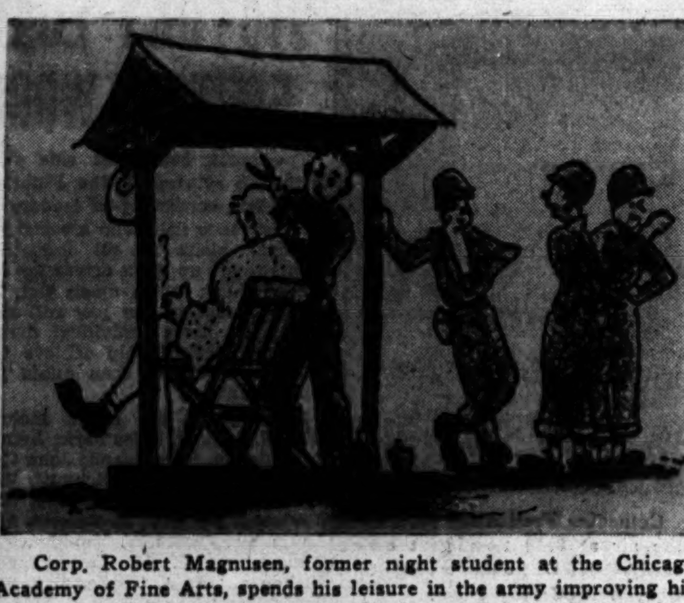
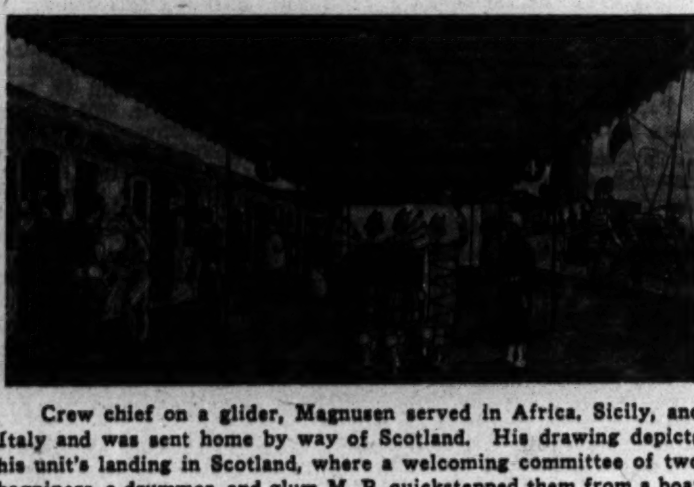
Catches Yanks' Glum Humor



Corp. Robert Magnusen, former night student at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, spends his leisure in the army improving his cartooning technique by recording GI life. An air conditioned barber shop in Africa was one of his first sketches.



Crew chief on a glider, Magnusen served in Africa, Sicily, and Italy and was sent home by way of Scotland. His drawing depicts his unit's landing in Scotland, where a welcoming committee of two bagpipers, a drummer, and glum M. P. quickstepped them from a boat to an England bound train.

SERGEANT WINS SILVER STAR AND DSC IN GERMANY

Captures Foe Despite His Wounds

Emil Praeger

For his bravery in Germany and France, Tech. Sgt. Emil Praeger, 7352 Green st., recently was awarded the silver star and distinguished service cross.

Praeger ran 100 yards thru machine gun and rifle fire to locate an enemy strongpoint. Returning to his squad, he brought it within 25 yards of the Germans, directed a tank into position, and dashed into the house under murderous fire. He came out with 22 prisoners, a machine gun, machine pistol, several rifles, and a store of ammunition, the silver star citation said.

The distinguished service cross was awarded him for his 50 yard dash down a French street deluged with enemy automatic fire to assault two strongpoints. According to the citation, he charged single handedly into one house and forced surrender of two machine pistolmen and, altho painfully wounded, killed the two-man crew in the second stronghold.

He received the Purple Heart for his wounds and was hospitalized 55 days. Since his recovery he has been an interpreter in Austria and Germany. He entered service in February, 1943, and has been overseas a year. He has sent his wife, Jeanette, such souvenirs as a fur lined coat, German uniforms, medals, swords, and coins.

Marine Learns 2 Ways to Find Home in Capital

Ira Roper

Recently assigned to the marine barracks, Quantico, Va., after 30 months overseas, Pvt. Ira Roper, 11842 Longwood dr., attempted to find living accommodations in Washington, D. C., for himself and his bride, the former Dorothy Matoz. Unsuccessful, he wrote to Rep. Gordon [D., 8th], congressman from west Chicago, asking help.

Altho this was a last resort measure, Roper did not expect results from his S O S. On the day after he found a suitable abode, Roper received a letter from Rep. Gordon inviting the marine and his wife to live in Gordon's Washington home until they could find a place of their own.

The marine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roper of the Longwood dr. address, is a clerk in the discharge section. In service 44 months, he has 74 points and hopes to fill out his own certificate in the not too distant future. Before entering the marines he attended Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

GI CHRONICLES ARMY LIFE IN 100 DRAWINGS

Sometime between acquiring seven battle stars and an English wife in his near three years overseas, Corp. Robert Magnusen, 416 115th pl., also found leisure to record GI life in a series of colored drawings.

A night student at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts before he entered service, and with aspirations to become a comic strip cartoonist, Magnusen seized upon army life as an opportunity to improve his drawing technique. He drew about 100 sketches, depicting the life of the GIs in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and England. Recently stationed in South America, he was cartoonist for the Toucan Topics, and several drawings were exhibited at an army show in British Guiana.

Records Units Advance

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo M. Magnusen, he went to Africa in May, 1943. His scenes from that part of his army career include drawings of soldiers' expressions as they first sight land, a GI bath a la Arabia, pitching tents, and an African tonsorial parlor. He also made a large cartoon of a sidewalk cafe in Algeria, complete with la belle femme and an international group of admirers.

His drawings record his unit's advance thru Sicily and Italy, and finally his landing in Scotland, where a welcoming committee of two bagpipes and a drum quickstepped them from a boat to an England bound train.

Hopes for Discharge Soon

Magnussen met his future wife, Peggy, a private in the ATS when he landed in England early in 1944. They were married the following Oct. 14. Magnusen also found time to make several drawings of the countryside around Sutton-in-Ashfield, Peggy's home. His wife is now discharged, he says, and is awaiting transportation here.

Magnusen hopes to be in civvies in a couple of weeks. Then he intends to resume his studies at the academy. He is a graduate of Fenger High school, where he drew cartoons for the school newspaper.

Elisabeth Bergner Lauded as a Bewitching Actress

Work in 'Two Mrs. Carrolls' Called Superb

By Claudia Cassidy

Two celebrated theatrical newcomers of widely discrepant ages arrived last week — Shakespeare's "The Tempest," fresh stage stuff to most of us, despite its more than three centuries on the library shelf, and Elisabeth Bergner, a favorite elsewhere for almost three decades, tho you wouldn't believe more than one of them to look at her. Shakespeare proved that "the play's the thing" and Bergner proved that the star is, and a fine controversial time was had by all.

It is the compassionate custom of people who disagree with reviews to inquire solicitously about the digestion of the reviewer, and Seaman Louis N. Zelle is the first to suggest, Elizabethan style [the "z" stands for Shakespeare—it's "s" is Bergner], that I was in pain at "The Tempest." I was, but not the way Mr. Zelle means. My digestion is perfectly amenable, but neither my eyes nor my ears will play the game of make-believe to the extent of accepting the counterfeit as the real thing. To my way of thinking, Margaret Webster's production drains the poetry from one of the most exquisitely insubstantial plays ever written, leaving it precisely these assets—the winged beauty of Zorina as Ariel, the enchanting ship's curtain of painted gauze, the comedy of Wallace Acton's Trinculo and Benny Baker's Stephano, and the sudden hint of groping for beauty that wrings piteous poetry from Caliban despite the monstrous makeup that maligns Canada Lee. I wouldn't give you 5 cents for another thing in the show, because the pedestrian acting, direction and production just get in Shakespeare's way.

Elisabeth Bergner

But Bergner, now there's another story. It would have been more interesting to have her in one of the major plays of her rich career, for "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" is neurotic claptrap, but you have to admit it shows off the star. As the adoring wife who slowly realizes that her husband is poisoning her she gives a performance of such absorbing brilliance that the kicked about sport of bravura acting again becomes an art.

Bergner is a resourceful technician, and she has been accused of purely virtuoso performance. Certainly, like a Heifetz or a Horowitz, she could rely on technique to pull her thru, but also like them, she doesn't, at least when I am around. There is a warmth about her, a tingling, acutely appealing, intensely personal charm that makes the audience willing to fight her battles. No actress who has that magnetism for the public can be accused of coldly mechanical perfection. She acts with her brain, certainly, but she translates every mental impulse into terms of emotional impact. True, you may suspect the transition, as you never do with the magnificent Laurette Taylor, but you can have a fine theatrical evening watching the incandescent Bergner juggle her sorcerer's bag of thespian tricks.

She is, for one thing, intensely pictorial. Tiny of stature, she has a dancer's grace and authenticity of mime, and her frail little face is exactly what she wants it to be—a mirror of emotions. With her wide, mobile mouth, her gleeful eyes and her bubbling quality of delight at living, she opens her play on a note of happiness so irresistible you forgive her the obvious padding she thrusts into the clanking bones of a skeleton scene. But when she stands before you, a pitiful shell of that happiness, fighting the growing terror that seeks possession of wracked mind and body, she asks no indulgence and you need to grant none. She is a bewitching actress who knows her job.

The Theater Guild is putting up a battle for Chicago's affections this season, determined that we keep on clinging to what has been faithful allegiance in good times and times not so admirable. Report from Pittsburgh on the opening of "The Winter's Tale," the Shakespearean revival scheduled to open at the Blackstone Oct. 29, adds Colin Keith-Johnston and Philip Huston to the cast which already held Florence Reed, Jessie Royce Landis, Whitford Kane, Henry Daniell, and Romney Brent. And Catherine Whitehorn, who is ballet minded, says of Stewart Chaney's designs that the costumes glow with jewel tints like those in "Danses Concertantes," particularly the chartreuse, brown, gold and white of the last scene, and that there is an entr'acte curtain suggesting both "Danses Concertantes" and "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme." Meanwhile, there seems to be a rift in the play's direction. One story is that B. Iden Payne has withdrawn and Romney Brent has taken over. The guild says Mr. Brent is collaborating with Mr. Payne. At any rate, if clubs or schools would like a Shakespearean lecturer with accent on "The Winter's Tale," Clayton Hamilton will be available without fee. Telephone the guild offices at the Erlanger, Franklin 4590.

The guild has been at work, too, on "Foolish Notion." You know, of course, that John Emery has replaced Henry Hull opposite Tallulah Bankhead, while Donald Cook remains in his original role. But perhaps you hadn't heard that Philip Barry, who was ill when the play had its tryout in advance of New York, has done considerable rewriting. At any rate, the guild thinks we will see a better show than the original.

New on the calendar since last Sunday is the Edwin Lester revival of Sigmund Romberg's "The Desert Song," due at the Civic Opera house Nov. 18 or 19, depending on when the troupe can safely get here from the coast. This is the highly successful California production by the producer of "Song of Norway," and Walter Cassel sings the role of the Red Shadow. Formerly with the Metropolitan Opera, Mr. Cassel sang at Grant park the summer of 1944.

Nellie Poorman wants to know if last Sunday's column meant that "Antigone," "Medea," and the Evans "Hamlet" are due here this season, and, alas, it didn't. . . . And F. J. Stannard thinks I meant Burl Ives doesn't know "On Top of Old Smoky." Why Mr. Stannard, I've played those records so often we can't get rid of the echoes.

"Good Night Ladies" closes its Blackstone engagement Saturday night, Oct. 20, with a total of 111 Chicago weeks, 100 of them a hangover from the original visit.

Chicago Opera Season Begins Tomorrow with 'Manon'

on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

Why Not Restage Danielian's "Faun" and Use Pretty Girls?

SO Argentinita is dead and Nijinsky may be brought back from the living dead [please, not just on merciless exhibition]—and the ballet is leaving town before I can write half I want to say. I wanted to talk about repertory, and what happens to gifted young dancers lured by greener fields that too often turn out to be a mirage where talent dies of thirst, and to wonder what can be done to salvage "L'Apres-Midi d'un Faune" now that Leon Danielian has chosen to evoke the bemused wild creature of Nijinsky's dreams.

At first I thought Danielian's performance lacked imagination, but now I think it chiefly lacks a setting. The production itself is garish and literal and has been since the renaissance of ballet restored it. I never saw it in Nijinsky's own time when it stirred the double uproar of scandal at its theme and protest at its unorthodox choreography, but even then Nijinsky disliked Bakst's setting, which by this time resembles an advertisment for cheap perfume. And surely Bakst himself would object to the ill fitting wigs that now scarcely cover the nymphs' own hair. If the "Faun" is to stay in the repertory, where the score would make it eternally popular, can't we have it restaged? Danielian looks the part. Why not give him the most beautiful girls in the troupe, with flawless profiles because of that one-dimensional posturing, and light the ballet in a sultry haze that seems to be spun from the shimmering heart of Debussy's score?

We might have something then, and again we might not. Diaghileff staged the "Faun" with every resource at his princely command, and what happened? Fokine thought the choreography was terrible. Nijinsky not only hated the scenery but even doubted the rightness of the score. Debussy? O, he just looked at the ballet attached to his music, lifted Gallic shoulders and asked, "Why?"

Wishing a New Ballet Well

Midway of its Civic Opera house engagement the Ballet Russe began rehearsals on "Night Shadow," a dusky tale of a poet, a somnambulist and a coquette which Balanchine is doing to a Rieti score after Bellini. I hope it strikes the requisite number of snags to be a hit, for the birth of a ballet invariably is accompanied by doubt, and it may be that the sharper the pangs, the better the ballet. See what happened to "Danses Concertantes." This glittering triumph was put into rehearsal in California the morning after the gala opening of "Song of Norway," which you remember had Danilova and Franklin and the Ballet Russe corps de ballet to help make it a first night hit. The next morning, half asleep, Danilova went to ballet rehearsal. The first thing she saw was Stravinsky's score, photostat white on green paper. It made her cross-eyed to look at it, and the pianist felt the same way. Thin, unpleasant noises emerged from his reluctant fingers. Then Balanchine came in with Berman, who announced that the décor would be black, but neglected to mention the jewel-gay costumes. "Black," shuddered Danilova in fatalistic despair, "we have green music that make me cross-eyed, black dĕcor like undertaker. We are cook!" If "Night Shadow" is "cook" in such fashion, it looks like a hit for that proposed return engagement in the spring.

A Great Success Good Enough

Speaking of Stravinsky and ballet, have you heard about the two telegrams framed over his piano? Seems that when Billy Rose's "Seven Lively Arts" opened with Dolin and Markova dancing Stravinsky's "Scènes de Ballet," Dolin telegraphed Stravinsky something like this, "Your ballet great success. But it needs to be shortened here and lengthened there and it would be a good idea to eliminate this and put in that. If you do all these things can guarantee enormous success." Stravinsky modestly replied, "Am satisfied with great success."

Chicago Birthplace of Theater Guild

Did you know that Chicago, in a manner of speaking, was the sprouting ground of the Theater Guild and its subscription cities? Lawrence Langner, one of its founders and now co-administrator with Theresa Helburn, always says he got the idea for such a theater from the Maurice Browne productions given here in 1912. And the subscription idea stemmed from the time Samuel Insull brought the acting company to the Studebaker for one of its most brilliant seasons. He guaranteed the guild against loss and was astounded to make money, for most of his theatrical experience was based on the bright red ink of opera in the grand style. The guild is now a coast to coast hookup with some 100,000 subscribers and so much money in the till from "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel" that it is not only starting classic repertory with "Winter's Tale," but planning a young opera troupe for John Raitt, who will sing Figaro, either Mozart's or Rossini's, with Rouben Mamoulian directing.

Dilettantes and Wildcats

When Edmund Goulding came indiscreetly back from Hollywood as author and director of "The Ryan Girl," he spoke out in public about the way the theater had gone to the dogs with all the old line producers replaced by people like Dilettante de Liagre and Wildcat Wildberg and such. Dilettante de Liagre mused on this as he cut the birthday cake that started "The Voice of the Turtle" on its second year at the Selwyn, and Wildcat Wildberg looked downright substantial as he drank a toast to "Anna Lucasta's" first year at the Civic. K. T. Stevens didn't begrudge a penny of the $95 that went into her scene stealing party hat, and it is said that Hilda Simms, starting her second year as Anna, feels she made the right decision. She didn't think the theater very solid; so they had to coax her away from her $35 a week job [she took a leave of absence] with the $105 a week she considered all right. And now she can drink champagne from Danilova's ballet slipper, if she has the champagne. Danilova gave her the slipper one of the nights she was so enchanted by the ballet she almost forgot her cues at the little theater next door.

Another Shubert Tale

Remember when no Al Jolson show was complete without a preposterous tale jocosely maligning his bosses, the Shuberts? He would like this one now going the rounds. Its tellers insist that J. J. Shubert paid so much down as option on a score, promising so much more at a certain date, providing the composer by that time had not played it for any other producer. Shortly before the time was up, Lee Shubert insisted on hearing it, saying it wouldn't matter as he and J. J. were brothers in the same firm. So the composer came with two strange men and played the audition. He immediately got a wire from J. J. canceling the contract, whereupon he wired back, "Contract holds. Those two men were my lawyers and the music I played was from 'Rigoletto.'"

Opening Eight Days Earlier Than in 1944

By Albert Goldberg

Time was when the snow was beginning to fly before it became necessary to exhume opera togs from their summer's mothproof storage. But that was when Chicago's opera spread leisurely over three midwinter months and when "member of the Chicago Opera company" meant that and nothing more, and singing stars did not have to have the wits of a chess champion to fit opera, radio, and concert contracts into a single season's piece. Nowadays any singer worth his or her star billing has so many options on his services that even the proud "Met" has to maintain a flexible schedule, and the rest of the country, including once independent Chicago, if it seeks the operatic ministrations of the numerically constantly diminishing front line of vocalists, must reconcile itself to sometimes drastic readjustment.

In the present state of the public's musical appetite, which includes an active operatic hunger, such considerations do not affect ticket buying, and the fact that the Chicago Opera's opening tomorrow night is eight days earlier than even last season has not stood in the way of a pre-season subscription sale at least 20 per cent in advance of last year's banner solvency, a black ink record that permitted an extra week of performances to be added to this year's schedule.

Armand Tokatyan

Elvira Helal

Massenet's "Manon," which starts the operatic ball rolling tomorrow night at the Civic Opera house, seems new in its employment as a season's opener, tho if our records are correct it has enjoyed 32 presentations since Garden and Muratore first portrayed the luckless lovers in 1914. Other Manon-Des Grieux combinations since then have been Vix and Muratore, Gall and Schipa, Galli-Curci and Schipa, Mason and Ansseau, McCormic and Hackett, Hope Hampton and Bentonelli [ever forget that one?], Dosia and Burdino, Grace Moore and Burdino, Dosia and Kiepura, Moore and Schipa, Jepson and Crooks.

SINGS IN RECITAL

Grace Moore looks like Carmen in this mantilla, but she will be singing a recital, not opera, at Orchestra hall Tuesday night.

Apparently determined to put his organization's best foot forward first Maestro Fausto Cleva is reported to have given tomorrow's "Manon" two complete dress rehearsals, a circumstance accurately described by the company's press agent as an "unprecedented phenomenon." Such care must be in the interests of ensemble, for Mr. Cleva's principals — Bidu Sayao as Manon, Armand Tokatyan as Des Grieux, Nicola Moscona as the senior Des Grieux, Richard Bonelli as Lescaut—are thoroly routined operatic veterans. Several cuts in the score have been restored for the sake of brilliancy, and the staging is delegated to Lothar Wallerstein.

The chief interest of Wednesday night's "Rigoletto" will lie in its series of debuts. There will be a new coloratura, Elvira Helal [the name is Syrian; her birthplace New York]; a new tenor in John Brooks McCormack, a young American with a lot to live up to in that name; a new alto in Rosalind Nadell, who will be the Maddalena; and a new audition selected baritone, Robert Farrall, as Count Ceprano. The veterans of the cast will be Lawrence Tibbett in the title role, and Virgilio Lazzari in his famous part of the assassin, Sparafucile. Mr. Cleva again conducts, and Philip Fein will be the stage director.

Friday night's "Il Trovatore" will have an angle of novelty in that current rarity, the debut of a new conductor. He is Nicholas Rescigno, and the fact that advance ballyhoo has been restrained to a minimum has not diminished curiosity concerning the young New Yorker Mr. Cleva has selected as one of his principal assistants. His operatic record to date has consisted of appearances with the Connecticut and the Cincinnati opera companies, and at the Worcester, Mass., music festival. Selma Kaye, whose Chicago public has been notably enlarged thru several concert appearances, will sing Leonora, the role in which she made a successful debut last season. Bruno Castagna, the contralto who has not been heard here for two years, will be the Azucena; Leonard Warren, the resonant American baritone, will sing the sad di Luna's plaints; Kurt Baum enacts the troubador; and Lazzari will vocalize Ferrando's narrative.

Gladys Swarthout and Giovanni Martinelli will be the familiar combination in the Saturday matinee, "Carmen." Miss Helal will have her second role as Micaela, and Richard Bonelli will be the toreador, a role he apparently has sung here only once before. Mr. Cleva will conduct, and the important secondary roles will be assigned to Stefan Kozakevich, Ralph Telasko, Inge Manski, Rosalind Nadell, Wilfred Engelman, and Lodovico Oliviero.

Last but certainly not least in the week's operatic feast will be the first appearance here of the distinguished Yugoslav soprano, Zinka Milanov, as Tosca, on Saturday night. "Tosca" nearly completes the gallery of famous dramatic roles Miss Milanov has sung here—Aida, Norma, Leonora, Amelia, and Donna Anna. Mr. Tokatyan will be the Cavardossi, and Alexander Sved the Baron Scarpia. Cleva will conduct.

Nicolai Malko has been engaged to conduct the Copenhagen Symphony orchestra in a series of concerts to be broadcast in Denmark and to near-by countries in February.

Harry Richman Better Than Ever at Latin Quarter

Fine Antics of Danny Thomas Top Chez Show

By Will Davidson

In his heyday Harry Richman was one of the greatest entertainers in show business. That heyday lasted a long time, but Harry is human and what with thisa and thata he slipped a little. For the last few years his performances have — to me at least —had only one value, that of awakening memories.

Harry Richman [Seymour Photo]

But wonder of wonders! Something has happened, and we have a new Richman with us—a Richman worthy of standing alongside the one who was the hit of the "Follies" and the "Scandals," of countless stage and cafe shows. His voice is good again. He has material. He has humor. And altho he still can't help loving that Parade, that dip into corn sirup serves to emphasize the high entertainment quality of the balance of his performance.

With accompanist Sid Franklin's help, or doing his own 88'ing, Harry explores the whimsical possibilities of money, love, espionage, growing old—even the switch he made from the Chez Paree to the Latin Quarter. This new alliance, incidentally, between Richman and the Quarter has Harry acting as happy as a bride. Certainly he has "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue."

I am told that much credit goes to Franklin for the Richman renaissance. Daily vocal lessons, new arrangements, and the right kind of encouragement have brought Harry back to the top. Move over, Sophie Tucker, and you other hardy perennials! That Richman is here again —and he's better than ever.

The rest of the Latin Quarter show is good fare, even if it is in the shade, The Radio Aces sing sometimes hilariously, Don and Beverly dance happily, the Ambassadorettes tumble and leap with abandon, singing Lee Amber and the Latin Lovelies collaborate in some nice line numbers, and Buddy Shaw plays a very capable show.

FEATURED SINGER

If the Latin Quarter scored a scoop with the revived Richman, the Chez Paree more than matched it with a Danny Thomas who has never needed reviving since he first started building a fabulous reputation up at the old 5100 club. Danny long had been under contract to appear at the Chez but mutually satisfactory dates had never been arranged until lately. Now he is proving the wisdom of the Chez deal, for never has that club had a funnier, more entertaining man on its floor.

Danny's humor is mature, it is remarkably clean, it is impeccably delivered, and it seems to stem from a very great personal enthusiasm for the business of making people happy. Danny works hard, yet his humor flows out with no feeling of pressure. It has the refreshing charm of spontaneity, and the sure effect that can come only from meticulous attention to material and delivery.

You can't catalog the Thomas humor by listing his numbers. His tremendous appeal is too much a matter of personality. But watch for his alphabetical "Calypso" number, his famous "Lament," the immortal "Chloe," and "Wild Bill Thomas." They are excellent representatives of Danny's grand fun. Don't miss this boy.

The other new act in the Chez revue is Gail Meredith, a lovely young Canadian girl with a soft, pleasing singing voice. Gail overcame a brutally impatient opening night crowd with quiet and friendly patience, and went on to do a very good job with such numbers as "That Feeling in the Moonlight," "The Man I Love," "Good Good Good." She should be a Chicago favorite.

Cabot and Dresden continue their excellent dancing in this show, and Dixie Roberts opens the show with her lively tap dancing. Olive Bernard has her Adorables doing some attractive numbers, and Gay Claridge's band plays its usual good show and dance music.

With the return of popular Florian Za Bach, the La Salle hotel presents one of its best shows in many months. The American room revue features Don Gramm, baritone, and Zarco and Beryl, dancers who made a great hit there several months ago, as well as Florian's beautiful violin solos.

Gramm has a fine voice, a pleasant manner. His repertory features most of the standard hits, but I liked best his version of one of our great war songs, "Private Rodger Young." This infantry ballad is worthy of the fame it has earned, and Gramm presents it with appropriate sincerity.

Zarco and Beryl repeat their popular "Persian Rug" number—beautifully costumed and danced with beautiful effect. Their bolero is fast and flashy, and all their dances are marked by color and sure talent.

Florian is one of the best violinists ever to be featured in these parts in a cafe show. His touch is beautiful, his feeling for the dramatic, the humorous, the beautiful is most rewarding. Mr. Za Bach should be especially commended for his adult attitude toward his audience. He is an artist who enjoys his art, and he is not ashamed to show that feeling of pleasure. The result is that he takes his audience into his confidence, as it were, and his listeners find added enjoyment.

Bill Gary, a good young dancer who is on the way up, is the current star of the Walnut room show in the Bismarck hotel. A serious artist, indefatigable in his efforts to improve his work, Gary always is effective. His repertory leans toward the classic side and his interpretations are interesting. "Capricio Espagnole," by Rimsky-Korsakov; De Falla's "Miller's Dance"; dances from "Prince Igor" are among his better numbers. These he contrasts with such lighter number as a swing polka.

The puppeteers Fernando and Fair present their inebriated little characters in some mildly amusing antics; and Emile Petti offers his always well received piano selections. Petti has proved himself one of the most popular bandleaders in Walnut room history, and his music is ideal for the room.

College Guide Available for New Students

By The Rev. John Evans

"A Guide to Colleges, Universities, and Professional Schools in the United States" has just been published by the American Council on Education, Washington, D. C. This 700 page book was compiled under the direction of Dr. Carter V. Good, professor of education and acting dean of the Teachers college, University of Cincinnati, at the request of the United States armed forces, but will prove valuable to all prospective students in higher education.

Approximately 3,400 college administrative units in 1,700 institutions of collegiate level are covered in this book. It also deals with junior colleges, colleges of arts and sciences, teachers colleges and normal schools, and professional schools in 24 specialized fields. It indicates, too, wihch colleges are exclusively for men or women; church affiliation, if any; degrees granted; divisions of the academic year; where veterans are admitted by examination, and where special requirements are demanded.

Of special interest to veterans is the information under the general heading "Special Rules and Regulations" as to compulsory church attendance, use of intoxicants and smoking on or off the campus, automobiles, and dancing either on or off the campus.

"At no time has there been a larger number of young men and women considering the furthering of their education, nor has this group ever been so mature and discriminating," says Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, in the foreword. "It was felt, therefore, that every item of information bearing on possible educational opportunities, with particular reference to the veteran, should be included."

A staff of 200 aided Dr. Good in compiling and preparing this book which was completed within a year after the urgent need for its publication was realized.

President Ernest C. Colwell of the University of Chicago has announced that John R. Davey, assistant dean of students in the college and assistant professor of humanities, has been appointed dean of students in the college to succeed Norman F. MacLean who will resume his position as full time professor of English. Also announced was the appointment of Lt. Col. Alan Lake Chidsey, formerly with the A. S. T. P., Washington, D. C., as assistant dean of students in the university and assistant professor in the division of humanities.

SEPTEMBER'S BEST FILMS

- "The True Glory."
- "Story of G. I. Joe."
- "A Thousand and One Nights."
- "Anchors Aweigh."
- "Christmas in Connecticut."
- "The Fall of Berlin."

By Mae Tinee

The most outstanding films of last month's best were not concerned with romance or beauty, but with the harsh realities of the war which has just ended. Their plots were not dreamed up by a studio writer, their actors were not professionals, and the story they tell is a compelling one which should be of interest to all of us for whom millions gave their lives.

"The True Glory" is a documentary film which touches briefly on the key battles which took place in Europe from D-day to V-E day, with a trenchant introduction by Gen. Eisenhower. The American Capt. Garson Kanin and the British Carol Reed directed the coördination of actual scenes filmed by cameramen of all services and both countries. There are numerous awesome and moving shots, and the commentary is straightforward and natural, with bluntness, humor, and pathos in every day language and a variety of accents. It's a wonderful and a thought provoking document.

"Story of G. I. Joe" might be considered Ernie Pyle's final benediction to the men he loved—the combat infantrymen. I think the quiet little guy who finally died with the foot soldiers he followed so doggedly would be glad to see this tribute to his friends brought to the millions who make up movie audiences. Burgess Meredith gives a sensitive interpretation of his role, Freddy Steele is outstanding as a noncommissioned officer, and Robert Mitchum is unforgettable as the captain who bears the responsibilities of a good officer, worthy of his men. There are numerous poignant, humorous episodes forcefully depicted —all of them far better seen than described. . . . All who were in any way concerned with making "Story of G. I. Joe" are to be congratulated for this simple, unvarnished plan that is heart warming and heart breaking—an engrossing mixture of tears and laughter—tense, pitiful and, in some ways, beautiful.

"The Fall of Berlin" is a Russian documentary film of the encirclement and storming of the German capital. The film is an interesting contrast to "The True Glory," the American-British product. There is no kidding—the soviets are grimly intense and serious, with a fierce joy in victory. The photography is excellent, the theme somber and steady, and some of the shots of house to house fighting are remarkable. Students of history will find this film an interesting document.

"Anchors Aweigh" is first-rate, if lengthy, entertainment—beautifully, humorously, and colorfully turned out. Frank Sinatra sings pleasingly and performs unassumingly and likably; Jose Iturbi plays what professionals call "a nice piano" but Gene Kelly has everything, and is sure to be the talk of the town after his work in this film! The boy has looks, personality, ease of manner and delivery, and how he can dance!

"A Thousand and One Nights" boasts the cutest little genie who ever popped out of nowhere. The old story of the beggar and the sultan's daughter is delivered with a kidding nonchalance that makes it far more palatable than previous versions. There are a number of entertaining sequences, a capable cast, and as the genie, the mischievous Evelyn Keyes hops, skips, and jumps away with the picture in a frivolous and most attractive fashion.

"Christmas in Connecticut" is a long and deliberate comedy-romance made to order for love story addicts. Barbara Stanwyck and Dennis Morgan are genial and good looking; there are endless light hearted complications which would deceive no one and, on the whole, the cast is talented, some of the situations funny, and the settings are charming.

'DOLLY SISTERS'

Betty Grable and June Haver, looking almost like twins, have the title roles in "The Dolly Sisters." At the Chicago.

Actor's Start

HOLLYWOOD. — John Lund, Broadway stage discovery making his film debut opposite Olivia de Haviland in "To Each His Own," made his acting debut in a New York World's Fair pageant, "Railroads on Parade."

New Dramas Pretentious, Says Critic

By John Chapman

NEW YORK, [Special]—Pretentiousness, in amounts varying from just a little to too terribly much, has beset the stage in a week which has had its good things and bad, and even the good ones should have been better.

Most of my colleagues have hailed "Deep Are the Roots," a play about race prejudice in the south, as thought-provoking, important, and altogether very hot stuff. It struck me, instead, as being contrived, deliberately contrived, and lacking a genuine inner impulse which might have won for it more respect than I can give it.

The authors are James Gow and Arnaud D'Usseau, whose "Tomorrow the World" was a good, far-sighted drama about the denazification of a Nazi. It seems to me that, having established themselves as serious playwrights, they have sought to continue in this vein arbitrarily; artificially if you like. It is as tho one of them might have said to his collaborator, "What other problems are there?" and, after kicking the thing around like the Hollywood-trained scenarists which they used to be, they may have said, "Well, let's have a shot at the Negro problem."

Whatever their motives and their preliminary reasoning, they have had just that—a shot at the Negro problem in "Deep Are the Roots." They dump the whole thing on the stage of the Fulton theater, from the blind and hateful prejudice of old school southerners to miscegenation, and all points between.

'PRIDE OF MARINES'

Eleanor Parker and John Garfield go thru a lot together in "Pride of the Marines." Roosevelt.

Gow and D'Usseau know how to make characters talk, and many passages of their drama hold interest, but there are other passages which seem to be talk for talk's sake and they become tiresome, despite the best efforts of an unusually able company. I learned nothing new from "Deep Are the Roots," and found in it no opinion, no steady point of view with which I could agree or disagree. All it told me was what I knew already—that the life of a Negro is not idyllic, south or north; that race barriers are apparently insurmountable; that a particularly sensitive, intelligent, and decent Negro is going to be badly hurt by life.

These facts are not the discovery of Gow and D'Usseau. Harriet Beecher Stowe put them all on paper, and more excitingly, I think.

Among the excellent actors in "Deep Are the Roots" are Barbara Bel Geddes, Charles Waldron, Carol Goodner, and Gordon Heath. Miss Bel Geddes portrays, eagerly, believably, and with great charm, a southern girl who has fallen in love with her childhood playmate, a Negro. This Negro has come back from the war a hero, and has found the old race problem right where it was. Heath plays him with quiet sincerity. Waldron, as a fiery old ex-senator, begins by giving one a feeling for the grandeur of the old south, but not even Waldron's artistry can keep the character from deteriorating into a caricature before the long evening has ended.

The best play about the Negro problem still is "Anna Lucasta," and it isn't a problem drama at all, but just a simple comedy. It does, however, work toward racial understanding and race equality by the wonderfully effective means of drawing no color line whatever. Its people are just people, and they are very enjoyable.

Pretentiousness in a smaller degree has marred somewhat a pleasant, expertly produced comedy by Tennessee Williams and Donald Windham, titled "You Touched Me!" The authors have taken their plot from a D. H. Lawrence story, and it is a quite simple story about a hag-ridden retired sea captain who, with the help of a young soldier, finally manages to defeat the woman who is wearing him down.

Imperfect tho it is, "You Touched Me!" is the season's first bit of theater. Edmund Gwenn's performance as the captain is a richly amusing piece of play-acting, and Catherine Willard, as his spinster sister, is an excellent foil for his ebullience.. Not once does Miss Willard overplay, altho the temptations to do so must be many. Williams wrote "The Glass Menagerie" and made it tender and haunting, but when he tried to put some tenderness, a haunt or two and even a message into "You Touched Me!" he detracted from the simple joys of seeing a funny little play.

When Williams' soldier boy, nicely enough played by Montgomery Clift, gets to making love to a supersensitive, sex shy girl, the lush passages of amour are just a little too too. He sounds more like Christopher Robin than like a royal Canadian air force bomber pilot.

And the soldier, too, must have his fling at saying what must be done in a post-war world. He is all for peace [as who isn't?] and he thinks something should be done about it; but I couldn't figure out what he was driving at and he acted as tho he couldn't, either.

Pretentiousness reached full flower in a prairie drama by Dan Totheroh entitled "Live Life Again," and the result was a complete, shuddering horror. It lasted two nights. The producer, S. S. Krellberg, would have closed it after the first performance, only he couldn't warn all the second night ticket holders to stay home or go to a movie.

Katherine Dunham, the Negro specialist in West Indian dances, has come up with a new, longer version of her tropical revue under the guise of a musical play titled "Carib Song." William Archibald's libretto is no great thing, being a small hunk of opera plot about an unfaithful wife whose anguished husband kills her.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Kerstin Thorberg

The Chicago Symphony orchestra's week-end concerts will be devoted to the first program of the cycle of Brahms' compositions to be conducted by Désiré Defauw. Kerstin Thorborg, Metropolitan and Chicago opera contralto, will be the soloist, singing three songs—"Auf dem Kirchhofe," "Immer leiser wird mein Schlummer,'' and "Der Schmied" and taking the solo part in the Rhapsody for alto solo and male chorus in which the choral parts will be sung by a group of men's voices from the Chicago Singverein. The Alto Rhapsody, as it is commonly called, has appeared only once previously on Chicago Symphony programs, when it was sung in 1939 by Lillian Knowles and the Harvard Glee club. Mr. Defauw will open the program with the "Tragic" overture, and after the intermission the First symphony will be played.

Plans are under way to present Mahler's Second, the "Resurrection" symphony, under Mr. Defauw's direction, during the coming season. The work has never before been heard on Chicago Symphony programs, tho a single movement was played by the orchestra under Fritz Reiner's direction at Ravinia in 1937. The combined choral organizations of Northwestern university, George Howerton, conductor, will sing the choral parts.

Grace Moore, opera and movie star and author of a best selling autobiography, will give her only recital of the season in Orchestra hall on Tuesday at 8:30. She will sing three Shakespearean songs by Sullivan, Quilter, and Buzzi-Peccia; Berlioz's "L'Absence," Pierne's "Le Moulin," Debussy's "Le Chevelure," Medtner's Waltz, Jackowska's "Tristesse Eternelle," based on Chopin's E major Etude, De Falla's "Seguidille," and a group of favorite songs in English. Encores will be arias and popular songs from Miss Moore's movies. Arpad Sandor will be the accompanist and will play as solos three Preludes by Chopin and the "Revolutionary" Etude.

The first of the concerts in the "Introduction to Chamber Music" series sponsored by the University College of the University of Chicago, will be played in Curtiss hall on Wednesday at 8. Cecil Smith will be the lecturer.

SKEETS AND MRS.

When Skeets Gallagher needed a new leading lady in the Blackstone's "Good Night Ladies," Mrs. Skeets came to the rescue and has been playing opposite her husband ever since. As Pauline Mason, she was well known in musical comedy before she decided one actor in the family was enough.

Notes of the Theater

That revival of "Cyrano de Bergerac" for Louis Calhern was more than a pipe dream, after all. Jed Harris hopes to have it in rehearsal by Nov. 10, and after that time he probably will do "January Thaw" for Walter Huston. Mr. Huston, meanwhile, may do a picture directed by his son, Maj. John Huston. It is called "Treasure of the Sierra Madre."

When Dwight Deere Wiman returns to the theater from Red Cross work, which will be the middle of next month, he may do a musical version of Elmer Rice's "Street Scene." It would have music by Kurt Weill and lyrics by Langston Hughes.

Guthrie McClintic is on his way overseas to stage a performance of Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset" for the instruction of drama students at an army reconversion university at Biarritz. Before he left, he reported that Tennessee Williams' "You Touched Me" was doing well at the boxoffice despite split reviews. As for "Anna Lucasta," the substitute New York troupe is as prosperous as the original here.

SINCLAIR LEWIS IN A MELLOWER MOOD

He Surveys Institution of Marriage

"CASS TIMBERLANE," by Sinclair Lewis. [Random House, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

The eagerly expectant reading world, which has been waiting for the latest Sinclair Lewis satire, is not going to be disappointed, as it has been in some of his recent novels. In "Cass Timberlane" it will find the old master still etching human frailties in his special brand of deep cutting acid, but, oddly [for him], overlaying that etching with warm colors of affection.

"Cass Timberlane" is a ruthlessly satiric picture of a human being who becomes a fool for love, but, unlike Mr. Lewis' previous satires, in which it was obvious to any reader that their creator hated his characters more than he loved them, "Cass Timberlane" is sometimes almost honeyed with the author's affectionate understanding of and tacit special pleading for his hero and even at times for his heroine, who would have been better off for the prescription of one good spanking until cured.

Sinclair Lewis seems to have mellowed. But do not be misled. He is as adept as he ever was in the skilled use of verbal vitriol when he wants to use it, even if the final picture is softer and warmer and gentler.

Cass Timberlane is a judge in the city of Grand Republic, Minn., "eighty miles north of Minneapolis, seventy-odd miles from Duluth," with a population of 85,000, according to Mr. Lewis. Cass "was 41 and in his first year on the bench after a term in congress. He was a serious judge, a man of learning, a believer in the majesty of the law." He was also a widower [by law] and was thru with selfish, prehensile women like his first wife, and was tentatively wondering whether the gentle, understanding, companionable Chris [who knew everybody he knew and was everybody's favorite] might made a good wife for somebody, maybe himself, when Jinny Marshland, aged 23 or 24, appeared as a minor witness in a case before him. Life for him began at 41.

The stresses and strains, the emotional depths and pinnacles of that love at first sight [on Cass' part] make up the heavy outlined, satirical etching of the book. Cass at times seems an oddly doddering man for 41, and Jinny as babyish as 24 might seem to a 60 year old. Their love story sometimes has a faint aura of the literary synthetic about it and then in the next sentence it is bitterly, tenderly real! And Mr. Lewis is, for the first time in his writing, sex-conscious; he describes delicate marital adjustments in all of their phases. But he has never actually written more searchingly about marriage, nor more sympathetically.

"Cass Timberlane," however, is something more than a love story. It is the story of Grand Republic, Minn., or any medium sized city where men and women make any place in which they live a grand republic [or don't]. Vignettes of those men and women, not main characters in the book or even really tangents of the main character line, contain some of the most memorable and brilliant writing, as well as satire, of the book. The descriptions of those unimportant persons and of their life in Grand Republic show Sinclair Lewis with a new genius for loving while he is pretending that he hates.

One thing which the cynical will note is that in this story, which spans the war years, thunders of the world at war are merely distant rumblings made feeble by the bombardments in the private battle of the sexes.

"Cass Timberlane" is as genuinely funny as any of the books that this master of bitter wit has written. He has lost none of his brilliant skill in putting living conversation into the mouths of his characters, but he has made that conversation less meandering than it has been in some of his former books. He has also restrained his early ebullient zest for detail of description and observation, but the result is still rich and plummy like Little Jack Horner's Christmas pie.

"Cass Timberlane" is the October choice of the Book of the Month club and its members this time do pull out a literary plum.

Writer Analyzes Question of Japan and Its Emperor

"JAPAN AND THE SON OF HEAVEN," by Willard Price. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

"It is the maintaining of victory and not the winning of it that is difficult." Confucius said this some twenty-five hundred years ago. Mr. Price's book offers an interesting commentary. For "the question as to what shall be done with the mikado is not one of the questions of the Pacific peace. It is, rather, the question." "The emperor is Japan." "He is not a man. He is an idea." Significantly the book is published at exactly the moment when this issue is all absorbing. We are trying to meet it. Are we wise? Are we fumbling?

Mr. Price assembles an array of facts and documents to show what a thing of "shreds and patches" the imperial idea is. How history has been stood on its head, fiction has been embroidered with new fictions, to attract and hold the Japanese imagination. The idea is the inspiration for all Japanese education; it is the soldier's first and last call to duty and sacrifice; it is religion. It is everything—and, as the author makes clear, nothing.

Willard Price

For a thousand years and until 75 years ago few in Japan had heard of the emperor: None had seen him. Of all powers and dominions he was the most futile. His divinity, his unbroken sway "from ages eternal," is an invention, a contemporary myth.

What shall we do with him now that victory has put him in our power, and we are hoping to build a peaceful and friendly Japan? Mr. Price's book is a powerful indictment of the myth and a call for a new dispensation.

Fortunately the book can be read in the light of what is taking place in Tokyo and the world today. First, we are not the only people interested in the fate of the imperial Japanese tradition. Second, the unexpected and revolutionary event—how revolutionary only an orthodox Japanese can measure—has taken place. From a god he has become an instrument to broadcast our commands. His last rescript was the call to surrender—and the proud Japanese military hearkened and obeyed. Is this phoney and soiled but convenient tool to be kept until a new Japan can with its help devise a better one? Or——? We must not fumble in the answer.

Study of German Mentality in Days Before Nazi Party

"LITTLE SUPERMAN," by Heinrich Mann. [Creative Age, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle

This study of that small and fanatic German mind which made the Nazi party possible was first published in 1911. Reading it, one is appalled to see how far back, how accurately, and how shrewdly Heinrich Mann realized the existence of one type of German. Here is the ruthless, sentimental, cruel, scheming, unscrupulous, power-worshiping personality. The rise of the Nazi party is made much easier to understand by a reading of this novel. Here is the man who could, with a friend, find an acquaintance dead in his room, and march in step, as in a military procession, as they carried the body to a bed. Here is the little boy who decorated with flowers the cane of the headmaster who had beaten him at school. Loving power in himself, he was also prepared to love it in another, even tho it brought pain and outrage to him.

Here is the young man who kissed his father's hand when he died, thinking in a certain warped ecstasy of suffering of the number of times that hand had beaten him. Here is the mind which, on entering the army, realized that the whole military system had only one end in view, "to degrade the sense of self-respect to the lowest level. And that impressed him. Miserable as he felt, indeed precisely on that account, it inspired him with deep respect and a sort of suicidal enthusiasm."

How closely, how dispairingly closely, that fits the Nazi pattern, the threat to bring all the world down with Germany, the sense of pleasure in submitting to pain. And it is very grim to think that this was written even before World War I. How deep that kind of thinking must have been in the German, if it could have been seen that long ago, and before there was a political party to express it.

The novel is an account of the rise to industrial and political power of Dr. Hessling, an individual so crazed with nationalism that he feels exalted when he falls into a puddle as he runs after the carriage of the emperor. The father of a young girl, whom he has seduced, comes and charges him with the matter, and Hessling becomes so excited that he challenges the old man to a duel. The father replies, "No doubt that is what you'd like! To seduce the daughter and shoot the father." Hessling makes no effort to deny the pleasure that double triumph would give him.

It is chastening to see how early the Leader idea was strong in the German mind, for Hessling shouts in a speech, "One man must be master, and master in every field!" And of a worker, who has been shot by a sentry, he says, "That a person, who is impertinent, can be simply shot down in the public street, without trial—think of it! It brings something heroic into the dullness of civil life. It shows people what power means."

A final commentary on Hessling is his conduct in the railway compartment as he and his bride start off on their honeymoon. Having locked the door and made passionate love to his blushing and buxom maiden, he suddenly, before continuing his favors, rises, stands at attention with a medal hanging from his chest, and proclaims, "Before we go any further, let us think of his majesty. . . . We must keep before us the higher aim of doing honor to his majesty, and of giving him capable soldiers."

The only comfort one can take from this admirable piece of fiction is the thought that a German wrote it. Honor him.

Defeat of Alcohol

"The Glass Crutch," described as the biographical novel of William Wynne Wister, tells how he cured himself of alcoholism and afterward cured others. Jim Bishop wrote the book, which Doubleday, Doran will publish Nov. 15.

What Shall We Do With Germany?

"GERMANY IS OUR PROBLEM," by Henry Morgenthau Jr. [Harper, $2.]

Reviewed by Hans J. Morgenthau

When in September, 1944, "The Morgenthau Plan" for the treatment of a defeated Germany was published, the former secretary of the treasury could well be classified as an advocate of a harsh peace for Germany. When one compares today the photographic copy of the plan, reproduced at the beginning of this book, with the Potsdam declaration, reprinted at its end, one is rather struck by the mildness of Mr. Morgenthau's proposals. In all respects, with the exception of the partition of Germany which Mr. Morgenthau advocates, the Potsdam declaration goes farther than Mr. Morgenthau was willing to go a year ago.

Henry Morgenthau Jr.

This comparison as well as the book show again the foolishness of judging proposals for the treatment of Germany according to whether they are "harsh" or "soft." The only rational test is whether the proposals will accomplish what must be the aim of all of us, that is, to make it impossible for Germany to go to war again.

Mr. Morgenthau has no confidence in the ability of genuine democratic forces within Germany to transform their country into a peace loving nation. He rather believes that the first condition for the creation of a genuine love of peace on the part of the Germans is to make it obviously and absolutely impossible for them to wage war again. By shifting the industrial power of Germany to the rest of Europe, the continent would be preserved as an economic whole of which Germany would be an integral, however subordinate, part.

The author is well aware of the particular responsibility and the particular problems with which the occupation of Germany confronts the United States. Some of his statements and warnings are borne out by recent events. A map, graphs, and a number of appendices give factual support to the analyses and suggestions of the text.

An Intimate Glimpse at Love Making

"LEAVE CANCELLED," by Nicholas Monsarrat. [Knopf, $2.]

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan

Nicholas Monsarrat

Reading this little book leaves one with the feeling of having unintentionally blundered into some stranger's intimate, personal, rightfully private correspondence.

"Leave Cancelled" is the very brief but painfully detailed account of the day and night spent by a British soldier and his bride just after his three week leave has unexpectedly been cut to an ominous 24 hours. There are just two characters of importance—the "I" who tells the story and the "you" to whom it is addressed. And because the subject matter is obviously so familiar to both, the stress is all on urgent, lingering analysis, with the evident intention of getting into words the whole bittersweet memory of a shared experience.

From the afternoon meeting, thru a few drinks, and shopping, and tea, and the theater, and a few more drinks, and dinner, to the hotel bedroom—that is the progress of events. There is much discussion, some of it really fine, some rather dubious, about love. There is a section of reporting much more forthright than usual.

For some readers the book may seem a frank and beautiful story. Unquestionably it treats a war time experience of love and separation which innumerable human beings have lately endured. But there will also be readers definitely repelled by the extreme intimacy of the narrative: some things, they will feel, might better be left as the standard marital secrets, unrevealed by fiction.

Jacket, binding, and typography of "Leave Cancelled" are all so truly distinguished that it becomes an obligation in justice to add that Alfred A. Knopf is still consistently putting out many of the most attractive pieces of bookmaking in the republic.

Life in America's Middle Regions Is Here Portrayed

"MID COUNTRY," edited by Lowry C. Wimberly. [University of Nebraska Press; distributed by Thomas Y. Crowell, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil

"Mid Country" is somewhat misleading as a title for this 494 page anthology of contemporary writing. It is a regional book, but regional is an elastic term; the region may be large or small. In this instance the compiler has chosen as the territory he wishes to represent all the United States between the Appalachians and the Rockies, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. This is a pretty large chunk, and it lacks the geographical homogeneity we naturally attribute to a region.

So "Mid Country" is not, as we might expect, a middle western book. Some of the selections reflect western and southwestern life, some are purely southern, and some might represent almost any part of the country. But all the stories, articles, and poems in the book are distinctly American in flavor, just as the vast region covered by the book is representative of our national life.

Lowry C. Wimberly, thru the medium of the University of Nebraska literary magazine, the Prairie Schooner, has guided and developed many of the younger writers of today. His magazine, and others such as Midland, Poetry, Frontier, Tanager, Southwest Review—to name only a few—have offered encouragement and recognition to a large number of experimenters in modern literary forms.

Mr. Wimberly's selections are mainly from the pages of these magazines. One thing they have in common: they possess a freshness and vitality not usually found in periodicals of wider circulation. And, lest you think that they are mere exercises in the newer rhetoric, I assure you that they will awaken the interest of any reader whose literary taste has not been corrupted by the formula writing of the slick magazines.

Among the writers in the anthology are many well known to the reading public, such as Erskine Caldwell, Mari Sandoz, Ruth Suckow, Jesse Stuart, Vardis Fisher, Edgar Lee Masters, and Katherine Anne Porter. New England's Robert Frost is here, curiously, for, tho he lived and wrote for a time in the middle west, he is not typical of the "mid country." Selections by Paul Engle and August Derleth, whose names are especially familiar to readers of this book section, are included. But the majority of the writers chosen are recognizable only to those whose knowledge of contemporary literature is encyclopedic.

No principle of selection other than literary merit seems to have been employed in putting "Mid Country" together. The result is that the book is a feast for admirers of good writing, but its rapid shifts from one section to another are rather disconcerting. Still, that's what the American scene is like: much the same everywhere, yet always different.

THE MURDER CHART

BY Drexel Drake

ENTRY	PERFORMANCE	PAYOFF
"WATCHFUL AT NIGHT," by Sgt. Julius Fast. [Farrar and Rinehart, $2.]	Red Kelly was shot dead during target practice. Sgt. Clark, standing next to him at the time, didn't believe it was an accident. Red had saved Clark's life in Algiers. Clark had some narrow escapes in process of showing up vile sabotage ring, but he made eminent progress in romance with WAC corporal.	Sparkling army routine background for this tale, with stark closeup of medical corps activities. First rate puzzle. Narrative full of action.
"THE NOOSE IS DRAWN," by Willetta Ann Barber and R. F. Schabelitz. [Scribner's, $2.]	Lawrence Lang menaced potential affluence of three men and three women, all interrelated in misfit romances, so there were six suspects when Lang's body was found on terrace of Storm apartment. Some suspects later were murdered, which narrowed field for Kit Storm, who solved puzzle with aid of on-the-scene sketches.	Well planned puzzle and narrative flows smoothly. Reader may follow developments more closely and get added diversion from study of numerous sketches that illustrate text.
"THIRD MYSTERY COMPANION," edited by A. L. Furman. [Gold Label, $2.75.]	Collection of 20 recent crime stories ranging from pulp thrillers to suave detective tales from top bracket slicks. Also provocative essay on fictional murder. All lengths. Concluding yarn of 379 page volume is "Murder at the Opera," by Vincent Starrett, neatly done puzzle set in Chicago environment.	This large and assorted menu has something for every taste among fanciers of short mystery tales. Commendable selection.

An Introduction to Engineering Study

"ENGINEERING PREVIEW," by Linton E. Grinter and others. [Macmillan, $6.]

Dr. Grinter, dean and steel construction authority of Illinois Institute of Technology, and six other specialists, all of them professors and three of them holders of doctorates, collaborated in this 617 page "introduction to engineering, including the necessary review of science and mathematics." This edition, intended for home study, contains two sections not found in the classroom edition, namely a chapter on writing a technical report, and an examination of 180 questions. These questions cover nearly all the chapters of the book and deal with chemistry, drawing, mathematics, electricity, mechanics, and heat. By means of the answers given, say the authors, the student can ascertain whether he has the background to specialize in science or in engineering, or whether he'd better bone some more.

Increase of Readers Makes Room for More Publishers

By Harry Hansen

New York.

THIS is the first time in many seasons that new publishers can take the plunge into the book market and come up with fair prospects, for, altho booksellers will tell you that there are too many publishers by far, and reviewers will agree that entirely too many books are published, the number of customers has increased so manifold that there is room for more publishers. One new organization, Chester R. Heck, Inc., began its career on the very day of the elevator strike and its enthusiastic executive had to climb to the 10th floor of 33 W. 42d st. to open proceedings. Mr. Heck, until recently editor of trade publications for Ziff-Davis, has had long experience in the textbook field with American Book company and has now combined with Jaques Cattell's Science Press of Lancaster, Pa., and several other experienced men. Ted Anderson, until now sales manager for Ziff-Davis, will take charge of sales. Educational books will play a big role in the list of the new house, but some trade books will be issued, and Mr. Heck invites authors interested in the American scene, historical or literary, to communicate with him. Odell Shepard is completing a book on the old manse of Concord, which will be one of the first publications in this category.

Jesse Stuart Completes No

Jesse Stuart, the Kentucky author, who is now a lieutenant in the United States navy attached to the office of Comdr. Walter Karig, has been asked to become the head of a teachers' college in his native state when his naval service is over. Altho Lt. Stuart taught in the Portsmouth, O., High school before joining the navy, he is not sure whether he wants to follow the teaching profession farther. He is now well established as an author and has a new novel ready for the Dutton spring list.

Constance Smith, formerly fiction editor of McCall's and later director of the M-G-M novel award, is going to open her own literary agency Jan. 1. She was associated at one time with the agency of Harold Ober. Kathryn Pruden has opened a new personnel office, calling it Prudential Placements and specializing in publishing and editorial personnel.

Alec Waugh Visits New York

Alec Waugh, until lately a major in the British army attached to the intelligence division, has come to New York and is staying at the Algonquin. "After six years in the army," says he, "I have come to catch my breath and to greet old friends." He served first in the regular infantry, later in the reserve, and is still technically in uniform, altho his discharge becomes official Oct. 9. Mr. Waugh's brother, Evelyn Waugh, is the author of a novel that the Book of the Month club will distribute this fall. Evelyn has also served in the British army, originally with the commandos, and he broke a leg in making a parachute fall from a plane that crashed on a mission to Yugoslavia, in which only three men, himself, Randolph Churchill and Phillip Jordan, escaped death.

Poore Returns from Service

Charles Poore, member of the reviewing staff of the New York Times until the United States entered the war, has returned from military service and will review books on Thursdays and Saturdays, the other days being reserved for Orville Prescott. Poore writes an engaging and scholarly review and is deservedly popular in New York. When America went into the war he joined Archibald MacLeish in the office of facts and figures, but soon thereafter obtained a captain's commission in the regular army and took part in the campaigns in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, and France. Before the war he was especially interested in Spanish painting, having written an able book on Goya.

Francis Hackett, who was also on the Times staff, resigned about a month ago to work on his autobiography in the country. He first made a reputation as a literary critic in Chicago 40 years ago, when, as a brilliant young Irishman, he interpreted the spirit of the newer, progressive writers. Ernest Boyd, who made a similar career in New York a decade or two after Hackett, is also writing his autobiography.

More Books for White House

Once more the American Booksellers' association has donated a package of books for the White House library. The presentation of 200 books, chosen from among those published in the last four years, was made by Joseph A. Margolies, president of the association, and a committee, to President Truman on Thursday. The association has now given 1,100 books to the White House. About a dozen years ago Frederic G. Melcher, that indefatigable promoter of reading, observed that the booksellers might well donate representative new titles to the White House, for the daily use of its tenants and guests. These were not to be histories or heavy reference works, but such books as alert guests, like that great reader, Mr. Churchill, might care to take to bed with them. Mysteries, no less than light novels, were included. I was a member of the first committee of selection and took great glee in seeing that the White House was supplied with books I thought its occupant ought to see. I was, therefore, much amused when, a few years later, I found the books in double shelves along the wall of the second story of the White House, with a wooden label above them reading, "White House Library." Since the books were in considerable disarray, I gathered that plenty of reading was going on.

How Netherlands Became a Nation

"EVOLUTION OF THE DUTCH NATION," by Bernard H. M. Vlekke. [Roy, $3.50.]

Dr. Vlekke, currently of Harvard university, has written not a straight history of the Netherlands but a 358 page explanation of that history. He assumes a working knowledge of Dutch chronicles. Most enlightening are the author's opinions about the influence of geography on the independence of thought in the Low Countries—as well as geography's share in Dutch ability to get away with independent ideas. Nevertheless, at the end of the middle ages, when the Netherlands first were taking on national individuality, they missed by a hair becoming part of Germany, and thru the ages it has been largely luck which has kept France or Germany from taking over. Dr. Vlekke formerly was lecturer in history at the Roman Catholic college in Maastricht and later was general secretary of the Netherlands Historical institute in Rome.

Sentiment Shades Grim War Story

"THE HIGH BARBAREE," by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall—(Little, Brown-Atlantic Monthly Press, $2.)*

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst

Thru the great spaces of the tropical Pacific, American whaling ships voyaged a century ago. In recent years American naval flyers have winged over the same lonely and beautiful islands where Nantucket crews once put in for native fruit and fresh water. So Lt. Alec Brooke, pilot of a PBY, remembered the traditions of his forefathers and the voyages they made among uncharted islands. Tho he was an Iowa lad, he felt at home over blue, unbounded water.

Charles Nordhoff

James N. Hall

"High Barbaree" was the name Alec had given, out of his boyhood dreams, to the PBY he piloted. When the ship lay helpless on the water, shot down by a Japanese submarine, Alec occupied himself and his sole surviving shipmate by telling how he had heard his sea-faring uncle sing an old chantey about "High Barbaree" and how that name had come to symbolize a half-real island in the tropic sea.

Days passed and the two survivors grew gaunt from hunger and grim from thirst. But Alec never gave up hope. Stubbornly he kept in his mind the image of "High Barbaree" with its two volcanic spires above the seacliff, until it became more real than thirst and hunger and the fierce heat of the tropic sun.

The best part of this short novel is the nostalgic picture of Alec's boyhood. From his desperate plight in mid-Pacific he recalls the Iowa village and countryside, the spring water in the Chaquaqua river, the drives with his father over the prairie roads. In his memory Westview, Ia., takes the colors of friendliness and serenity which home has meant to multitudes of young Americans in combat areas around the world.

For the rest, "The High Barbaree" must be put down as one of the slighter efforts of Nordhoff and Hall. They have softened a grim narrative by a sentimental device. Their story has meager characterization, thin and languid dialog, and little of the illusion of life.

World Traveler Sketches Lives of Missionaries

"PATHFINDERS OF THE WORLD MISSIONARY CRUSADE," by Sherwood Eddy. [Abingdon-Cokesbury, $2.75.]

If Sherwood Eddy falls short of the 2 million miles traveled in the Lord's work by John R. Mott, he must run a close second to that extraordinary traveler-organizer. In 50 years of such endeavor, Mr. Eddy has developed more than a passing acquaintance with virtually every important Protestant missionary. Those are the men and women he writes about, with his fine sense of drama and his fine disregard of formal literary sequence. His special interest is the Student Volunteer Movement, in which he was one of the first of the 16,000 who have gone abroad as missionaries. The intimacy of the sketch biographies which fill most of the 314 pages in this book makes them documents for the historian and excellent sources for persons who write or speak of missions.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery

THANKS to a gentleman whose literary fancy lightly turns from Rabelais to Dr. Johnson to Confucius, I have just met a man in a book.

The ponderous title is: "Lord Timothy Dexter, of Newburyport, Masstts, First in the East, first in the West, and the Greatest Philosopher in the Western World." It was written 20 years ago by J. P. Marquand, published by Minton, Balch & Co. Why I missed it when it was new I do not know, but I can tell you that Dexter was a man worth meeting. He was a contemporary of George Washington. And his purse, at the time he began to make himself famous, contained just "Eight dolors and 20 sents." It is possible to spell like that and be a philosopher.

He got the money by selling his "free Dom sout," the suit given to him at the end of his apprenticeship in the trade of "dressin of skins for briches & glovs." Being a prudent boy, he reflected that his "free Dom sout," glorious as it was, would presently wear out if he kept it, whereas cash [even so small a sum as "Eight dolors & 20 sents"] held all the magic of a growing thing. So he guarded well his "dolors," which were not dolorous to him, and turned his steps toward Newburyport, where money could thrive.

There he married. And Marquand reports that the lad "already was wise enough to play the game of marriage with loaded dice." He knew what kind of a wife he wanted, and her name was Elizabeth Frothingham. She was a widow with four children. It was in the spring of 1770.

"With quick decision," says Marquand, Dexter "turned from the fresher but giggling and empty-headed girls at Sunday meeting to safety and comfort." The widow "was known to her contemporaries, not only for a certain shortness of temper, but for a native dexterity at patching breeches." In addition to this talent she possessed some property, worth more than "Eight dolors & 20 sents," worth enough more, it may be guessed, to counterbalance the burden of her four children.

It was a good and prudent marriage, founded on comfort, thrift—and Dexter's inborn genius for making money grow. Almost everybody was prosperous in Newburyport in those days, especially after the war for independence began, bringing with it rare opportunity for profitable raiding of British ships.

He became a ship owner and a trader with distant lands. He boasted—tho some said it was in jest—that he had grown rich by buying "warming pans and mittens" and selling them in the West Indies, where no one, surely, needed such things for warmth. But Dexter made a good thing of it. The mittens were sold at a profit for reshipment to the Baltic countries. And the warming pans when handles were attached, were useful in the sugar making business, as ladles.

I still have several chapters to read, including one in which [to quote subtitles] "Dexter quarrels with a Baptist Divine, is too attentive to the fair sex, is sadly beaten by a lawyer, and yet becomes Lord Dexter King of Chester and returns to Newburyport even more important than before." In others he "buys the palace of an Unfortunate Merchant," "employs a Poet Laureate," "and does many other remarkable things becoming to a nobleman."

Marquand has a good reason for taking a special interest in Dexter and Newburyport. His great-great-grandfather, Joseph Marquand, was among those who prospered there so greatly that a day came when he "piously exclaimed, 'Lord, stay thy hand. Thy servant hath enough.'"

The writer reports that this odd prayer was "quickly answered by fire and loss at sea" and that the answer, "alas, did not end there, but continues with more or less force even to the present generation!"

The book came to this bookman from Frere Jean, of the Abbaye de Thélème, whom I know by a couple of other names.

Lorel Van Etter, who dazzled the men for reasons of her own . . . and a group of American Air Force officers providing a Greek chorus to the seaside tragedy. BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

IN the sale of the great Frank J. Hogan library at auction early this year, there was a copy of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" inscribed by the author to Hans Christian Andersen, a superb association copy of a famous book. Dickens' inscription is dated July, 1847. Laid inside the covers, to enhance the book's interest, was an important letter from Andersen to a Danish correspondent, Henrietta Wulff, describing a visit with Dickens in July, 1857, ten years later. The two items thus brought together by a sensitive collector mark the two visits of Andersen to England; and thereby hangs an amusing tale.

Andersen and Dickens met in London in 1847. The occasion seems to have been a party given by Lady Blessington, and according to Andersen Dickens came to town especially to make his acquaintance. Apparently they impressed each other favorably, and it was a notable meeting. Both men were geniuses, both knew it, each thought well of himself and of the other. The meeting has been described by Andersen in a published letter: "We seized both each other's hands, gazed into each other's eyes, laughed and rejoiced, we knew each other so well, tho we met for the first time—it was Charles Dickens. He quite answers to the best ideas I had formed of him."

Giving Andersen the Dickens

A fortnight later Dickens gave Andersen proof of his regard by presenting the great Dane with copies of all his books, each one inscribed: "Hans Andersen, from his friend and admirer, Charles Dickens, July, 1847." It was one of these books, the "Christmas Carol," that turned up in the Hogan catalogue. Later Dickens saw his friend off when he left Ramsgate for Ostend on the return journey to Denmark, and in gratitude Andersen sent Dickens "five little tales" as a Christmas greeting, which Dickens acnowledged in a letter that is preserved in the Royal library at Copenhagen.

Andersen returned to England in the summer of 1857, and for a time was Dickens' house guest at Gad's Hill place. Now the letter to Miss Wulff enters the story; it is a long and intimate account of the Dickens family, filled with affectionate comment: "Here was Gadshill place, Dickens' residence, a pretty little villa with trimmed hedges and a lot of laurus corasus. The reception was most cordial. Dickens took me in his arms . . . [He] looks older and has grown a beard . . . [He] himself is like the best character in his books—jolly, lively, happy, and cordial . . . Mrs. Dickens is so gentle, so motherly, quite like Agnes in 'David Copperfield' . . . Arm-in-arm Dickens and I walked thru the streets of London. We met many, all knew me, and two used the expression, 'Andersen, father of all children!'"

Dickens Consoles Andersen

Another letter, published in Denmark, carries on the story; it also was written from Gad's Hill place that summer. An unfavorable notice of one of his books, in an English journal, had upset Andersen's composure, and the Danish genius tells his correspondent how the English genius hastened to console him: "He took me in his arms, imprinted a kiss on my cheek, and spoke most lovingly, begged me to appreciate what infinite gifts God had given me, how great was my vocation—these are his words I am repeating; begged me, like himself, never to read the criticism of the papers, 'it will be forgotten in a week, and your book will live.' We went up on Gad's Hill. He scraped with his foot in the sand. 'That's criticism,' he said, then wiped it out with his foot. 'Gone! But what God has given you remains.'"

It is seldom that one gets both sides of a story, and I am pleased to be able to conclude this one with an appropriate comment from the other side. I have just found it in an obscure volume of memoirs by the American actress Mary Anderson, who became Madame de Navarro—"A Few More Memories" [London, 1936]. Miss Anderson once asked Sir Henry Dickens, the novelist's son, whether he remembered Hans Andersen's visit, and received this surprising answer:

"An awful old man! The morning after his arrival at Gad's Hill he sent for my brother Charles to shave him, and spent most of his time cutting out paper fairies and fanciful little figures. He made a daisy chain, which he put on the hat of the unsuspecting Wilkie Collins, who went into Rochester wearing it—to the no small amusement of those who saw him. He nearly drove my father mad. To curtail his visit we went to town two weeks earlier than usual."

There is no whisper of any of this in Forster's standard "Life" of Dickens and, as far as I know, this is the first time the several chapters of the episode have been brought together.

Chicago's Great Names

Names famous and infamous in the history of Chicago and the middle west abound in "Recollections of Life and Doings in Chicago, from the Haymarket Riot to the End of World War I.," a rollicking volume of reminiscence just published by Normandie House and distributed by the Blessing Book stores. The author's name does not appear on the title page, where he calls himself simply an "Old Timer"; but there is no mystery about him. He is Charles H. Hermann, for many years owner of the famous old liquor house of Chapin & Gore, and a colorful figure in Chicago's business and political life for more than 50 years.

Mr. Hermann has known everybody worth knowing in and around Chicago, and he has a good story to tell about most of them. His circus comes over the hill with bands playing and flags flying, and a motley procession of freaks and heroes—authors, actors, statesmen, politicians, evangelists, gamblers, gangsters, detectives, newspapermen, prostitutes, prizefighters, billiard champions, ball players and ordinary citizens—the whole weird phantasmagoria that was Chicago during the last half century. His book is no masterpiece of literature, and does not pretend to be; it is just the likeable human record of a man of many friends, and it is one of the meatiest volumes of informal reminiscence in years—a genuine contribution to the source lore of a phenomenal city.

I wonder if collectors of George Ade—Chester W. Cleveland or Franklin Meine—know that when John R. Thompson came to town and opened his first lunchroom in Chicago, Ade patronized the place and wrote a number of pamphlets for the restaurateur [gratis], which patrons picked up from the counter in paying their checks. Mr. Hermann doesn't tell us just what the pamphlets were, or whether he preserved any of them; but I should imagine them to be about as rare as any first editions in the field of Americana.

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

AUGUST DERLETH, Wisconsin's most energetic and prolific writer, was the guest last week of Leo Weissenborn, whose family and the Derleths have been friends for four generations in Sauk City, Wis. . . . Mr. Weissenborn gave a Tribune dinner party for his friend and Mr. Derleth's fellow mystery fans, Vincent Starrett and Charles Collins, and his fellow writers about books, Frederic Babcock and your Spotlighter. . . . August Derleth's pretty sister, Mrs. Orvid Anderson, and his secretary, Miss Alice Conger [who has one of the nicest shy smiles on record], completed the party. . . . They were starting to drive the almost 200 miles back to Sauk City that rainy night as we left them. . . . Miss Conger efficiently and expertly settled behind the wheel, a small figure of wiry strength beside the monolithic author, who has the build of a football center.

August Derleth has the indefatigable energy of an athlete, too, for he writes a book in a couple of weeks. . . . He has been known to do one in nine days. . . . He runs a publishing business, Arkham House, which specializes in weird and terrifying tales, of which Mr. Derleth himself has written many, some under his own name, more under pseudonyms which he refused to disclose to us—and he is literary editor of a Madison paper. . . . He has four books coming out this month: a long novel of contemporary American life, "Shield of the Valiant," to be published by Scribners; "In Re: Sherlock Holmes' the Adventures of Solar Pons," with an introduction by the Sherlock Holmes expert, Vincent Starrett; a collection of short detective stories which August Derleth wrote when he was 19 or 20, he said [he is 36 now and, incidentally, has exactly that number of books to his credit]; his first juvenile, which, he said, is "for pixilated people from 8 to 80," called "Oliver the Wayward Owl" [Stanton & Lee], with amusing illustrations by Clare Victor Dwiggins, and "The Lurker at the Threshold," a horror novel of which he wrote 59,000 words and the late Howard P. Lovecraft the other 1,000. . . . Mr. Derleth's publishing business, Arkham House, was named for the fictitious town in Massachusetts in which many of the horrid events in the books of the late H. P. Lovecraft took place.

Fifth Book Nearly Ready

There may possibly be a fifth book of August Derleth's published this month, "The Writing of Fiction," which the Writer, Inc., will publish, and a new anthology of ghost stories, "Who Knocks?" is in the hands of Farrar & Rinehart.

When he isn't writing or editing or piling up anthologies, August Derleth pursues as a hobby the collection of comics. . . . He has the largest collection in the world of such Americana and he is writing a learned and authoritative book on the subject.

Mr. Derleth lives, I am told, in a very unusual house on the outskirts of Sauk City, Wis.—not to be confused with the birthplace of Sinclair Lewis, Sauk Center, Minn. Leo Weissenborn was the architect of the house, which is made of native Wisconsin stone, but used in such a manner that the outside of the house is a series of ledges, which are happy nesting places for the song birds of the countryside. . . . Its roof is thatched, really thatched, not made of synthetic material. . . . The reeds were brought from India and have been fireproofed, and do not, like the thatched roofs of Europe, have to be renewed.

Writing Railroad History

One of Mr. Derleth's unusual projects, he told us, is a history of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad—the railroad of his home town, which will be one of a series of books on the railroads of America published by the Creative Age Press. . . . Random House has on its list this fall a history of the "Santa Fe," by James Marshall. . . . I, for one, am looking forward to it with eagerness, for Mr. Marshall has done, I hear, not only a biography of a railroad, but an exciting history of the early days of the southwest.

In the White House on Thursday members of the American Booksellers association officially presented to President and Mrs. Truman 200 books chosen from the best of the output of the last four years. . . . The books will be an addition to the home library of the White House, a quadrennial gift from the booksellers of America to their reader-in-chief, started in 1933 with 500 books and added to each four years. . . . Among the eight members of the committee who were received by the President and his wife was our fellow Chicagoan, Rose Oller Harbaugh, manager of Marshall Field & Co.'s book section. . . . In that capacious bookshop last Saturday Miss Phyllis Whitney spoke to an enthusiastic audience agog to get her autograph in her new juvenile, "The Silver Inkwell." . . . Miss Whitney, literarily ambidextrous, writes juveniles with one hand and adult mysteries with the other.

Young Girl Upholds Her Weak Family

"ANIMAL FAIR," by Evelyn West. [Lippincott, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

"Animal Fair" is not for those seeking entertainment and a glimpse into the sunny side of life. For it paints a grimly realistic picture of one family's painful struggle to keep alive, and is lightened only by the fine character of its young heroine, Sandra Echols. Her spirit illuminates its pages and those who read her story in this sensitively written first novel will find it richly rewarding.

Evelyn West

Sandra's father, a promising young scientist, had married too young and acquired in rapid succession a larger family than he could properly support. His death left his wife with six children and the sum of $800 with which to face the world. Life, dreary and comfortless before, reached a new economic low. The unhappy and inadequate Mrs. Echols rented a vast, rundown mansion in Baltimore, where she tried to eke out a meager living for her family by taking in boarders.

But it was 17 year old Sandra who held the family together by her courage, her intelligence, and her loyalty. And it was her indomitable thirst for knowledge, inherited from her father, that compelled her, against her mother's wishes, to accept a scholarship at a girls' college in Baltimore. Driven from her home, she spent a year in a lonely rented room, her body starved but her mind and spirit nourished by the ideas of the great men whose books absorbed her days. From them she tried to find the reasons she sought for the motivation of the creatures that make up our "human zoo." And the author's real gift for characterization makes very much alive the many and richly varied samples of this "zoo" which appear between the covers of "Animal Fair."

Question of World Peace Is Analyzed

"LET'S TALK ABOUT THE PEACE," by Henry G. Alsberg. [Hastings House, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi

Henry G. Alsberg

This is not a book of brilliant exposition, flashy originality, nor of profound erudition. It convinces by irresistible logic rather than by mawkish sentimentality. Its arguments are brief and illuminating, its style very popular, sometimes too popular, its approach based on deep understanding of the underlying human problems guided by the ethical principles on which democracy is based, and above all by a practical common sense that is most refreshing.

Mr. Alsberg is an "old hand" in international affairs as a newspaper man and student who has traveled, seen, and written a great deal. He uses the dialog form to present one peace problem after the other, in a critical spirit that sees clearly the weaknesses of our peace policies, without indulging in cynicism, and tries to remedy them by constructive proposals.

What to do with the Germans and the war criminals? What about reparations, cartels, international credits? How to organize the peace society, and how not to organize it? Virtually no major question escapes the analysis which is most satisfactory when it deals with psychological issues and political problems, and least so when it turns to financial and economic technicalities, with which the author is by far not so conversant as with the others—and as he ought to be.

In spite of some flaws in historical reasonings, which are not always cogent, this comparatively short book is definitely the best comprehensive survey of the peace problems we possess. Most certainly it is the year's best on international relations, one that can and should be read to great advantage by the student and the layman, by adults and adolescents, and by the responsible statesmen in particular.

Destroyer's Gun Crew Sees War in Mole's Eye View

"LOWER DECK," by Lt. John Davies, R. N. V. R. [Macmillan, $2.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons

Back in the dark days of 1942, during the battle for Malta, Ex-School Teacher Davies was an officer candidate on a British destroyer called the Skye [which wasn't its name].

The Skye got around quite a lot and quite a lot of things happened to it, including being sunk. But none of these things was half so interesting as the things that happened to the rough and unlettered men who manned its B gun.

Author Davies happened to be in the gun crew due to the royal navy's custom of having officer candidates serve as apprentice seamen before getting their commissions. Unlearned in the art of war, he was thrown into a group of veterans notable for their cynicism, irreverence, heavy-handed humor, grumbling, vulgarity, and also for their courage and steadfastness. He liked them, and as he writes about them, you will like them, too.

All these men fought together, and together they got a mole's eye view of the war, which is the only kind of view an enlisted man gets in anybody's army or navy. They sank a submarine; they emerged unscathed from duels with Nazi planes and Italian surface ships. On Sunday they gathered to listen to the captain read Bible verses in his gruff tones.

Altho the battle of Malta is now pretty old stuff, charm and poetry make this a peculiarly timeless story. You can go even further and call it one of the most refreshing books of the war.

281 thousand people have been thirsty since reading these books.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock

IN the morning's mail: From Dale Warren—"'The Practical Cogitator,' which Houghton Mifflin will release Oct. 9, is subtitled 'The Thinker's Anthology.' . . . The selections, long and short, prose and verse, from many languages in fresh translations, cover a wide range of world literature from Confucius to James Cozzens, from the Old Testament to Gertrude Stein and James Joyce. Many of the passages quoted are of the kind that color the thought and shape the lives of men." . . . Among the contributors to the anthology is Guy Murchie Jr., former member of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's editorial staff.

From S. M. Levitas—"The New Leader, America's leading labor-liberal weekly, announces the appointment of two outstanding writers on national and international affairs as associate editors: William Henry Chamberlin and David J. Dallin. In addition to conducting a weekly column analyzing the international situation, they will edit a special monthly supplement on world affairs. . . . Mr. Chamberlin, former correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor in Russia, Japan, and key European cities, is the author of 'The Iron Age,' 'History of the Russian Revolution,' 'Confessions of an Individualist,' and 'America: Partner in World Rule.' Mr. Dallin, distinguished historian and political analyst, is the author of 'Soviet Russia's Foreign Policy,' 'Russia and Postwar Europe,' 'The Real Soviet Russia,' and 'The Big Three.'" . . . Messrs. Chamberlin and Dallin are among the experts who review books for this section.

From John Valentine—"To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the death of Eugene Field, an exhibit of his books, autographs, and other memorabilia will be held at the Abraham Lincoln book shop thruout November. Mr. Field died in Chicago Nov. 4, 1895. In addition to his verse and prose, he is revered as a book collector. He founded the 'Saints and Sinners' group at McClurg's old book store; his 'Love Affairs of a Bibliomaniac' remains a popular 'book about books.' The display will include first and limited editions of his books, many of them autographed or presentation copies. Also shown will be autograph letters, original manuscripts, and the rare first number of the magazine America with the first printing of his poem, 'Little Boy Blue.'"

From Edward C. Aswell—"I am sending you a review copy of what is, in our opinion, a very distinguished book. It is E. B. White's 'Stuart Little,' which Harper & Brothers will bring out Oct. 17. Few books published by this house in recent years have aroused as much advance excitement as this. Our first printing is 50,000 copies. Some people—those who think they understand a thing if they can paste a neat label on it—will call 'Stuart Little' a juvenile. They will be right. They will also be wrong. We believe it is one of those rare books which capture the imagination of the young in heart, no matter how old they may be. Children will love it, and so will adults. After all, E. B. White is now generally regarded as perhaps the greatest humorist and satirist of our time."

Good news for Chicago authors: Two literary agencies are now operating in this city. . . . Don Wilcox, associated with Lurton Blassingame, New York agent, has opened an office at 7 S. Dearborn st. . . . Dorothy Maguire and Mary Gordon, working under the name of Literary Associates, have an office at 7030 Chappel av. and hope to have one later in the loop.

Writer Warns of Peril to Science in State Control

"SCIENCE AND THE PLANNED STATE," by John R. Baker. [Macmillan, $1.75.]

Reviewed by John Randolph

It is the individual, inspired by a thirst for knowledge, who advances the boundaries of science. He must be free to work in his own way, according to his abilities and his temperament, if he is to accomplish what he has set out to do. And he must be free to select his own studies if he is to do his utmost.

That is the thesis of this book by Mr. Baker, a scientist at Oxford university, England. It is written with a wealth of information on the history of science, and with a strict adherence to the canons of valid argument. It inspires a love of science.

Baker warns that the trend toward a planned control of science will halt the advance of knowledge. He shows that the Nazi regime stifled science in Germany. And he explodes the propaganda of vast soviet progress in science.

It is against this propaganda that much of the book's fire is directed. Baker points out, for example, that the study of genetics has been denounced by the Communists as metaphysical.

A political regime, Baker asserts, is not interested in truth but in holding and extending its power. Therein lies its danger to freedom, both to the individual and to science.

The last chapter of the book is devoted to a discussion of the duties of scientists. Every person interested in science should read this little volume.

The Future World

Another discussion of the world's political future is found in "Political Reconstruction," by Karl Loewenstein, which will be published by Macmillan on Nov. 13.

Messups of Marriage in This Story

"NO SHORTAGE OF MEN," by Ethel Hueston. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Maureen Daly

This is another novel which missed its publishing cue by coming out with a war background after the Pap surrender, but the book is so slight, so lacking in historical or literary significance, that the fact that the plot no longer has much meaning probably won't even be noticed.

The story is told alternately by four main characters [and the word "characters" is used advisedly here]—Gram, often called the Duchess, ". . . who is more than once suspected of being a little off the beam" [tho you wouldn't suspect it more than every other paragraph]; Eileen, her daughter, who wishes she had Gram's impulsiveness but can't quite manage it [tho she's sufficiently odd in her own way]; David, Eileen's husband, an officer in the army, and their daughter, Ellena, who falls head over heels in love with the "15th GI to the left of the 2d lieutenant in the front row at a speech making."

All three women fall out of love due to the strain of the war but promise each other to wait two years before calling each marriage a big mistake. However, since Gram's husband can't find another apartment, Eileen's husband returns from the Pacific with an artificial leg and young Ellena learns she is soon to be blessed with a little stranger, they all revive their love for their respective mates just in time to put a tidy end to the book.

The jacket of the novel hopefully blurbs that "the author of 'No Shortage of Men' has won a reputation as the inventor of charmingly eccentric individuals who dash thru deliciously screwy situations in a way that is hilarious." That the individuals are eccentric, no reader will deny, but as to whether or not the situations are delicious—well, that just depends on your taste.

Great Comic Spirit Now Appreciated

"A FELLOW OF INFINITE JEST," by Thomas Yoseloff. [Prentice-Hall, $3.]

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht

". . . his was a voice for the future. He foresaw a period of universal tolerance, when all men could live as free men, and black would be equal to white. The voice that denounced hypocrisy and bigotry spoke in horror of the Inquisition, and pleaded gently for human understanding."

Laurence Sterne is the subject, dear friends. What Mr. Yoseloff has to say about him sounds rather different from what Thackeray said; does it not? And the change is all to the good.

All to the good, tho a little less revolutionary than Mr. Yoseloff appears to think. Even in academic circles, the day for maligning Sterne has gone by. [You will have to ask Paul Engle about Mr. Yoseloff's alma mater, the University of Iowa. But in general the colleges have not suppressed Sterne, as his latest biographer appears to think; on the contrary, it is the colleges that have kept his fame alive.] I have not yet heard anybody sending out for the whitewashers; but modern knowledge has at least brought us to the place where the weaknesses and eccentricities of a great comic spirit may be sympathized with even if they are not yet completely understood. It is no longer necessary to remain completely on the defensive.

Mr. Yoseloff has no index and no documentation; his bibliography consists merely of a brief list of the works he found "particularly valuable." It is strange that he does not list Lodwick Hartley's excellent 1943 volume, "This Is Lorence." Hartley admires Sterne as much as Yoseloff does, and is as fully convinced of his fundamental decency.

"A Fellow of Infinite Jest" is primarily a biographical study, but Mr. Yoseloff does not fall into the error of supposing that a writer's life can be separated from his works. He is sensible and tolerant in his approach to disputed matters, of which there are many. He writes entertainingly, and he writes—you see it on every page—for love. His book is enjoyable reading in itself, and it serves the good function of sending the reader back to "Tristram" and "A Sentimental Journey." Which is just what Mr. Yoseloff wants.

Joys of Eating in a Swank New York Grubhouse

"THE COLONY," by Iles Brody. [Greenberg, $3.50.]

Every day at New York's fabulous Colony restaurant is gourmet day. Nothing is served there, so they say, that isn't prepared with the most extreme care, the loving attention that only an artist can give to food. Presumably it is consumed with the same devoted flourish, altho there is room for a cynical assumption that perhaps now and then someone enters the sacred portals bent on something slightly less aesthetic than the adoration of exquisite food.

The Colony's history dates back to speakeasy days, and its story is the story of Gene Cavallaro, who brought it up to its present high estate. Iles Brody, who makes it his business to read the gastronometers, tells the story with a chi chi flourish suitable to his delicious subject. He reveals the secrets of the Colony's various inner rooms, their decor, the tales told about them. And best of all he reveals some of the Colony's famous recipes. Here, friends, is something to make salivary glands quiver, and housewives quake.

A Queen Who Ruled With a High Hand

"THE UNSPEAKABLES," by Laverne Gay. [Scribners, $3.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan

Laverne Gay

Unwrap the winding sheets from a mummy and you have a figure once quick with life. This is what the author of this exceedingly erudite story of northern Italy in the 6th century has done, except that there is nothing mummified about her heroine. Instead she strides thru the story, empress of all she surveys.

It is the Tristram and Isolde pattern. A young monarch sent his best friend, the duke of Turin, to fetch a red headed princess from the Po valley to be his consort. The duke, of course, fell in love with this young feminist, who tore thru the 6th century like a breeze, meeting such historical figures as Pope Gregory the Great, the Irish monk Columban, courtiers galore, against the barbaric splendor of the Lombards and the Byzantine magnificence of Ravenna.

Unfolding this gorgeous creature's character is a good deal like eating an artichoke, with the leaves of custom forming a thick covering about the tasty heart. Undoubtedly the author is a medievalist of great accomplishment, for not since "Ben Hur" has there been a marshaling of such dramatic and ancient facts into so well integrated a story. War and rumors of wars tear the country. The Lombards had come thru the Alpine passes into the Po valley and established various dukedoms, and all hell was let loose as they battled with each other for supremacy. But the red haired queen finally beat them into shape and set up her own kingdom, with the messenger duke who had brought her from obscurity as her consort.

The Monza palace, one of the great treasure places of medieval art, offers the clews on which this story is built. Here are a group of the queen's possessions, including the iron crown of the Lombards with which Charlemagne was crowned ruler of the Holy Roman empire. The author has done a magnificent piece of reconstruction, for her character study of the queen Theudelinda is one more example of the impact of history's great personalities on man's destiny.

CONCLUSION

DIANA looked down at the photograph which she had taken from his hand. It was considerably faded except for a narrow strip around the edge where it had evidently been protected by a frame. Diana thought she knew what frame. The subject of the picture was unmistakably Henri in the dashing costume of D'Artagnan. He even had a sword in his hand a little like the one he had worn at their wedding.

"I was a photographer in those days," the blind man explained, "and I took that picture myself. The embossed imprint of my studio is there on the cardboard mount." He chuckled, but like rattling dice in a leather box. "He never paid me for the photographs. Come to think of it he never paid any one for anything—until now. I was very ill in the hospital when he went away. That made it easy for him to take everything that I possessed, including my wife and child. When I got well—as well as I shall ever be—they were gone, all of them. It has taken a long time to follow the trail."

"A touching story, my Diane," said Henri. "And told with convincing simplicity and restraint. Yet he calls me an actor!"

Diana had to admire Henri's courage—to taunt his tormentor when the latter so obviously had him at a disadvantage. She wondered what Henri had in mind—a trick to turn the tables? She was thinking hard about that herself. It must be possible some way to overpower a blind man. She needed time—time to plan.

Half to bolster her own tottering faith and half to gain a moment to turn around in she put forth a last defense. "Henri really has been entrusted with a mission of great importance—a secret upon which the lives of many of the enslaved people of Europe depend. We, he and I, are on our way to carry it out."

"Then," declared the blind man, "I am about to save you a very tiresome and useless trip. I do not believe in the secret mission any more than any of the rest of it. He has played a part about that in some play and has remembered the lines. To have a secret of international importance—that has made him more romantic—yes? More attractive to ladies also. But I weary you and I am getting tired of this myself. Madam, be so good as to hand me that pillow which is beside you. It will do nicely as a silencer for my pistol."

Diana sat for a moment rigid—partly from horror. But in addition she was remembering that under the pillow was Henri's revolver. If she could get it in her hands before the blind man was aware of what she was up to!

"Please, madam."

Diana reached under the pillow with her right hand as she grasped the cushion with her left. Her fingers closed around the butt of the gun.

With almost simultaneous motions she gave him the pillow and jammed the revolver in his side.

He must have known that it was a gun barrel against his ribs but he proceeded about his business of folding the pillow around his own gun as if nothing had happened.

"Drop that pistol!" her voice trembled.

"Sorry. The shooting of me is not material. What I do is essential."

He meant it. Diana pressed the trigger. It did not budge. Too late she realized that the safety catch was on.

Before she could do anything about it there was nothing more that she could do.

There was a considerable explosion in spite of the muffling pillow.

Henri sat quite still for a moment. Then he toppled sidewise away from Diana.

The blind man finished beating out the sparks in the pillow case which had been ignited by the explosion and bent over his victim.

"He is dead?" Diana asked with the back of her hand over horror-frozen lips.

Henri answered for himself. "Mort pour la patrie." Just a gasping whisper.

That was all.

"An impostor even in death," the blind man pronounced gravely. "He steals the honor epitaph of an entire nation."

He took the revolver from Diana's unresisting fingers. "You are mistaken, madame, but you were brave." She was sobbing. "Be quiet a moment!"

The blind man listened intently at the door. There was no sound but the clash and clatter of the moving train.

"Fortunately no one," he observed grimly, "has been disturbed."

He dropped his automatic pistol into his pocket and carefully went over Henri's revolver with his fingers. Satisfied that it was loaded, he slipped the safety catch and began to wrap it in the same powder blackened pillow he had used before.

Diana controled her hysteria. "Why?"

"When they enter this drawing room in the morning it must look like murder and suicide. It is a case of your life or mine. You would have to tell the police who killed him—if only to protect yourself."

Diana watched his preparations with less apprehension than when she had seen him go thru the same prelude a few moments before. She was numb now. In a world of horror and death this was her first contact with actual physical violence, an active example of man's hatred for man. She believed him but it seemed to make little difference.

As he turned toward her with nothing but that pillow between them the train lurched suddenly and began to come to a grinding stop.

The fireman in the engine cab jumped to the engineer's side.

"What's the trouble—are you sick?"

"No. Keep out of my way. Look ahead."

The fireman shifted to his own window. Between the tracks directly in front of the engine was a line of flames extending for a hundred feet or so, flames with black smoke rising from their bright yellow core.

The engineer had shifted his slice-bar to reverse the drivers and was dumping sand on the tracks. The airbrakes were hissing to lock the wheels along the entire length of the heavy train.

"We should've run thru it," muttered the fireman.

"Close your trap, Mike. You never been in a rear end collision. I have."

The express messenger picked himself up from the floor of his car and locked the side door. After that he took his rifle from the locker. This was routine and according to orders. It had never happened to him before but he had been trained in what to do.

Further back the conductor and the brakeman opened the respective vestibule doors where they happened to be. The brakeman ran back with a couple of flares.

Two men standing beside the tracks converged on the conductor.

"Which is car 353?" demanded the younger of them.

"What business is it of yours?"

"Police! Serious. Tell you later. Hurry!" He showed a badge.

The conductor was impressed. "Next car back. Thru this way."

They all mounted the Pullman steps.

Without waiting for the trainman to lead, Seven Smith raced between the sections ignoring the questions of hastily awakened passengers whose heads stuck out between the green curtains.

In the drawing room the blind man scrambled to his feet.

Diana started to scream, but stopped suddenly when the blind man clapped one of his huge hands across her mouth.

"Quiet!" he ordered. "This has nothing to do with us."

Diana knew that he was wrong.

A second or two later her conviction was confirmed by heavy rapping on the drawing room door and a voice that she had never expected to hear again saying, "Open up!"

The entire expression of the blind man's face changed. A look which could almost be translated as one of relief replaced the grim ruthlessness with which he had confronted Diana.

He took his hand from her mouth. "You are safe," he said simply. "I cannot escape now. It no longer makes any difference that you are alive."

He went to the door and released the catch. "Enter!"

Diana fainted. It was about time.

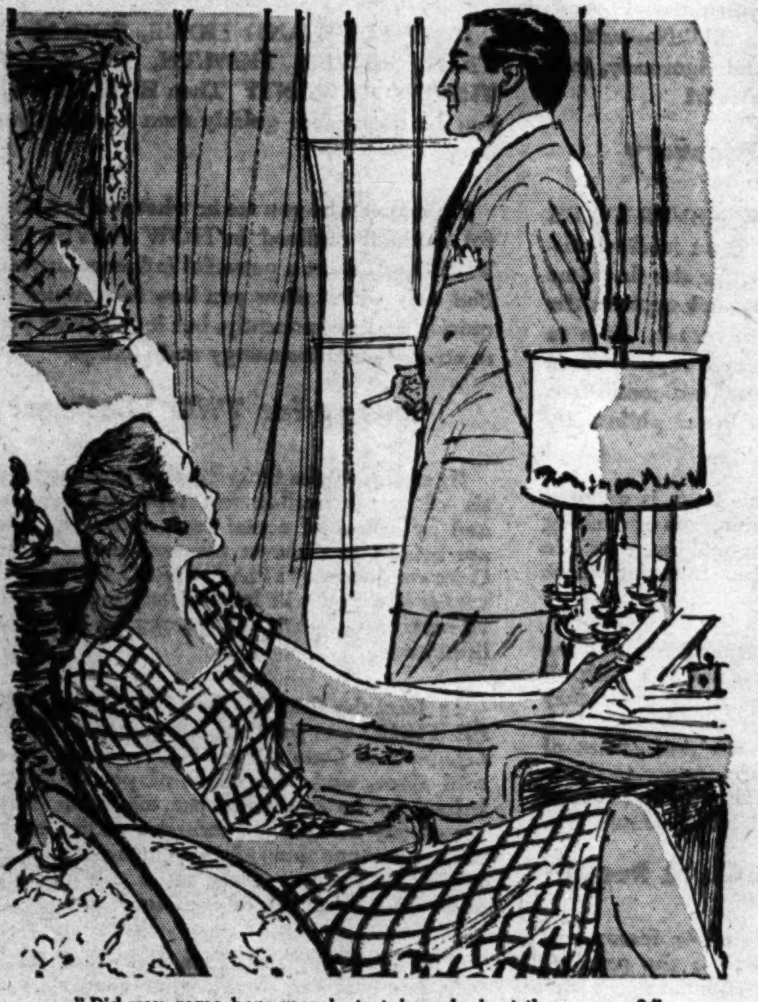
It was a nice crisp morning in San Francisco.

Incredibly the war was still going on in various far places.



"Did you come here merely to take a look at the scenery?"

Angus told Diana that Mr. Seven Smith was calling.

So, it had finally occurred to him to check in, she thought resentfully—after all the weeks which had elapsed since he had safely deposited her once more in the Pyneglass cocoon where she had spent nearly all of her sheltered life.

Maybe he had some excuse for having suddenly dropped out of sight. She hoped he had. Better find out anyway.

"Tell him to come to the library upstairs, Angus. I'll be there in a minute."

She debated changing into a kind of Spanish afternoon frock which had recently come into her possession and which made her look like Maria Montez playing Carmen. It was a guaranteed man-trap.

To heck with it. She'd meet the lop-eared so-and-so just as she was. The black and white checked house dress was fancy enough for a wandering tomcat like Smith who had suddenly remembered her existence after having apparently forgotten it for an interminable length of time.

So she got to the library first and took the seat behind the desk, which would certainly place him at a disadvantage.

He did not seem to sense any formality in his reception as he entered and threw his hat into the waste basket. His suit was wrinkled and he looked pretty much the way he had when she had last seen him—except a little more tired.

"Nice day," he said and walked over to the window—no limp, "and still an elegant view of the most beautiful city in the world."

"So I've heard. Did you come here merely to take a look at the scenery?"

"Yes—partly." He was still gazing at the combined land and seascape. "Nice picture to take away with you."

"Going somewhere?"

"Thought I would. Yes." He turned back to the desk and laid a small parcel on it. The wrappings were covered with wax seals and express company labels and stamps.

"What is it?"

"The ruby necklace of yours that got misplaced. The company traced it to an address your late husband used when he was an actor in summer stock back east. We checked on Van Gynt's account of his career back there. All correct in the main. It was the same town where he met Van Gynt's wife and she swooned for him the same as all the other impressionable women in the place. I don't think he meant any harm—not at first, anyway. I don't know what a man can do when women won't let him alone."

"Never had that experience yourself, I take it?"

"Hell, no. I have to work even to get a friendly smile out of one of 'em. Us nondecorative males have to develop sterling hidden traits of character to be in the running at all."

Diana did not open the package. She didn't care about the jewelry anyway. Neither did she seem to pay any attention to Seven Smith's modest appraisal of himself.

"What happened to that other parcel Henri expressed from Sacramento—his uniform and sword? Did you find out?"

"Yes. It was received by the Western Costume company in Hollywood where he rented it. They've got every kind of uniform in the world on tap there, including authentic medals and decorations. You ought to go thru the establishment some time."

"Thanks. I'll put it down in my date book. Anything else you wanted to tell me?"

"Let me see. O, yes, I suppose you're interested in what is going to happen to Van Gynt. If he wasn't blind, and also if he didn't have a daughter whose legs look like a million dollars' worth of cheese cake on the witness stand, he'd have to eat a last hearty breakfast some morning soon. As it is my guess is he'll get off with about 20 years. That's about all I know. Did you notice where I put my hat? I had it when I came in here."

"Still the infallible detective, aren't you? Sees all, knows all."

"No. I depend on my assistants for detail stuff. I nearly forgot—that's the other thing I came to see you about."

"Meaning just what, young man?"

"O, a proposition I've had in mind ever since we worked together on our first murder case. The offer is still open."

"Is this by any chance a roundabout, clumsy way of proposing for my hand in legal, permanent and honorable marriage?"

"Well, I hadn't gotten so far as to put all those adjectives in front of the word. I'll have to see my lawyer first. But you've grasped the main idea."

"Hasn't it ever occurred to you that I'm a very considerable heiress and you've got a lot of nerve?"

"You know I've got a lot of nerve. Besides I don't see any disadvantage in having a rich wife. In fact it'll be right handy when I come back practically penniless and with no immediate prospects of employment."

Diana let the full significance of his last remark sink into her fluttering heart. She didn't need to ask, but she did. "When you come back from where?"

"I don't know. Wherever Uncle Sam thinks I'll do the most good."

"You're in?"

"Uh-huh—for the duration and six months. I've got leave to come back and settle up my affairs. This is the only one."

"But where is your uniform?"

"O, I changed to civvies. Against regulations, but I didn't want to influence your decision unfairly by a display of military pomp and the panoply of war. Besides my pomp is two sizes too large and my GI panoply fits too snugly across the seat."

"You mean you're just a buck private?"

"Of course. What rank do you think I'd be entitled to without any experience? That's where all of us start. Does it make any difference to you?"

"None—except in your favor."

"Is it a deal—for after the war, I mean?"

Diana debated a moment and then answered slowly. "Yes. But I'm doing this merely for the sake of business, you understand. I don't want all of your future clients to turn out to be corpses before your slow mental processes finally solve their problems."

"Then never mind my hat, which is right where I put it when I came in."

"Where is that?" Diana demanded sharply.

"Never mind prying into my methods, young woman. I'll find it when I need it. Meanwhile, you get up from your swivel chair and let's find out if that first time I kissed you was a mistake."

"I don't think it was," said Diana.

"Neither do I, darling."

SOCIETY CLUBS TRAVEL
NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Miss Osmena to Speak Here on Wednesday

By Irene Steyskal

There will be many prominent figures in the arts and sciences, in education and entertainment following her to the speakers' platform of the Chicago Woman's club this fall, but it is certain that none will receive a more sincere welcome than Maria Paloma Osmena, who comes to the opening meeting Wednesday afternoon in Curtiss hall to talk on the Philippines.

For in her appearance here, Miss Osmena, daughter of the president of the Philippine commonwealth, Sergio Osmena, and his official hostess while they were in Washington, will serve as spokesman for and interpreter of her country. In receiving Miss Osmena at the season's opening, the Chicago clubwomen give expression to the admiration stirred here by Philippine courage in the hard test of war. Officers and members alike give emphasis to American and Filipino friendship which grew in meaning during the perilous early years of seeming defeat and deepens in these happier days of victory.

Miss Osmena married an American a year ago. In private life she is the wife of James Milne Charnley, a New York pianist. She herself is an accomplished musician, and also a linguist. After her graduation from Santo Tomas university in Manila, she did extensive postgraduate work both in this country and Europe, and was, in fact, in Poland continuing her musical and language studies at the outbreak of the war. She made her escape on the eve of the German invasion.

Mrs. Albion L. Headburg, newly installed president of the club, will present Miss Osmena at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Victor Munnecke, the club's program chairman, arranged for Miss Osmena's visit here.

Names such as Miss Osmena's appearing in the early announcements of club events call attention to the claim of women's organizations that the woman's club has become the greatest adult education movement in America. The beginning of the season inundates a club editor's desk with program schedules which read like a "Who's Who" in practically every field of human interest.

Nor is it the club in the large urban center that can present the most convincing claim. There is not a Chicago organization, for example, which could top a program schedule such as one Woman's club in a Wisconsin village has arranged for the enrichment of life in the community this winter.

The club has a special interest for many Chicago women, for its president is Mrs. Herbert V. Kohler, the former Ruth De Young, who was woman's editor of THE TRIBUNE before her marriage and subsequent residence in Kohler, Wis. Under Mrs. Kohler's experienced and energetic leadership, the Kohler Woman's club has increased its membership from 120 to 675, and is now the largest individual club in the Wisconsin federation. The quality of its activities is readily revealed in attendance figures. Afternoon meetings in the attractive Waelderhaus draw an average of 500 members. Guest programs in the evening pack the 1,800 seats of the Recreation hall to capacity.

Comprehensive programs of civic activity and better homes projects are carried on by the club. Centered in it is the Red Cross work of the village, home and school forums, Girl Scout leadership, and a score of other community interests.

Notables who would be a "catch" for any Chicago, New York, San Francisco club are eager visitors to Kohler. Miss Osmena will speak there this winter. And these are a few of the others scheduled to appear: Vincent Sheean, author and radio news commentator, who was a war correspondent with the 3d army on the western front, and who more recently reported the San Francisco conference; Ruth Draper, the internationally famous solo actress; the Trapp Family Singers, who fled their native Tyrol to escape Hitlerism and delighted Chicago last season with their

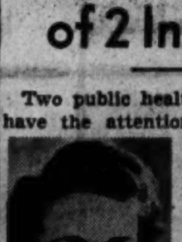
Public Health to Be Theme of 2 Institutes

Two public health institutes will have the attention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs this week, one to be held on Wednesday at the Leland hotel in Springfield, and the second on Friday in federation headquarters here.



Mrs. Frank J. Christenson

Full day programs have been arranged by Mrs. Frank J. Christenson, chairman of public health, in coöperation with the state health department. Mrs. Christenson is herself a graduate nurse. Plans for the state institutes grew out of a meeting held last spring in Washington, D. C., under joint auspices of the General Federation of Women's clubs and the United States public health department, which Mrs. Christenson attended.

The Chicago meeting will start at 10:30 o'clock with talks on "Maternal and Child Health" and "School Health," respectively, by Dr. Henrietta Herbolsheimer, chief of the maternal and child health division of the state public health department, and Dr. Richard Boyd, head of the local health administration division.

Set also for the morning is a panel discussion by public health department members on school health. Participating will be Miss Leone Pazourek, nutrition consultant; Ralph Spafford, sanitary engineer; Ray O. Duncan, director of health and physical instruction; Miss Maude B. Carson, chief of the division of nursing, and Dr. Boyd.

Scheduled for the afternoon program, beginning at 2 o'clock are a talk by Dr. Leslie W. Knott, in charge of venereal disease control in the state; discussion of new developments in the poliomyelitis field by Dr. Edward Piszcek, director of the Cook County health unit and a consultant for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; general talk on "The Future of Public Health in Illinois" by Dr. Roland R. Cross, Illinois director of public health, and a summarization by Mrs. Christenson.

A special program for junior club women will be held at 8 o'clock that night, when Dr. Knott, and Dr. Boyd will speak and films on tuberculosis and venereal disease control will be shown.

The meeting in Springfield will be along similar lines, with public health department personnel giving the program. After the institute, the club women will be entertained at a tea in the executive mansion.

Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, president of the Illinois federation, will assist Mrs. Christenson in conducting both institutes. Mrs. Robert Cavitt of Watseka, chairman of juniors, will preside jointly with Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Christenson at the junior club women's evening.

Household Forum

[Have you some household help that lightens labor or conserves on materials? Is there some comfort you could enjoy? We'll be glad to pass on your ideas to our readers. Address Louise Bargelt, The Chicago Tribune.]

Mrs. E. S., Bowling Green, Ky.—When I find a water spot on a silk garment I light an electric bulb and stretch the material over it. Then I take a brush which has very fine bristles and brush the spot. This usually will do the work.

Madeline H., Chicago—To protect the spout of my teapots when I am packing them to move, I cover them with a cork, which I have hollowed out to fit. A couple of inches of rubber hose would do as well.

Ida E., Oak Park, Ill.—We have brightened up all asbestos covered pipes in our basement by painting them with enamel. To prevent enamel from soaking in we first applied a coat of shellac, thinned with half and half denatured alcohol.

Mrs. Peter H., St. Louis, Mo.—Here's how I save time ironing my small boys' suits. Before running them thru the wringer I fold them in same creases I will use when ironing them. Then I hang them up as they come from wringer, gently smoothing out wrinkles while they are still wet. This makes ironing of suits much easier.

Ruth H., Springfield, Ill.—To save on wax, I save all the cloths I use in polishing my furniture, etc., and store them in a tightly shut container. When I want to use them again, the cloths are still moist and much of the wax has been retained.

Now—your idea—please!

Fashion Pictures in Color

By Rita Fitzpatrick

The sixth annual American Fashions show is a sell-out.

All tickets for the four performances on the matinees and evenings of Oct. 25 and 26 are gone, marking the earliest date at which all seats in W-G-N's spacious studio theater have been taken prior to the showings.

But Tribune readers will have an opportunity to see the exclusive creations in all their true glowing hues and subtle shadings. Framed in exquisite settings, the gowns have been photographed by THE TRIBUNE's color studio and will appear in the Sunday editions of Oct. 21, 28, and Nov. 4.

One of the nation's most outstanding dealers in objects d'art, furniture, tapestries, and sculpture, French and Company galleries in New York, provided the beautiful backgrounds against which the gowns shimmer and blend like precious gems. Founded in 1840 as the Marley company, the firm is one of the oldest in the country with famous museums for its clientele.

THE TRIBUNE color photographers had a free run of the six floors in the galleries where entire rooms, taken intact from old French chateaux and English castles, have been reassembled. Ancient stemmed glass from the 13th century, early oriental carpets, and 16th century tapestries and needlework were put at their disposal.

The results are color photographs that might well be reproductions of the old masters. Five historical gowns, depicting the modes of each century from 1545 to the present day and which will be modeled as a highlight of the show, were pictured in the authentic settings of their eras. The photographs of these gowns will appear in the graphic and rotogravure sections of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE on Oct. 21.

The gown of 1545, the product of the golden days of art and culture now known as the Italian Renaissance, was framed against a massive brocatel hanging and antique credenza.

Likewise with all the other costumes, the settings are in artistic harmony. The Pilgrim lady of 1645 is shown against a massive Gothic door with heavy wrought iron hinges from Gers, France. The Madame Pompadour of 1745 leans against the authentic white and gold paneling taken from that elegant and notorious lady's chateau.

From Lord Grinithorpe's castle in England came the lustrous brown paneling with gold leaf carvings belle of 1845. The modern miss of 1945, whose slender silhouette is which forms the background for the reminiscent of classic Greek days, is posed beside an ancient column and an alabaster urn.

The American Fashions collection of approximately 50 ensembles, which were created from designs entered by thousands of amateur and professional dress designers thruout the country, have also been photographed in color against magnificent backgrounds. The pictures will be reproduced in four pages of the rotogravure sections on Oct. 28 and Nov. 4, immediately following the showings.

In addition to the beautiful arrangements lent by French and Company galleries, Sarah Kelley, well known interior decorator of New York, permitted THE TRIBUNE color men to use her lovely home. There are original Van Gogh paintings, graceful 18th century furniture, fine old rugs, and frail, exquisite china and glassware used with excellent discretion in each picture.

Selection of the gowns, masterpieces of design, dressmaking, and tailoring, was supervised by Mrs. Grace Pickering, noted fashion authority who has been the guiding spirit behind the American Fashions contest since its inception. Mrs. Pickering, also, chose the beautiful mannequins who appear in the color photographs and who will model the collection during all four showings on Oct. 25 and 26.

THE TRIBUNE color crew, which spent days of painstaking care photographing the gowns, was directed by Charles P. Killgore of the Tribune advertising art department, and E. Harrison Johnson, head of the color studio.

Expert Tells Future Under Atomic Power

By Thalia

Many Chicagoans met one another for the first time after the most exciting summer of history appropriately at the Council on Foreign Relations and to hear a talk on "Atomic Energy and the Fate of Nations," by William F. Ogburn, chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Chicago. Mr. Ogburn pictured a new plan of living as a possible, if not inevitable, result of the bomb—with great cities obsolete, with the Island of Manhattan "turned back to the Indians," Chicago broken up into 100 towns, no city with a population of over 40,000, no "hubs" with spokes of life emanating from them, but small towns laid across the country in a rope-like fashion.

Industry, and, indeed, a great part of life, might be lived underground, he said. Man lived underground for a hundred thousand years, he wryly commented, and should have got used to it by that time. He hoped, he said, that the nations of the world could be persuaded to agree not to use the bomb in warfare, but he sounded a bit dubious about that, and he admitted it was quite possible that one nation might conquer the world. The world may be realigned in the matter of power thru uranium, he said, and that metal may be the stakes of a new diplomacy.

There was a good deal of apprehension as the audience left the newly refurnished gold ballroom of the Congress hotel. There also was a good deal of memory reviving among the older members of the audience. They were nostalgic about the bulbous plaster cupids on the walls and floating on the painted ceiling, the intricate imitation Versailles carvings and adornments of the ballroom, for they remembered the many assembly balls which had been held within its—for those occasions at least—socially sacrosanct walls.

Altho the assembly has not been held during the war—and so far there seems to be no plans for one this year—it was the highlight of over 60 years of Chicago social life. Being invited to the assembly was the seal of one's social acceptance.

Nobody ever under any circumstances refused the first invitation or subsequent ones or he and/or she [most of the invitations went to Mr. and Mrs.] never had another. Almost every one accepted even if it was impossible to attend. The proceeds from the ball were given to charity. The invitation list reached the 1,000 mark, I understand, and the last year that the ball was held over 800 actually attended.

That year the ball was given in the Palmer House as it had been for three years previously. The ballroom became by the miracle of make believe, a cocoanut palm bordered and moon-lighted terrace. The guests arrived, as usual, about midnight after having dined in gay parties in the city's most fashionable clubs and homes. When supper was served it was already the most fateful day in modern history, but it was not until almost 12 hours later that the guests realized that many of them would also be arming for battle, like the gay dancers in that little town of Waterloo in 1815, celebrated by Lord Byron in the poem beginning "There was a sound of revelry by night."

That line was often quoted by the poetry-conscious who attended the last Assembly. They will never forget that it was held on the eve of Pearl Harbor. Many of them talked about it last week as they left the council meeting.

The gold ballroom of the Congress was the scene of the 1937 Assembly and of the Assemblies of 1930 and the preceding years. In the depression and depressing year of 1931 no Assembly was held [from 1932 to 1936 the ballroom of the Blackstone hotel was their background].

Previous to 1931 for many years two Assemblies were held annually,

Fresh from the Hills . . . . By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm . . . . Painting with Seeds

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

SUPPOSE you were told to make a picture of a vase of flowers, and for your art supplies you were given a valley filled with Ozark weeds, a home garden, a rectangle of black emery cloth such as you use for polishing metals, and a bottle of mucilage. You'd be pretty upset about the whole thing, I imagine. But Mrs. Loura Van Wye of Rogers, Ark., makes hundreds of pictures every year with just that equipment. Using seeds of all shapes, sizes, and colors from the garden and weeds from the "hollow" back of her house, she makes pictures ranging in size from 6 inch squares to big 16x20 inch affairs. And, what is more, she sells them, making a neat income.

I chose a $2 number, 6x8 inches in size, showing a vase and flowers made up of 26 different kinds of seeds. I know, because I can count them. Furthermore, Mrs. Van Wye has a pleasant way of pasting on the back of each picture a label listing about 60 varieties of seeds which she ordinarily uses. Then, for your information, she checks the seeds which she used in that particular picture. It is all very nice, but you spend the rest of your life trying to identify the seeds from muletail, sumac, passion flower, and other such intriguing plants.

However, you will never forget little Mrs. Van Wye, slim as a hickory switch and active as a kitten, bending her gray head over that seed picture until her chin touches the ruffle of white embroidery about the neck of her blue print dress and picking up seed after seed on the point of an orange stick to drop them at precisely the right spot to build up flowers, leaves, and buds. If you have difficulty finding the little street where Mrs. Van Wye lives, just ask Mrs. Applegate at the Applegate drug store, in Rogers, where to find her. It is worth the effort, for you will go away marveling about the artistic ability you find tucked away in these amazing hills.

Mrs. Van Wye's house is like something straight from a child's picture book. It is a tiny cottage with a long front porch, on which I found two small girls busy with handwork that had to do with colorful yarns and small frames. If you do not find these two, you'll surely find others, for Mrs. Van Wye's amazing energy just sort of extends over every one in her vicinity. When you enter the house you find it is a two-level affair, built on the side of that beloved hollow.

You can't help noticing the odd things in the top level rooms—knick-knacks made from cactus, and odd branches and colored sands. On the wall hang a couple of pictures, each with a vase of flowers, which seems to be Mrs. Van Wye's favorite design. In one picture each flower is clipped from lace. In the other the flowers are cut from bright colored callicoes. Apparently anything that comes to hand is a medium for Mrs. Van Wye's artistic efforts.

When you go downstairs to see the seed pictures you find yourself in the kitchen and dining room of the home. Of course you do not actually see the kitchen, but you know it is there, because the fragrance of simmering chili sauce and fresh blackberry pie come wafting out of it. You stay in the dining room, because Mrs. Van Wye suddenly sits down before a small drop-leaf desk and begins drawing boxes of seed out of all the little cubby-holes, for all the world like a picture book Mama Bird setting the table for dinner!

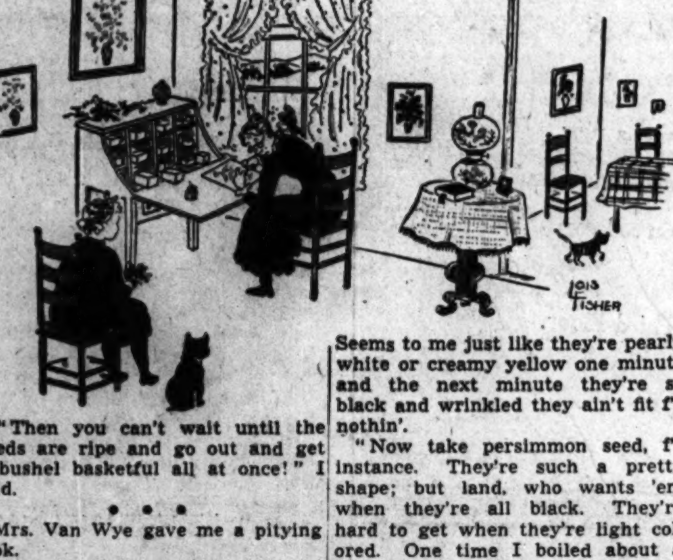
A tiny pillbox holds a few precious lettuce seed; another holds coral berry seed; a larger box holds clematis seed; and an old candy box proves to be half full of datura seed. In a little box that might have held a ring in olden days are tiny seed from touch-me-not blossoms, and a splashy cigar box is half full of colored corn in blues, reds, and mingled hues. A still larger box has a large number of persimmon seeds in it. I tried to list all the varieties but gave it up after I had written asparagus, clematis, citron, cactus, gherkin, hollyhock, haw, huckleberry, mustard, maize, passiflora, pea, poke, popcorn, proso, pepper, sumac, timothy, vining peach, woods flowers, mule tail, sunflower, grape, jack-in-the-pulpit, lentil, wild orange, balsam, eggplant, dill, timothy, and "wildflowers" which seemed to cover an infinite variety of tiny seeds.

"Where in the world do you get all these seeds?" I asked.

"O, from just everywhere," said Mrs. Van Wye. "Mostly from the hollow. Then I plant quite a garden, both for the eating and the seeds. I grow a lot of flowers, too, like zinnias and marigolds and such. Besides that I've gone to the woods and dug up about 80 varieties of wild flowers that I planted around the house. I get the seeds from them every year. But I still hunt seeds in the woods. Reckon I'm always just huntin' seeds!"



"Then you can't wait until the seeds are ripe and go out and get a bushel basketful all at once!" I said.

Mrs. Van Wye gave me a pitying look.

"No'm, it's not like that," she said, smoothing a coat of mucilage over the black emery cloth, where a half finished picture was under way. "You see, there's a time when every seed is just right. I've learned that in the 10 years I've been a-makin' these pictures. If you miss that time by as much as four hours the seed can be ruined for pictures. Seems to me just like they're pearly white or creamy yellow one minute and the next minute they're so black and wrinkled they ain't fit f'r nothin'.

"Now take persimmon seed, f'r instance. They're such a pretty shape; but land, who wants 'em when they're all black. They're hard to get when they're light colored. One time I boiled about a half bushel of green persimmons so I could get the seeds out while they were young. Reckon I had to boil them things a half a day to make 'em turn loose with the seeds."

As Mrs. Van Wye talked she picked up seeds, one by one, and dropped them in the glue, just as tho the spot were marked. Never did she move a seed after it was in place. Yet the design grew, flower by flower, bud by bud, with each petal, each center, each leaf made of seeds, large and small, showing soft tints of tans, ivory, blue, maroon, rose, brown, and gold against the soot-black background. Like most of her other pictures, it followed the oriental method of flower arrangement, the tall vase [covered with timothy seed], and high flowers.

"Can't bear these modern arrangements," she said, tartly. "A tall flower set away over at the edge of a platter! Looks plumb silly to me! The way I like a bouquet is to have the largest and weightiest flowers at the base, then some little sprangly ones up at the top. And don't forget, the vase should be a third as tall as the bouquet. I read that in a book. No, I never use tweezers to pick up the seeds. Tweezers get mucilage on 'em and won't turn loose. This stick is bad enough. Well, picture's nearly done. In a minute we'll make a frame for it."

When the last seed was in place she opened a door to another room, disclosing a sawdust littered work table with a saw rigged up in a frame alongside a miter board. With ease obviously gained by long experience, Mrs. Van Wye put a length of picture molding into the miter board and marked it off in angles. Then she put in another piece and marked it with a couple of notches. After that she whisked it out and put it under the saw. As we watched with fascinated eyes, she grabbed the handle of the saw and swung it around until it fitted into one of the slanting marks.

Then she bent her lean figure to the job and sawed with vigor until the frame material parted on the slanting lines, repeating the sawing until four sections of frame, with each end cut on the bias, lay on the work table. With quick little motions, she put a piece of cardboard behind the seed picture on which she had been working and framed it with the four pieces of molding, tacking them into a perfect rectangle with tiny nails. Then she gave the picture a coat of shellac, covering each seed, "to keep out the weevils," she explained.

"Now I want you to see the hollow," she said.

We went out the back door, down a sloping path past tall elderberry bushes, and there, on the steep hillside, was a garden filled with corn and vegetables. Beyond, the hillside sloped sharply to a deep ravine fully a half mile long and grown with a head-high tangle of the weeds and shrubs that the Ozark mountains give us. Mrs. Van Wye looked out over the hollow and folded her brown, work-worn hands before her, the gesture of a hill woman who is completely satisfied with her surroundings.

"Seems like just about everything grows in this hollow," she said. "One day I was visiting a friend and I saw a very nice weed near her house. It had lovely seed. I walked all over 40 acres in the hot sun gathering all that seed I could find. Then I came home; found I had a world of it right here in my own hollow. Since then I look here before I go chasing around! Yes, I plant squaw corn there in the garden. That's the colored corn I put into your picture. I use the same corn for seed year after year, so now I have a lot of colors that are all my own. Some of it is blue, some is red, and then a lot of it is all just mixed up. That gives me more colors."

I hesitated before I asked the next question, but it is the one that so often comes to mind when I am looking at Ozark handicraft.

"Is any one learning this art? I mean, will some one carry on when you are no longer doing it?"

"My grandchildren are doing mighty well at it," she said. We went back into the house and she showed me a half dozen tiny pictures done with the same neatness as grandma's, and the same pattern in miniature.

"But did they walk miles thru the weeds on a hot day, gathering the seed?" I persisted.

Mrs. Van Wye smiled, and her blue eyes twinkled.

"Well, after all," she said, "I had the seed handy here."

one on the first Friday in December and the other in January. The wives of the older governors received in December, the younger governors' wives in January. Quaint tales of the shocking informality of the 1930 Assembly still echo. What caused so much whispering about what the world was coming to was the fact that several of Chicago's social leaders then first rebelled against the custom of wearing 16 button white kid gloves at this most formal of all Chicago social occasions.

The assembly was really started in the late '70s, after the great fire, which reduced Chicago to the state which gave the name to the dancing group, the "Cinders" ball. It was given by a group of young beaux at Martine's hall on Chicago av., between Dearborn and Clark sts. The ball was patterned after the already established Philadelphia assembly which, thru social history, has been the most exclusive traditional ball in America [Charleston with its St. Cecilia ball might dispute that, but not convincingly].

The late Hobart Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor was chairman of the board of governors of the assembly for some time. He was succeeded almost 40 years ago by Arthur Meeker Sr., who, in 1938, relinquished the chairmanship to William McCormick Blair.

On Monday the three most fashionable Chicago clubs which had been closed for the summer, opened their hospitable doors. The Arts club welcomed its members back with a tea party. The club's always beautiful and bounteous tea table [even during the war when miracles of catering were performed with nonrationed food] was decorated by the president, Mrs. Alfred Shaw, and the guests were officially welcomed by her and by the new head of the reception committee, Mrs. William H. Wood.

Getting back to the Casino club's fabled cuisine was not such a change for some of its members as it was for others, for "Pete," the club's chef was the artist who made the summer a memorable one, culinarily speaking, for the members of the Chicago Club at Charlevoix, Mich., most of whom are also members of the Casino.

The Fortnightly club is the only one of the three which did anything in the way of refurnishing and that was a matter of necessity, for the cozy little upstairs library was ravaged by a fire in March. Under the guidance of Miss Cornelia Conger, one of the city's best known decorators as well as a member of the club, the happy room has been done over predominantly in turquoise blue and canary yellow.

With the Symphony's opening concerts on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon [too late for your Thalia to give you a snap shot of them this week] the winter season is permanently established, for symphony going is an invariable part of the life of Chicago's smart women. Seats at the symphony are often inherited. More than one well known Chicagoan is proud of the fact that her seats were personally chosen for her mother by Theodore Thomas, the first conductor of the symphony.

Among the chic chapeaux one will be seeing this fall the hand of the famous French modiste, "Suzy," will be evident. Mme. Suzy was a Chicago visitor this week, the first of the names in what is called the Haute Couture of France to become a physical reality to most Chicagoans. "Haute couture" translates literally as "high needlework" and is used generically of the great houses which outfit women. Oddly to American ears, in France a "modiste" makes hats not dresses. [A dress maker [feminine] is a couturiere [male], a couturier]. Mme. Suzy has been noted for 32 years as a French modiste. Before the war she had many American clients, among them, I understand, Mrs. Howard Linn who incidentally was Mme. Suzy's first customer at the loop department store where she spent two days last week showing her collection. Mrs. Silas Strawn was another Chicagoan I hear, eager to own a new Suzy creation.

Mme. Suzy also created that turquoise ostrich tipped little treasure which Mrs. Quincy Wright brought back from her trip to France in the spring when she was sent abroad by the government to tell French women about American ways of life and thought. Mrs. Wright is director of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Mme. Suzy is tiny and round. She was dressed in a simple dark dress and enveloped in a voluminous dark blue and white checked coat both made over from pre-war material. Her gray hair was almost covered by a turban skilfully wrapped of material which might easily have been before the war a chic sofa cushion covering. The great Mme. Suzy was a touching and a gallant figure at the party which was given for her in the Wedgwood room of the Ambassador on Monday afternoon. The little meat ball hors d'oeuvres [incidentally as much of a novelty to the rest of the guests as to the guest of honor] and the other lavish culinary delights she refused with the quiet explanation that like many of her countrymen she no longer was able to eat as she had.

Near starvation has been the lot of so much of the world for so long that nobody, it would seem, should be able to resist the appeal of the Community and War Fund. None of Chicago's more fortunate women will be allowed to by Mrs. Otto Madlener and Mrs. Philip D. Block Jr. the chairman and the vice-chairman of the women's special gifts division, and their hardworking committee.

Three Chicagoans Will Attend Youth Meeting in London

Miss Elsa Graves

It was back in 1942 that a group of young men and women of allied, neutral, and co-belligerent nations banded together to form the World Youth council as a step toward laying a foundation for lasting peace. Fifty-seven nations have responded to the council's invitation to send delegations to a World Youth conference, which is to be conducted in London from Oct. 31 to Nov. 9. Of the 400 delegates who will attend, there will be 25 young persons from the United States, three of them Chicagoans.

The local representatives include Miss Elsa Graves, national chairman of the Industrial Council of the Young Women's Christian association; Mrs. Lempi Matthews, president of the National Council of Y. W. C. A. Business Girls, and Mrs. Molly Lieber, executive secretary of the American Youth for Democracy, organization. Miss Graves, who has been an active member of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. for eight years, and now is a member of the association's board of directors, is employed as a "slow cool pit operator" in the Carnegie-Illinois steel mill in South Chicago. The various delegations represent all sections of world youth, including sports, religion, student, farm and labor, and the military.

Pork chops and ham slices that are to be broiled should be cut thinner than those to be braised, so that the heat can penetrate faster.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Oct. 20, 1897.

Dear Julia: We are feeling sad about the death of Mr. George M. Pullman—such a shock to every one, for he had not been ill. Mrs. Pullman had been in New York with one of their sons and her husband expected to leave today for the east to accompany her home.

George M. Pullman

Mr. Pullman's death will be felt beyond the boundaries of Chicago where he had lived for about 40 years, for he was known everywhere because of what he had accomplished for the comfort of the traveling public. His name has become a common noun in his lifetime, something that can be said of few people. We speak of "taking a pullman," as we might say we took a car.

Like so many of our successful men of Chicago, Mr. Pullman made his own way in the world, for he was at work in a country store at the age of 14. Somewhat later he learned the cabinet maker's trade in the shop of an older brother. I suppose it was here that he laid the foundations of the career which made him one of the rich men of the country.

He came to Chicago from New York state in 1858, when he began to raise and move some of our great buildings. He found plenty to do, because just at that time the grade of the streets was being raised. I recall that it was the raising of the old Tremont house, at the corner of Lake and Dearborn st. that made his fame. He had promised Mr. Couch, the owner, that he would perform this difficult task without disturbing the hotel guests, and he kept his word.

Mr. Pullman went to Colorado after this for a time, but his idea of a comfortable sleeping car already had been born and was giving him no rest, so he returned to Chicago and began working on it. It was finished at last and those who tried it at his invitation were enthusiastic.

Railroad companies refused to take it up, saying it was too high and too wide, but when Lincoln was assassinated and his body was brought from Washington to rest in Illinois soil it was used, and from that time on public sentiment demanded that the railroads adopt it. After that, capitalists were only too willing to help finance it.

Will says that it isn't only the sleeping car that he has perfected, but that the day coach has been much improved, with ideas borrowed from the pullman coaches. So that those who travel in less luxurious cars owe him a good deal, too.

The public has richly rewarded him for his ideas, for his fortune is said to be at least 8 million. Mrs. Pullman will have great responsibilities.

Successful in almost everything he attempted, he met with obstacles in his favorite project—the building of his model town of Pullman. Workingmen resent paternalism, says Will, and his employes didn't enjoy living there right under his eye. Many would take the long trip into town in order to live where they could be more independent. This discontent had a part in the bitter strike of 1894, when Eugene V. Debs arrayed the American Railway union against him. The strike, I think, was justified. Debs would have arbitrated, but Mr. Pullman would not do this. The railroads stood by Mr. Pullman. President Cleveland sent troops to protect the mails; Gov. Altgeld protested; the riots grew worse. At last Debs and three of his leaders were jailed. The strike was broken and the Pullman workers came back to ask for their jobs.

But it was not a real victory, for the State Supreme court ruled that the town was illegally held and forced the company to sell all its real estate except that used in the industry, and Mr. Pullman's dream of a model town was ended.

Now I must close.

Lovingly,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Winter Sports (1887)

Mrs. George A. Carpenter of Chicago, has given us a fascinating book containing a list of members of the "Onaway Toboggan club," of which her brother-in-law, the late Arthur L. Farwell, was treasurer. Winter sports were held on vacant property adjoining North av. The list in this treasurer's book of 1887 would answer for a social register of the period. Among them are the names of Archbishop Feehan and Miss Feehan, their address being North av. and N. State st., then, as now, the residence of the head of this Roman Catholic diocese.

Veteran Nurse to Be Speaker at Club Dinner

Lt. Col. Martha Jane Clement

A beloved veteran in the nursing field, Lt. Col. Martha Jane Clement, chief of army nurses of the 6th service command, will be the special guest and speaker at a dinner gathering tomorrow of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago. The meeting, which celebrates the opening of National Business Women's week, will be held in the Chicago College club.

Col. Clement became affectionately dubbed "Ma Clement" or "Aunt Jane" by the American fighting men to whom she ministered during her 27 months of service in the recent war as director of nurses in the Southwest Pacific. She went over with the first group of 30 nurses at the beginning of the Buna campaign and watched the number grow to many hundreds before she returned to the United States.

The Alliance will salute the following past presidents at the meeting: Miss Jane Magan, Miss Elizabeth Eckert, Miss Neva Lesley, Mrs. Bert Schiller McDonald, Miss Grace Tugwell, Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, Mrs. Ruth Mannow Olsson, Miss Mary H. Burris, and Mrs. S. Katherine Maddux. Mrs. Hazel R. Ferguson is new president of the group.

The National Business Women's week was officially opened by President Truman with the statement to Miss Margaret A. Hickey of St. Louis, Mo., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, that "The theme, 'Jobs Enough to Go Round,' which will emphasize the group discussions this year in the annual observance of National Business Women's week is most timely. I hope that the forthcoming conferences will be fruitful of wise counsels and will develop many suggestions to make full employment a reality. Full employment means work opportunity for every man or woman who wants to work."

Margaret Culkin Banning spoke before the Kohler club last week at its opening program in the Waelderhaus. That pleasant center incidentally has a significance for the village, for it is a replica on an enlarged scale of the ancestral home of the Kohlers in Austria.

Mrs. Banning talked in Kohler on "The Post-War Family." Mr. Sheean is scheduled for Friday, day, Oct. 26, and his talk on "Problems of the Peace" will be opened to the community.

The club's vigorous membership committee is headed by Mrs. Erwin Albrecht. Officers serving with Mrs. Kohler are Mrs. M. D. Cottingham, Mrs. T. B. Engelking, Mrs. Ray Bortz, and Mrs. Roy Ebben.

The nation-wide "Books for Russia" drive, of which Bennet Cerf, author and publisher, is national chairman, is underway here, and at 3 o'clock today a Russian relief party in the interest of that project will be held at the St. Clair hotel. Admittance will be by gift of a book or promise of a volume.

Used but still legible, well bound books are requested by the committee. English and American classics and standard works of literary merit are needed to help restock Russian libraries and colleges which were looted or burned by the Nazis. Books must be printed in the English language, and no translations from foreign languages will be accepted. The book collection committee in Chicago is headed by Prof. Kenneth W. Colegrove.

Exhibition of American Art Is on Display

By Eleanor Jewett

One of the most important exhibits the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, has yet held is the current American Artists of the 19th Century exhibition filling the galleries thru October. It is an interesting collection of pictures, varied in subject and technique. Yesterday, as today, different artists arrived at different stages of excellence and mastered varying techniques.

The blunt, sturdy portrait of a woman, "Maybelle," by Thomas Eakins, brings us as close to contemporary painting as any canvas in the show. Earlier portraiture, such as Charles Elliott's "Portrait of Mrs. Gordon Smith," Rembrandt Peale's "Portrait of Mrs. Rembrandt Peale," and the demure "Portrait of a Little Girl in Pantaloons" by an unknown painter, slip past years thru our fingers like familiar beads. They shed an aura of tranquility, serenity, satisfaction, and contentment.

There is this same mood of inner satisfaction even about as obviously a tragic theme as that voiced in the title, "Lost in the Storm," by A. F. Tait. The fat sheep wallowing in fleecy snowbanks are no less perturbed over their predicament than is the shepherd, a man whom you feel will instinctively find the path home all in good time. This painting rings a familiar note; it is a canvas that reproduction has provided for nearly every one's infant days. Too late for repair, catastrophe has overtaken the subjects of "Duck Still Life," by E. Labarre Goodwin, and "A Plucked Chicken," by W. H. Hartnett, both of which are excellent examples of realistic painting.

An utterly charming still life is that of "Fruit in a Porcelain Basket," by W. Huston and still another is "Spring Flowers in a Vase" [artist unknown]. The little "Smoking Utensils," by J. F. Peto could be an ancestor of modern commercial art; more poetry is found in the Claude Roger Hirst arrangement of "Books, Papers, Quill Pen and Inkpot." The "Clipper Ship," by Wolf is a beauty. The "Street Scene with Children Skating and Sleighing," by William E. Winner is fascinating and the several landscapes and early glimpes of American towns are thoroly delightful.

Oils and watercolors make up the animated exhibit of works by Ethel Spears which opened last Monday in the Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club, Fine Arts building. The little sketches of French towns are as pleasing as the paintings in our own parks and squares. Children and dogs, nurses and younger children, young folk and old relax, saunter, sit or disport themselves in pleasant fashion in Miss Spears' friendly conceptions of city life. She has a stylized method of painting which makes a name to her canvas unnecessary and which signals an intriguing moment ahead for him who spots "an Ethel Spears" on the wall. Besides being an accomplished and popular painter, Miss Spears designs pictures for children's books, does magazine illustrations, turns out wood-cuts and produces silk screen printing on textiles. The one-man show by Miss Spears will continue thru Oct. 31.

Pearl Dawn Nutt has a colorful exhibit at the Little gallery, Esquire theater, 58 E. Oak st. She offers a group of dune paintings and a series of Chicago scenes, including various parks, such as Ravinia and Riverview. The artist started her career when the beauty of the dunes would not leave her in peace. She felt the urge to paint their shifting colors and shapes, the water that fringed them, and the flowers and trees which highlighted their hollows and rounded slopes.

For six years she has painted steadily and her work has been shown in various exhibits. The All-Illinois, the Evanston Woman's club, the North Shore Art guild, and the No-Jury are among the centers where Miss Nutt has exhibited. From the Little theater her present exhibit will go to the Rogers Park Woman's club for November. It is an attractive exhibit, pleasant in color and mood. It will continue thru Oct. 13.

The second Chicago International Color Slide salon is an event of importance at the Chicago Historical society, Clark st. at North av. The Chicago Color Camera club is sponsoring the show. Entries have been received from 40 states and 12 foreign countries for a total of about 4,000 color transparencies. The slides were judged by Charles P. Killgore, well known Chicago artist; Harry Shigeta, well known photographer, and Burton D. Holley. From the number of entries about 400 slides were accepted. These are to be projected at the Chicago Historical society at 8 o'clock on the evenings of Oct. 9, 11, and 12. These dates should be marked in red on your calendar; they promise three evenings of exceptional interest.

Comments on the 10 top ranking slides will be given and all the slides will be announced with the title and maker's name. A musical background will accompany the show. The salon is open to the public, free of charge.

The Chicago Galleries association, 215 N. Michigan av., opened yesterday with a reception from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, the 25th exhibition of work by artist members. The exhibition will continue thru October.

A portfolio of sporting dogs, called "Gun Dogs at Work," by the well known painter of dogs, Edwin Megargee, is a new offering of the fall season. There are six stunning color plates; a history of the breeds is contributed by Freeman Lloyd. Field and Stream is sponsoring the prints which are a glorious introduction to the 1945 hunting season.

Roy M. Mason, whose water color exhibition last winter at the Ackermann galleries created a memorable sensation, was awarded [illegible] of honor for water color with his "Billy Blue Eyes and Family" [an Indian guide with two members of his family and their canoe on a landing above a white capped river] at the Audubon Artists' show, current at the National Academy of Design in New York.

The 56th annual American exhibition will open Oct. 25 in the east wing galleries of the Art Institute. It will feature oil paintings and, from what we have heard, will be distinctly modern in character. The paintings will be present by invitation, if the general impression under which Chicago artists labor is correct. The jury will award the prizes, totaling $3,500. On the jury will be Juliana Forbes, director of the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York, and Reginald Marsh and Raphael Soyer, New York painters. The three jury members are of the modern inclination.

Endocreme has helped thousands to recapture youthful look of face and throat

Eight years ago, eminent scientists gave the world ENDOCREME, a sensational contribution to the beauty of the feminine face and throat. Today, ENDOCREME is aiding thousands to regain the charm of a youthful skin to a degree hitherto thought impossible. This it does by helping to improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial appearance. ENDOCREME, you know, is the only face cream that contains ACTIVOL. This precious ACTIVOL is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural skin-vitalizing substance. When you apply ENDOCREME, it is absorbed by the skin and helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. It thus aids the skin to recapture its youthful freshness, firmness, smoothness and allure. What bigger value can one get for her cosmetic dollars than this? You, too, should try ENDOCREME. Many report truly astonishing results in only 30 days.

Arts Society to Hold First Fall Concert

Organizations devoted to the fine arts are drawing up plans for fall and winter activities, and several have opening meetings scheduled for this and next week.

Katherine Conlon Johnson

Tuesday night, Oct. 16, will see a gathering of professional musicians, dancers, painters, and writers in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building for the first reception and concert of the Chicago Artists' association. The organization is headed by Katherine Conlon Johnson. Miss Jenne Berhenke and a committee of other musicians will present the first of a series of monthly concerts which they are arranging for the association's meetings this season.

It is a custom of the organization to place members of its young artists' department on each program, and for the opening the two juniors will be Dorothy Cline, violinist, and Lila Moon, pianist.

Plans are shaping for a scholarship awards contest for the young artists' department to be held in the spring. Information on requirements may be procured from Elizabeth Sellers Harter, 835 Chalmers place. Another project under way is a March art exhibit. Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

A preview of some of the pretty young women who will model in the St. Luke's fashion show, Oct. 17, in the Medinah temple, 14 E. Ohio st., was had at a tea the mannequin committee gave the other day in the Racquet club. Tallest of the prospective models was Miss Patricia Wyman, 5 feet 10 inches, and shortest was 5 feet 2 Miss Ann Johnson. The blondest of the unusually small number of debutantes who turned out for the tea was Miss Carol Halstead, and the most brunette, Miss Suzanne Ford. Because so many debutantes, from whom the committee draws its new models, have returned to school, it will be easier, in a way, for the committee to cast the show, for there were less than half the usual number present to give their hat, shoes, and dress sizes, height and coloring, to the committee, which now is busy fitting the models into the most suitable garments for the big afternoon. The measurements and preferences of those who have modeled in previous shows already are in the committee's files, of course, so coördinating each mannequin with the furs, shoes, hats, or gowns she will display should go smoothly, despite the fact that more than 100 must be assigned their roles. Because of her height, Miss Wyman, gowned in a pretty black crepe frock and a feathered bandeau about her titian hair, should be in demand as a model. She was one of several red-heads present, among them Miss Clair Curtis, whose locks are tinged with auburn; Miss Alicia Byrne, with red-gold hair, and the Winston sisters, Mrs. Herbert C. De Young and Mrs. Robert B. Wilcox, fashion show veterans, both tall, and with coppery-red tones predominating in their hair coloring. Pretty Miss Mary Douglas Scribner, in a teal blue suit; vivid Miss Margaret Rogers, in scarlet plaid suit and hat; Miss Jamee Claire Hoskins, and Miss Jane McKenna, with her hair upswept under a veil trimmed bowler of black, were other models present.

Some of those who attended a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations recently in the Gold room of the Congress hotel were reminded of a festive affair held there some years ago, the annual Assembly ball, which has been a war time casualty. At the Assembly, the big room was so transformed by decorations for the evening that little of the marble, gilt, mirrors, and alabaster cherubims which fill the room were visible. At the luncheon party the room so recently had emerged from a thoro cleaning in honor of the hotel's recent reopening after army occupancy that every one was impressed with its brightnesss and sparkle. At least two couples present at the luncheon had danced also at that Assembly eight years ago—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord. Mrs. Dempster, co-incidentally, wore the same color to each event, a ciel blue evening gown to the earlier one and a stunning wool coat of slightly darker blue to the luncheon. Mrs. Hord's luncheon ensemble was a trim, tailored suit of tan with a pretty little bonnet of tan felt wrapped about in palest beige veiling. Mrs. George Voevodsky added color to her luncheon ensemble in a vivid print blouse and Mrs. Prentiss Andrews tossed a coat of bright yellow wool about the shoulders of her black frock. Mrs. Paul Butler wore one of the new turtle necked frocks, hers in beige wool, and a gold choker to set it off. A flattering fringe of mink tails fell from under the collar of the dashing green wool suit Miss Flossie Curtis wore to the opening of the Chicago Junior league's provisional members' training course last Monday in the Ambassador East. On hand to welcome the young women who are embarking upon a career of volunteer service to their community was Mrs. Paul Holinger, president of the league, in a gay raspberry tweed suit and little matching hat.

Local Jewish Unit to Open Its 53d Season

Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women will open its 53d season with a program tomorrow designated in celebration of world peace. Chaplain Selwyn D. Ruslander of the naval reserve will be guest speaker at the meeting, which is to be opened with a dessert luncheon at 12:45 o'clock in the fifth floor auditorium at 185 N. Wabash av. "Religion in War Time" is the topic chosen by Chaplain Ruslander, who wears the combat star for the invasion of southern France and who now is stationed at Great Lakes. Mrs. Charles Levin, section president, will preside.

The section's calendar for the season indicates that cessation of hostilities has in nowise caused cessation of those war time services for which the need still is great. Members of the Red Cross unit continue to work each Tuesday, and council women continue to man their war bond booth in the Conway building.

The army-navy committee has planned many interesting parties for men in service, and Mrs. Max Stein, vice president in charge of war service activities, has appealed to members to chalk up a record in the eighth war bond drive, bringing their present total of $1,834,901 in bond sales to $2,000,000.

In line with the organization's serious post-war program, Mrs. Levin and her board of directors, acting for the 2,800 Chicago section members, recently drafted a resolution "urging their congressmen to do all in their power to insure the passage of necessary legislation to allocate enough food during this fourth quarter of this year to relieve the present emergency abroad and to continue rationing at home of all these foods needed for overseas shipment."

"Wars and Their Effects on American Foreign Policy" will be the discussion topic at the council's first autumn forum, set for 1:30 o'clock Wednesday in the club rooms. Mrs. Samuel B. Baker will preside and introduce as speaker Mrs. Edward Dubroff, former chairman of the society's international affairs group and current vice chairman of the council's service to the foreign born department.

Race relations, the problem of displaced persons, and current books, are to be discussed on subsequent Wednesdays in October. Plans also have been divulged for a series of membership teas to be held in various sections of the city in October and November under the general direction of Mrs. Harold L. Passman, vice president in charge of membership.

Nothing is more stimulating to tired muscles than a Firmo-lift treatment. Autumn Brings Foliage Beauty to Berkshires

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Nature is now putting on the greatest show of the year in the Berkshires — the foliage display, unrivaled anywhere. Already swamp maples are a riot of color and are being followed closely by hardier varieties on the uplands. Brilliant effects are likely this year for lack of heavy frosts.

A mid-May freeze sounded the death-knell of Berkshire apples, and for the first time since 1829 the old Howard cider mill at Pittsfield is closed. In normal years palatial sedans are driven for cider over the century old maple flanked lane leading off of South Mountain road to the mill by young men whose great-grandfathers traversed the same cow path with apple laden farm wagons hauled by oxen.

From all the countryside today came visitors to the 11th annual harvest festival at Berkshire Garden center, Stockbridge. Mrs. William Felton Barrett [Margery Barker], president of the center, entertained at the festival luncheon served on the lawn. Mrs. Francis King [Louisa Yeomans] of South Hartford, N. Y., motored down from Bolton Landing, Lake George, with Mrs. Harold McM. Bixby and Mrs. Ira Stevens of St. Louis to be week-end guests of the Barretts at Sky Farm, North Egremont.

Noticed with Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs of Lake Forest at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway of Glencoe, Mrs. Samuel Gilbert Colt [Frances Crane] of Pittsfield, and Mrs. Winthrop M. Crane, Dalton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Herndon of New York are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway at Tamarack, Tyringham.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Lake Shore dr. and Pittsfield is with Mrs. T. Albert Potter of Lake Forest at her summer home in Manchester, Vt.

Mrs. James Ransom Walker and Mrs. David Shields Cook are back at the Drake hotel from the Red Lion Inn, Stockbridge, where they were summer sojourners.

Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Bernhard Hoffmann [Irene Botsford] made gifts of books on horticulture to Berkshire Garden center library.

Miss Mabel Choate recently was reëlected president of Stockbridge Mission House association, and among the other trustees are her nephew, Joseph H. Choate III. and Prof. Walter Prichard Eaton of Yale. In 15 years Miss Choate's museum of early Americana, established in the mission house, has had over 30,000 visitors. This dwelling was built in 1739 by the Rev. John Sergeant, first missionary to the Stockbridge Indians, and it is fully furnished with no items later than the date of his death in 1749.

Of chief interest to visitors in Miss Choate's priceless collection are the Bible published in London and four pieces of communion pewter, which Sergeant used. She bought these relics from the present tribe of Stockbridge Indians at Green Bay, Wis. Also on display are three chairs and a pine dresser used by the missionary and the wedding slippers of Mrs. Sergeant who was Abigail Williams, sister of Col. Ephraim Williams, founder of Williams college.

In the mission house garden are 66 varieties of flowers and herbs such as were grown by Sergeant and neighbors two centuries ago, in this old Indian town.

Mrs. Otis Beardsley of Highland Park, Ill., registered this week at the Mission house.

Mrs. Wait Talcott has closed her house on Rollaway Hill, North Egremont, and is back in Rockford.

Eastern Hunt Club to Open Gala Season

BEVERLY, MASS.

Hill and dale in the far famed Myopia district next week will resound with the baying of the hounds when the Myopia Hunt club opens its hunting season with a meeting Tuesday at the Candlewood school house in Ipswich. With the hunt season on, North Shore colonists are anticipating one of the gayest periods of the late season. Gordon C. Prince is again master of the hounds at Myopia, and a most attractive series of meetings has been planned, lasting until the snow flies.

Many of the morning runs start at 6:30 o'clock, followed by a breakfast at the homes of some of the members of the club or at the Myopia club house. Afternoon runs usually are planned for 3:30 o'clock and a brisk run is topped off with a tea at some country home. This year the field promises to be the largest since the war, with many of the young men returning from service. The women always are an important section of the field, for at Myopia there are many expert horsewomen.

Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell of Chicago is at Glendyne, her Magnolia av. home in Manchester, for a late season stay on the north shore. Mrs. Barrett Wendell of Chicago has closed her country home in the Myopia district in Hamilton and has returned to her western home for the autumn. Mrs. Wendell was among the early comers to the Myopia district this season.

Asheville, N.C. Is Capital of 'Land of Sky'

By Mildred Peterson.

ASHEVILLE, N. C. [Special].—Situated upon a high mountain tableland 2,300 feet above the sea and commanding a sweeping panorama of mile-high mountains, Asheville occupies one of the most beautiful settings of any city in America. The drifting clouds touching the summits of the mountains and the many days of sunshine have given this region its distinctive title, "The Land of the Sky."

Asheville, the metropolitan center in "The Land of the Sky" has many attractions for the visitor and near-by are world famed Craggy gardens and the famous Grove Park inn, unique in conception, design, and construction, which, because of its monumental structure on the side of Sunset mountain, seems to have been built not for the present alone, but for ages yet to come and generations yet unborn. Numerous are ranches and hostelries, year 'round golf courses, and riding stables in this region.

One of America's great show places, open to the public since 1930, is Biltmore house with its 12,000 acres of grounds and gardens on the outskirts of Asheville. Here rare paintings, tapestries, furniture, antiques, and other works of art are to be seen in this old mansion, built in 1890 for George W. Vanderbilt. Originally the estate comprised more than 100,000 acres but a large portion of the forest area was granted to the government by Mrs. Vanderbilt as the nucleus of Pisgah National forest and 1,500 acres were allotted for development of the Biltmore Forest Country club and the town of Biltmore Forest.

About half way across North Carolina to the east from Asheville is the ever popular Pinehurst, called the "friendly country village," where tennis, golf, game shooting, and riding are enjoyed thruout the winter. Be sure you have your transportation and hotel reservations in your pocket, tho, before starting out for these parts.

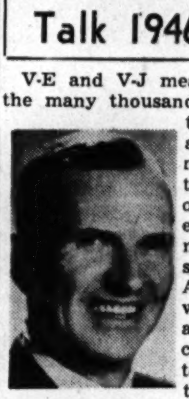
To the west of Asheville, astride the Tennessee-North Carolina border, the Great Smoky mountains, greatest mountain mass east of the Black Hills of South Dakota, cast a spell of mystery and enchantment long to be remembered. Here between Knoxville and Asheville some 700 square miles have been set aside as one of the newest of national parks, the Great Smoky Mountains National park.

Presenting a unique opportunity to preserve frontier conditions of a century ago, which have vanished elsewhere, the culture and human interest aspects of this park and region are as outstanding as its scenery, virgin forests, and vegetation.

Several typical mountain communities remain intact within the park boundaries and surrounding territory and may constitute valuable outdoor exhibits in a proposed "museum of mountain culture." Already large collections of household goods, tools, farm equipment, weapons—chiefly primitive and handwrought — have been assembled. Studies of the folklore, ballads, linguistics, geneology, and local traditions initiated several years ago are being continued, forming a regional picture of native folk life in the Great Smokies.

Travel Officials to Meet Here to Talk 1946 Trends



Don Thomas

V-E and V-J meant V-cations to the many thousands who accepted the opportunity afforded by the release of gas rationing creating one of the greatest outpouring of motor cars ever seen on the American highways. Resorts and hotels in close proximity to the origins of trips became overtaxed. Bus lines felt the newly awakened travel response and the task of the rail lines presented a problem in meeting transit requirements. The pent-up desire for recreational travel and how to meet it will find vent in the fifth annual conference of the National Association of Travel Officials called by Don Thomas, president, to convene at the Hotel Sherman Nov. 13, 14, and 15.

The purpose of the conference is to survey public and private transportation and transient housing facilities to determine their ability to handle volume vacation and pleasure travel in 1946. Innovations, born of the war, that will make travel "at home" easier and more attractive are to be discussed by 150 travel promotion directors and travel editors. Attending will be representatives from practically every state that promotes its scenic attractions as vacation objectives.

Indiana's State Parks Show Big Attendance Gain

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. [Special]—In the first six weeks following the end of gasoline rationing 1,800 more Hoosiers visited their state parks than during the similar period in the peak attendance year of 1941.

Six weeks' attendance total this year was 236,741, compared to 234,941 in 1941, according to Kenneth R. Gougill, assistant parks director for the Indiana department of conservation.

Cougill said attendance during the last two weeks in September slumped below 1941 figures but attributed the drop to adverse weather conditions and the threat of a general gasoline tie-up.

Parks are being groomed to play host to record smashing crowds during the fall color season, Cougill said, in predicting that total attendance for the year will approach 700,000 for the best record since Pearl Harbor.

Add 5,000 Sq. Miles to Hunting Area in Ontario

TORONTO, Ont. [Special]—The department of game and fisheries for the province of Ontario has announced that an additional 5,000 square miles of territory in northwestern Ontario will be open for moose hunting this year—the open dates in the new territory being Oct. 15 to Oct. 31. In the same area the deer season extends to Nov. 25.

The new strip is about 30 miles wide and runs in irregular form northward from the international boundary between Ontario and Minnesota, some 200 miles northwestward from Fort William and Port Arthur, and takes in a considerable area which is accessible by road and rail, and which has been closed for many years.

Most Childish Quarreling Not So Serious

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Quarreling among the children in a family can reach the point where it really destroys every one's peace.

No advisor can put her finger smartly on the cause of quarreling. It's quite a subject. And there are many opinions as to how to deal with it, ranging all the way from "All children quarrel—let them get over it," to, "Children don't need to quarrel; a family can be harmonious if it's properly managed."

As a matter of fact, the truth, to my mind, lies between the two extremes.

And, as another matter of fact, the causes may be almost as varied as human nature is itself. So, let us dip into this big subject and see what plums of wisdom we can pull out!

In the first place, there's more than one kind of quarreling. There is such a thing as wholesome conflict. Wholesome conflict might occur where tempers were quick and sparks fly occasionally, or where children have strong individualities and different temperaments, and so some clashes are unavoidable. This sort of quarreling, quickly over and leaving no ugly feelings in its wake, might be classed as wholesome conflict. That doesn't mean that it wouldn't need a soothing, smoothing parental hand occasionally.

Another kind of quarreling that is not a serious kind may arise where children's ages are different and they are constantly thrown together, without the adulterating effect of other companions.

And then we always must keep in mind that everything we call quarreling isn't quarreling—like the biting, scratching, and snatching of the near-babies, and whole hearted, loud voiced arguments among the older children.

But the quarreling to be concerned about is the kind which leaves lasting effects—which really prevents united family life—and which results in fixed antagonism between children.

Unquestionably the origin of some quarreling can be traced to the state of mind and feelings of parents.

I heard a woman say one day, "My children quarrel, terribly. I'm frightfully nervous; maybe that's why. And perhaps I expect too much of them in the way of helping me. They don't like work, and I have to be after them all the time. Each one tries to get out of his share and leave it for the other to do, and then the sparks fly."

Another woman said, "My husband has a violent temper and shouts and quarrels with me, and my children have no example of harmony to follow."

"I'm tired all the time," said another woman, "and the children's quarreling drives me frantic. I don't see why they can't get along."

The nervous mother's condition reacts on the children. The ill-tempered husband's quarreling is disorganizing to his sons and daughters. And the tired-out woman is apt to be so on edge that she can't be fair or poised in handling even the normal conflicts that arise. So it isn't really in many cases the children who are responsible for the quarreling, but indirectly their parents.

Next, the matter of mismanagement in general can be responsible for some quarreling. Take two or three children who always are being handled incompetently. The discord between them and their mother easily could carry over into their relations with each other.

One thing that worries some mothers is that they fear quarreling will last always and carry over into the adult lives of their children. Given a normal family life, it won't. Most quarreling spells blow over, or children outgrow them and eventually become the best of friends.

Several vital preventatives to serious quarreling are a sense of justice and a show of equal affection on the part of parents. If one child is more favored, more praised, more petted, more brilliant, more attractive, the resenting of it by the other child may be expressed in quarreling.

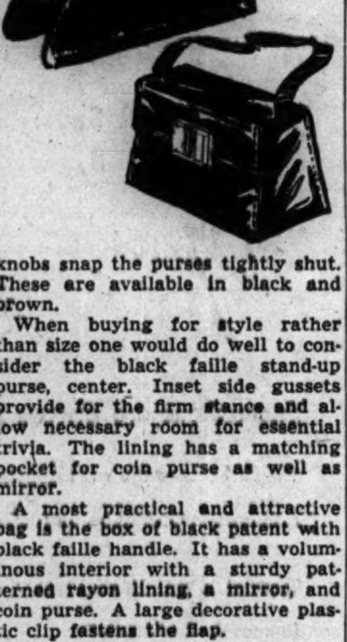
There are fur bags, faille bags, suede, felt, and leather bags, but the most intriguing of all are for mothers and daughters. With mother and daughter ensembles appearing so successfully in fall costumes it is only fitting that purses should complete the picture.

The large pouch bag for mother and the modified version for daughter, sketched at top, are made of simulated leather with a sturdy gold frame. Decorative plastic knobs snap the purses tightly shut. These are available in black and brown.



When buying for style rather than size one would do well to consider the black faille stand-up purse, center. Inset side gussets provide for the firm stance and allow necessary room for essential trivia. The lining has a matching pocket for coin purse as well as mirror.

A most practical and attractive bag is the box of black patent with black faille handle. It has a voluminous interior with a sturdy patterned rayon lining, a mirror, and coin purse. A large decorative plastic clip fastens the flap.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

There are many small ways you can cut on heating costs in your home, minimize heat loss, add to the efficiency of your heating plant, and avoid replacements which run into money. . . . For instance, raw fresh water is not as good for your steam or hot water plant as stale water, and it pays to keep radiator valves well packed so that steam or hot water won't escape and fresh water need not be added to the boiler. . . . Also the type of paint you apply to your radiators can vary their heating capacity from 10 to 15 per cent, and an "overcoat" on furnace or boiler and "jackets" on pipes can keep your basement from being overheated and your upstairs warmer. . . . We've prepared a list of these little things which will help to lower your fuel bills and prolong the life of your heating equipment.

There is available a filler and dustproofer for old or new homes. . . . It can be used on cement or wood floors and is a highly colorful floor coating, to be had in clear white or eight attractive colors, including gray, green, autumn and dark brown, brick red, and maroon. . . . This coating has been designed to give maximum floor penetration and to provide an extremely tough surface. . . . If your concrete basement floor is laid directly on the ground it is wise to paint a small experimental area first to determine if moisture is being taken up by concrete and transmitted to paint.

[For above leaflet and further information on filler and dust proofer, please send a stamped, addressed envelope to Louise Bargelt, Home Owners' Editor, The Chicago Tribune.]

Lady of the House

Autumn's Blue and Gold

A little girl trudges along a board walk on the still raw edge of a small town. It is a bright autumn day and she is on her way to school. In the ragged grass along the walk a fringed gentian winks its blue eye. She stands and gazes at the blueness of it, the delicate fringe of this modest little flower named after a king [Gentius, king of Illyria]; then reluctantly goes on, without plucking it for her teacher.

Another autumn day, long after, I walked the windswept shore of a northern lake with a friend. She led me to a small tangle of brush and, gently lifting one of the branches, disclosed a lone fringed gentian she was protecting from careless flower snatchers who might come that way, in order that it might sow its seeds to blossom forth another season. I have not seen a fringed gentian since, except with that "inward eye."

Nursery men and some amateur gardeners who know the ways of shy wildlings have attempted to domesticate this fairy creature, with indifferent success. Like most wild things, it does not well endure much primping and fuss and care. Somehow I am not sorry for that, because I feel that to see—

"The blue gentian-flower, that, in the breeze,
Nods lonely, of her beauteous race the last."

We should be willing to call on her where she lives.

One day in the deep, black woods, so the legend goes, an old lady came to a stream too wide to jump, so she asked the trees to give her a branch to help her across.

"I would gladly give you a staff," said the Elm, "but I am very lovely and if I did it would spoil my form."

The Maple demurred because her branches had "such lovely red leaves" that in giving one away much beauty would be lost.

The Oak refused because, strongest of all the trees, her strength depends on keeping all her branches, "each forming just the right support for her head."

"Would you not use me?" whispered an old crooked branch that lay on the ground.

"You!" exclaimed the old woman. "You're just an old, dead stick. I must stay on this side."

"Why not try me?" said the old stick, raising itself so that she could easily grasp it.

So, with a skip and a jump the old woman crossed the stream. A fairy appeared and said, "Dear old stick, you have assisted a fairy across the stream. I shall transform you into a goldenrod. "Solidago!" The old stick took root and became a goldenrod.

Two there were—so the story goes—
Who walked the same highway.
Two there were—and one was sad.
The other, blythe and gay.
Traveling each by the same highway
Toward the self-same setting sun.
Two there were—and one was bowed;
Erect the other one.
Wearily plodding, the one saw naught
But the dust of the winding road.
Blind to the sun, the wind, and sky,
Felt naught but the weight of his load.
No word had he for the passers-by,
Fearing man's greed and lust;
The other knew the sudden tear
That cleanses the eye of dust.
The one strayed not from the beaten path,
Nor loved one flower there;
The other knew life's poignant pain
And bursting song on the air.
One locked the door of his craven heart
Fearful of want and sin.
The other threw the portals wide
And all life entered in.
Two there were who traveled on
Toward the all-encompassing night;
And one saw naught but the gloom of the grave;
The other—eternal light. —Gertrude Robb.

DUST WEBS

In years to come, no one may know
The dust layers I've brushed from
table, floor, and chair;
But some one, some day, may hold in his soul, cherished there,
I took time out to give, that swept a dark
Dust web from a lonely, troubled heart.

Don Frankel, returning from a week-end vacation, laments—

Well, this is Sunday; and when Monday falls
'Twill be an empty glass, drained of sweet fest;
Then must I go back to the clamorous town,
Far from these woods, whose green, leaf covered forms
Are girdled with the silence of the years.

"Anyhow, it isn't wash day for Don," says Aunt Ella. M. M.

Delicate Pastel Adds Drama to Bridal Styles

By Rea Seeger

Wedding plans proceed far more leisurely these post-war days, so winter wedding pageants will reflect unusual new color schemes, pre-war pomp and ceremony, and larger parties of attendants. Already the famous bridal bureaus in Chicago stores are bustling with dozens of trousseaux in the making and with more individualized creations in the process of design. Vastly different are the intriguing new colors among which are last year's unusual Victorian gray and deep wine colors, prophetics of a new trend now getting under way with acclaim from all the prospective brides.

While the traditional white and ivory bridal gowns always will be available in many versions, the singular beauty of delicate pastels, such as palest pink, ethereal blue, delicate yellows, or the exciting new champagne tint, are unbelievably beautiful. Also new is the idea of the entire wedding party garbed in the same tint or color. One of the exponents of this one color wedding party is a young Chicago designer, a recent discovery with a definite genius for creating romantic gowns for the bride and her attendants. By launching a delicate, pale gold champagne color, a true effervescent champagne tint, amazingly flattering and romantic both in sheers and heavier satins, he has created one of the most sensational wedding pageants of the year.

The bridal gown is of lustrous satin expertly dyed this luscious tint. The long sweep of the train is accented further with a wide band around the entire skirt and train. This band is exquisitely embroidered in champagne tinted sequins and embroidery. Full length sleeves taper to fit the wrists; the bodice is pointed in front, and around the shoulders is a band repeating the embroidery and sequins of the band on the skirt. A sheer, almost invisible, yoke of fine net extends to the round neck line. The skirt is shirred decoratively to the bodice.

Bridesmaid dresses are delightfully young and romantic. They are fashioned of champagne tinted net and are worn over a gleaming satin under skirt. The fitted sleeveless bodices are of the same satin as the bridal gown. A wide band of the satin is appliqued on the full net skirt, and across the shoulders and around the bodice is a bias band of satin to match the treatment on the wedding gown.

Picture headdresses for the bridesmaids are of brown satin bows, and the short gloves also are of brown satin. Definite Plan Gives Zest to Four Rooms

By Edith Weigle

Chicagoans' interest in antiques continues to be as hardy as an oak tree. This week saw the opening of four rooms in the antique galleries of a Chicago store, each one decorated with a special purpose in mind and each planned for the use of two persons.

The first, called a hunt room, is designed for the outdoors man and woman. The center of interest is a fine old horseshoe shaped mahogany wine table. Above it is hung a whip rack filled, believe it or not, with genuine old whips of various types.

Another curiosity is a pair of cock fighter's chairs, their long, narrow seats upholstered in red leather. These are drawn up to an 18th century Pembroke table for games.

A collection of brass martingales decorates the fireplace mantel shelf and over it is hung a hunting print. Walls are painted a warm, Pompeiian red and one large, comfortable lounge chair is covered in a fabric that exactly matches this hue, while two others, also custom made, are in a gold basket weave material called jute cloth.

An early American sofa with long, slender lines has a stunning upholstery of hunters' green wool. Other antiques in the room are a fire screen, one panel of which has been cleverly made into a board for darts, a cellarette used as a lamp table, a series of interesting colored prints of ducks which are framed and hung in a long row above the sofa, a pair of lamps with bases made from the horses' heads of old hitching posts, another pair with painted decoys as bases, and two huge, hand-made wooden decoys used as door stops.

All the rich colors in this room are repeated in the draperies which have a huge, bold print of horses and trees in keeping with the feeling of the hunt. The floor covering is wall to wall carpeting in a natural tone.

Planned for the offices of two doctors is a very distinguished reception room, a far cry from the ordinary drab and dreary waiting room all of us know too well. It would be a pleasure to sit in this spot, for its colors are restful and serene and all its appointments have great dignity and beauty.

Walls are papered in dull gold Chinese tea chest paper under a quaint cornice that repeats the Chinese symbols for "Good Health" in scarlet. A fine old Hepplewhite sofa and several comfortable chairs are done in red leather.

The most distinguished piece in the room is an enormous 18th century table, the top inlaid with red and gold tooled leather. A pair of apothecary jar lamps throws a soft light on the magazines which it holds, and above it is a Chinese Chippendale, gold framed mirror.

Around the room are series of lighted wall cabinets which display a wide variety of authentic old medical items. Blown glass bottles; a mahogany box containing a doctor's kit complete with scales; spoons, etc. And on a mantel are curious old mortars and pestles.

Very amusing and also decorative are eight prints in the Vanity Fair series of physicians by Spy, these hung in a row above the sofa.

A knee hole desk and chair for the receptionist, both antiques, complete the room's furnishings. Two doors, leading to the two doctors' inner offices flank the fireplace. And a handsome old clock that still keeps accurate time is above the mantel.

"The Quilt Kids" is the name given a room planned for two youngsters. It is furnished with simple, sturdy antiques. A barber's shelf on the wall to hold a collection of penny banks; a dowry chest that dates back to 1853, for toys; a wooden sink arrangement, for clay modeling; a candle stand for a clothes hanger, and a couple of big drums for tables.

Quilts, of course, cover the twin beds. And another quilt was cut up to make roller shades for the windows. On the floor is a large, practical, rag rug.

The last room in this new series proves that lots of humor can go into decorating. It's for a young couple who must live on a shoe string, and it's bedroom and living room in one. Except for two or three fine antiques [wedding presents] everything else came out of second hand and junk stores and has been rejuvenated by paint, fabrics, and ingenuity. It must be seen to be appreciated.

For information on where in Chicago the rooms described by Miss Weigle may be seen, telephone the Tribune Public Serice office, Sup. 0200, or write in, inclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope for your reply.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of clubs.

The current national trend towards frugality should leave its mark in bridge circles, where for many years an enormous amount of waste has been committed. Our elders tried to impress us with this idea when they cautioned that one must never signal with an honor. While in their enthusiasm they stated the case too broadly, nevertheless, they had a sound basis for their advice. They should, perhaps, have said, "Don't signal with a card that might win a trick, unless you are quite sure you can afford it." It is impossible to estimate the number of tricks that are lost by the promiscuous play of honor cards.

An error that many of us are apt to fall into thru sheer mental laziness was one committed by the declarer in today's hand. The bidding was quite conventional. North opened with a heart and South responded with a spade. North's second bid of two diamonds is the proper call. There is a tendency on the part of many players to rebid two no trump on hands of this type, but the holding does not quite measure up to specifications. The dealer has a little over a trick in excess of his opening bid, but in order to justify a second round jump the opener should have about a trick and a half over and above his opening bid. When South rebid the spades the two no trump bid was in order and when South bid the suit for the third time North was justified in trying for game.

The king of clubs was opened and taken by the ace. Declarer reflexly reached for the jack of spades and with that one slight gesture tossed the game out the window. The jack was covered by the king which eventually established West's nine as a winner, and with two club tricks and a heart defeated the contract.

A moment's thought will reveal that nothing was to be gained by leading the jack. The deuce should be led and if East plays low the finesse is taken with the 10. Dummy has plenty of entries, so that on the next round the jack will be led for another finesse. If East has two or three spades, the same result will be obtained either way, but if East happens [as is true in this case] to have the lone king the play of the jack to the first trick, will lose a trick to West's nine.

It is rarely wise to use your high cards before you have made the opponents play first.

Pastry Basis of Delectable Party Tidbits

By Mary Meade

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

You can have a lot of fun with pastry without making a pie. Dozens of teasing little tidbits and sweets for a cocktail or tea party can be concocted out of a pastry base. Some of them are served hot, some cold. They're fun to make and more fun to eat.

A packaged pie crust mix may be used if you haven't shortening enough to make pastry.

Such delectable morsels really should be morsels. Part of their temptation lies in the fact that they are so tiny they can only whet the appetite, not begin to satisfy it. They can be any shape. If you cut the rolled pastry into two inch squares, you'll be most economical of it. These squares may be folded triangularly over the filling, into rectangles, or they may be rolled up. Or you can place filling directly in the middle of a square and fold the corners in toward the center, not completely covering the filling. If desired, you can fold only two diagonal corners together over the filling.

With fancy cookie cutters tiny shapes may be cut to be put together sandwich fashion; sometimes stacked by threes with two different fillings.

When edges of these pastry delicacies are sealed, it is well to use a fork to prick a few holes in the top of each, or to make a tiny gash with a knife on each. Bake all these appetizers at 400-425 degrees.

Rolled Cheese and Jelly Pastries

Roll out pastry and spread all over with soft, very sharp, yellow cheese. Then spread lightly with grape, plum, or currant jelly. Cut rectangles, 2x3 inches, and roll each, from narrow end. Bake on cookie sheet. These should be baked the day they are eaten, but needn't be hot.

Oysterettes

Small whole oysters or chopped oysters may be used. They should be raw. Marinate in oyster cocktail sauce or sharp French dressing, then drain well and encase in pastry. For whole oysters, cut circles and sandwich the oyster between two circles, pressing edges together well and gashing top of each. Chopped oysters can be baked in almost any pastry shape. Triangles are good. Serve hot.

Meat Foldovers

Use deviled ham, highly seasoned potted meat, or ground, left-over meat seasoned sharply. Pile the filling rather thickly on halves of pastry squares and fold over, pressing edges together well. Prick top of each foldover with a fork. Best hot.

Bacon Rolls

Cook bacon until transparent. It must be limp, not crisp. Cut slices in halves and cut rolled pastry into strips just a little wider than the bacon. Place each half strip of bacon on pastry and roll up. You may need to fasten these with toothpicks for baking. The toothpicks may be left in for easy serving. These rolls always should be hot.

Asparagus Rolls

Use only tips of canned asparagus marinated in French dressing and drained. Roll each tip in pastry, allowing it to protrude slightly from its case. Best served very hot or chilled.

These suggestions are only a beginning. Anchovies, sardines, canned salmon, herring, shrimps, liver sausage, minced chicken, all kinds of sharp cheese, pieces of fruit, olives, pickles, highly seasoned, minced, cooked spinach, and smoked fish pastes, are other snacks that taste wonderful in pastry cases. Rounds, triangles, or other shapes may be baked from the plain pastry to be spread and garnished after baking with all kinds of sharp and colorful spreads and decorations, too.

The pastry itself may be seasoned. Sharp cheese may be rolled into it before baking. Celery or caraway seeds may be added to the dough. Minced parsley and onion juice may be blended with it. Curry powder, chili powder, mustard, or other spice may be added, depending upon the fillings to be used.

Cream cheese pastry is a rich and delicate variant of plain pastry. To make it, blend a 3 ounce package of cream cheese with ½ cup butter or margarine, work in 1 cup flour and chill before rolling. Any of the aforementioned fillings is good. Tiny tea tarts may be made by baking dabs of jelly, jam, or preserves in cream cheese pastry. Anchovy paste and smoked oyster paste are particularly good fillings for it, if a nonsweet combination is preferred.

Thru the Looking Glass

If it's drama you like in make-up colors, there's a new color on the market that is positively knockout. It isn't theatrical in any sense of the word, but it's as exciting and rich as anything we've seen in a long time. The ensemble includes lipstick, rouge, face powder, and foundation, and in each item the color theme is carried thru to comprise a make-up that's beautifully coördinated.

To put first things first, we'd better tell you about the lipstick. Looking at it in it's slick, black metal case [isn't it nice to have those long-missed luxuries coming back?], it's so dark it's something of a shock, but applied to the lips it takes on an entirely different character.

This has a trick of flattering the coloring of the wearer, becoming a lush, smoky kind of red on brunettes and a subtly soft one for blondes. On redheads it's quite stunning and, while an occasional woman may find that it's a little too rich for her coloring, most of her sisters will be smitten with it and the nice things it does for them.

This manufacturer's liquid foundation has made quite a name for itself, and in this new tint it will find even more favor. Creamy and softening, the foundation slips on easily and veils the face with a soft finish that makes the skin look far finer in texture than it actually may be.

This latest foundation color is a warm, not too dark kind of tan that adds just enough color to the complexion to liven it and make it a match for winter blacks and the dramatic costume colors of the new season.

The face powder to wear over it has the same pleasing vibrancy of tint as the foundation, and the powder itself is wonderfully fluffy. You'll like the handsome, clear glass container traced with a delicate design in white that holds the face powder. The rouge carries out the color motif to give the cheeks a kindred tint to the lips.

The whole ensemble adds to a devastating kind of make-up we think you'll want to try.

Since her husband's death, Mrs. B. has made her home with her widowed mother, and for more than a year has been a bed-fast arthritic patient. Only recently has she shown improvement to the extent that she is able to get about with a cane, and she has been ordered to walk out of doors for exercise. Her enforced inactivity caused a great gain in weight, and the little clothing she had before her illness is no longer wearable. We hope dresses and a warm coat, size 54, can be found for her. The address is on the south side.

The M.s are an elderly couple living in a rural community southwest of the city. Mrs. M. suffered an accident several weeks ago, which left her helpless to care for herself, and it became necessary for her husband to give up his job to look after her. What little money they were able to lay aside above the needs of their frugal living habits, went for medical and hospital bills. They have nothing left to purchase warm apparel for the winter. Underwear, house dresses, and a coat, size 42, and a suit and topcoat, size 44, will assist them greatly in this emergency.

Coffee Drinking Banned

The use of coffee was forbidden shortly after its introduction in Cairo about 1500 because it was considered intoxicating.

"Scotch" Tape Back!

Say, here's grand news — I got my first roll of "Scotch" Cellulose Tape in three years today. And I never realized how many tricky little chores I'd been saving up to do with it. I mended a couple of mothproof bags and some of my favorite sheet music. There was a whole drawerful of snapshots I'd never got around to mounting — so I did them with "Scotch" Brand Tape. Had a perfectly swell time getting things shipshape. Some "Scotch" Tape is already in the stores and more's expected soon. Your favorite store may have it. Why not look for it tomorrow? I'd advise you to scribble "Scotch" Tape on your shopping list right now. It's so handy —sticks with a touch of the finger and it's as transparent as glass. Just 25c in the clever home dispenser.

If faint but perceptible signs whisper that your skin's past 30 . . . I'd advise your investigating Bonne Bell's PLUS 30 Cream immediately! As scientists will tell you, those natural substances in the skin, called hormones, which keep young skins firm and lovely, begin to diminish when a woman reaches 30. Bonne Bell's PLUS 30 Cream contains active hormone ingredients (those same substances Nature gives to young skins) which can be absorbed by the skin. Women over 30 can usually see results after using just one jar . . . so be quick, before those faint signs become "sign posts" pointing to your age. Bonne Bell's PLUS 30 Cream is desirable after 30 . . . URGENT after 40! $3 a jar (plus Fed. Tax). Ask at The Fair or Stineway Drug Stores.

Fashion for Baby!

Coming or going, toddling around corners or crawling under the table . . . Baby's a pretty cute number in PLASTI-CLEER Baby Pants! But that's beside the point, for just listen to what they DO for baby! No more embarrassment when sitting on the "company's" lap . . . no more chafe nor chap! PLASTI-CLEER Baby Pants are guaranteed waterproof, odorless, acid and oil resistant and heatproof. They're made of a wonderful new development in the field of plastic chemistry.—a fabric called PLASTI-CLEER that has all the advantages of rubber, but none of its disadvantages. They're durable, —yet as pliant, light and transparent as mama's sheer undies. They wash easier than a "hanky"! A miracle time-saver for mothers. Also available in non-transparent pink and white. They're guaranteed by GOODYEAR Rubber Sundries, Inc., New Haven, Conn. Ask at Goldblatt Bros., Madigan Bros. or W. J. Gilmore & Sons.

ALL hands on the table for inspection, please! Not a bad command from Mother during the chapping and skin-roughening months ahead! Small hands (knees, elbows and cheeks, too) can become cracked and painfully sore unless properly protected against cold and wind. That's why I advise you to make PACQUINS Hand Cream a FAMILY habit! This creamy-rich, soothing hand cream is a wonderfully helpful safeguard against the red-raw and roughened effect of chapping. PACQUINS smooths on in no time and disappears without leaving a trace of stickiness . . . a point of importance in buying a hand cream for children! Its snow-white and fragrant creaminess makes it a pleasure to use. Take a good look at your own hands at the same time—and if they're not as soft, smoothly lily-white and young looking as they should be, give heed to your own PACQUINS habits! Keep a jar on the kitchen sink for easy application after dish-washings . . . another on the dressing table to be smoothed on NIGHTLY. Ask for PACQUINS Hand Cream at Drug, Department and 10c Stores.

A Truly Clean Smoke!

Are you a fusser when you smoke . . . always picking tobacco crumbs off your lips or tongue and going "pff-t"? Then why not end this ugly habit? It's as annoying to others as it must be to you! The VICEROY filter tip checks tars, resins and other throat irritants, too,—giving you a truly clean smoke you'll enjoy! Made of the finest domestic and Turkish tobaccos, VICEROYS give quality PLUS smartness! Try them.
